This is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Farr to join the colors, James, Jr., having entered the same branch at the first call for volunteers. He was injured while the ship on which he was stationed was coaling up and given his discharge.

FAR-FELT EFFECT OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Local Merchant Receives Order From Nebraska on Strength of Announcement in the Times.

While some of our home people are sending out of the city for their supplies under the mistaken notion that they can do better somewhere else, others residing at a distance are patronizing the merchants of Thief River Falls because they find that the goods are high quality and prices low when compared with those in their own neighborhood. Incidentally it might also be stated that it is the advertised articles that are thus finding favor with outside buyers.

A rather unusual instance of this kind came to light this week when A. S. Lieberman received an order for underwear to be shipped all the way to Randolph, Neb. George Royce, a resident of that place, sent in the order through a relative, Mrs. H. J. Rustad. He had seen the announcement of Mr. Lieberman's big removal sale in The Times and found that he could save considerable money by taking advantage of the bargains offered. He accordingly sent his check for $10.50 to Mrs. Rustad and requested her to secure the goods wanted and send them to him at Randolph. Mr. Lieberman says that while he has been supplying people at a considerable distance with wares from his stock, he believes this is the first time that anyone as far away as Nebraska has been a customer.

SANTA IS HELPED DURING THE RUSH

It has been an annual custom for Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Way to hold a little party for the children of the city at their home at Christmas time. This year, however, they were away on a visit over the holiday and could not carry out the usual program. In order not to disappoint their young friends they hit upon the plan of sending each one the following communication:

"Dear Friend: We understand Santa Claus cannot do as much for the children in Thief River Falls this year as heretofore because so many little children in Europe require extra care, food and clothing.

"He has, however, consented to do a little for our neighbor friends. We are not going to be home this year so we cannot see you in our home as we would like to.

"A card is enclosed with a square marked on the back. In this square you will put your thumb print. Perhaps about eleven o'clock would be a good time to do this. If necessary, use blacking of some kind on thumb. Take the card on Christmas day or any day during Christmas week and show it to Mrs. McCully at the Sweet Shop and she will give you a sack containing good things.

"Then you will present the card to Mr. Palmer at the Lyceum theatre, wink the left eye, and he will take up the cards and admit you to the show. Mr. Palmer is accustomed to these winks. Mr. and Mrs. Way will be in the picture. Mrs. Way will be looking out of the window of a beautiful house—Charley Chaplin's home. Mr. Way will be back of the house, just around the corner, in a dress suit, helping Mr. Chaplin pick a goose.

"We send you our best wishes and a Merry Christmas and assure you we love you pretty good. Yours very respectfully, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Way."

George Curran this week received word from his brother, James, who some time ago enlisted in the aviation corps of the army, informing him that the young man had passed the examination satisfactorily and that he would soon leave for one of the southern training camps. Stafford Curran, another brother, is at Camp Dodge, having been put at clerical work.

THE NEWS-PRESS CHANGES HANDS

WILL DISCONTINUE PAPER

Times to be Continued in Former Quarters of News-Press and All Subscription Agreements Will be Carried Out.

The Thief River Falls News-Press went out of existence with the issue of last week, the plant, good will and subscription list having been purchased by R. H. Ross, publisher of The Thief River Falls Times, acting as the head of a corporation formed for the purpose of taking over the two properties. The former printing plant of The Times has been sold and the business of the merged enterprises will be conducted from the former offices of the News-Press on Second street.

Subscription List Combined.

Subscribers to the News-Press who have paid in advance for the paper will receive The Times until the expiration of the date to which they have paid. Those who have paid for both papers will have their expiration date on The Times moved forward so as to cover whatever period still remains to their credit on the News-Press. The work of merging and correcting the list is being done as rapidly as possible and we hope our subscribers will overlook any error that may occur in the hurry incident to getting out a newspaper, moving and celebrating Christmas all in one week.

Contemplated For Some Time.

The matter of purchasing the News-Press had for some time been the subject of negotiations between Mr. Ross and Mitchell & Vandersluis, publishers of the latter paper. All concerned realized that two high grade newspapers were more than the business men of the city were willing to support under existing conditions and that while both would receive a share of the patronage of the community this would hardly suffice in the face of continually increasing production costs. The publishers had their choice of eliminating one paper or cutting down on the quality of their product. The problem was solved to the entire satisfaction of all through the opportunity offered Mr. Mitchell of becoming part owner of the Bemidji Sentinel. Mr. Vandersluis will remain in the city, a stockholder in The Times company and superintendent of the mechanical department of the paper.

Remarkable Subscription List.

The Times is now the only paper published in Thief River Falls and is the legitimate successor of all its forerunners in the field. The merger of the two subscription lists will give the paper a circulation of between 3,800 and 4,000 copies, this being one of the largest in the state for a weekly publication of the general news class. The exact figures will be given out as soon as the work on the subscription books is completed, together with the findings of a committee of business men appointed for the purpose of verifying the count.

Business Men Pleased.

It is doubtful if a newspaper merger has ever taken place in the state over which so much general satisfaction has been expressed. This is due to no dissatisfaction with either of the papers or their publishers but rather because it was felt that the business to be secured in the community did not warrant the outlay necessary for the support of two weeklies. Many prominent men have expressed the opinion that the publishing of two papers going to pretty much the same people and containing the same news on the same day was a most wasteful proceeding and have for a long time hoped that some satisfactory way could be found for the elimination of one or the other. That the situation has worked itself out to the entire satisfaction of all concer [illegible] most gratifying to everyone [illegible] manner connected with the pa [illegible] well as the public generally.

Enlarged and Improved.

The Times this week is iss [illegible] der something of a handicap [illegible] readers will have to make [illegible] lowances. By next week [illegible] will have gotten into its [illegible] among new surroundings [illegible] per will be better than [illegible] The printing outfit of [illegible] News-Press has been over [illegible] garded as a model and [illegible] additions from the [illegible] Times will easily be the [illegible] most complete in the [illegible] of the state. Just before the business was sold the former publishers added considerable new material to the excellent selection already on hand, completing the equipment in every detail. The office is now prepared to turn out the finest work on the shortest possible notice and with an attention to detail impossible in plants of more limited scope and capacity. With Mr. Vandersluis at the head of a most competent crew, this particular branch of the business will be looked after in a manner satisfactory to all.

It is the intention of the publishers to give Thief River Falls the best weekly paper published in the state. This can only be done with the hearty co-operation of the citizens generally, and experience has proven that this is always forthcoming in the aid of any meritorious enterprise.

The constant aim will be to thus merit this co-operation.

BECOMES MANAGER OF TWO THEATRES

A. J. Lawrence of the Princess Pur[illegible] Lyceum Equipment and Leas[illegible] From M. B. Palmer.

A. J. Lawrence, manager of the Princess theatre, this week closed a deal whereby he assumes charge also of the Lyceum theatre, purchasing the equipment of the last-named playhouse from M. B. Palmer. Pending the remodeling of the new acquisition, Mr. Lawrence will close the place, opening again in the early spring. The Princess will be conducted as heretofore. This last purchase on the part of Mr. Lawrence will mean that he has practically $7,000 invested in theatre property in this city.

When the Lyceum is again opened it will have undergone a complete alteration. The place will be repainted and redecorated throughout and will be one of the very finest picture houses to be found north of the Twin Cities. It is the intention to rebuild and enlarge the balcony and to erect a stage where vaudeville of the better class will be presented.

Mr. Lawrence has always demanded the very best procurable in the pictures he has presented to the public. Even after it became next to impossible to conduct a theatre successfully along former lines, he stuck to his old system of charges in spite of the fact that theatres in surrounding towns were passing the increased cost on to their patrons. He has maintained the Princess at a very high level of excellence and this policy will be followed to even a greater degree in his new house.

During the winter months it is impossible to keep two expensive houses showing to paying business. Mr. Lawrence therefore concluded that by securing control of both he could close one while it is being remodeled and still be in a position to take care of the public. Under no circumstances will he cheapen the service and he adopted the only other alternative.

The Princess bill for the week will be found in another part of the paper and its excellence proves that its enterprising manager still considers the best none too good for his patrons.

Mr. Palmer, it is understood, will shortly leave for St. Paul, where he will engage in another line of business.

GOVERNOR HERE AT DAIRY MEET

NEW PLAN FOR HOUSING

Committee Will Attempt to Secure Use of Sleepers as Quarters For Delegates During Four Day Stay in City.

Preparations to make the forthcoming conventions of the State and the Red River Valley Dairymen's associations a great success in everyway possible are now progressing rapidly. The dates for the conventions are January 15, 16, 17 and 18.

The Thief River Co-operative Creamery association has been secured to furnish the banquet to be given to members of the state association present in this city on the evening of Wednesday, January 16. All of those who are members and are wearing the badge of the association that evening are to be admitted.

Governor Will Speak.

It is planned to have the banquet in the Auditorium, and Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has been announced as speaker of the evening.

Other speakers who have been announced are: Dr. Marion L. Burton, president of the University of Minnesota; Prof. C. G. Selvig, [illegible] Crookston Agricultural school; Hon. A. D. Wilson, Federal Food Administrator for Minnesota; Hon. A. O. Storvig, United States department of agriculture; Hon. James Sorenson, dairy and food commissioner, St. Paul; W. A. McKerrow of the state university, and George P. Grout of Duluth.

Several other speakers are promised and the meeting will be the best ever held by the two associations.

The membership committee is also on the job as three hundred members from this part of the state have been promised by the Commercial club as its share of assisting in the movement and of bringing the convention to this city.

Is Important Gathering.

The probabilities are that at least 500 members of the two associations will be in attendance. The committee in charge of their entertainment has taken the matter of sleeping accommodations under consideration and have presented a plan whereby it is hoped to take care of the visitors with the least expense and inconvenience. An attempt will be made to have the Soo and Great Northern railroads sidetrack a sleeping car here and permit it to remain during the four days of the convention. Practically all of the delegates will arrive on cars of this nature and occupying them during their stay would make the skirmishing around for rooms outside the hotels unnecessary. The matter has been taken up with the railroad officials and it is hoped that the idea can be carried out.

At Work on Program.

Commercial club officials are at work on the program for the meeting and this will be ready for distribution by the end of the week. An announcement of the proceedings will also appear in the next issue of The Times.

Third Son in Service.

Julien Provencher of the Hotel Evelyn this week received word from his son, Doris, dated at San Francisco, informing him that the young man had joined the army and [illegible] to have his release [illegible] fice of the examini [illegible] city. Doris enlist [illegible] were first calle [illegible] for physical [illegible] amined at Mi [illegible] shortly aftern [illegible] st. In [illegible]

No Community Advertising.

The Jefferson Declaration, official publication of the Jefferson Highway association, will not conduct the community advertising contemplated for the different cities and towns along the route of the highway. It has been deemed inadvisable to incur this expense while the war is on, but the matter will be taken up again some time in the future. Main offices are now located at Des Moines, Ia.

CANDY ADVERTISED IN SPITE OF ORDER

City Papers Not So Particular in Complying With Order of Food Administrator.

Complying with the order of the federal food administrator for Minnesota, The Times, together with nearly every other country paper in the state refused this year to take any advertisement for Christmas candies. The commissioner in his communication stated that the order had been issued for the purpose of conserving the sugar supply of the country. City papers also no doubt received the same communication, but in many cases failed absolutely to heed the injunction. Their disregard of the matter was so glaring that Scott Laird, former secretary of the Commercial club in this city, called the attention of J. A. Vye, executive secretary of the commission, to the fact that country papers were being discriminated against. Mr. Vye in replying requested Mr. Laird to be more specific and point out any instance in which failure to comply with the commission's request had come to his notice. Mr. Laird replied by sending in advertisements clipped from the Minneapolis Journal and Tribune for Thursday and Friday, Dec. 20 and 21, in which appeared eight separate instances of candies being offered at reduced prices. Mr. Laird stated that he considered it unfair to both country merchants and newspapers that this should have been permitted.

LIQUOR SHIPMENTS MAY CEASE JAN

Prediction is Made That Northw[illegible] Counties Will Be Bone Dry After That Date.

Thief River Falls people returning from the Twin Cities are practically unanimous in the opinion that Pennington county will be included in the bone dry list about the first of the year. The placing of the ban on Beltrami and Clearwater counties some time ago, although an apparently unnecessary proceeding because those communities were already both under county option decision and by reason of their being in the Indian treaty territory, was simply a preliminary move. Red Lake county is still the one wet spot in the section and it is understood that here also the public safety commission will interpose its authority and stop all shipments. The entire northwestern part of the state has to a considerable extent been supplied with its liquor from Red Lake Falls and Plummer, these being the most convenient points at which the traffic is still permitted. Should Pennington and the other counties in the neighborhood be prevented from receiving shipments of liquor it will follow as a matter of course that Red Lake county will be included, thus [illegible] portion of the [illegible] ny such in [illegible] olved, but [illegible] r know [illegible] st are [illegible] efin [illegible] power [illegible] therefore [illegible] night as [illegible] of which there [illegible] ployed.

START FIGURING UP YOUR INCOME

Internal Revenue Collector Will Be Here Next Week and Must Know All About It.

TAX INCOMES OVER $1000

This is Exemption Limit For Unmarried Persons While Those Married Are Allowed Twice This Sum Before Assessed.

In a communication received by The Times, E. J. Lynch, collector of internal revenue, announces that a federal income tax officer will be sent into this county and will be in the various cities and towns as per the following schedule: Thief River Falls, January 3 to 12, inclusive; St. Hilaire, January 15.

The officer will be in your town on the day or days noted above and will be ready and willing to help persons subject to the income tax to make out their returns without any cost to them for his services.

But Few in County.

How many income tax payers will there be in Pennington county? If you can guess how many married persons living with wife or husband will have net incomes of $2,000 or over and how many unmarried persons will have net incomes of $1,000 or over this year, then you know. The probabilities are that the number of those fortunate enough to be taxed under this provision is very small.

Returns of income for the year 1917 must be made on forms provided for the purpose before March 1, 1918. Because a good many people do not understand the law and will not know how to make out their returns the government is sending in this expert to do it for them. But the duty is on the taxpayer to make himself known to the government. If he does not make returns as required before March 1, he may have to pay a penalty ranging from $20 to $1,000, pay a fine or go to jail. So if you don't want to take chances on going to [illegible] you had better call on the income tax man. If you are not [illegible] about being subject to the tax, better ask him and make sure. Whether you see the income tax man or not, you must make return if subject to tax.

Of course persons resident in other counties, if they want to, may come and see the income tax man while in this city or at St. Hilaire.

Includes Nearly All.

The collector suggests that everybody start figuring up now his income and expenses so as to be ready with the figures when the expert arrives. Expenses, however, do not mean family expenses, money used to pay off the principal of a debt, new machinery, buildings, or anything like that. They mean what you spend in making your money—interest, taxes paid, hired help, amount paid for goods sold, seed, stock, bought for feeding, rent (except your dwelling), etc. Income includes about every dollar you get.

TO STOP CUTTING OF INDIAN TIMBER

Closing Down of Logging Camps is Made Subject of Protest by Bemidji Commercial Club.

Operations in cutting the Red Lake Indian timber, which was recently purchased at Washington by the International Lumber company, of which E. W. Backus is the head, have been discontinued and the camps of John Moberg, who had the contract of cutting the timber, have been closed. Whether this action will close the [illegible] nps for all winter is not known [illegible] but the Bemidji Commercial [illegible] has protested against any delay [illegible] work. [illegible] 20,000,000 feet of timber was [illegible] this winter, the most of [illegible] been killed by fire and [illegible] of less value next year. [illegible] amps would also mean [illegible] ns would not be employed [illegible] would mean the loss of [illegible] revenue. Walter F. [illegible], superintendent at the Red [illegible] Agency, has informed G. W. Harnwell, president of the Bemidji Commercial club, that delaying the cutting of the Red Lake timber until next winter will mean a reduction of about 20 per cent in the 20,000,000 feet of timber, or an amount of about $58,000.

BIG TIMBER
BERTRAND W. SINCLAIR

He threw his weight on the wheel, sending it hard over. The cruiser still had way on. The momentum of her ten ton weight scarcely had slackened, and she answered the helm. Out of the deceptive thickness ahead loomed the sharp, flaring bow of another forty footer, sheering quickly as her pilot sighted them. She was upon them and abreast and gone, with a watery purl of her bow wave, a subdued mutter of exhaust, passing so near that an active man could have leaped the space between.

"Sufferin' Jerusalem!" Barlow repeated, turning to Stella. "Did you see that, Mrs. Jack? They got him."

Stella nodded. She, too, had seen Monohan seated on the afterdeck, his head sunk on his breast, irons on his wrists. A glimpse, no more.

"That'll help some," Barlow grunted. "Quick work. But they come blame near cuttin' us down, beltin' along at ten knots when you can't see forty feet ahead."

An empty beach greeted them at Tumbling creek. Reluctantly Stella bade Barlow turn back. It would soon be dark, and Barlow said he would be taking chances of piling on the shore before he could see it or getting lost in the profound black that would shut down on the water with daylight's end.

But by luck Barlow made his way, blundering fairly into the landing at the foot of the path that led to the bungalow as if the cruiser knew the way to her old berth. And as he reached the float the front windows on the hillock broke out yellow, pale blurs in the smoky night.

"Well, say,"—Barlow pointed—"I bet a nickel Jack's home. See? Nobody but him would be in the house."

"I'll go up," Stella said.

"All right. I guess you know the path better'n I do," Barlow said. "I'll take the Bug around into the bay."

Stella ran up the path. She halted halfway up the steps and leaned against the rail to catch her breath; then she went on. Her step was noiseless, for tucked in behind a cushion aboard the Waterbug she had found an old pair of her own shoes, rubber soled, and she had put them on to ease the ache in her feet born of thirty-six hours' incasement in leather. She gained the door without a sound. It was wide open, and in the middle of the big room Jack Fyfe stood with hands thrust deep in his pockets, staring absently at the floor.

She took a step or two inside. Fyfe did not hear her; he did not look up.

"Jack!"

He gave ever so slight a start, glanced up, stood with head thrown back a little. But he did not move or answer, and Stella, looking at him, seeing the flame that glowed in his eyes, could not speak. Something seemed to choke her, something that was a strange compound of relief and bewilderment and a slow wonder at herself—at the queer, unsteady pounding of her heart.

"How did you get way up here?" he asked at last.

"Linda wired last night that Charlie was hurt. I got a machine to the Springs. Then Barlow came down this afternoon looking for you. He said you'd been missing for two days. So I—I"—

She broke off. Fyfe was walking toward her with that peculiar light footed step of his, a queer tense look on his face.

"Nero fiddled when Rome was burning," he said harshly. "Did you come to sing while my Rome goes up in smoke?"

A little half strangled sob escaped her. She turned to go, but he caught her by the arm.

"There, lady," he said, with a swift change of tone, "I didn't mean to slash at you. I suppose you mean all right, but just now, with everything gone to the devil, to look up and see you here—I've really got an ugly temper, Stella, and it's pretty near the surface these days. I don't want to be pitied and sympathized with. I want to fight. I want to hurt somebody."

"Hurt me then!" she cried.

He shook his head sadly.

"I couldn't do that," he said. "No, I can't imagine myself ever doing that."

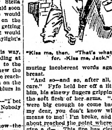
"Why?" she asked, knowing why, but wishful to hear in words what his eyes shouted.

"Because I love you," he said. "You know well enough why."

She lifted her one free hand to his shoulder. Her face turned up to his. A warm wave of blood dyed the round, white neck, shot up into her cheeks. Her eyes were suddenly aglow, lips tremulous.

"Kiss me, then," she whispered. "That's what I came for. Kiss me, Jack."

If she had doubted, if she had ever in the last few hours looked with misgiving upon what she felt herself impelled to do, the pressure of Jack Fyfe's lips on hers left no room for anything but an amazing thrill of pure gladness. She was happy in his arms, content to rest there, to feel his heart beating against hers, to be quit of all the uncertainties, all the useless regrets. By a roundabout way she had come to her own, and it thrilled her to her finger tips. She could not quite comprehend it or herself. But she was glad, weeping with gladness, straining her man to her, kissing his face, murmuring incoherent words against his breast.



"Kiss me, then. "That's what I came for. Kiss me, Jack.""

"And so—and so, after all, you do care." Fyfe held her off a little from him, his sinewy fingers gripping gently the soft flesh of her arms. "And you were big enough to come back. Oh, my dear, you don't know what that means to me! I'm broke, and I'd just about reached the point where I didn't give a d—. This fire has cleaned me out. I've"—

"I know," Stella interrupted. "That's why I came back. I wouldn't have come otherwise, at least not for a long time—perhaps never. It seemed as if I ought to, as if it were the least I could do. Of course it looks altogether different now that I know I really want to. But, you see, I didn't know that for sure until I saw you standing here. Oh, Jack, there's such a lot I wish I could wipe out!"

"It's wiped out," he said happily. "The slate's clean. Fair weather didn't get us anywhere. It took a storm. Well, the storm's over."

She stirred uneasily in his arms.

"Haven't you got the least bit of resentment, Jack, for all this trouble I've helped to bring about?" she faltered.

"Why, no," he said thoughtfully. "All you did was to touch the fireworks off. And they might have started over anything. Lord, no! Put that idea out of your head."

"I don't understand," she murmured. "I never had quite understood why Monohan should attack you with such savage bitterness—that trouble he started on the Tyee, then this criminal firing of the woods. I've had hints, first from your sister, then from Linda. I didn't know you'd clashed before. I'm not very clear on that yet. But you knew all the time what he was. Why didn't you tell me, Jack?"

"Well, maybe I should have," Fyfe admitted. "But I couldn't very well. Don't you see? He wasn't even an incident until he bobbed up and rescued you that day. I couldn't after that start in picking his character to pieces as a matter of precaution. We had a sort of armed truce. He left me strictly alone. I'd trimmed his claws once or twice already. I suppose he was acute enough to see an opportunity to get a whack at me through you. You were just living from day to day, creating a world of illusions for yourself, nourishing yourself with dreams, smarting under a stifled regret for a lot you thought you'd passed up for good. He wasn't a factor at first. When he did finally stir in you an emotion I had failed to stir it was too late for me to do or say anything. If I'd tried at that stage of the game to show your idol's clay feet you'd have despised me, as well as refused to believe. I couldn't do anything but stand back and trust the real woman of you to find out what a quicksand you were building your castle on. I purposely refused to let you go when you wanted to go away the first time, partly on the kid's account, partly because I could hardly bear to let you go—mostly because I wanted to make him boil over and show his teeth, on the chance that you'd be able to size him up.

"You see, I know him from the ground up. I knew that nothing would afford him a keener pleasure than to take away from me a woman I cared for and that nothing would make him squirm more than for me to checkmate him. That day I cuffed him and choked him on the point really started him properly. After that you, as something to be desired and possessed, ran second to his feeling against me. He was bound to try to play even, regardless of you. When he precipitated that row on the Tyee I knew it was going to be a fight for my financial life, for my own life if he ever got me foul. And it was not a thing I could talk about to you, in your state of mind, then. You were through with me. Regardless of him, you were getting farther and farther away from me. I had a long time to realize that fully. You had a grudge against life, and it was sort of crystallizing on me. You never kissed me once in all those two years as you kissed me just now."

She pulled his head down and kissed him again.

CHAPTER XIX.

Home Again.

"So that I wasn't restraining you with any hope for my own advantage," Fyfe went on. "There was the kid, and there was you. I wanted to put a brake on you to make you go slow. You're a complex individual, Stella. Along with certain fixed, fundamental principles, you've got a streak of divine madness in you, a capacity for reckless undertakings. You'd never have married me if you hadn't. I trusted you absolutely, but I was afraid in spite of my faith. You had draped such an idealistic mantle around Monohan, I wanted to rend that before it came to a final separation between us. It worked out, because he couldn't resist trying to take a crack at me when the notion seized him.

"So," he continued after a pause, "you aren't responsible, and I've never considered you responsible, for any of this. It's between him and me, and it's been shaping for years. Whenever our trails crossed there was bound to be a clash. There's always been a natural personal antagonism between us. It began to show when we were kids, you might say. Monohan's nature is such that he can't acknowledge defeat. He can't deny himself a gratification. He's a supreme egotist. He's always had plenty of money, he's always had whatever he wanted, and it never mattered to him how he gratified his desires.

"The first time we locked horns was in my last year at high school. Monohan was a star athlete. I beat him in a pole vault. That irked him so that he sulked and sneered and generally made himself so insulting that I slapped him. We fought, and I whipped him. I had a temper that I hadn't learned to keep in hand those days, and I nearly killed him. I had nothing but contempt for him, anyway, because even then, when he wasn't quite twenty, he was a woman hunter, preying on silly girls. I don't know what his magic with women is, but it works until they find him out.

"Well, from that time on he hated me, always laid for a chance to sting me. We went to Princeton the same year. We collided there, so hard that when word of it got to my father's ears he called me home and read the riot act so strong that I flared up and left. Then I came to the coast here and got a job in the woods, got to be a logging boss and went into business on my own hook eventually. I'd just got nicely started when I ran into Monohan again. He'd got into timber himself. I was hand logging up the coast, and I'd hate to tell you the tricks he tried. He kept it up until I got too big to be harassed in a petty way. Then he left me alone. But he never forgot his grudge. The stage was all set for this act long before you gave him his cue, Stella. You weren't to blame for that, or if you were in part it doesn't matter now. I'm satisfied. Paradoxically I feel rich, even though it's a long shot that I'm broke flat. I've got something money doesn't buy. And he has overreached himself at last. All his money and pull won't help him out of this jack pot. Arson and attempted murder is serious business."

"They caught him," Stella said. "The constables took him down the lake tonight. I saw him on their launch as they passed the Waterbug."

"Yes?" Fyfe said. "Quick work. I didn't even know about the shooting till I came in here tonight about dark. Well," he snapped his fingers, "exit Monohan. He's a dead issue so far as we're concerned. Wouldn't you like something to eat, Stella? I'm hungry, and I was dog tired when I landed here. Say, you can't guess what I was thinking about, lady, standing there when you came in."

She shook her head.

"I had a crazy notion of touching a match to the house," he said soberly, "letting it go up in smoke with the rest. Yes, that's what I was thinking I would do. Then I'd take the Panther and what gear I have on the scows and pull off Roaring lake. It didn't seem as if I could stay. I'd laid the foundation of a fortune here and tried to make a home and lost it all, everything that was worth having. And then all at once there you were, like a vision in the door. Miracles do happen!"

Her arms tightened involuntarily about him.

"Oh," she cried breathlessly, "our little white house!"

"Without you," he replied softly, "it was just an empty shell of boards and plaster, something to make me ache with loneliness."

"But not now!" she murmured. "It's home now."

"Yes," he agreed, smiling.

"Ah, but it isn't quite." She choked down a lump in her throat, "not when I think of those little feet that used to patter on the floor. Oh, Jack, when I think of my baby boy! My dear, my dear, why did all this have to be, I wonder?"

Fyfe stroked her glossy coils of hair.

"We got nothing of value without a price," he said quietly. "Except by rare accident nothing that's worth having comes cheap and easy. We've paid the price, and we're square with the world and with each other. That's everything."

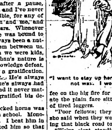
"Are you completely ruined, Jack?" she asked after an interval. "Charlie said you were."

"Well," he answered reflectively, "I haven't had time to balance accounts, but I guess I will be."

"Will you take me in as a business partner, Jack?" she asked eagerly. "That's what I had in mind when I came up here. I made up my mind to propose that after I'd heard you were ruined. Oh, it seems silly now, but I wanted to make amends that way—at least, I tried to tell myself that!"

They went down the path to the bay, hand in hand, feeling their way through that fire blackened area, under a black sky.

The cook's fire was dead, and that worthy was humped on his bed roll smoking a pipe. But he had cold meat and bread, and he brewed a pot of coffee on the big fire for them, and Stella ate the plain fare sitting in the circle of tired loggers.



"I want to stay up here with you. I'm not wax. I won't melt."

"Poor fellows; they look wornout," she said when they were again traversing that black road to the bungalow.

"We've slept standing up for three weeks," Fyfe said simply. "They've done everything they could. And we're not through yet. A north wind might set Charlie's timber afire in a dozen places."

"Oh, for a rain!" she sighed.

"If wishing for rain brought it," he laughed, "we'd have had a second flood. We've got to keep pegging away till it does rain, that's all. We can't do much, but we have to keep doing it. You'll have to go back to the Springs tomorrow, I'm afraid, Stella. I'll have to stay on the firing line literally."

"I don't want to!" she cried rebelliously. "I want to stay up here with you. I'm not wax. I won't melt."

* * * * * *

An oddly familiar sound murmuring in Stella's ear wakened her. At first she thought she must be dreaming. It was still inky dark, but the air that blew in at the open window was sweet and cool, filtered of that choking smoke. She lifted herself warily, looked out, reached a hand through the lifted sash. Wet drops spattered it. The sound she heard was the drip of eaves, the beat of rain on the charred timber, upon the dried grass of the lawn.

Beside her Fyfe was a dim bulk, sleeping the dead slumber of utter weariness. She hesitated a minute, then shook him.

"Listen, Jack," she said.

He lifted his head.

"Rain!" he whispered. "Good night, Mr. Fire. Hooray!"

"I brought it," Stella murmured sleepily. "I wished it on Roaring lake tonight."

Then she slipped her arm about his neck and drew his face down to her breast with a tender fierceness and closed her eyes with a contented sigh.

THE END.

Two For Engineering Corps.

S. R. Rogers of Steiner, was in the city last Friday and stated that his second son, Henry J., had followed his elder brother into the service. The young man left in company with George Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Borden of the town of North, and both enlisted in the engineering corps at Minneapolis. No word has been received from the boys since the news of their acceptance arrived and the supposition is that they were immediately shipped east for training. Emmons Rogers, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, has been in training for some time, having joined the cavalry now stationed at Fort Hancock, Texas.

HARD WORK AHEAD OF ADVISORY BOARD

Attorneys Will Be Unable to Meet Requirements Unless Others Volunteer to Help.

The Thief River Falls attorneys who have been selected as an advisory board to assist the drafted men in answering the questionnaire sent out by the government have had a contract handed to them that is going to require considerable hard work. They are willing to perform the labor but do not see how they are going to get through with it in the time allowed for the purpose. The county registration board insists that the clerical work connected with the filling out of the questionnaire is a part of the contract assumed by the attorneys and this means slow, painstaking labor on their part. The attorneys say that it will take at least an hour for each applicant to be properly questioned and recorded and as there are over 700 to be examined in about five days it will require more than the three board members to do the work and finish in time. While there are only three members appointed for the purpose of aiding the draftees, any attorney is liable to call under the ruling of the war department and he must comply with the request. Not wishing to employ this means the appointees are asking for volunteers among the members of their profession to come forward and offer their services. The time limit stipulation is specific and it is not likely that any deviation will be permitted.

The advisory board for Pennington county is composed of Attorneys Gay Halvorson, Ira C. Richardson and J. M. Bishop.

REGISTRANTS MAY STILL JOIN NAVY

This Branch of Service Continues Open to Those Not Needed For Current Quota.

Much confusion has arisen in regard to enlistments in the navy because of the recent order forbidding a part of the draft registrants from enlisting. The general impression seems to be that all recruiting of registrants stopped on December 15.

Navy officers in this district have sent out a definite explanation of the ruling, showing that it is still possible for many men in the draft to enlist in the navy. All those who are not needed to fill the current quotas of their local boards are eligible. All that is necessary for an applicant who qualifies physically to do, is present a certificate from his local board, showing that his classification and order number are so low that he will not be needed for the current quota.

This recruiting district has a quota of 800 apprentice seamen to fill by February 22. Recruiting offices are located in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Fargo and Grand Forks.

Greetings:

Let us resolve that in this New Year we shall make the most of time; that we shall be proud of each day's work and happy in the prospects of the labors of tomorrow; that we shall carry happiness with us into our business houses and show a joyous heart to our neighbors; that each day shall find new progress made toward the goal of our ambition. And that at the end of the twelve months before us we shall make our homes better homes, our lives better lives, and ourselves better men and women.

A Merry Christmas and a
Happy New Year

is the Yuletide Greetings which is extended to all the brave young men of Thief River Falls and Pennington County who have answered their country's call, wherever they may be located—at home or "somewhere"

The Commercial Club

We Wish Everyone
A Happy and Prosperous
New Year

WE Wish to express our thanks for the liberal patronage extended during our first months in business in the city. Coming here as strangers both to people and to business conditions, we have enjoyed an excellent trade from the outset and have become thoroughly convinced that merchandise of the highest grade is what our people want. It will be our constant aim to keep fully abreast of the demand for anything in our line and in this manner make it unnecessary for anyone to send away from the city in order to have their wants promptly supplied.

An inspection of the different lines handled by us is invited. Make our store your headquarters any time you are in the city during the coming year. We will do our best to make you feel at home.

Yours truly,

A Demand For Baled Straw.

There is a demand for good oat or rye straw in the northern part of the state, owing to the partial failure of the hay crop and the extraordinary demand made upon the section for fodder. A scarcity of hay and roughage for cattle has resulted. The office of the Public Safety Commission has been appealed to by many farmers who dislike to sacrifice their cattle for the lack of hay. Farmers in sections of the state where straw is plentiful will find a ready sale for baled straw and will be able to secure a market for it at reasonable prices for anyone who desires to do his "bit" along conservation lines by baling surplus straw and thus making it possible for farmers less fortunately situated to provide for their cattle through the winter.

Baled straw will bring a good price in view of the almost prohibitive prices of hay in many sections of the state.

Departmental Clerks Wanted.

The United States Civil Service commission wants law clerks, express rate clerks, freight rate clerks, passenger rate clerks, income tax deputy collectors, inspectors and agents for immediate service. Some very desirable positions are open to both men and women under these classifications. Further information may be had by addressing J. M. Shoemaker, secretary Eight Civil Service District, St. Paul.

Well Known Speaker Here.

George Sovde and T. C. Christenson will speak at the evening service in the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. Both these men are pretty well known in Thief River Falls. What they have to say will be of great interest to the men of the city. As many men as can find room in the Presbyterian church ought to hear them.

QUESTION CLEARED UP

Thief River Falls Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Thief River Falls' pertinent question has always been: "Has anyone here in Thief River Falls been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens, whom we know and respect, and whose evidence we can so easily prove.

C. Froseth, proprietor of shoe and harness shop, 218 LaBree avenue, Thief River Falls, says: "In the harness business I am on my feet nearly all day and this together with confinement indoors caused me to have kidney trouble. I had awful bad spells of backache and every little move I made sent twinges all through my body. The kidney secretions didn't pass regularly and were unnatural. When I was told to try Doan's Kidney Pills I did and soon after using them, I improved. I haven't had any more kidney trouble since using Doan's; they made a cure that has lasted."

Editor of The Times. Dear Sir:

Inasmuch as some of the newspapers and a good many of the professional politicians have had a great deal to say about the alleged disloyalty of the National Nonpartisan league and its leaders, I want to call your attention to the fact that a few days ago Mr. A. C. Townley, head of the league, was invited to see President Woodrow Wilson. Now President Wilson is not inviting disloyalists to call at the White House and I think we will all admit that the President usually is pretty well informed. He probably know exactly what he was doing when he invited Mr. Townley in to see him.

I also notice that President Wilson's message to Congress on Dec. 4, called attention to the fact "That the farmers complain with considerable justice that while regulations of food products restricts their incomes, no restraints are placed upon the prices of most of the things they purchase." The President went on to say that "profiteering still runs impudently rampant" in many lines of industries and he recommended that Congress go further and extend the price fixing law.

This sounds a good deal like the resolutions which the Nonpartisan league convention adopted at St. Paul on Sept. 18-19-20. In fact these resolutions advocated this very thing and a copy of these resolutions was sent to President Wilson.

When the National Nonpartisan league adopted resolutions denouncing the profiteers and demanding that the price-fixing act be extended, we were attacked by Big Business through its kept press and professional politicians. Big Business attacked the league because the league hit it in a pretty sensitive place—its pocket book. Big Business tried to discredit the league because we had shown that it was profiteering, but now that President Wilson brings the same charge and makes the same recommendations that we made, Big Business and the kept press haven't got much to say.

It seems to me that President Wilson's reception of Mr. Townley and his indorsement of the planks in our St. Paul resolutions makes any talk about the disloyalty of the Nonpartisan league and its leaders look absolutely ridiculous.

As a matter of fact, the Nonpartisan league is patriotic in its stand, and it is the Big Business profiteers who are trying to wring more money out of the necessities of the people and holding up the government with high prices, who are the real disloyists. And they needn't think they are going to fool the people by hiding behind the flag.

The Nonpartisan league started the campaign against these profiteers and now we have the President of the United States squarely behind us in our demands. That ought to settle any doubts about our patriotism in the minds of any honest man.

Hoping you will have the fairness to publish this, I remain

Yours for the Common Good,
PAUL ENGELSTAD.

From the sale of the hand-made bed spread donated to the Red Cross recently by Mrs. Russell of Superior, Wis., $76.50 was realized. The spread was won by Mrs. Elmer Ohm, 824 LaBree avenue north, this city, and she feels very grateful to the Red Cross for having been the lucky purchaser.

AN IMPORTANT MERGER

There never has been a time in the history of Thief River Falls when the community would not have been better served by the publication of one good newspaper than by two or three poor ones. When, therefore, the business interests of the city were called upon to support two such excellent publications as the Thief River Falls Times and the Thief River Falls News-Press, the burden became too heavy and in the natural course of events one or the other had to give way. In this particular instance the outcome does not necessarily signify that the law relating to the survival of the fittest was permitted to apply without regard to any other agency or circumstance. The unadorned fact in connection with the sale of the News-Press to the publisher of The Times is that all the parties to the transaction realized that with two big newspapers there was one too many for the community under any condition liable to arise for some years to come.

The opportunity afforded Mr. H. Z. Mitchell, one of the publishers and editor of the News-Press, to secure an interest in the Sentinel, the only weekly paper published at Bemidji, brought to a head a plan that had for some time been under consideration. The adjustment was therefore of the most amicable nature and the consummation highly agreeable to all parties concerned. It was not a question of one or the other being driven out of business. Both papers were enjoying a very fair patronage, but the increased cost of doing business simply made it inadvisable for the two to continue in competition. The business men of the city wished to be impartial in the matter and divide their patronage, a plan which did not permit either paper to keep abreast of the rising cost of production. The situation at this time is different from any confronting the publishing business during the entire history of the nation, and discontinuances, amalgamations and consolidations are of almost daily occurrence. This condition is not always to be deplored, as one good newspaper is generally enough for any small city.

Had there been any call for two newspapers in Thief River Falls there is not the slightest doubt but that Mitchell & Vandersluis would have been satisfied to remain in business here. Owning one of the best plants in the state and with resources at their command far in excess of those generally possessed by the average country publisher, they could undoubtedly have continued the publication of the News-Press had they not chosen to take the broader view and looked at the matter purely from a business standpoint. Their experience convinced them that there was at present room for but one paper in the city and they came half way in so arranging matters as to make this condition possible.

Mr. Vandersluis will continue a resident of Thief River Falls, having associated himself with the corporation taking over the two properties. He will have complete charge of the mechanical department of The Times, a fact that will prove most pleasing to the paper's patrons as he has demonstrated his ability in this direction to the entire satisfaction of everyone during his stay in the city. His thorough knowledge of every department of the printing business makes him an invaluable man and one in whom the people are perfectly justified in reposing the utmost confidence.

The best wishes of the entire community go with Mr. Mitchell and his charming family to their new home. He is a business man and a hustler and will give the people of Beltrami county the very best service of which he is capable—which is saying a great deal. Succeeding H. Mayne Stanton as editor of the Sentinel, he assumes a considerable contract, but one which he is amply able to carry through. The people of Bemidji will like him. Straighforward, thorough, and in every way most likeable, he is a man to whom they can tie without any fear of their confidence ever being abused or their interests betrayed. The Sentinel, always one of the very best of Minnesota weeklies, will become even better under his guidance. He is a tireless worker and absolutely sincere in all his undertakings—qualities that deserve to win. It is with a feeling of genuine regard that The Times wishes him unbounded success in his new field.

In this article something will be looked for concerning the future policy of The Times, now that it is alone in the field. This can be summarized in a very few words: The Times is and will continue to be A NEWSPAPER. Its policy will be controlled by no exterior influences of any kind—individual, combination or clique. Politically it will be absolutely INDEPENDENT, owing allegiance to no person, party or organization. The fact that the thousands of readers of the paper represent all political parties will be given the consideration it deserves and as a NEWSPAPER The Times will in a fair and impartial manner give its readers the NEWS of the activities of the various political parties and this service will be confined strictly to news. The Republican readers of this paper are entitled to the news of their party; the Democratic readers have an equal right and so with the Prohibition, Non-Partisan and other readers affiliated with other political organizations. Each and every one will get the same treatment. Any adherent of these organizations may have his or her views put forth in the department set aside for this purpose, providing their name is signed to the communication submitted. This will be printed without comment on the part of the editor other than a disclaimer of any responsibility for its appearance.

But scant attention is paid to the political newspaper in these enlightened days. The best and most influential journals in the country owe their hold on the public confidence to the fact that they fearlessly comment wherever comment seems advisable, without a thought to its effects upon any one man's political prospects or any one party's future success. The aim will be to call attention to and advocate the adoption of the things that seem best for the entire community, and suggestions as to how this may most successfully be accomplished will be most welcome.

With the little local bickerings invariably arising in any healthy community The Times will have nothing to do. They will, almost without exception, die down and be forgotten in a short time unless a newspaper makes the mistake of keeping them alive. Where they are permitted to persist they always result in no one but the newspaper being blamed.

The Times, during the two years that the present publisher has been its owner, has stood for what it considered best for the entire community. We have faith in the future of the section and have given evidence of this fact by this latest move, which entails upon us a considerable immediate outlay as well as heavy future obligations. That the people of the community have a large measure of confidence in the paper is evidenced every week by the splendid patronage extended. It shall be our constant aim to prove to them that this confidence has not been misplaced.

R. H. ROSS.

THE KING IS DEAD: LONG LIVE THE KING

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. H. Ross, owner of The Times and new owner of the News-Press plant, equipment, circulation and good will, the former publishers of that paper have been given an opportunity to say a parting word to their subscribers and friends.

The News-Press was sold last week, too late for a notice in that issue, to Mr. Ross, and the city will now have but one paper. An exceptional opening at Bemidji, offered the editor of the News-Press, made the transfer advisable and as it is in keeping with the trend of the times there was little delay in closing the deal.

As a result the News-Press has already passed into history, ending its long and varied career with the issue of last week.

We note the passing with regret, for during our eight months' residence here we have worked hard and faithfully to build up the paper and to serve the community to the best of our ability. That we have succeeded, in part at least, in realizing our ideal has been evidenced by many kindly comments. We do point with pardonable pride to the fact that not a promise was made in our opening editorial eight months ago but what was lived up to and not a pledge made at that time has been violated. We have kept our personal quarrels out of the paper and have kept its columns free from useless bickering.

The new paper will establish what we believe to be a record in the history of state journalism. It will have a circulation that will be truly wonderful. There will not be a corner of the trading territory about Thief River Falls but what will be reached by the new publication. The new owners are fortunate in retaining the services of Ed. Vandersluis, who for eight months has been interested in and manager of the News-Press. Mr. Vandersluis will have charge of the mechanical end of the plant and as his partner and co-worker we know better than anyone else his value to the establishment.

We have made many warm personal friends during our residence here, friends whom we regret to leave. We have been kindly treated in both a business and a social way, and we looked forward to being in business here for many years.

We expect to leave in a week or ten days for Bemidji, where we have purchased a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel, of which we will assume editorial charge.

As outlined in another section of the paper, our contract with the new owners absolutely protects all subscribers of the News-Press, who will receive the new paper up until the time of the expiration of their subscription. If there are any cases in which the paper is stopped it will be purely an oversight or an accident due to the enormous amount of work incidental to the changing and consolidation of the lists.

The former owners retain all open accounts for advertising and job work and these are to be paid to the firm of Mitchell & Vandersluis. We will be under obligation to those who receive statements if they will remit promptly so that our business affairs may be adjusted.

We honestly believe the consolidation an excellent move for the city and community and trust that the owners will receive the hearty support of the business men. The community is large enough to support in splendid shape one big weekly, but it is not as yet properly constituted to recompense the efforts put in on two such papers as have been issued in the past.

Thanking our subscribers, our patrons and our friends, for their assistance and co-operation during the past eight months, and with the kindliest wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year, we remain,

MITCHELL & VANDERSLUIS,
By H. Z. Mitchell, Editor.

THE COAL SITUATION

As yet this section of the country has suffered but little because of a shortage of fuel. A whole lot of fault has been found with the manner in which provision has been made for meeting the demand incident to the season, but the exercise of a little judgment will show that those who have been charged with the administration of this department are not to blame.

The trouble is that people in many instances regarded as a joke the request that they economize on fuel. A coal shortage in America was simply impossible, according to their way of thinking, and if any such thing were permitted it would simply prove that the coal barons were curtailing output for the purpose of boosting prices. Therefore but slight heed was paid to the government's request that wood and soft coal be substituted for the antracite variety wherever this was possible. In fact, instead of attempting to get along with less fuel than usual, the demand in many instances far exceeded that of any previous year. Minnesota municipalities made requisition for twice as much coal as was consumed last winter and were terribly put out when informed that it could not be delivered.

The people should give the fuel administrators credit for honesty of purpose and a genuine desire to be of service in this matter. They certainly have nothing to gain personally through any fuel shortage in the communities they are trying to serve to the best of their ability and for which they are receiving no remuneration whatever. There is quite a lot of thankless work connected with their position and they should not on top of this be made the targets for a lot of abuse.

The Clearbrook Journal has been purchased from Albert Anderson by S. G. Sheets, and the name of the publication changed to The Clearbrook Leader. Mr. Sheets is a newspaper man of ability and long experience and the initial issue under his guidance indicates that the business men of the community are going to back him up with their support. Just what the advantage is in thus changing the name of a paper that has been in existence for the past sixteen years will not be very apparent to the average run of newspaper men, but no doubt Mr. Sheets had some purpose in view.

A GILT-EDGED INVESTMENT

Whether or not you have invested in a Liberty Loan Bond makes no difference—you should purchase a few of these new War Savings Certificates or War Stamps. These securities represent the best investment yet offered the American people and will make saving money popular with many who have never tried it before. The following explanation of their nature, taken from Collier's is the most complete and compact we have yet come across. Read it over and ask your mail carrier for a bond or a stamp during the present month or the next. The earlier you secure your certificates the cheaper you will be able to buy them. It would be a great thing for you if a habit was made of investing the required amount every pay-day in this manner. You would pay any sum from $4.12 during December and January (this being the lowest figure at which the certificates may be secured) up to nearly five dollars during the last month of the life of the issue in 1923, and the difference between what you pay now and the five dollars given you by the government at that time represents your profit on the transaction. Collier's says:

"In looking over those new War-Savings Certificates, the point to get in mind is this: Uncle Sam is giving the rank and file of us the best chance to save and invest small sums of money that has ever been offered in the whole financial history of the world. You can now buy the promise of the strongest treasury on earth to pay you five dollars five years hence (January 1, 1923). You can buy that note any time during this month or next year at a price ranging from $4.12 to $4.23. You don't have to figure interest, nor clip coupons, nor worry about the safety of your loan. Behind it are the wealth and the taxing power of the richest country ever known. Your coin is earning 4 per cent interest right along, and interest that is reckoned every three months. There may be savings banks that will do that much for you, but we are not aware of any. If it were not for that hundred-dollar limit on each purchase and the thousand-dollar limit on the total that anyone can buy, the big financial fellows would leave precious few of these War-Savings stamps for the rest of us. After all these years of trying to cut out gold-brick schemes which fakers aim at the poor man's pocketbook, the Government is now giving the men of small means a positive chance to show whether they know a good thing when they see it. You can buy these War-Savings Certificates at any post office and at many other places (keep your eyes open for the sign). By giving ten days' notice you will be able to get your five dollars (or more) on or after New Year's Day, 1923, at any post office where you can buy a money order. If you want to cash in sooner, you can do it the same way, but in that case you will get only 4 per cent on your money. Better see the deal through. If you have sound financial sense, you will tuck in some of the stamps (big or little) each pay day, and the time to begin is now."

The Marquis of Lansdowne has submitted a set of rules with the suggestion that they be employed in dealing with the kaiser. His plan does not in the least meet with the approval of Englishmen generally, it being the practically unanimous opinion that the argument should be settled according to the well-known formula promulgated some years ago by the Marquis of Queensberry.

COMMUNICATIONS

The Dairymen's Convention.

The dairy farmers of Pennington county have an opportunity to secure a lot of state-wide advertising and local publicity out of their herd exhibits at the State Dairymen's convention in January if they will only make the best showing of which they are capable. We have some of the best sires in the state right here in our own neighborhood as well as a lot of fine cows and heifers. It is really the duty of our farmers to show the outsiders—of which there will be between six and eight hundred from all parts of the state—just what we can do along these lines.

Three beautiful cups are offered as prizes. These are on display at the Commercial club rooms in Thief River Falls. Their aggregate value is over $100.

The convention this year will furnish free stall room and caretakers who will be with the stock night and day. Each exhibitor will furnish his own feed so there will be no danger of digestive disorders from a change of diet.

The dairymen's convention is the biggest thing of its kind ever held in Thief River Falls and it is hoped that every farmer in the Red River valley who has a pure bred dairy sire will be there with a herd to boost Northwestern Minnesota, and especially his own locality. There should be ten or a dozen herd exhibits from Pennington county alone. The question is, will you, Mr. Dairyman, be one of the dozen? Lets' make the showing so large that the exhibitor who does not get the big first prize cup and the blue ribbons will not be in a class by himself.

In our Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Liberty Loan and County Agent drives we have proven to the state that we can do things. Let us dairymen take this opportunity to once again prove that we are up and coming in Pennington county and in this manner convince the dairymen who are looking for a permanent home in a live community that at last they have hit upon the ideal place. The future of this section lies in our ability to secure more good dairymen and I believe that a good herd exhibit will do much toward achieving this end.

There Will Be No Harum-Scarum, Blood and Thunder, Big Red Outdoor Signs

There will be nothing sensational exc[illegible] good honest merchandise at below ma[illegible] value. We are catering to an intellige[illegible] class of people who don't need all that c[illegible] cus music to see and understand a barga[illegible] There is only one reason and this one onl[illegible] why we are giving you a sale this year a[illegible] all, and that is, we want to contiue the rep[illegible]utation we have built up for our January Clearance Sales in the years past. Maybe there will never be another year like this one. We hope not. And when all goods get down to normal again we still will have our January Clearance Sale with us, and its reputation as strong as when the war started. Today we are offering you in this advertisement lots of strictly staple merchandise for less money than we can go into the open market and buy it for. So why should we be anxious whether we sell a [illegible] of these goods or not? Fact, we are [illegible] But, as stated above, we are doing this [illegible]ly for your advantage, you who are our customers all the year around. For that reason we can afford to do something for yo[illegible] as an appreciation of your good will an[illegible] loyalty. This will, however, be the shortes[illegible] January Clearance Sale ever put on by u[illegible] lasting SIX DAYS ONLY. We do this [illegible] the sole reason that merchandise continues to go up, and by offering you this sale we have done our part as in former years. Now it's up to you for those coming six days. Come and buy as much or as little as you like.

At our last January Clearance Sal[illegible] w[illegible] sold you all the good outing flannels [illegible] wanted at 9c per yard. It was under[illegible] then. Right now it costs us to buy for ne[illegible] fall 18 1-2 cents. We sold you muslin[illegible] sheeting, towels, dress goods, silks, an[illegible] many other items at as much less as 10c pe[illegible] yard wholesale. That is, we turned aroun[illegible] and bought these same goods to fill up ou[illegible] broken stock right after the sale and pai[illegible] as much as 10 cents per yard more than we sold them to you at. This same thing will happen again this [illegible]ear. And, believe us, merchandise in your hands is far better than the MONEY in the bank. You who bought at our last January sale got as much for one dollar as the man who kept his money in the bank will get after this sale for $2.50. In other words, the man who wouldn't buy to save money will find out that the dollars he put into the bank two or three years ago have shrunk to 50 cents or less when it comes to buying merchandise of any kind. So for us, we think a great deal more of the merchandise we have in this big store than we do of the money we have in the bank. That is, we would a hundred times prefer to have a thousand dollars' worth of good merchandise in our store than a thousand dollars cash in the bank. No, we didn't think that [illegible]ay before the war, but now he who holds a good clean stock of merchandise is far ahead of him who has nothing but COLD CASH in the bank. As the merchandise goes up and increases in value the buying power of his cash decreases. So for some time. Take this tip from us: your money will go further at this sale than it ever will again for goods in our line in the entire year of 1918 just ahead of us.

At this sale we are offering you coats, suits, dresses, waists, and our entire stock of ladies' ready-to-wear, at a mere fraction of what you will pay for this same quality of clothes next fall and winter. Your 50 cents will go much farther at this sale than your dollar will next fall. Which is best for [illegible]u, to buy merchandise now that you know [illegible] will soon need, or earn 5 to 6 per cent [illegible] your money in the bank?

We are offering you an opportunity, a [illegible]ral opportunity, such as you will not get again in 1918, and remember we said so. Further, it makes no difference where you go, there is no source that you or I ever heard of where you can buy goods at less than wholesale as you can at this six-day sale.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, ss.

In District Court, Fourteenth Judicial District.

A majority, in interest, of the stockholders of the Thief River Falls Manufacturing Company, a corporation, desiring to close their concern and dissolve the corporation, having presented to the District Court of the County of Pennington, the county of the principal place of business of said corporation, a petition setting forth: the name of the corporation, when and by or under, what law it was incorporated, the names and addresses of the bond holders, stock holders and members, the amount of the authorized capital stock, the amount of capital stock actually paid in, that said corporation is not now actually doing business but that it ceased about January 1st, 1917; and setting forth the amount of the indebtedness of said corporation and the amount and character of its personal property and the amount and description of its real estate; and, setting forth that said corporation is insolvent and unable to pay its indebtedness, or to resume and continue business, and praying that said corporation be dissolved and a receiver appointed to wind up its affairs and praying that a time and place of hearing on said petition be fixed and notice given according to law.

Now, Therefore, the Court being fully advised, it is hereby Ordered that said petition be filed and that Friday, the 25th day of January, 1918, at 9:00 o'clock a. m., in the Court House of Pennington County, at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, be and hereby is fixed as the time and place of hearing on said petition, at which time and place any and all persons may appear and be heard and show cause if any they have why such petition should not be granted and such receiver appointed. Let notice of such time and place be given by publication of this order for at least three weeks immediately preceding the said 25th day of January, 1918, in the Thief River Falls Times, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and by mailing a copy of this order to each of the stockholders of said corporation, at their last known postoffice address, at least ten days prior to said date of hearing.

Done by the Court this 21st day of December, 1917.

ANDREW GRINDELAND,
Judge of the District Court.

Monday—Today is Christmas eve and we take this opportunity of wishing all our friends and readers a happy and joyous Christmas, and we wish to thank all those who have contributed throughout the year and helped to make this "community corner" a feature of general interest. We have appreciated your news, and we know your friends and neighbors have liked to read the items. When you read this we will again be on the threshold of a new year and we wish that it may be happy, prosperous and in every way successful to you, one and all.—Joel Shoberg, Correspondent.

A Nervous Woman Finds Relief From Suffering.

Women who suffer from extreme nervousness, often endure much suffering before finding any relief. Mrs. Joseph Snyder, of Tiffin, O., had such an experience, regarding which she says:

"Six months I was bedfast with nervous prostration. I had sinking spells, a cold, clammy feeling—could not stand the slightest noise. At times I would almost fly to pieces; stomach very weak. My husband insisted on my taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I began to improve before I had finished the first bottle until I was entirely cured."

MRS. JOSEPH SNYDER,
262 Hudson St., Tiffin, Ohio.

Many remedies are recommended for diseases of the nervous system that fail to produce results because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. Dr. Miles' Nervine has proven its value in such cases so many times that it is unnecessary to make claims for it. You can prove its merits for yourself by getting a bottle of your druggist who will return the price if you receive no benefit.

Farm Loan Money Available.

The report to the effect that no more money was available for farm loan associations seems to have been erroneous. Paul Englestad, secretary of the Walhalla National Loan association, was in the city this week and said that the organization would have no trouble in securing the funds necessary as soon as things were otherwise properly taken care of. The association is going ahead on the strength of the advices received and will soon be in a position to transact business, according to Mr. Englestad.

Parentage and the State.

Parentage rightly undertaken is a service as well as a duty to the world, carrying with it not only obligations but a claim, the strongest of claims, upon the whole community. It must be paid for like any other public service; in any completely civilized state it must be sustained, rewarded and controlled. And this is to be done, not to supersede the love, pride and conscience of the parent, but to supplement, encourage and maintain it.—H. G. Wells.

"Blue-Bellied Yankees."

The term "Blue-bellied-Yankees" was a slang epithet formerly applied to New England people, perhaps in reference to the so-called "blue laws" of Puritan days. The term "Pennsylvania Dutch" was applied originally to a language, not to a class of people. It was a dialect or patois imported into Pennsylvania from Germany. Gradually the term came to be applied to the people who spoke the language. The so-called Pennsylvania Dutch came from Germany, not Holland.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION OF THE TIMES COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, for the purpose of forming a corporation under and pursuant to the provisions of Chapter fifty-eight (58), General Statutes of Minnesota for 1913, and any amendments thereof, do hereby associate ourselves as a body corporate, and do hereby adopt the following Certificate of Incorporation:

I.

Sec. 1. The name of this corporation shall be The Times Company.

Sec. 2. The general nature of the business shall be to edit, print, publish and issue daily and weekly newspapers, to do a general printing and bookbinding and publishing business, to buy and sell paper, stationery and supplies; and, for such purposes said corporation may purchase, own, lease, mortgage, sell and convey such real estate as may be necessary or incident to the proper conducting of said business and to sublet and lease any property of said corporation, and to do each and every thing necessary, suitable, or proper for the accomplishment of any of the purposes, or the attainment of any one or more of the objects herein enumerated, or which shall at any time appear conducive to or expedient for the protection or benefit of this corporation.

Sec. 3. The principal place of transacting the business of this corporation shall be in the city of Thief River Falls, County of Pennington and State of Minnesota.

II.

The time for the commencement of this corporation shall be December 10, 1917, and the period of its duration shall be thirty years.

III.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this corporation are: Richard H. Ross of Thief River Falls, Minn., Thomas J. Austad of Thief River Falls, Minn., and Daniel Shaw of Thief River Falls, Minn.

IV.

Sec. 1. The management of this corporation shall be vested in a Board of Directors, composed of not less than three and not more than seven members.

Sec. 2. The names and addresses of the first Board of Directors are: Richard H. Ross, Thief River Falls, Minn.; Thomas J. Austad, Thief River Falls, Minn.; and Daniel Shaw, Thief River Falls, Minn.

Sec. 3. The first officers of this corporation shall be: President, Richard H. Ross; Vice President, Daniel Shaw; Secretary, Thomas J. Austad, and Treasurer Richard R. Ross.

Sec. 4. All the above named officers and directors shall hold their respective offices aforesaid until the next annual meeting of the corporation to be held January 9, 1919, at which time and annually thereafter, a Board of Directors shall be elected from and by the stockholders of this corporation. The annual meeting of this corporation shall be held at its principal place of business on the second Wednesday of January in each year. Immediately after the election of directors, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the directors shall meet and elect from their number a president and a vice-president, and from their number or from the stockholders a secretary and a treasurer. Any office except that of president and vice-president may be held by one person. The directors and officers of this corporation shall hold their respective offices until their successors have been duly elected and qualified and entered upon the discharge of their duties. The first meeting of the stockholders and of the board of directors shall be held in the city of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on the 19th day of December, 1917, at 10 and 11 o'clock respectively.

V.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Twenty-five Thousand Dollars, which shall be paid in, in money or property, or both, in such manner, at such times, and in such amounts as the Board of Directors shall order. The capital stock shall be divided into Two Hundred fifty shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000).

In testimony Whereof, we have hereunto set our hands, this 12th day of December, 1917.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Notice is Hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Mary Horejsh and John Horejsh, her husband, Mortgagors, to Red Lake Building Association, a corporation, Mortgagee, bearing date the 14th day of June, 1916, with power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of June, 1916, at one o'clock p. m., in Book 58 of Mortgages, on page 7, which default has continued to the date of this notice, by the failure and neglect of said Mortgagor to make payment of the sum of Two Dollars and 20 cents monthly premium and monthly dues by said Mortgage secured, which by its terms became due and payable on the 1st day of April, 1917, and which default has continued for more than six months.

And, Whereas, the said Mortgagee and holder of said Mortgage has elected and hereby does elect to declare the whole principal sum of said Mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said Mortgage, and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of Two Hundred Thirty-three and 75-100 Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from the 4th day of December, 1917; and whereas, the power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, to-wit:

Lots Eighteen (18), Nineteen (19), and Twenty (20) of Block Sixteen (16) of Porter's Addition in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, according to the Official Plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County at the front door of the Court House in the City of Thief River Falls, in said County and State, on the 25th day of January, 1918, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Two Hundred Thirty-three and 75-100 Dollars, and interest, the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five Dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

VERDICT UPHELD IN FAMOUS CASE

CALLED "KITING" SCHEME

Checks Drawn by Gesell and Endorsed by Curtis Responsible For Loss Sustained by Farmers State Bank of Holt.

Another chapter has been written in the famous story of the financial transaction of Howard E. Gesell of this city. The supreme court of Minnesota on Thursday handed down a decision upholding the verdict of the jury in the district court of Pennington county allowing Lars Backe damages in the sum of nearly $4,000 against J. P. Curtis, who was the endorser on the fradulent checks issued by Gesell. Mr. Backe was president of the Farmers State bank of Holt at the time of Gesell's activities and his institution was caught with a quantity of checks issued by Gesell and endorsed by Curtis.

The case was heard in district court before Judge Andrew Grindeland and a jury, both Curtis and Gesell being made defendants and a verdict for the amount claimed awarded. Gesell dropped out of the matter at this point and Curtis appealed. The case was handled for plaintiff by Attorneys E. M. Stanton and H. O. Kjomme of this city, Mr. Stanton having charge of the matter on appeal. It is the first case of its kind tried in Minnesota and has created a great deal of interest because of the unusual circumstances as well as the local prominence of the parties to the action.

No Reversable Error.

In denying the appelant's assumption of error on the part of the trial court, the Sylabus of the supreme tribunal says:

"Whether appellant knew that the checks, which he permitted the defendant Gesell to issue to him as payee and which he endorsed and delivered to Gesell, were used by the latter in check kitting scheme to defraud the bank upon which they were drawn was a question for the jury under the evidence.

"The issue was also rightly left to the jury whether when honoring these checks the officers of the bank knew, or in the exercise of ordinary prudence should have known the manner in which Gesell was doing his banking business.

"Affirmed."

"Plaintiff, as assignee of the Farmers State Bank of Holt, Minnesota, recovered a verdict against H. E. Gesell and J. P. Curtis. The latter alone appeals from the order denying his motion in the alternative for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or a new trial.

"The complaint charged the defendants with having conspired to defraud the bank by means of a check "kiting" scheme, and that they successfully carried it out to the bank's damage in the amount of five checks, each being the foundation for a cause of action. It is not deemed necessary to further set forth or summarize the allegations of the pleading for it is quite lengthy and no point is made in respect to its sufficiency. The main contention is that the evidence does not sustain the verdict, and hence appellant was entitled to judgment notwithstanding. The defendants were both business men, residing at Thief River Falls, Minn. Gesell was running a cigar factory there and also a furniture store under the name of Stageburg Furniture Company. He had a cigar factory at Warren, Minn. He kept a deposit account at the Swedish American State Bank at the last named place, one at the First National Bank of Thief River Falls, and in the spring of 1915 opened another in the name of Stageburg Furniture Company with the Farmers State Bank of Holt. He also seems to have had a checking account in another bank at Warren, but what deposits were made therein is left in uncertainty.

Was Former Partner.

The defendant Curtis had been in partnership in one business venture, and they had dealings with each other during the time the checks here in question were placed in circulation. Curtis was conducting a drug store at Thief River Falls, and also dealt in lands, carried on insurance and other business enterprises. He was a director in the First National Bank mentioned. Just when Gesell began to "kite" checks does not appear, nor does the record fully disclose the modus operandi at the First National or the Swedish American Banks, except that in each bank he made daily deposits of several hundred dollars during July and up to August 11, 1915, and that the most of the checks deposited with the last named bank were drawn upon the Farmers State Bank of Holt. It likewise appears from the account with the Farmers State Bank of Holt that he deposited checks therein daily during July and up to August 11, and it also appears by the record, none of the checks so deposited to the account of Stageburg Furniture Company in the Holt bank bore Curtis' name either as payee or as endorser. From the meager proof as to the makers and payees of the checks deposited, it appears that some checks were drawn by Gesell payable to himself upon his personal accounts in the First National Bank or in the Swedish American Bank and were endorsed by him, others were drawn by Poston Bros., to Gesell's order upon the Citizens Bank of Thief River Falls.

Made Daily Deposits.

As stated, Gesell made daily deposits in these three banks. Among his deposits in the First National Bank to his individual account there was each time a check drawn by Stageburg Furniture Company, by F. O. Stageburg, upon the Farmers State Bank of Holt in favor of J. P. Curtis, the first one, disclosed by the record, being dated July 31, 1915, for $640, and every banking day thereafter a similar check in every respect was deposited, except that the amount thereof was each day ten dollars less than that of the previous day. These checks were endorsed by the payee J. P. Curtis, sometimes in blank, but more often with the stamp "Pay any Bank or Banker or order, J. P. Curtis." The First National Bank endorsed and sent these checks to the Merchants National Bank of Crookston, and then, we take it, the checks were cleared or paid by the Farmers State Bank of Holt through the Red Lake Falls Bank. It will thus be seen that there was no indication of an irregular endorsement or deposit to be gathered from an examination of these checks. The only inference would be that the checks had been deposited in the First National Bank to the checking account of J. P. Curtis, payee, or that he had employed that bank as his agent to collect the same. There is evidence tending to show that Gesell knew that the First National Bank would not place the checks drawn by the Stageburg Furniture Company to the immediate credit of his checking account, unless secured by the endorsement of a responsible party, and for that reason he procured Curtis as payee and endorser. Curtis so understood the situation.

Not Legitimate Course.

It is clear from the evidence that the manner in which Gesell was making use of checks to procure credit at these banks was not the usual, legitimate course of dealing with banking institutions and was calculated to defraud them. It seems equally clear that the jury could justly find that Curtis was fully cognizant of what Gesell was doing and with open eyes was assisting in obtaining credit for him by means likely ultimately to bring loss to the banks. Endorsing such a large check every day for the use of one whom he would not personally trust for a few hundred dollars without ample security and knowing that such check would at once be used to obtain an immediate checking credit at a bank, tends to prove an intentional furthering of Gesell's "check kiting" scheme.

Bank Did Not Know.

The only debatable proposition in this case is whether the evidence conclusively shows that the officers in charge of the Farmers State Bank of Holt knew, or in the exercise of ordinary prudence ought to have known, when the checks involved in this action were paid, that Gesell was engaged in "check kiting." This bank did not, as to these checks, have the same opportunity that the First National Bank had of knowing that Curtis was an accommodation endorser for Gesell, for the latter bank knew that after endorsement they were in the hands of Gesell and were by him deposited to the credit of his checking account. The cashier of the Swedish American Bank of Warren, evidently a victim of the same vicious practice, testified that he had become suspicious of Gesell's banking system some time previous to August 11, but not to an extent to arouse action until that date. The cashier of the bank at Red Lake Falls, the clearing bank for the Farmers State Bank of Holt, did not feel impelled to act upon appearances until the next day when he wrote a letter of warning to the cashier of the latter bank, who in a reply admitted that he had not liked the manner in which Gesell had been doing business.

Cashier Not to Blame.

The jury heard the young cashier's explantion of this reply as well as his admission therein, and we cannot say that when they considered the appearance of the checks in suit, the conduct of the other bankers who had the same, or better, opportunities than the cashier of the Holt bank to observe Gesell's illegitimate methods of "kiting," and the apparently ample margin he kept in that bank by means of the scheme the conclusion could be rightfully reached that the officers of the latter bank did not know, and in the exercise of ordinary prudence as bankers were not bound to know of Gesell's fradulent practice. Bankers do not ordinarily treat their customers as rogues. For a banker to dishonor checks drawn against a sufficient checking deposit account on mere suspicion might work harm and great loss to both customer and bank. It is also to be noted that it is not from the appearance of the checks made to and endorsed by Curtis that plaintiff's assignor could have been put on its guard, but rather by the character of the checks constituting the deposits made from day to day with it by the Stageburg Furniture Company. And as to these checks the evidence is meager as to who were the makers. The Farmers State Bank of Holt paid the checks upon which the causes of action are predicated in the usual course of business, and the inference would be that it was done in good faith. If there was anything in the character of the deposits to impute knowledge to the bank of Gesell's fradulent practice we would expect the defense to bring that out.

Trial Court Did Not Err.

Errors at the trial are also urged as grounds for a new trial. The court explicitly stated to the jury that plaintiff did not seek to hold Curtis as endorser, hence there was no need of giving any of the requests dealing with an endorser's liability. There was no evidence justifying any application of the value of certain property turned over by Gesell to plaintiff in extinguishment of the checks involved in this action, hence the requested instruction in respect to such property was properly refused. Exception is taken to a refusal to give appellant's tenth request, and to the court charging in lieu thereof as follows: "In the present case, if you believe from the evidence that defendant Curtis engaged in the practice of letting defendant Gesell draw checks on the Farmers State Bank of Holt, in favor of J. P. Curtis, and that Curtis would then endorse same and hand them back to the said Gesell and if said Curtis knew at the time that Gesell was then engaged in the practice of kiting checks, and that the checks were to be used in said practice of kiting, then defendants were guilty of conspiracy and Curtis would be liable to the plaintiff for any loss sustained by the said Holt bank through the payment of said checks, provided you also find that the bank or its officers did not know or could not have known by the exercise of reasonable precaution that Gesell was engaged in the practice of kiting checks.

Sends Paper to Soldier.

J. M. Thorstad, residing near St. Hilaire, was one of those who dropped into The Times office to pay his subscription last week. While this was a highly proper and most commendable proceeding, Mr. Thorstad did not stop there in his work of spreading Christmas cheer. Realizing that news from home is one of the most welcome things that a soldier can receive he added fifty cents to the regular price of the paper and asked that it be applied toward defraying the cost of mailing a copy of The Times to some one of the boys now in the service from Pennington county. Mr. Thorstad stated that he did not consider it quite fair that a newspaper should be asked to stand all the expense incident to supplying our soldiers with news from home and was therefore willing to contribute enough to cover the actual cost of postage and mailing. This will provide a most acceptable Christmas present for some lad who is not now receiving The Times and sets an example which should be followed by others.

Beating the Catalogue House.

The farmers are accustomed to pay from 35 to 38 or 39 cents per pound for special roasted coffee which they get from catalogue houses. In fact 38 cents is a very unusual price for what they term high grade coffee. When you compare the prices the local grocers are offering in No-Vary 5 and 10 pound containers at 35 cents you will see that the grocers are in a position to go the catalogue houses one better with no expense of freight charges to pay.

In these 5 and 10 pound pails is packed the delicious coffee put out by the Caldwell Importing company. This coffee is right and is one of the many good numbers put out by this concern.

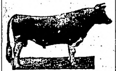
DAIRY

DEMAND FOR DAIRY ANIMALS

Time Has Never Existed When Greater Profit From Dairying Was at Hand Than Now.

While it is useless to preach "save your cows and heifer calves" when it is impossible to do so, yet the time has never existed when greater profit from dairying was at hand than now, and the owners of profitable producing cows must reap a reward. There is an unprecedented demand for dairy cattle in many sections of our country right now, so that wisdom and foresight would suggest a close scanning of the herd with a view to the use of sires of record that profitable producers may be obtained even from ordinary producers.



Blooded Jersey Bull.

Regardless of price that may be obtainable for grain and hay, the soil must not be robbed for temporary gain. We must believe in the eternity of things and keep up the productive power of the soil, else starvation may stalk the earth. There is no question of the inevitability of dairying in the scheme of profitable agriculture.—W. E. Skinner, Secretary of National Dairy Council.

BUTTER WITH CHEESY TASTE

Trouble Usually Due to Decomposition of Curd—Develops Frequently Where Salt Is Low.

Cheese taste in butter is usually due to a decomposition of curd. It is most likely to appear in butter made from cream which has become too sour or it may also be due to failure to wash the buttermilk and curd from the butter after churning. It seems to develop more frequently in butter which is low in salt.

If it has been the practice to allow the cream to become quite sour before churning, churning before so much acid has developed may help to remedy the trouble. When churning has been completed, draw off all of the buttermilk then add to the butter in the churn an amount of water equal to that of the buttermilk. The temperature of the water should be about two degrees less than that of the buttermilk. Give the churn several revolutions in order to rinse the butter thoroughly and then draw off the water. This removes the surplus buttermilk and curd in the butter. It is also a good practice to strain the cream as it is poured into the churn. Some curd will be removed in this way.

ROOTS GOOD FOR DAIRY COW

Owing to High Percentage of Water in Them Large Quantity Must Be Fed Every Day.

Roots are good feed for dairy cattle, but owing to the high percentage of water in them—from 87 to 90 per cent—a large quantity must be fed daily if these are to take the place of the grain ration. Roots may be fed in almost unlimited quantity without danger to the animals. These are like grass in summer, but in feeding economy must be considered. In general from 6 to 8 pounds of roots should be fed for every three pounds of milk. But, where roots bring a high price on the market, it may often be profitable to sell these and to buy grain.

As a rule two feeds a day are sufficient. For the very highest possible production, it may be advisable to feed oftener but, if the cows are given all that they can clean up twice a day, they will usually be contented between meals.

GRAIN MIXTURE FOR WINTER

Ground Barley, Oats, Bran and Oil Meal Should Be Furnished in Addition to Alfalfa.

For cows on winter feed a grain mixture consisting of 35 pounds of ground barley, 35 pounds of ground oats, 20 pounds of bran, and ten pounds of oil meal fed at the rate of one pound to each cow for each three or four pounds of milk she produces daily in addition to all the clover and alfalfa hay she will clean up without any waste will prove a good one. Feed grain and hay each twice daily, morning and evening, and at noon let the cows have access to such amounts of barley or oat straw as they may desire for extra filler. The plan of feeding each cow grain according to the amount of milk she produces is the proper one to follow.

Pyramid Your Savings.

A number of holders of bonds of the First Liberty issue at once turned their interest money into another kind of security when the coupons were detached last Saturday. The first six months' interest, amounting to about $1.75 were at once converted into thrift stamps as the beginning of a war certificate fund. This is an excellent plan and will likely become popular all over the country. In this manner the banks will not have to pay out the cash, the government will have just that much more money with which to conduct the war, and the bond holder will have an additional interest-bearing security. If you have not already collected the coupon on your bond, buy thrift stamps with the money. It will prove another incentive to accumulation.

Simonson-Aspelund—

A quiet home wedding took place Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erick E. Aspelund, 418 State avenue north, when Mr. Clarence Silas Simonson of Baudette was married to their daughter, Miss Caroline. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Larson, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, at five o'clock in the afternoon. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Anna, and George Aspelund attended the groom. The wedding was followed by a course dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Simonson left yesterday afternoon for Ada, this state, for a few days' visit at Mr. Simonson's parental home. They will make their home at Baudette, where Mr. Simonson is employed.

Anderson-Femrite—

The marriage of Mr. Arthur B. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wangenstein, and Miss Ida Femrite, both of this city, took place Saturday afternoon, December 22, at the Synod parsonage, with Rev. I. T. Aastad officiating. Miss Agnes Aastad and Mr. Bart Wangenstein attended the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home on the groom's farm in the town of Smiley.

Arrangements have already been made by the Senior Class of the Lincoln high school to have the Kid band play at their Commencement exercises, which will take place the latter part of May.

Eastern Star Election—

The annual election of Winslow Chapter No. 182, Order of the Eastern Star, was held at the last regular meeting, the following being chosen officers for the ensuing year: Worthy matron, Edith Bottelson; worthy patron, Fred Gobler; associate matron, Nettie Booren; secretary, Anna Quale; treasurer, Mathilda Crandall; conductress, Edith Haynes; associate conductress, Sadie Nason; Adah, Effie Hamry; Ruth, Una Nelson; Esther, Frances Larson; Martha, Jean Stauff; Electa, Mathilda Silk; chaplain, Anna Kinghorn; pianist, T. B. Stauff; marshall, Agnes Bakke; warden, Bessie Robinson; sentinel, F. F. Haynes. The Masonic and Eastern Star lodges will hold their joint installation on the evening of Thursday, Jan. 3.

Woman's Club—

The Woman's club will hold its regular meeting Monday afternoon, January 7, in the Commercial club rooms. Mrs. Allen Strip, president of the State Federation, who was booked to address the club at this meeting, will be unable to be present and a "community sing" has been arranged instead. Everyone is requested to bring a war poem.

Entertained at Dinner—

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Akre entertained at a Christmas dinner in their apartments in the Union block. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson of Crookston, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Dolan, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Akre and Miss Avis Akre.

Ladies' Aid—

"The Ladies' Aid of the German Lutheran church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Wm. Moeller, who lives on a farm a few miles from this city, on Thursday afternoon of next week.

Refuse Cigarette Licenses.

But little business of importance was transacted at the meeting of the city council last evening. An application by J. E. Cosgrove for a license to sell cigarettes met the same fate as a number of similar requests lately. The council has consistently refused to renew these permits, the evident reason being that the law with regard to the sale of the article to minors has not been rigidly enforced. No such charge was brought against Mr. Cosgrove but the city fathers evidently thought it best to show no partiality in the matter. Four councilmen voted in the negative.

Practically all other business transacted was of a strictly routine nature. There will be but one more meeting of the old council before their successors take charge.

Miss Doris Brumund, who is attending a business college at Grand Forks, is spending her Christmas vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brumund.

H. H. Spink left the first of the week for Minneapolis to spend Christmas with his wife, who is taking a course in Red Cross aid work.

IS INTERESTED IN PEAT RECLAMATION

The reclamation of the peat lands of Northwestern Minnesota is one of the most important matters now confronting the people of the state. With the demand for more acreage and greater crops being emphasized by the government added attention has been given to the matter of making this class of soil productive. That more than local interest is evinced in the matter is shown by the following letter received by The Times this week from E. M. Hinchmann of Cincinnati:

"My sons and myself are interested in the item in your paper announcing that an experimental station for handling peat soils is to be established in Marshall or Pennington county. We own considerable land between Germantown and Golden Valley and are naturally interested in this work. There are many owners of land of this description in northern Minnesota and they will do anything in their power to make the experiments a success. Very little of this section is now cultivated successfully. If the proposed stations can solve the problem by putting before homeseekers and settlers a practical and economical method by which the ordinary hay and grain crops may be grown they will have proven of immense benefit to the country at large. The prices of hay and grain will continue good for some years so that these low priced lands would increase greatly in value if some plan for making them productive can be evolved."

ADDITIONAL BRIEFS

Raymond Robinson arrived Christmas evening from Oslo for a few days' visit with friends. He will return to his home tomorrow morning.

Miss Emma Charboneau of Crookston returned to her home yesterday following a several days' visit in this city at the home of her brother, Geo. Charboneau.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Marcoe of Superior, Wis., formerly residents of this city, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Marcoe and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Brennan the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Brennan and children left Sunday evening for Hudson, Wis., to spend Christmas with Mrs. Brennans' parents. They will also visit relatives and friends in the Twin Cities for two weeks before returning.

Misses Amy and Gladys Nelson of this city leave tomorrow afternoon for Ada to visit for a few days at the Theo. Salverson home.

Miss Lillian Korstad, who is teaching near Anstad, was a guest of Miss Grace Wilson last Friday evening. She left Saturday for her home at Gwinner, N. D., to spend the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. J. J. Holtsein arrived Tuesday morning from Ada to spend a few days here at her home.

Miss Kathaleen Thill, who is teaching a rural school near Park Rapids, is spending the holiday vacation in this city at her home.

Miss Laura Stopple and Leonard Stopple returned yesterday from Alexandria, where they had spent the Christmas holidays with their mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron A. Bratt left the first of the week for Minneapolis to spend Christmas with friends.

Clarence Erickson arrived this afternoon from Baudette for a short visit with friends and relatives.

H. W. Protzeller left last evening for Duluth on business connected with the Econ-O-Kleen Fuel company, of which he is the president. The product of this concern has of late been given a great boost by reason of certain tests made to ascertain its efficacy as a gasoline saver for motor cars as well as a carbon remover. Some of the results obtained have been of the most startling nature and the outlook is particularly bright for a brisk demand as soon as the auto season again opens.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Cronstrom have as their guests this week the latter's uncle, Louis Lawson, of Grove City, a brother, N. O. Lawson, and Mrs. W. L. Elofson and family of Newfolden. Mr. Elofson will be here for New Year's day.

Miss Jennie Blaine of Seattle arrived Monday from Port Water, Alaska, where she had spent the past summer, and is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Ferdy Brown. She expects to spend the winter here.

Miss Tillie G. Melby arrived the latter part of last week from Minot, N. D., where she is teaching, and is spending her vacation with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Michelet.

Miss Doris Martinson, formerly of this city, arrived this morning from Ada, where she is employed as cashier in the Salverson store. While here she was a guest of Miss Elsie Watson.

Only Five Pounds of Sugar.

Grocers in certain sections of the state have gotten themselves into difficulties lately because they did not strictly follow the instructions of the United States food controller with regard to the selling of sugar. The limit placed on city customers is five pounds, while farmers are allowed to secure not more than ten pounds at any one time. Retail dealers may only secure five bags of sugar at any one time from the wholesaler. So far as known there has been no violation of the order in Thief River Falls.

AT THE THEATRES

At the Movies.

The Princess bill for the coming week is a "pippin." Beginning with this evening when Norma Talmadge appears in "Peggy," every feature is one of exceptional interest.

On Saturday evening Harold Lockwood, one of the most popular of movie stars with Thief River Falls audiences, will play the leading role in "The Haunted Pajamas."

Sunday and Monday will be banner days. Douglas Fairbanks and his smile will be on deck in his latest production, "Wild and Wooly," said to be the best thing this wonderful comedian has yet produced.

Tuesday evening will be Greater Vitagraph night, the offering being beautiful Anita Stewart in "The Message of the Mouse." There will be a matinee.

For Wednesday evening the booking is Julian Eltinge, the great female impersonator, in "The Clever Mrs. Carstairs." Those who saw the recent production of "The Duchess" will not miss this opportunity.

Next Thursday evening Clara Kimball Young appears for the first time in a picture produced under her own management. The title of the play is "Magda," and is said to give this great emotional actress a wonderful opportunity for the display of her talents.

NO DRAFT CALL BEFORE FEB. 15

THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT ALL CONJECTURE AS TO TIME OF SUMMONS

PROBABLY DEFINITE NOW

WILL GIVE MORE MEN BENEFIT OF NEW CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM EMPLOYED

There will be no more formal calls [illegible] deferred percentages of the present draft quota before February 15, according to an official announcement from Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder reaching the local exemption board last week. This is taken as definitely settling all conjectures as to the time for the next draft call and the period men certified under the first call but not sent might expect to remain at home.

Emphasis was given this interpretation of the message by General Crowder's plain statement that the date was announced "for the sake of composing the public mind and for the convenience of registrants."

Affects About 70 Here.

Minnesota has sent 45 per cent of its original draft quota to Camp Dodge, from which many of the men have been transferred to other camps or into special service. No call has been issued for sending to camp the remaining 55 per cent of that quota. These men now are certain not to be sent until February 15.

Only 16 men out of the 89 which Pennington county's allotment have been certified up to date and the new ruling will affect the remainder. The announcement will prove highly satisfactory to the men who have been awaiting the call as they will now be able to go ahead with a definite assurance as to when they will be required to leave.

Bricklayers Are Wanted.

County Auditor T. P. Anderson of the local registration board this week received notification to enlist bricklayers for service at their trade in France. Fifty men will be required from Minnesota and the apportionment will be divided among the counties according to population. This will leave only two or three for Pennington county to supply, but Mr. Anderson says he does not know exactly where to secure even this many.

Another Clerk and Carrier.

Two good jobs will be open at the postoffice in Thief River Falls soon and an examination of applicants will take place on Saturday, Jan. 12. T. S. Brokke, secretary of the civil service examining board, will conduct the examinations, and further information on the subject may be received from him at the postoffice.

One carrier is to be appointed and one clerk. The last-named position is open to both men and women.

This is an excellent opportunity for those who wish to enter the postal service to secure a position under the civil service regulations.

MUST CONTINUE TO CUT INDIAN TIMBER

REQUEST THAT PERMISSION TO QUIT BE GRANTED IS REFUSED

The International Lumber company is not to be permitted to close the logging camps on the Red Lake reservation, but must continue operations in accordance with the stipulations under which the timber was secured. The company made preparations to stop operations and the Bemidji Commercial club sent a protest to Washington. In reply to this the information was received that the application for a postponement in carrying out the terms of the contract had been denied by the secretary of the interior.

It was represented to the department that a failure to cut the timber this winter would entail a loss to the Indians of at least $56,000 because of the further deterioration in the dead and down trees.

The Indians themselves were very much opposed to postponing operations, it is understood. Certain improvements to their reservation depend upon the getting of the money for the logs and failure would upset these calculations and retard needed improvements for a long time.

An advertisement in The Times is sure to bring the desired result. It is the real business tonic.

His First Visit.

Frederick Schoenbeck of Butler, S. D., is here on a visit to the family of his daughter, Mrs. Lester Champlin, 120 LaBree avenue south. This is Mr. Schoenbeck's first visit away from his home locality in 29 years and it is needless to state that he encountered many things to wonder at on the trip. On his homeward journey he will stop off in Cottonwood county for a visit with another daughter.

NEW TAX WILL HIT NEARLY EVERYONE

MAY BE PAID IN FOUR INSTALLMENTS BETWEEN NOW AND JUNE 15

A revenue agent of the government is scheduled to appear in Thief River Falls today for the purpose of receiving reports of incomes of those who come under the new tax rulings. It is not yet known where this officer will hold forth, but it is thought probable that he will have his offices on the second floor of the court house. He will be here every day for one entire week, leaving at the end of that time to put in a day at St. Hilaire.

Nearly everyone will be hit. The man who has an income of a million dollars will contribute $650,000 of it toward the maintenance of the government, with an additional one per cent for each half million dollars up to two millions. There are not many persons in Pennington county coming under this classification.

Typical income tax levies on heads of families are as follows: income of $2,500, tax is $10; income of $3,000, tax is $20; income of $3,500, tax is $30; income of $4,000, tax is $40; income of $4,500, tax is $60; income of $5,000, tax is $80.

Unmarried persons would pay in this way: Income of $1,500, tax is $10; income of $2,000, tax is $20; income of $2,500, tax is $30; income of $3,000, tax is $40; income of $3,500, tax is $60; income of $4,000, tax is $80; income of $4,500, tax is $100; income of $5,000, tax is $120.

Taxes may be paid in four installments between now and June 15.

WAS NEAR WITNESS OF BANK ROBBERY

FATHER OF THIEF RIVER FALLS MAN PRESIDENT OF WHITE BEAR INSTITUTION

H. H. Spink, the Thief River Falls hardware merchant, found himself in the midst of considerable excitement last week while on a visit to the home of his parents at White Bear. Bank robbers visited the little city and for the second time within a few months looted the bank of which Mr. Spink's father is the president.

The robbers made their visit during the noon hour when there was no one in the bank. They made a clean sweep of everything in sight, even to the small coins in the change machine on the counters. While they were still at work the assistant cashier returned to his post and he was ordered into the vault at the point of a gun and the door locked.

The work of the criminals was accomplished thoroughly and without molestation. Nothing of the occurrence was known until the other employes of the bank returned from lunch and no clew was found by which the robbers could be traced. The total obtained was in the neighborhood of $5,500.

The Poor Are Fed.

The Salvation Army branch in this city conducted the usual campaign for the purpose of providing a Christmas dinner for the needy and secured sufficient funds to provide 20 families with a bushel basket full of groceries and other provisions, including a chicken. On New Year's eve 150 children gathered at the barracks and were treated to an entertainment at which candy and nuts were distributed, about one-half of those present also being given toys.

Those in charge wish to thank the public school children in particular and the citizens generally for the liberality which made this excellent showing possible.

Correcting an Omission.

In publishing the list of those who had made donations to the Y. W. C. A. fund last week, The Times inadvertently omitted the following: Mrs. Bessler, 50c; United Ladies Aid society, $10; Mrs. George Nicholson, $1; Miss M. Rock, $1. The total of $173.75 was correct as given.

ACCEPT THE SANITARIUM

DEDICATION ATTENDED BY REPRESENTATIVES OF STATE AND THREE COUNTIES

TOTAL COST ABOUT $50000

BUILDING PERFECT IN EVERY DETAIL AND ONE OF BEST IN THE ENTIRE STATE

The tuberculosis sanitarium erected just south of this city by the counties of Pennington, Marshall and Roseau was formally opened to public inspection on Friday afternoon. The day was one of the coldest thus far this winter and the attendance was for that reason considerably below what it otherwise would have been. All the members of the sanitarium board were present and officials representing the counties took part in the proceedings. The Marshall county representatives were Donald Robertson, chairman of the commission, and P. B. Malberg, who was a county commissioner at the time the building of the satitarium was authorized; Roseau county was officially represented by county Commissioners Martin Widsten and Louis Enstrom; the satitarium board members, Louis Enstrom of Roseau and J. G. Brant of Greenbush, being also present. Dr. O. F. Mellby of Thief River Falls, K. O. Gigstad of St. Hilaire, and A. G. Tvedt of Goodridge, representing Pennington county on the commission, were in charge of the proceedings and acted as guides for the visitors.

Excellent Addresses.

The first speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Robertson. As chairman of the commission at the time of the completion of the work on the sanitarium he formally turned the institution over to the people of the three counties, paying an excellent tribute to the valuable and unselfish work performed by his colleagues since the tri-county plan was first broached.

On behalf of the people of Thief River Falls, Supt. Hay thanked the commission for the manner in which they had performed their duties and predicted that the sanitarium would prove a valuable factor in combating the ravages of the white plague.

The principal address was delivered by Hon. George F. Mathson of Roseau county. He spoke of the work accomplished during the past twenty years in combating the most fatal of all diseases and showed how it is easily yielding to sensible treatment and proper care. The toll is still very heavy, said Mr. Mathson, but an enlightened world is learning something all the time concerning the best way in which to check its onslaughts and institutions such as this sanitarium have been found to be the one most effective method of dealing with it.

Dr. Robinson Bossworth, executive officer of the sanitarium commission of the state board of control, was present and spoke briefly, officially placing his approval upon the work accomplished.

May Be Added To.

After listening to the addresses the visitors were taken through the building, which was found practically perfect in every respect. Everything that science has discovered or experience suggested for dealing with tubercular patients has been included in the equipment. The building itself, while not as large as some others in the state, is perhaps as thoroughly appointed as any thus far erected. It speaks well for everyone connected with the building of the hospital that the only change or addition found necessary is to continue the main chimney upward to a point where the surrounding trees will not interfere with the draft.

It is realized by the commission that the building is not large enough to meet the demands liable to be made upon it. The need for enlargement was foreseen, however, and the building is so constructed that more rooms and porches may be added at any time without much additional expense and without marring the general symmetry of the structure.

Are Willing to Continue.

The commissioners from the other counties assured the Pennington members that the people they represented stood willing at any time to make additional appropriations whenever these were found necessary. The importance of the institution is realized and the promise was made that its efficiency would not be impaired through a lack of funds.

Is Absolutely Fireproof.

The building is constructed of brick, iron and cement. The only things about the place that can possibly burn are the shingles on the roof. An artesian well on the grounds will supply an unlimited supply of the purest water obtainable. In fact, in point of convenience and thoroughness the plant leaves nothing whatever to be desired.

To Whom Credit is Due.

The commissioners and speakers of the day referred often to Dr. G. S. Wattam of Warren, to whose work in behalf of tubercular patients the people of the state owe a great deal. He was one of the first to advocate sanitariums in this northern section and took an active part in securing action by the people on the proposition of building the tri-county hospital. He is recognized as an authority on matters of this kind and his endorsement of the entire plan is the most valuable the commission could receive.

Woman's Club Thanked.

A resolution thanking the Woman's club of Thief River Falls for the interest taken in making the opening day a success was passed. Similar action was taken thanking Prof. Hay, Mr. Mathson and Miss Lydia Fletcher, superintendent, for their efforts in the same direction. Miss Fletcher impressed everyone favorably by her evident capability and thoroughness, general opinion being that the institution can not be left in better hands.

The donation box, erected for the purpose of helping the inmates secure such articles as are not provided for them, netted a satisfactory sum when the smallness of the crowd is taken into consideration. One Thief River Falls lady deposited a five dollar bill as her share, for which she has the thanks of the superintendent, the board and the patients alike.

BADLY INJURED IN STRANGE WAY

AUGUST CARLSON, BRAY TOWNSHIP, VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS ACCIDENT

KNOWS NOTHING OF CAUSE

LAST THING HE REMEMBERS IS FINDING STRAYED COLT IN SNOW DRIFT

August Carlson, member of the town board and one of the best-known farmers of Bray township, is at his home in a most serious condition as the result of an accident for which he cannot account. He has a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain, the top of the right ear is cut off clean, he has a deep gash in the side of his head and gives other evidences of having received the roughest kind of handling.

Colt May Be to Blame.

The accident happened about six o'clock on Monday evening. Mr. Carlson started out from the house to look for a colt that had failed to return to the barn. Shortly afterwards the animal returned but Mr. Carlson did not accompany it. Nothing was thought of the matter for some little time, but the family was getting somewhat alarmed and were preparing to make a search when he put in an appearance. Blood was flowing from his nose and ears and he was just able to stagger to the house.

Remembers Nothing.

The injured man is unable to give any account of what happened. He remembers finding the colt in a snow drift, but that is all. The surmise is that in getting the animal to its feet he was kicked, but the nature of some of the injuries does not bear out this theory. The ear, for instance, was severed from the head as neatly as if it had been done with a knife. The colt was not shod and its hoofs would hardly have produced an injury of this kind, in the opinion of many persons.

Could Not Be Moved.

Mr. Carlson's injuries are of such serious nature that he could not be moved to the hospital and a trained nurse is in charge of him at his home.

Assumes New Duties.

Morlan Bishop, science instructor at the Lincoln high school since the opening of the present term, has resigned his position and will engage in Y. M. C. A. work with the army at Camp Dodge. He left last week for Des Moines and his parents have received word to the effect that he has already entered upon his duties.

MANY LETTERS OF THANKS RECEIVED BY LOCAL RED CROSS CHAPTER

DID NOT GO TO FRANCE

PACKAGES FROM THIS CITY NEARLY ALL SENT TO CAMP FUNSTON, KANSAS

Although the Christmas packets prepared by the Red Cross workers of Pennington county did not find their way across the waters to the "boys in France," yet they made happy other men who have answered their country's call and are serving at present in Kansas.

This fact is attested to by letters being received by various members of the Red Cross in this county, some of which are given herewith. The true Christmas spirit seems to have pervaded all army camps, no matter where located, and the Red Cross has been a power in this respect.

Following is the letter of thanks to Scott Laird, secretary of the Pennington county chapter:

"Camp Funston, Kan., Dec. 26. Pennington County Chapter, Thief River Falls, Minn. Friends of the Soldiers: Having been lucky enough to receive one of your Christmas packages, I feel it is my duty to express my thanks and appreciation. Many soldiers in this camp were made happy by your thoughtfulness. Thanking you again, I remain, Yours for peace, Private Robert W. Ramsey, 340th Field Artillery, Bat. A."

Will Soon Be in France.

Mrs. M. B. Palmer's letter is also worthy of reproduction and shows the true American spirit and the happiness over the Christmas presentation:

"Camp Funston, Kan., Dec. 27, 1917. Mrs. Alice K. Palmer, Thief River Falls, Minn. Dear Mrs. Palmer: Please accept my thanks for the Christmas package. The boys of this camp were certainly treated nicely by the Red Cross people, and we all appreciate it very much. You will probably be disappointed by not receiving a reply from someone in France, but I expect that all of us will be there in the near future. The most of the boys of this regiment are from Arizona. It is much colder here than there. The boys from Arizona participated in a broncho busting and roping contest here Christmas and it was good sport. With best wishes, I am, Yours sincerely, A. B. Pettus, 340th Field Artillery, Bat. A."

Still another letter giving a view of army life is that received by Mrs. F. F. Haynes, as follows:

From Colorado Boy.

"Camp Funston, Dec. 26—Mrs. F. F. Haynes, Thief River Falls. My Dear Mrs. Haynes: I received your box from the Red Cross, and finding your name in the same I thought I would write a letter and thank you.

"I live in Colorado on a range in the sand hills—a nice place. We have a good time down here, but we have to drill pretty hard sometimes. Some of our men are on guard tonight. We go on guard every week, remaining on duty for 24 hours. I put in a request to go home tonight but so far do not know whether or not I will get it, although I hope to. With many thanks, Harry A. Totten, 341st Field Artillery, Battery A."

The Proper Selections.

A letter to the chapter, also from Camp Funston, reads as follows:

"My dear friends: I was one of the glad recipients of your delightful gifts for Christmas, and I wish to thank you so much, not only for myself, but also for the other men in the camp. I believe every one was remembered, and I also believe every one will long remember the Red Cross societies. The selection of the articles shows foresight into a soldier's needs and tastes. Thanking you for your kindness, I am, Yours sincerely, W. P. Jones, 341st."

Will Speak at Convention.

H. O. Loken of this city is among the Minnesota retail merchants whose pictures appear in the current issue of the Dry Goods Reporter. Mr. Loken will deliver an address before the convention of retail merchants which convenes at the Hotel Brunswick in Chicago on January 18. The subject of his talk will be: "Meeting Mail Order Competition in the Basement," a subject on which he should be an authority.

Victory.

To keep one's heart tranquil in a world of tumult is a little victory.

Sugar Shortage Relieved.

The people of Thief River Falls must be particularly lucky. On two different occasions the sugar supply of the city has been at a decidedly low ebb, but a carload has been received just in time to avert an actual shortage. On New Year's eve the bottom of the bin was in sight, but the next day a carload arrived for the Thief River Grocery company and we are still using sweetening wherever it is found necessary.

JURORS DRAWN FOR NEXT COURT TERM

DATE OF CONVENING SESSION HAS BEEN CHANGED TO FEBRUARY 5

Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund, Sheriff W. J. LaBree and Justice of the Peace C. W. Nelson of Mavie, on Saturday announced the names of those who had been drawn to serve as jurors at the term of court which convenes on February 5. This is one month later than the semi-annual session of the Pennington county district court has formerly convened.

Grand jury—Oscar Carlson, George Johnson, Matt Barzen, John Aos, H. P. Sponheim, Thief River Falls; John Sjoberg, Paul Borgie, Gust Erickson, Hazel; T. K. Enebo, Star; C. A. Lindquist, Bray; J. P. Johnson, Mayfield; Martin Hogstad, Ben Tveitback; Hickory; Peter Peterson, Halvor Viken, J. M. Thelge, Smiley; W. E. Sargent, Rocksbury; Olof Walberg, Cloverleaf; Niel Hanson, John Berglund, Wyandotte; Mike Dreager, Black River; Peter Gustafson, Deer Park; G. J. Nordhagen, Norden.

Petit jurors—C. W. Vorachek, Wm. Furstnau, Thief River Falls; Osmund Mandt, John Eisbrenner, Ole Neslond, Ole Skreland, Deer Park; John O. Swanson, Ernest J. Akerlund, Bray; Fred Aug. Hoppe, A. J. Halstrom, Polk Center; Ole Graver, Goodridge; T. Gabrielson, Mayfield; Alfred Dalstrom, Alfred J. Larson, Sanders; H. R. Kolseth, Wyandotte; Olof Hilson, St. Hilaire; Hans Solberg, Star; S. J. Stenberg, Silverton; G. M. Jorde, North; Nels Swanson, Norden; Paul Engelstad, John Loberg, Rocksbury; W. E. Wood, Smiley; Oscar Sebjornson, Numedal.

PUBLISH NO MORE SOLDIER LETTERS

ORDER OF P. O. DEPARTMENT FORBIDS THEIR BEING PRINTED

The interesting letters from the boys at the training camps which have been appearing in The Times will be found there no more. An order of the department forbids their publication, according to Postmaster John Morgan, and the paper is deprived of the privilege of continuing this interesting department.

Letters from boys in foreign service may still be published, however. This distinction is made for the reason that all letters from foreign ports are censored and those from boys in cantonments are not. The order was issued for the reason that in a few instances writers have been careless in what they have written home and thoughtless newspaper publishers have been allowed to print information that should not be given out. So far as The Times is concerned, great care has been exercised in editing these letters, and we are sure nothing has ever appeared in the columns of this paper that the authorities could object to, nor would there ever, but we must yield to the order of those in authority, which we know is for the best.

Home on Furlough.

Glen C. Anderson, son of County Auditor and Mrs. T. P. Anderson, arrived Monday evening from Camp Funston to spend a week with his parents. This young man is a field clerk at the camp and likes the work very much. At the farewell party given in honor of Capt. Mitchell of the home guard on Wednesday evening he recounted some of his experiences and observations in an interesting manner for the benefit of those present. Himself one of the first volunteers from this city, he spoke in most flattering terms of the soldiers of the national or selected army. He stated that without exception they are making good, enthusiastic soldiers and are only anxious to get "over there" to prove what they can do in the way of putting up a fight. Mr. Anderson will return to camp on Sunday night.

NEW COUNCIL ASSUMES DUTIES

MAYOR-ELECT PENNEY BECOMES CITY ADMINISTRATIVE HEAD ON TUESDAY

SOME CHANGES EXPECTED

USUAL AMOUNT OF SPECULATION AS TO WHO WILL HEAD SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS

The present city government will close up its business next Tuesday evening and the administration of municipal affairs will be taken over by the men elected on the first Tuesday in November. Mayor F. H. Gambell will yield his place at the head of the city to Dr. G. A. Penney, while two new faces will appear on the board of aldermen, four of the old members having been re-elected. The new board will be made up as follows: Aldermen at large, Ole L. Ihle and Severn Brandon; First ward, Carl Froseth; Second ward, M. N. Benson; Third ward, Peter O. Myhrum; Fourth ward, Alfred Olson.

The old council will meet for the purpose of cleaning up any odds and ends that may require their attention, after which the new officials will take charge, elect a president of the council, fill the appointive offices and generally get themselves organized for business.

Changes Are Expected.

That changes will be made in the departmental heads of the city government is highly probable, although as yet not even a hint as to where the ax will fall has been permitted to escape those on the inside. Among the offices to be filled may be mentioned the chief of police, city clerk, superintendent of light and water department, street commissioner, incinerator superintendent, etc. While there is naturally any amount of speculation absolutely nothing has transpired to indicate what the new mayor and council intend to do in the matter.

The recommendations made in the first message of Mayor Penney will also be listened to with a great deal of attention, both by the councilmen and the citizens who will no doubt crowd the council room at the first meeting. No intimation of its contents has been given out but this only serves to make the interest more keen.

Commissioners Also Meet.

On the same day the annual meeting of the board of county commissioners will also be held. The chairman for the ensuing year will be elected, salaries of county employes fixed and the official newspaper designated. The resignation of County Attorney H. O. Kjommo will be formally presented and a successor selected. E. M. Stanton has been serving the county in this capacity since Mr. Kjomme entered upon his duties as a soldier and the probabilities are that his services will be retained.

FATHER NOESEN TO SPEAK AT MEETING

RECTOR OF ST. BERNARD'S WILL MAKE PRINCIPAL ADDRESS AT RED CROSS MEET

Members of the Red Cross are sure to hear some good talks at the regular monthly meeting of the local chapter next Monday evening. Rev. Father M. J. Noesen of the Catholic church has consented to give some of his views on Red Cross work and the support of the government during the war, based along truly patriotic lines, while Mrs. H. H. Spink will tell of her work at Minneapolis for the past three weeks, she having just completed a course in surgical dressings. Another feature of the meeting will be a patriotic reading by Ted Prichard.

There will also be the usual monthly reports and the routine business, and altogether much of interest will be brought to the attention of Red Cross members and their friends. The meeting is to be held in the Commercial club rooms and is open to the public, it being hoped that the friends of the Red Cross will avail themselves of the opportunity thus presented each month of learning of the work of the society.

Robert McGinn, Jr., returned Tuesday evening from Warren, where he had been the guest of his aunt, Mrs. J. O. Herrick, for a few days.

Happy New Year

When last year we wished the readers of The Times a Happy New Year it was with the hope that before 1918 the end of this devastating war might have been recorded. Not only has this hope failed of realization, but peace seems no nearer than it was at that time. The United States has since entered the arena against the Hun and it is almost a foregone conclusion that before the close of the present cycle sorrow and suffering shall have entered many American homes.

If the war could be left out of the reckoning the outlook for the coming year would be full of promise. The country is prosperous and indications are that this condition will continue. The flurry of business depression following immediately upon the declaration of war was passed without any serious consequences. The people have simply adjusted their affairs to meet the unusual conditions and are going along very much as usual.

The best advice that can be given at this time is to keep right on doing business. The people have seen the error of hoarding their money and products against a possible shortage and are buying and selling and trading very much as usual. The country is not hard up and the sooner we get over the notion that it is the better it will be for everyone. This does not mean that we should enter upon a period of reckless expenditures—that would be the most foolish of all proceedings, except, perhaps, refusing to spend anything at all.

Keep things as near normal as possible. Meet without grumbling the assessments levied upon your surplus by reason of the different war activities, buy what you need as you have always done, stop all waste, and keep cheerful. If this advice is followed 1918 will be a comparatively happy and decidedly prosperous year in spite of wars and rumors of wars.

A Competent Crew

On and after Tuesday evening next the affairs of the city of Thief River Falls will be in charge of a new mayor and, to some extent, a new council. These citizens have been chosen by a majority of their neighbors as the men best fitted to look after the welfare of the entire community and have implied their willingness to do so.

The job is by no means easy. As a city Thief River Falls is just about getting to the age where it is outgrowing its garments faster than we can make provisions for new ones. And this is not the worst feature. The main trouble is that we cannot agree upon the proper things to provide, and here is where the city government must step in and get itself disliked. The probabilities are that there never has been an American community in which all the people were unanimously in favor of any particular proposition, and minorities are always noisy. Sometimes the authorities will make the mistake of believing that opposition to a measure is certain proof that they must be wrong in the stand they have taken, when as a matter of fact there would be fully as much clamor had they acted just the opposite way. They have but little to go by except their own sense of what is just and proper and when this is followed they have done all any set of men can do.

The new city government is made up of good, substantial and capable citizens. Most of them have had experience in the office they will continue to hold and the fact that they have been retained should be evidence sufficient to prove that their previous work was satisfactory. Mayor-elect Penney will be new to his particular job, but he has held other positions of trust in the community and has fulfilled the duties creditably and efficiently. Realizing just what he is tackling, he has given much study to the best manner of going about it. He knows the city of which he becomes the chief executive perhaps as well as any man residing within its borders and has its future progress and welfare seriously at heart. Trying to please everybody at once will be no part of his creed, but every individual and every class will receive fair and fearless treatment at his hands.

The ordinary citizen can look upon two years under the guidance of the council with the full assurance that his interests will be well looked after. One thing is certain: no money will be needlessly spent. If anything the board is liable to slightly err on the side of economy, but there is not much danger of their being called to account on this score.

No one can foretell what may be in store for the city or its officials during the term of office of the latter, but we believe that they enjoy the full confidence of the people and that they will give the very best service of which they are capable.

Northwestern Minnesota's Opportunity

During the two years last past our newspapers, business men and people generally have lost no opportunity to emphasize the fact that this section of Minnesota is pre-eminently a dairying region. Creamery receipts have been quoted, blooded stock exploited and a most effective campaign of advertising carried on generally. Now we are to be given an opportunity to make good on our claims, and we will do just that.

On January 15, 16, 17 and 18, the city will be host to the State Dairymen's association and the State Buttermakers' association. This is the first time in the history of these organizations that the annual meetings have been held this far north and the fact indicates the importance to which dairying has attained in this section. Northwestern Minnesota is now recognized as one of the coming live stock centers of the United States, a fact of which those residing at a distance seem more aware than our own citizens.

The reports brought away by the delegates to these meetings will have a decided influence upon the rapidity with which the cattle industry becomes recognized as paramount in this section, and the nature of these reports depends upon our home dairymen and stock raisers. If a good showing is made it will prove the biggest advertising card ever presented, while if the attendance and interest are poor it will have the effect of making those present from the outside believe that the importance of the section has been greatly overrated. The success or failure of these conventions, so far as Pennington and surrounding counties are concerned, depends not upon the delegates from outside, but upon the local residents themselves.

The very best we have should be put forward—both in butter and cattle. There are some excellent herds in the county and while it may be something of an inconvenience to display the prize individuals at this time of year, the results will more than repay the effort. Every delegate present from another part of the state will be a walking advertisement for the section for one entire year at least. This will be found worth having.

Pennington county has already something of a reputation as a stock raising center because of its ability to ship out hay in a season when the crop was almost a failure in other sections of the country. This kind of thing appeals strongly to the cattle man and he never loses sight of the fact that right here there is practically no such thing as a shortage of fodder. Prove to him that other conditions are such that fine stock thrives and you have a most enthusiastic booster for the country.

The success of this convention is up to our own farmers. Make it the best ever held in the state and it will prove the most valuable event from an advertising standpoint ever attempted.

Right Down to Business

A short time ago, when Germany was first reported to have made advances to the Entente allies suggesting negotiations for an early peace, there were quite a number of people in this country who thought that the kaiser should be met half way at least and that the conflict should be terminated even though we might lose some slight prestige thereby.

You hear no more of such talk. No sooner had our soldiers gotten to where they could be of some assistance to those of the other democracies than the attitude of the peacefully inclined underwent a sudden change. The rumors of peace proposals kept right on coming but met a chilly reception in this country. The general verdict seemed to be that now we have entered fairly into the fracas we are going to stay until Germany is defeated. From a position of wishing to submit to almost anything in order to see the war stopped, the people have gone nearly to the other extreme of declining to yield anything at all.

This spirt will grow. It is absolutely certain that now Germany has made a proposition to call the war off providing she be permitted to assume the position with which she started, the American people will stand behind their government practically to a man in its refusal to entertain any such condition. They may dislike war as much as ever, but one idea now seems to possess practically the entire population, "the kaiser must be whipped." The decision is delivered with a finality that bodes decidedly ill for the mad man of Potsdam and makes certain his ultimate overthrow. We are not doing much shouting but are moving forward with an almost cold determination to do what is expected of us. Reverses or rebuffs will but strengthen this determination.

No one knows when this war will end, but we do know it can end in but one way and that the United States will be there to deliver the final blow.

Good Luck, Old Scout

H. Mayne Stanton, editor of the Bemidji Sentinel, will shortly leave for the purpose of entering the ranks of those who are fighting in the army of Uncle Sam. In this section of the state he is the best known among the many newspaper men who have answered the call of duty and the most sincere good wishes of every man in any way connected with the profession go with him. There are no better fellows than Mayne Stanton to be found anywhere. We have pounded along by his side in a print shop for many moons, and we know. Genial, considerate, conscientious and intensely patriotic, his enlisting is just what anyone who knows him expected. Had he so chosen there is no doubt but that family ties would have placed him among those exempted—at least for some time to come. That he preferred to go at a time when he is most needed is characteristic.

When the kaiser is licked we expect to see Mayne back among the folks who know him best and consequently appreciate him most.

An Interesting Department

Next week The Times will begin the publication of a series of articles that should prove a feature of decided interest to our readers. The contributor will be Dr. F. H. Gambell and the articles will deal with his experiences while a resident of Alaska. The doctor has of late given several short talks on the subject at the schools of the city and the demand that he put his stories into print so as to make them available to everyone has become general.

Dr. Gambell's associations while a resident of the far north were of a nature permitting him to make his observations directly from the inside of things, and he took the wise precaution to preserve his experiences through notes at the time of their happening. His diary is a storehouse of exact knowledge of the Alaska of that date and as the vast possession of Uncle Sam lying against the Arctic Circle is still largely unknown to the ordinary citizen of the county, even through reading, the department will be looked for with much interest. This will be the first time these memoirs have ever appeared in print and The Times is more than glad to give them space. The first chapter will appear in next week's issue. Read it and follow the series right through. It will prove worth while.

Thank You, All

The manner in which the news of the consolidation of The Times with The News-Press was met by the newspaper men of the state is the most convincing evidence obtainable that the move was wise and timely. They know just exactly what it would mean to conduct two such papers in a city the size of Thief River Falls, and when with practical unanimity they declare that consolidation was the only sensible course to follow under the circumstances, those who know nothing about the conditions under which newspapers are conducted in these times will take their word for it.

For the many kind and flattering comments appearing in the press of the state, both the present publishers of The Times and the former editor of The News-Press are truly grateful. The business men of the city have, almost without exception, put the stamp of their approval upon the transaction, and subscribers in every section of the county have expressed themselves as pleased. With that kind of a start The Times faces the future full of confidence and only hopes that it may merit the many kind words and good wishes extended.

A Wasteful Proceeding

It would almost appear as if the government is going to try everything except the most sensible plan for securing the publicity necessary in order to get the next Liberty Loan properly before the people. The idea now is to flood the country with expensive posters setting forth the need of the money as well as the desirability of the bonds as an investment. This is selecting the most expensive as well as the most ineffective way of meeting the requirements. That hard-headed, sensible men, such as are supposed to be at the helm in governmental affairs at this time, should give this plan a moment's consideration is most surprising, and on every hand the mistake of putting it into effect is being emphasized. Referring to the matter, Leslie's Weekly submits the following:

"What! Is it possible that the government proposes, as is reported at Washington, to print 5,000,000 posters of the third Liberty Loan with which to plaster every public and private building, every street corner and every bill-board that can be reached with this sort of unprofitable and offensive publicity? Imagine the cost of 5,000,000 posters or lithographs in five or six colors, the most expensive of all kinds of printing, and the cost of pasting these upon buildings or distributing them among patriotic citizens who will agree to do the pasting themselves. It is sufficient to say that in some instances the posters of the second Liberty Loan were distributed in such quantities in some localities that only a portion of them were utilized. The need of economy in such matters is pressing. We call the attention of our friend the Secretary of the Treasury to this interesting situation. Think of the legitimate advertising that could be secured by the expenditure of the amount involved in this ridiculous bill-board campaign. The need of expert advisers in the matter is obvious. They can be had. Why not commandeer them?"

THEY APPROVE THE CHANGE

Minnesota Newspapers Generally Consider Consolidation of the Thief River Falls Newspapers a Very Wise Move

Of all the newspaper consolidations taking place within the state of Minnesota, the transaction resulting in the elimination of one from the list at Thief River Falls is considered among the most sensible and important by publishers generally, and especially among those well acquainted with the circumstances and conditions. The "boys" are very complimentary in their comment, a fact most highly appreciated by the publishers of both the former News-Press and the present Times. Below is reproduced a bundle of these generous expressions of good will and everyone mentioned only hopes that he may prove deserving of the praise bestowed and that The Times will achieve all the success wished for it:

Thanks, Neighbor.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: One of the biggest consolidations in the Minnesota newspaper world the past year has just been consummated—that of the Thief River Falls News-Press and the Thief River Falls Times. R. H. Ross, publisher of the Times, has purchased the News-Press from H. Z. Mitchell and Ed. Vandersluis, who have been publishing the paper for the past eight months. Mr. Mitchell was fortunate enough to acquire a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel from H. Mayne Stanton, who is going to war. Mr. Vandersluis will remain on the Times as mechanical superintendent. The paper will be moved to the News-Press building and the two plants will be consolidated. Both the News-Press and the Times have been kept up to the highest standard and especially since Mitchell and Vandersluis purchased the paper from the M. C. Cutter estate it has been a neck and neck race every week. Some weeks one paper would be a shade better in news and advertising and other weeks the other paper would lead, but there has never been a time when both were not high class, well printed, newsy publications. Consolidation is the order of the day, however, and the tendency being to eliminate unnecessary duplication it was inevitable that Thief River Falls should fall in line. We wish Brothers Mitchell and Ross success in their new undertakings and predict for them the large business they deserve.

Was No Surprise.

Baudette Region: A few years ago Thief River Falls had three newspapers, and all of them were in danger of meeting the fate of the well known paper that was opened by prayer and closed by the sheriff. Then one of them skidded, and there were two good ones left, but the going was still rough, and it was no surprise this week when news was received that they had been consolidated. Out of the merger comes the Thief River Falls Times, a corking good newspaper—one of the best in the state in fact. Publisher Ross and his associates are always ready to take off their coats on behalf of Thief River and vicinity, and with united support it will be a better newspaper than ever—which is saying a whole lot.

Oh, No. It Hasn't.

Badger Herald-Rustler: The Thief River Falls News-Press was taken over by the Times of that city last week. Consolidation and retrenchment is the order of the day, which is brought on by the present abnormal conditions. Now that the Times has the field all to itself we expect to see a daily blossom out one of these days, which has become a necessity in Thief River Falls.

Will Give Better Service.

St. Hilaire Spectator: In a deal concluded this week the Thief River Falls Times takes over the subscription list and good will of the News-Press. Editor Mitchell of the News-Press has purchased a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel and will remove to that place. It is with regret that we note Mr. Mitchell's removal from Thief River. He is a splendid newspaper man, a good neighbor and one of the best fellows we have ever met in the business. His new acquisition is a dandy paper and Mr. Mitchell will no doubt make good there as the field is larger than at Thief River. The Times will occupy the field at Thief River Falls alone, for the present at least, and will no doubt continue to serve the people of that city with as good a newspaper as can be found in any city of that size in the country. Here's success to Mr. Mitchell in his new location at Bemidji and here's hoping the consolidated Times and News-Press, under the management of Editor Ross, will enjoy a full measure of prosperity in 1918.

"Governor" Kiley's Tribute.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: The many friends of Mayne Stanton, formerly editor of this paper, are interested to know that he has enlisted, offering his services to the Ordnance department of the army, and expects to leave in the not far distant future for service. He has sold his interest in the Bemidji Sentinel to H. Z. Mitchell, formerly the editor of the News-Press at Thief River Falls, and the News-Press at Thief River has been sold to R. H. Ross and Thomas Austad, who are publishing the Times in that city. Mr. Ross was a former editor of this paper and Thomas Austad is well known to nearly everyone in Grand Rapids through his many years of service on the Herald-Review. This publication takes pleasure in recording the patriotism and the progress of those who have been connected with the Herald-Review in times past.

Just Right For One.

Plummer Pioneer: A deal which took effect last Monday consolidates the Thief River Falls News-Press and the Thief River Falls Times. The proprietors of the News-Press, Mitchell & Vandersluis, sold out to the owners of the Times. Mr. Mitchell has purchased a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel and Vandersluis will remain with the consolidated papers as mechanical superintendent. This will mean that that city will only have one paper. Thief River is just about the right size to support one good paper and give it the right kind of support that will enable the owners to put out a paper that the city can well be proud of and we hope that the new owners will have an open field.

Business Men Benefited.

Roseau Times-Region: Another big newspaper consolidation took place this week when the Thief River Falls News-Press was sold to the Times. The present trend in the newspaper field is consolidation and it is coming about through the necessity of things. Thief River Falls has been boasting two mighty good newspapers and the consolidation should make a still better one if possible. The business men in that city are exceptionally wide-awake advertisers and they will undoubtedly get much better service from the new arrangement of things.

The Youngest Stays.

Mahnomen Pioneer: Thief River Falls now has but one paper. The News-Press has been sold to the Times and the offices will be consolidated. Mr. Mitchell of the News-Press will retire and Mr. Vandersluis will remain with the consolidated paper as mechanical superintendent. A few years ago the city of Thief River Falls had three papers. The News and the Press, the two older ones, consolidated, and now the Times, the youngest of them all, has absorbed the other. Messrs. Mitchell & Vandersluis have given Thief River Falls an excellent paper. Mr. Mitchell has purchased a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel from Mayne Stanton.

A Good Move All Around.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Thief River Falls had two excellent newspapers. They have been consolidated, which was a good move for the publishers, the business men and the people of that section. The Times under Editor Ross, is now one of the strongest of Northern Minnesota newspapers, and merits the most liberal patronage. H. Z. Mitchell, editor of the Thief River News-Press, has purchased a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel, and will assume editorial charge. He is one of the brightest newspaper men in the northwest and the people of Bemidji are to be congratulated on securing him as an editor and citizen.

Should Be Extra Strong.

Greenbush Tribune: An important change in the newspaper field this week is the consolidation of the Times and News-Press at Thief River Falls. H. Z. Mitchell of the News-Press has purchased an interest in the Bemidji Sentinel and will move to that city. Ed. Vandersluis will be mechanical superintendent of the new combination and R. H. Ross, who has published the Times, will be editor of the new paper. The new combination should give Thief River Falls an extra strong newspaper as both the Times and the News-Press were excellent publications.

Was Too Strenuous.

Detroit Record: H. Z. Mitchell and Ed. Vandersluis have sold the News-Press to the Times at Thief River Falls so that county seat now has but one newspaper. Mr. Mitchel has secured a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel, and Ed. Vandersluis will remain as mechanical superintendent of the consolidated plant. The News-Press was a rattling good paper but the owners found life too strenuous for two papers at Thief River Falls, so they disposed of their business. Such consolidations as this are taking place all over the country, due to the increased cost of doing business.

Wishes Success.

Holt Weekly News: Mitchell & Vandersluis, who for the past eight months have run the Thief River Falls News-Press, have sold out to Bro. Ross of the Times of that city and the two papers will be consolidated. Mr. Mitchell has bought a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel and Mr. Vandersluis will remain in Thief River Falls as mechanical superintendent of the combined papers. We wish all success in their undertakings.

Will Be Better Off.

Ada Index: The Thief River Falls News-Press has been sold to the Thief River Falls Times and the two papers will be consolidated. Thief River is a big town but both the publishers and business men realize that it is economy to maintain as few papers as possible. Quite a number of places the size of Thief River Falls and smaller would be better off with only one good paper. H. Z. Mitchell, editor of the News-Press, has purchased an interest in the Bemidji Sentinel.

Consolidation the Rule.

Warren Sheaf: The two newspapers in Thief River Falls have consolidated, the Thief River Falls Times acquiring by purchase the plant of the News-Press. H. Z. Mitchell, who has ably edited the News-Press during the past eight months, has secured a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel, which paper will be strengthened by his valuable experience as a newspaper man. Consolidation of newspapers is a thing that is being forced on many publishers in small towns all over the country owing to the greatly increased cost of production.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture at home, though, is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this thru your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears and after another appliction or two your hir becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Fahey and son, Stanley, left Sunday night for Stratford, Wis., to spend New Year's with Mr. Fahey's parents.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub Pain From Back With a Small Trial Bottle of Old St. Jacob's Oil.

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacob's Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.

THE WEEK'S FOOD FACT

Every time an American refuses to join the Save-the-Food Army a starving baby dies in Belgium or Servia or Poland—Poland where most of the children under four years are already either dead or dying from starvation. Have you a baby in your home?

The United States Food Administration advises the grading of potatoes. According to estimates this year's crop of Irish potatoes will exceed average production by 100,000,000 bushels. Growers can help increase consumption of these potatoes—and greater consumption of potatoes is greatly desired that more wheat may be saved—by grading, the culls being used on the farm as feed for poultry and live stock. Southern potato growers' associations have graded potatoes for years and market their best grades. In the poor market year of 1915 practically every car of 10,000 sent out by one southern association was sold direct. The buyers knew what to expect from the association and took its stock at a fair price while ungraded potatoes went begging. Other shippers' associations and many large growers have recognized the trend of events and have begun the grading of their potatoes because it is progressive and profitable.

Barley flour, for the first time now obtainable in bulk, makes delicious breads. Miss Mildred Weigley, home economics director for the food administration of Minnesota, has sent out the following recipe to help the housewife meet the demands of saving wheat for the soldiers:

Barley Baking Powder Biscuit—3 cups barley flour, 6 level teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 4½ tablespoons fat, 1 cup milk.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut or rub in the fat. Add milk to make soft dough and roll and cut as for other biscuits.

Crookston Almost Dark.

The order issued by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission regarding the turning off of all unnecessary lights of the white way in all cities where power is furnished by coal or part coal, was observed in Crookston last Friday evening for the first time. All lights, with the exception of one in each block, were turned off, which leaves only about one-fourth of the lights lit in the business district of the city. The order will be observed every night of the week. Owing to the water power of the city being insufficient to furnish enough power, coal is also being used and it is figured that about one ton of coal will be saved each night by the observing of lightless nights. In Thief River Falls all lights necessary are still being used, the river and Diesel engines furnishing ample power for the load.

STEENERSON ASKS GRADINGS REVOKED

REPRESENTATIVE URGES LAW BE SUSPENDED TO GIVE THE FARMERS BETTER PRICE

Suspension of the grain grading law during the war was urged at the hearing on modification of the regulations which began at Washington last Thursday.

"Under present conditions there is no competition," said Mr. Steenerson, "and the consequence is that the farmers are compelled to sell their wheat at a reduced price. When I was in Minnesota recently there was general complaint that the amount of dockage as fixed in the regulations result in a lowering of the grade of wheat. Under competitive conditions this dockage would be taken care of, and the wheat growers would be able to get a fair price for their wheat."

Representative P. D. Norton of North Dakota suggested a premium grade. He said contract wheat was graded No. 2 dark northern, but that this year the crop was especially good and much of it graded No. 1 without any benefit to the farmers.

Those who attended the hearing included Representatives Anderson, Steenerson, Volstead and Knutson of Minnesota, Norton, Young and Baer of North Dakota, and Senator Sterling of South Dakota.

RAILROADS UNDER FEDERAL CONTROL

COMPETITIVE CONDITIONS ARE WIPED OUT AND TRAFFIC AND EQUIPMENT POOLED

Since last Friday at noon the government of the United States has been operating all the railroads of the country. The traffic congestion which has hampered the most important industries for a long time is expected to be relieved almost at once through pooling arrangements by which all roads will act, under the direction of W. G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, who has been appointed director general.

The immediate result will be a rerouting of traffic over shortest lines, regardless of the company with which shipments originate, and the common use of terminal to effect maximum efficiency. Officials look forward to material improvement in the present traffic congestion within a few weeks. Speedy movement of freight will be the first aim of the director general. But problems whose solution must press close on the heels of actual transportation questions are the equitable reimbursement of roads for the use of their property on the basis of pre-war earnings, increased wages for railroad employees, financing of necessary improvement, building of additional lines or facilities, and the tangled priority situation.

The order may have considerable effect on the railroads entering Thief River Falls, except the Minnesota Northwestern, which, being an interurban line, is not affected. It may also mean a reduction in the number of trains operated, particularly in passenger traffic, the probabilities being that the slow-moving locals will be taken off entirely. This would naturally make a considerable difference in the number of men employed and for this reason many people in this city are very much interested in knowing how the plan will eventually work out.

Grocers Were Busy.

The grocers of the city are as good church members as anybody, but last Sunday they were not in their accustomed places—a condition for which that man Hoover is largely to blame. This efficient food administrator wanted a record of practically everything the grocery stores had on hand and it became necessary to take an inventory at once. The grocer had to fill out a blank setting forth what he had on hand of the following items for the years 1916 and 1917 respectively, and it was something of a job: Grains and seeds, grain food products, meats and meat products, fish, fats—animal and vegetable, dairy and related products, canned goods, fruits and vegetables, dried fruits, nuts and peanuts, sugar, starches, etc. In all there are 86 articles listed in the "questionnaire" and the grocer who is able to fill it out correctly will not only have to work Sundays but will also probably worry some at nights.

Another Necessity Advances.

Things were bad enough before, but this last move is the limit. All grocers on Saturday received notice that hereafter snuff would be sold only in ten cent packages—and not particularly large packages at that. Fine cut tobacco also took a similar bound, but this could have been withstood if the "snus" would only have stayed down where it could be enjoyed by the man with but one lonely nickel in his clothes.

Chas. Bang of Crookston returned to his home Saturday afternoon after a two days' visit in this city with friends.

WAR WORK AND STATE COMMISSION

WASTE OF TIME, EFFORT AND EXPENSE SHOULD BE ELIMINATED

It is becoming very apparent to every man or woman who is actively interested in any branch of war activitiy that there is too much duplication of effort in many instances. This impression has crystallized itself into a definite movement looking toward the co-ordination of all war work under the supervision of the Public Safety Commission. This idea has been approved by the National Council of Defense, and appears to be the big idea rapidly gaining headway in all departments.

Over organization has been the bane of intelligent preparation for war purposes and it is absolutely necessary to centralize the work and establish a clearing house for the prevention of waste.

The Commission of Public Safety, having been organized and established for the purpose of making Minnesota ready and efficient, is the logical body to undertake this coordination, and it has already made some progress in that direction. Every department should function in its own particular field of endeavor but without conflict with the plans of others and with full co-operation of each individual plan or organization.

The editors of newspapers who have been swamped with publicity material, urging all sorts of plans, organizations, etc., all seeking to do a commendable work at the same time, will welcome any suggestion to the effect that some practical plan be adopted to place the direction of all war work under the supervision of the Public Safety Commission or such board or committee as it may select or approve. Team work will win the war and individual glory, partisan politics or personal considerations must be subordinated to that one purpose. With the Safety Commission using its power, its organization and equipment to this end, there will be greater confidence among the people that all plans promoted and carried out will accomplish the purpose for which they were intended without hindrance or the fear of duplication or waste.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swenson returned last Thursday morning from Clearmont, S. D., where they had spent Christmas with Mr. Swenson's parents.

AID FARMER IN PLANTING CORN

APPEAL IS MADE TO HOOVER TO GUARANTEE COST OF SPRING SEEDING

SMALLER WHEAT ACREAGE

RESULT FEARED BECAUSE OF HIGH PRICES FOR THE OTHER GRAINS

The Duluth board of trade has submitted to Food Administrator Hoover the necessity of action by congress to guarantee the farmers of the northwest the cost of putting in their crop of wheat during the year 1918, in order to induce the sowing of a large acreage. The increase in winter wheat acreage is a disappointment, and it will fall to the spring wheat territory to make up the deficiency in order to get the billion bushel crop so earnestly implored by the government.

With prices of oats and barley liberal as they are now, the tendency will be to sow more of those grains and thus reduce the acreage of wheat.

Barley and Oats Safer.

While congress has guaranteed $2.00 per bushel for wheat raised in 1918, a large number of northwestern farmers have before them the fact that their crops of wheat in 1916 and 1917 were failures and did not produce the expense of putting them in. The shorter maturing season required for barley and oats, with the liberal prices, may attract sowing to those grains at the expense of wheat. Members of the Duluth board of trade think assurance to the farmer that he will make his cost will bring the large acreage of wheat that is so urgently required.

Congressional action will be necessary and the recommendation of Food Administrator Hoover will go far toward securing that. It is for that reason that the matter has been submitted to him and its great importance urged.

Would Insure Compliance.

Last year the wheat crop in Pennington county was perhaps as good as any in the immediate section, but it is almost certain that farmers will plant a more safe crop if prices promise to stay at anywhere near their present level. Some further encouragement to sow wheat will have to be held out if any increase in the acreage is expected and the result of the Duluth board of trade's request will be watched here with a great deal of interest.

FARM CROP SHOW TO BREAK RECORD

MEN HIGH IN COUNCILS OF TWO NATIONS WILL BE THE SPEAKERS

The Seventh Annual Farm Crops and the Second Annual Live Stock Exhibit will be held at Crookston, Feb. 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15, 1918. The usual contests will be held on Feb. 11, and the exhibit of potatoes, grain and corn promises to excel past records. The Northwestern Minnesota Farmers' Week meetings held under the auspices of the Northwest School of Agriculture will bring together talent seldom equalled in the state. Premier T. C. Norris of Manitoba has consented to make an address on the evening of Feb. 13, President M. L. Burton of the University of Minnesota on the 14th, and on Feb. 15 governors or ex-governors of three states are expected to attend.

It is expected that Ex-Governor Hoch of Kansas will be one of the three and Governor Burnquist has definitely promised to come. Hon. S. B. Bedford of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Winnipeg, will spend one day at the meetings discussing the most pertinent farm management problems in relation to weed control. Prof. Wm. Dietrich, secretary of the Red River Valley Live Stock Breeders' association, announces that the winter meeting of that association will be held during the week of the Farm Crops Show meetings. It is planned to devote at least three days to live stock, including one day for dairying and cattle, and two to horses, sheep and swine. The Northern Minnesota Poultry association will hold its annual meeting and exhibition during the same week, and it is planned to make the second live stock exhibit far better than the very auspicious beginning which took place last year.

MANY SPEAKERS AT DAIRY SHOW

HIGHEST AUTHORITIES IN THE WEST WILL ATTEND JOINT CONVENTIONS

BANQUET TO BE FEATURE

GOVERNOR BURNQUIST TO DELIVER PRINCIPAL ADDRESS AT THIS FUNCTION

Preparations are rapidly nearing completion for the greatest of all conventions in the history of the State Dairymen's association and the State Buttermakers' association, to be held in this city on Jan. 15, 16, 17 and 18. The committees in charge of the arrangements have been busy for nearly two weeks getting things into such shape that there shall be no hitch at the last minute and everyone is convinced that nothing that can in any manner add to the comfort or convenience of the visitors has been overlooked.

Noted Men Coming.

At no previous meeting held by these organizations has the speaking program been so elaborate. The men invited as speakers stand at the forefront of their particular lines of endeavor and include some of the best known officials and citizens of the West. Governor Burnquist will be present for the purpose of delivering the address at the banquet to be given for the delegates by the citizens of Thief River Falls on Wednesday evening of convention week. Among the other noted men coming are President Marion L. Burton of the University of Minnesota; H. H. Kildee, professor and chairman of dairy husbandry division of the state school of agriculture; Prof. C. Larson of Brookings, S. D., the great alfalfa authority; James Sorenson, state dairy and food commissioner; A. O. Storvick of the United States department of agriculture; President C. G. Selvig of the Crookston agricultural college; A. D. Wilson, federal food commissioner for Minnesota; Prof. A. J. McGuire, dairy expert of the university farm; W. A. McKerrow, state agent of the dairy and live stock division of the university; George P. Grout, prominent Duluth dairyman, and many others.

Many Exhibits Promised.

The exhibits of cattle and butter promise to be exceptionally large. Local dairymen will display the best individuals of their herds and it is expected that there will be a number shipped in from other sections. The choicest product of the best creameries in the state will be displayed, which is equivalent to saying that the visitor will look upon the best butter in the world, Minnesota having won the championship for the country in numerous tests.

This meeting is not alone for the benefit of those who are now engaged in dairying, the aim being particularly to interest those who have not yet entered upon this profitable pursuit. Every farmer, no matter what his specialty, should attend. He will find the four days put in at this convention the most profitable he has ever spent.

SIGN PLEDGE TO HOLD DOWN COST

LOCAL GROCERS, BAKERS AND BUTCHERS COMPLY WITH REQUEST OF GOVERNMENT

LIABILITY INCLUDES ALL

INFRACTIONS OF ORDER WILL BE PROMPTLY REPORTED TO FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

MEMBER OF U.S. FOOD ADMINISTRATION

The grocers, butchers and bakers of Thief River Falls voluntarily have pledged their support to the United States Food administration in the effort to hold down the high cost of living, all of them signing the blanks presented to them by Scott Laird, city salesman for the Thief River grocery company.

This work is being carried on throughout the entire country at the present time through the assistance of the wholesale houses, which in turn have enlisted the active support of their salesmen. Each salesman is supplied with a neat appearing button, on which is the U. S. shield enameled in red, white and blue, and surrounded by a wreath of wheat heads.

The Merchants' Pledge.

Each merchant agreeing to assist the movement is provided with a colored poster which he is required to display prominently in his place of business, and which he has signed, the poster reading: "We pledge ourselves to give our customers the benefit of fair and moderate prices, selling at no more than a reasonable profit over cost to us."

Wherever a merchant is found guilty of not complying with this agreement the public is asked to notify the U. S. Food administration and summary action will be taken against the offender. Likewise if a merchant refuses to sign the pledge he is reported to headquarters, and is as much subject to the food laws and to regulations as are the wholesale houses which are now doing business only as licensed business concerns.

The Commodities Affected.

The commodities which are now controlled by the U. S. Food administration are:

Dried apples, dried and canned beans, fresh, canned and cured beef, bread, butter, cheese, cooking fats, canned corn, corn grits, corn meal, corn oil, corn syrup, cottonseed oil, eggs, fresh and frozen fish, flour, fresh fruits, hominy, lard, fresh, canned and powdered milk, molasses, fresh, canned and cured mutton, oatmeal and rolled oats, oleomargarine, dried peaches, peanut oil, dried and canned peas, fresh, canned and cured pork, poultry, prunes, raisins, rice, canned salmon, canned sardines, corn starch, sugar, syrup, canned tomatoes, fresh vegetables.

The Local Signers.

The merchants signing the pledge in Thief River Falls and who have promised to have the same prominently displayed are:

L. J. Ackerman, M. N. Benson, C. Christofferson, O. L. Cronstrom, Louis DeCremer, I. E. Howick, Jung Brothers, L. C. Nielsen, Oen Mercantile Co., Peterson & Mohr, Fred Roth, Gilbert Sandum, H. K. Strand, M. L. Swanson, Wallace W. Watson, Val Yager, Zeh & Curran.

R. P. WHITE RESIGNS SCHOOL POSITION

FARMING INSTRUCTOR AT THE HIGH SCHOOL WILL WORK FOR GOVERNMENT

Ross P. White, agricultural instructor at the Thief River Falls high school, has resigned his position and will engage in organization work for the government. Mr. White has already entered upon his duties and is in southern Minnesota on county agent work. The war has created an unusual demand for men capable of giving instructions in advanced farming methods and many schools have lost their teachers through their being requisitioned by Uncle Sam. Putting a farm agent into every county in the United States requires a large number of men, while many others are needed to aid in the organization of the work before the regularly appointed agent takes charge.

Mr. White was very highly regarded in this city. He was a capable teacher and a man of most agreeable presence and address. He would have become a strong favorite with our farmers had he chosen to remain, and they all wish him luck in the larger field he is entering upon. Securing a competent successor to Mr. White will prove something of a problem. Instructors of this kind are hard to find and in many schools the work of the agricultural department has been heavily handicapped because of this fact.

Three other instructors in the local schools have resigned their positions during the past week or two. Morlan Bishop, science instructor, has become secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Dodge; Miss Krueger accepted a position in a Colorado school, and Miss Jacobs was forced to give up teaching because of ill health.

PARTY IN HONOR OF CAPTAIN MITCHELL

HOME GUARD HOST TO DEPARTING OFFICER ON TUESDAY EVENING

A farewell party in honor of H. Z. Mitchell, captain of the local home guards, was given by the company members at the Hotel Evelyn Tuesday evening. Besides the guards themselves there were present a considerable number of merchants and professional men who wished to testify to the high regard in which they held the departing publisher. W. B. Fuller acted as toastmaster and called upon a number of those present for remarks appropriate to the occasion. All spoke in the highest terms of the work done for the home guard in this city by Capt. Mitchell, realizing that to his untiring efforts is largely due the fact that Company C is regarded everywhere as one of the best in the state. Being a sort of semi-military function the addresses naturally drifted toward war topics and the sentiments expressed were of a highly patriotic order.

In replying Mr. Mitchell spoke of the plans he had outlined for the company and and which he hoped would be carried out. He referred to the willingness the men had at all times displayed to do whatever was asked of them and predicted that the organization will have achieved something besides local fame as a thoroughly drilled and efficient body of men before the summer is over.

The affair was very pleasant throughout and much enjoyed by all present.

POLICE BUSINESS IS POOR DURING YEAR

ONLY $128.90 IN FINES COLLECTED THROUGHOUT ENTIRE TWELVE MONTHS

Certain kinds of business in Thief River Falls have never been so poor as during the past twelve months. Judge N. W. Tarrant of the municipal court, has had but little to do and his office has been a sinecure if there ever was one. The arrests for misdemeanors of any kind have been very few during the twelve months just past, and in October, November and December not a man was hauled in for being drunk. The report below shows that some money was collected in fines during this period, but these were old accounts gathered up by Chief of Police O. E. Berge.

Below is a comparison of the fines collected in the municipal court during 1915, when the saloons were running, and during 1917, when the town was dry:

January	$ 22.50	$ 17.50
February	106.38	7.50
March	63.26	7.50
April	104.00	12.00
May	38.45	12.50
June	30.00	15.00
July	40.00	10.00
August	40.55	31.90
September	103.50	2.50
October	192.25	12.50
November	200.06
December	297.60	10.00
Total	$1,245.75	$128.90

GUARD COMPANY TO HAVE NEW CAPTAIN

IMPORTANT MEETING HAS BEEN CALLED FOR FRIDAY EVENING, JANUARY 11

Company C, Eleventh Battalion, Minnesota Home Guard, wil hold an important meeting at the armory next Friday evening. Because of the removal of Capt. H. Z. Mitchell from the city it will be necessary to select a new commanding officer and this is one of the matters coming up for consideration. This will be a regular reorganization meeting, changes of a certain kind in the membership roll having been found advisable. The recent strike at St. Paul, when it looked for a time as if the home guard from all over the state might be called out on strike duty, disclosed a situation that will have to be remedied. It was found that certain of the business houses in the city would be practically deserted in case of a sudden call, the proprietors, managers and entire force being members of the company. This might prove rather a serious situation in certain contingencies and it has been suggested that in reorganizing the company the membership be so apportioned as to leave sufficient men behind to keep all business going in case of a sudden call.

Major Charles Loring of Crookston has announced that there will be several battalion drills during the summer and at least one general encampment. The date for this has been set for July 4 to 7 inclusive, and will be held either at Maple Lake or on the Red Lake reservation. Tents and regular camping equipment will be carried and the general routine of a militia encampment observed.

First Lieut. Sponheim will issue a formal call for Friday's meeting and Mayor Penney has promised to issue a proclamation calling upon the men of the city to join the company in order that it may be recruited up to full strength.

Major Loring has also notified Lieut. Sponheim to make requisition for overcoats for the company as it is understood that the state is now ready to furnish these garments.

SHOWS SLUMP IN BUILDING PERMITS

The year 1917 was not remarkable for the amount of general building work carried on in Thief River Falls. According to the books in the office of City Clerk A. H. Fasel the amount stated in the building permit applications footed up $153,645. Of this amount, however, $25,000 is represented by the new First National bank building; $22,000 by the Tessum Seed, Grain and Supply company's warehouse; $40,000 by the Northrup school, and $50,000 by the Tri-County sanitarium.

Very few residences were erected as compared with former years. The high price of labor and building material is largely responsible for this, the prospective builders preferring to wait until things more nearly approached the normal before carrying out their plans. Building permits of all kinds did not average up much more than one for each month, there being but 14 for the entire year.

RHEUMATISM

Chiropractic has proven that rheumatism is caused by nerve pressure; by carefully palpating the spine of a patient so afflicted, locating the displaced or subluxated vertebrae, and adjusting them to their normal position, thereby releasing the impingement or nerve pressure, thereby allowing free and uninterrupted transmission of nerve force or mental impulses access to the affected part or parts, which restores the patient to normal through nature's ways. A multitude of cases are on record who have obtained complete and permanent relief from rheumatism as well as disease of the liver, stomach, kidneys, bowels, insomnia, headache, nervousness, backaches, etc.

Consultation is free.

The University of Minnesota strongly urges all farmers to send their cream to a farmers' creamery. Says thousands of dollars are saved every day by the greater efficiency of the farmers' organization. We quote as follows:

"For the farmer to hold his own in the business world he must work in co-operation with farmers. The more thorough and more extensive the co-operation, the better. The co-operative creamery system is the first lesson. Farmers who fail in this are not apt to succeed in any co-operative enterprise. In Minnesota, where you find the greater number of co-operative creameries, you find also the greatest number of co-operative stock shipping associations and other lines of co-operative work, which in time must settle the big problem of the cost of distribution of farm products."

RED CROSS NOTES

Red Cross Doing Wonders.

Those wishing to encourage a soldier or who wish to aid in relief for distressed people may perform such service by writing often and long letters to their friends "Over there" or by contributing to the Red Cross, declares Maurice Dargen in a letter printed in a Tacoma newspaper. Mr. Dargen is a son of Mrs. Phil Zeh, 219 Main avenue south, Thief River Falls, and his communication has thus almost a local interest. Miss Viola Muligan Dargen, a sister, is also well known to many persons in Pennington and Red Lake counties. The entire letter is very interesting, but the portions referring to the work of the Red Cross are of particular value in showing what the organization is doing to aid the men who are actually doing the fighting.

"Give to the Red Cross."

After telling of being chased by submarines on the journey over, young Mr. Dargen makes a few suggestions of great value as to the best methods of relieving the distress among the people of fighting Europe. He says:

"You speak of sending me a little money each month to give to some poor family that needs it. That's a mighty charitable thought, mother, but if I were you I wouldn't do it, for several reasons. God knows I see enough poverty, suffering, sickness and destitution over here, but I am not in a position to give anyone money, feeling that it would do them any good.

Will Reach Right Parties.

"I am in a position to make many mistakes as to the right ones to give it to. Now, if you give that money to the Red Cross in the States they will get it to the people who are really in need of it and they will make it buy things those people actually need. Also, you may rest assured that it will get here when it is given to that organization. And, as far as that goes, you can render a thousand good deeds to these people by helping the Red Cross in everything possible. When they need money you can contribute what you like but most of all lend them your actual assistance as much as possible.

Should Guard Against Waste.

"Another thing, be careful of waste, especially of flour, and encourage others to be careful. Use corn meal and other grains besides wheat as much as you can, because every pound saved is another pound that will be exported to France, and the Frenchman must have wheat bread. Bread constituted 50 per cent of the French diet before the war and they can't be taught to eat anything in the way of a substitute for it.

"The English can eat corn meal, bran and bran meal, but the little Poilui can't fight without his wheat bread. Help him get it and you are performing a real service."

At Thompson Falls, Mont., a Red Cross knitting class is led by a young woman who was born in Germany. She was taught to knit, she said, in the first grade in school in that country. If pupils misbehaved, she says the penalty was an added hour of knitting after school.

At Billings, Mont., 50 high school girls have started a class in the making of surgical dressings. More emphasis is being placed upon this phase of the work in Billings than any other activity of the Red Cross. Several classes have already been conducted, graduates of each class being made teachers of new students.

At Grand Forks a restaurant keeper has devised a new scheme to conserve sugar and at the same time help the Red Cross. Two lumps of sugar are served with every cup of coffee. If the patron does not use all the sugar he wraps it in a package and places it in a large silver sugar bowl. At the end of the week the bowl is weighed and its contents paid for by the restaurant keeper at the market rate, the proceeds going to the Red Cross.

Mrs. M. M. Loring, 75 years old, a resident of Hubbard, Minn., has completed a crazy quilt to be sold at auction for the Red Cross. Every square of the quilt has a Red Cross in the center. Mrs. Loring did all the work on the quilt herself.

Drake, N. D., held a Red Cross roundup last week, culminating with a banquet and dance. More than $550 was realized for the Red Cross and 175 new members enrolled.

Every day letters and telegrams from Washington received at Northern Division headquarters emphasize the importance of more surgical dressings to be sent to France at once. Millions more than are being made are most urgently needed.

Corsica, S. D., has a population of only 400 persons, yet more than 10,000 Christmas seals have been sold there since Nov. 1.

At Williston, N. D., Red Cross workers who are unable to attend the sewing rooms during the day have been invited to hold evening meetings at the local Elks club.

Red Lake Indians, near Bemidji, held a basket social at their school last week, realizing $105 which was turned over to the Red Cross.

Red Cross workers at Hibbing have arranged for the exhibition of their work in the city hall. Sight of the knitted goods and bandages are an inspiration to other workers.

Virginia, Minn., high school students are making wooden knitting needles in the manual training department of their school. The demand for needles exhausted the supply in the Virginia stores so the students came to the rescue.

An epidemic of scarlet fever at Helena, Mont., prevented the school children from making their city-wide drive for useful but unused articles that might be sold for the Red Cross.

St. Louis county, Minn., has announced a Junior Red Cross week for all public schools. Children already in the Red Cross will urge their mates to join.

Edinburgh, N. D., claims the record for accomplishment in the Red Cross Christmas membership drive. In his official report of results the manager of the membership campaign announced that 102 per cent of the population of Edinburgh had joined the Red Cross. Every resident, he explained, had joined, and two traveling men who were in the city also enrolled with the local organization.

LOCAL FARMERS IN PROMINENT PLACE

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY PUBLICATION AWARDS THIS CITY PLACE OF HONOR

The Great Northern railroad has issued a pamphlet with the caption, "A Silo: The Mark of Progress," in which considerable prominence is given to Pennington county dairymen. In the place of honor on the front fly leaf is a full-page illustration of "Dolly" and "Othello," two of the prize Guernseys owned by H. C. Woolson of Silverton township. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woolson is standing between the two cows with her arms across their necks, evidently on the friendliest terms with these two big revenue producers. The picture is both unusual and interesting.

On another page is found a reproduction of a field of corn with John Bordewich of the Thief River Valley Land company in the foreground. The corn stalks are taller than John and should serve to impress the readers in other sections of the country with the fact that when it comes to raising corn for silage this section has all others beaten.

An excellent picture of the barns and part of the herd on the Rasmus Oen farm is also shown and helps to emphasize the fact that the silo is the one sure money-maker on the farm.

The prominence given this vicinity in the pamphlet is such that one is tempted to forgive the Great Northern for leaving Thief River Falls off the big map of its system printed in the Pioneer Press of last Sunday.

Notice of Auction Sale of Town Lots

Remember the date, Friday, January 18, 1918, at 2 p. m. This sale will take place, rain or shine. If the weather is fine sale will take place on the grounds at Highland Park, Warroad, Minn. If weather is stormy sale will be held in some building up town to be arranged for.

The old plat of Highland Park shows the Park ending with an alley. I have had a new plat prepared adding a small section to the Park to the west so that this fine residence locality will be bounded by a street on all sides.

I need to raise some money before January 20 and have decided to sell this small bunch of lots under the hammer at any price they will bring. Hon. W. A. Nolan, one of the very best auctioneers our state contains, will handle the sale, and take it for granted wherever "Bill Nolan" holds forth at an auction, there are things doing at a lively rate. Newspaper space is too limited to give full details, but whether you want a lot or not cuts no figure with our friend Nolan—he will be there and he wants you all there with him to see the fun, and Bill guarantees enough fun so that you can take it home and bottle it for later use. Hand bills to be distributed will give further details and full conditions of purchase will be made public just prior to the sale.

On Friday, January 18, you are going to see an auction sale of lots carried on absolutely on the square. DON'T FORGET THAT ONE LOT WILL BE GIVEN AWAY ABSOLUTELY FREE. After the lot sale I may also offer for sale one or two twenty or forty acre tracts.

Harness up for the sale and don't fail to be there.

L. H. JOHNSON, Owner.
W. A. NOLAN, Auctioneer.

Guard Your Children Against Bowel Trouble

Many children at an early age become constipated, and frequently serious consequences result. Not being able to realize his own condition, a child's bowels should be constantly watched, and a gentle laxative given when necessary. Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are especially well adapted to women and children. The Sisters of Christian Charity, 531 Charles St., Luzerne, Pa., who attend many cases of sickness say of them:

"Some time ago we began using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets and find that we like them very much. Their action is excellent and we are grateful for having been made acquainted with them. We have had good results in every case and the Sisters are very much pleased."

The form and flavor of any medicine is very important, no matter who is to take it. The taste and appearance are especially important when children are concerned. All parents know how hard it is to give the average child "medicine," even though the taste is partially disguised. In using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, however, this difficulty is overcome. The shape of the tablets, their appearance and candy-like taste at once appeal to any child, with the result that they are taken without objection.

The rich chocolate flavor and absence of other taste, make Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets the ideal remedy for children.

If the first box fails to benefit, the price is returned. Ask your druggist. A box of 25 doses costs only 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

AVOID TANGLE IN TIE-ROPE

Old Method of Weight Is Used, but Spring Is Applied to Cushion Jerk of Animal.

In the illustration a device is shown that will prevent a colt from becoming tangled in the tie-rope of the halter. The old method of a weight is used, but a spring is applied to cushion the jerk a colt will give when first tied with a halter. The weight consists of a piece of hardwood four and one-half inches long and three and one-half inches in diameter. A two-inch hole is bored in one end of the wood four inches deep, and a one-inch hole bored through the center of the remaining one-half inch of the wood. This makes a seat for the coil-spring A to B. The spring should be eight inches long, of the open variety and made of wire about three sixteenths inch in diameter. The tie-rope is passed through the spring and secured by a knot at the bottom of the block as shown. The hole in the manger should be about one and one-quarter inch in diameter to take the tie-rope loosely. This will effectually prevent the spring from passing through.—J. O. McDonnell, in Popular Science Monthly.

VERMIN INJURIOUS TO SWINE

Normal Development Cannot Be Obtained From Animals Infested With Lice—Some Remedies.

Close observation will prove that many hogs are lousy. Lice are very injurious, especially to pigs. Normal development cannot be obtained from swine infested with lice. The following home mixtures are recommended for ridding swine of lice:

1. Equal parts of kerosene and machine oil.
2. Crude oil thinned with kerosene.
3. Make up a soapy water by stirring laundry soap in hot water. To two gallons of this mixture add one quart of kerosene.

Numerous coal tar preparations or dips are on the market. These should give satisfactory results if used as per directions.

See that head, ears and flanks are well sprayed.

Sleeping quarters must be kept clean. Sprinkle floor and bedding with kerosene.

This treatment should be repeated every two weeks until lice disappear, then repeat every five or six weeks to keep down infestation.

In addition to keeping stock free of lice dipping at regular intervals aids greatly in preventing diseases.

VARIETY OF FEED REQUIRED

Tastes and Inclinations of Live Stock Should Be Consulted So Far as Is Practicable.

Provide a variety of feeds; this has been found to agree with the appetites and tastes of the animals. The tastes and inclinations of the stock should be consulted in so far as practicable, especially in the quality of feed; quantity will never make up for lack of quality. There is nothing that will exceed the green grass of nature for the horse, the cow, the sheep or the hog. This has its period and makes an excellent balanced ration. It is an antidote for almost all the ills and ailments of the animal, especially those caused by a season on dry feed, abuse and starvation after a severe winter. As a final admonition for a lack of feed, never start into the winter with more stock than your supply of feed will abundantly supply. The harvest is abundant and there is time to save feed.

SWINE OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Hogs Fit Into Modern Scheme of Farming on Nearly Every Farm—Excel as Money Getter.

No branch of live stock farming is more productive of satisfactory, results than the raising of wellbred swine, if conducted with a reasonable care. Hogs fit into the modern scheme of farming on nearly every farm, and are one of the most important animals to raise both for meat and for money. They require less labor, less equipment, and less capital, make greater gains per hundred pounds of concentrated feed, reproduce themselves faster and in greater numbers, and give a quicker turnover of money than any other animal except poultry.

ROUGHAGE FOR SHEEP

Legume Hays Stand at Forefront in Feeding Value.

Not Only Is Timothy Unpalatable to Animals, but It Causes Serious Cases of Constipation—Much Grain Is Saved.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

By using the right kind of hay instead of grain, sheep can be wintered succesfully and much grain saved for other purposes. Sheep require less concentrated feed during the winter than other live stock. If they are in good condition at the beginning of the winter and if lambs are not expected before the spring pastures come on, the grainless ration is to be advised.

Legume hays stand at the forefront as a roughage for sheep. No other roughages approach them in feeding values. The coarse-stemmed hays, like timothy, red top and blue grass have very few leaves and therefore are poor sheep feeds. Hays having a large amount of timothy in them also are undesirable. Not only is timothy unpalatable to the sheep, but it causes serious cases of constipation. The dry timothy heads work into the wool, causing irritation to the skin, lessening the value of the clip and making shearing difficult. When timothy or other coarse-stemmed hay is fed to sheep in winter quarters it becomes necessary to use some supplementary feed to keep the sheep in condition.

If any nonlegume hay is fed, supplementary protein feed is needed. Linseed meal is good since in addition to furnishing protein it counteracts the constipating effect of timothy hay. From one-quarter to one-half pound of linseed meal per ewe daily should be used, depending on the size and condition of the animal and the other feed used.

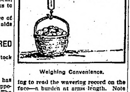
In an experiment conducted at the Missouri station and reported in bulletin No. 120, the relative values of clover and timothy hays for wintering ewes were determined.

Fifteen ewes fed 2.0 pounds timothy hay and 0.35 pounds grain per head daily lost 7.6 pounds each during the same time that another lot receiving the same weight of grain and clover hay gained ~~0.5 pounds~~. The 14 ewes fed clover hay dropped 16 strong lambs, while those fed timothy dropped 11 strong and 5 weak lambs. The lambs from the ewes fed clover hay gained more rapidly during the first 30 days than did those from the ewes fed timothy hay.

WEIGHING DEVICE IS HANDY

Farmer Enabled to Read Record at His Leisure and Comfort—Burden Taken From Hands.

Many times farmers weigh heavy articles by holding the scales and their load by one or both hands, while trying to read the wavering record on the face—a burden at arms length. Note the easier way. As one holds the lever down he reads at leisure, and with comfort, the weight which the scales show. The "bean-and-pea" scales can be used in the same way.—Orange Judd Farmer.



Weighing Convenience.

MUCH INJURY IS DONE SOIL

Live Stock Crush Particles Together, Drive Air Away and Induce Formation of Clods.

A great injury is done every soil when live stock is given liberty and freedom over it, and especially when fall, winter and spring are on with wetness and cold. They crush the soil particles together, drive the air away, induce the formation of clods and holes, and deaden the soil and drive life away.

Cattle have no place in fields, cultivated or grass lands, when the soil conditions are such that they tramp the fields. Place stock during such periods in feeding lots.

TIME FOR MAKING REPAIRS

List of Jobs Required Should Be Made and Work Completed Before Cold Weather Sets In.

Are there repairs that ought to be made in the dairy barn before winter? Better spend a half-hour making a list of them; and then fix each one as quickly as possible. This will save time and trouble later on.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have a stinging pain in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What a relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge, dryness, headache, struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

SOCIETY

Bratrud-Rasmuson—
Last evening the Hotel Brumund was the scene of what was undoubtedly the most beautiful wedding which has ever taken place in this city, when Mr. Ludwig John Bratrud and Miss Myrtle Marie Rasmuson were united in marriage.

The wedding took place in the lobby of the hotel, which was beautifully decorated in pink and green. Evergreen trees and pink chrysanthemums were used in the decorations. The evergreens were arranged in a semi-circle in the center of the long room and evergreen boughs decorated the skylight directly above. From the center of this green mass hung a wedding bell of evergreens and pink chrysanthemums. Pink chrysanthemums were also festooned about the electric lights.

The wedding party marched in to the strains of "Lohengrin's Wedding March," played by Mrs. O. F. Mellby. The bride was attended by the Misses Doris Brumund, Olive Booren and Alma Bratrud, of Chester, Iowa, and the groom's attendants were Messrs. A. T. Lystad of Sydney, Montana, John Brumund and Ralph Rasmuson. Mrs. Mellby rendered the vocal selection, "Because."

The gown of the bride was of white silk net over silver cloth. She wore a white veil, Dutch cap style, caught at the top with lilies of the valley. Her bridal boquet was of white rose buds and lilies of the valley. Her wedding ring was a band of diamonds set in platinum. The bridesmaids wore gowns of shell pink taffeta and net, and carried shower bouquets of pink roses. They wore caps of lavender tulle.

A five-course dinner was served in the dining room to thirty-three guests, namely: Members of the bridal party, Mrs. Bratrud of Grand Forks, mother of the groom, Mrs. Annie Myra, mother of Mrs. Brumund, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Bratrud of Grand Forks, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Bratrud of Fertile, and the latter's sister, Miss Viola Parsons, of Litchfield, Miss Luella Bratrud of Grand Forks, Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Hay, Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Mellby, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. G. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs T. L. Melgaard, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Dolan and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brumund.

Mr. and Mrs. Bratrud left on the evening flyer for the Twin Cities for a week's visit before leaving for a short wedding trip to Kansas City, Mo., after which they will return to Minneapolis to spend the winter. They will make their home in this city after April 1st.

Gave Whist Party—
The Misses Anna and Esther Adolphs entertained at a delightful whist party Monday evening at their home. There were twenty guests. Prizes were awarded to Miss Lena Gullingsrud and Mrs. Leroy Elofson.

December Marriage Licenses—
During the month of December the following marriage licenses were issued by Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund. Unless otherwise designated, the applicants are residents of Pennington county:

Dec. 3—William Randorf and Mario Anton.
Dec. 3—Helmer Anton Ftteland and Inga Amelia Tjosheim.
Dec. 6—Ford Ough Ford and Eva Fay Buck.
Dec. 8—Anton H. Winjo, Trail Co., N. D., and Anna Lindseth, Trail Co., N. D.
Dec. 17—Clifford Elmer Noel and Inga Brooten.
Dec. 20—Wm. P. Wiberg, Red Lake Co., and Clara Tuff.
Dec. 22—Arthur N. Anderson and Ida Femrite.
Dec. 24—Clarence Silas Simonson, Beltrami Co., and Carolyn Aspelund.
Dec. 27—Bert C. Berting and Eva E. Durham.
Dec. 29—Ole Skaar and Olga Nelson.
Dec. 30—John Houfek and Kathreen Kotlan.
Dec. 31—Leonard Nelson and Emmie M. Lindahl.

New Year's Eve—
Now Year's eve was quiet in this city this year and except for the Kid band dance at the Auditorium there were few social watch parties to ring the old year out and the new year in. A large crowd of merrymakers gathered at the Auditorium on Monday evening and the dance continued until some time after the stroke of twelve. Several churches held watch meetings and a few parties were given to welcome the new year.

Entertained on New Year's Eve—
Mesdames T. L. Melgaard and Geo. G. Johnson were hostesses at the home of the former, 105 Bridge street, on New Year's eve, when they entertained at a seven o'clock dinner and watch party in honor of Miss Myrtle Rasmusson, whose marriage to Mr. John Bratrud of this city took place last evening, and Mr. A. T. Lystad of Sidney, Montana. Covers for dinner were laid for twelve guests.

Wiberg-Tuff—
On December 24 occurred the marriage of Mr. William Wiberg of Trail, Minnesota, and Miss Clara Tuff of Rudell, Minnesota, at the home of the bride's parents in Rudell township. Only near relatives and a few intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Wiberg will make their home at Plummer, where Mr. Wiberg is engaged in business.

Mrs. Loken Entertained—
Mrs. Maren Loken entertained on Monday evening at her home, 708 Knight avenue north, in honor of Miss Musette Chryst, who left Monday evening for her home at Hudson, N. Y. Knitting and needlework furnished the pastime for the evening. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Holden Entertained—
Miss Carry Holden entertained last Friday evening at her home, 1216 Horace avenue north, at a progressive whist party. Prizes were won by Miss Edith Dahl and Alvin Thorson. Light refreshments were served during the course of the evening.

Entertained on Christmas—
The Misses Ruby and Esther and Master Lloyd Bennes entertained at a Christmas tree party on Thursday evening at their home, 807 Knight avenue north. The following were the guests: Doris and Isabel Richter, Eugene Richter, Herbert and Bud Keene.

For Miss Chryst—
Mrs. J. E. Nelson and Miss Anna Wizcek entertained last Thursday evening in honor of Miss Musette Chryst, at the home of the former, 903 Knight avenue north. Miss Chryst left Monday evening for her home at Hudson, N. Y., to visit for six weeks. She will later visit in the Twin Cities but does not expect to return to this city. She was presented with a set of beautiful white ivory toilet articles as a token from her friends. There were twelve guests.

Gave Dancing Party—
Last evening the Misses Grace Wilson, Meta Keland, Elsie Sinclaire, Ruby Halvorson and Elsie Watson entertained at a dancing party at the Masonic hall. Music was furnished by Greenfield's orchestra. About thirty guests were present. Refreshments were served after midnight by the hostesses.

1915 Class Reunion—
On New Year's evening the class of 1915 held a class reunion. About a dozen of the nineteen-fifteeners met at the home of Miss Alice Peterson and from there enjoyed a sleigh-ride party out to the home of Henry Oen, member of the class. Dancing was the chief feature of the evening at the Oen home.

Sleighride Party—
A number of the young folks enjoyed a delightful sleigh ride party on Saturday evening of last week. After a few hours' ride about the city the party met at the Junda home four miles east of here, where a delicious lunch was served. There were about sixteen guests.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Strunk of Dayton, Ohio, arrived at Warren on New Year's morning for a visit at the home of Mrs. Strunk's parents, Judge and Mrs. Andrew Grindeland. They will arrive in this city the latter part of this week for a few days' visit at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Mellby. Mrs. Strunk was formerly Miss Synneva Grindeland, principal in the local high school for several years.

Giving the Lie in Georgia.

Chief Justice Hill of the supreme court of Georgia said in Rumsey against Bullard: "All the judges of this court, being 'to the manner born,' are willing to take judicial cognizance of a fact which as individuals they all well know, that in Georgia to call a man a liar, even without raising a stick, usually provokes a breach of the peace, and most generally brings on a fight. There may be exceptions to this rule, but they are rare exotics, and find little nourishment in our Southern soil and beneath our Southern skies."

Tobacco Impoverishes Soil.

It has been calculated that a ton of tobacco withdraws more than a hundredweight of mineral constituents from an acre of land. This would appear to be an astounding waste of material, which must be of enormous value to the soil, considering that 75 per cent consists of calcium and potassium salts and 15 per cent of magnesium and sodium salts, including nearly 5 per cent of the essential constituent to all plants—phosphoric acid.

Chief of Lily Family.

In the great lily family of 200 genera and 2,000 species, the chief division is allium, or the onion group. There are 250 species, not all of which are edible. In the same family are 200 species of smilax and 100 species of asparagus.

FEWER WEDDINGS IN YEAR'S REPORT

SMALLER NUMBER OF LICENSES ISSUED THAN FOR FOUR YEARS PAST

The high cost of living or the war or some other cause seems to have cut down the number of marriages in the city the past year. According to the records in the office of Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund there were 110 licenses issued, this being the smallest number for any year since 1913. The best time of the year for getting married continues to be June, according to Pennington county swains, there having been 14 weddings recorded for that month. October was a close second with 13. March seems to be the most unpopular month, but four licenses being issued during the 31 days of that blizzardous period.

Following is the record for the entire year:

January	6
February	9
March	4
April	7
May	11
June	13
July	7
August	9
September	9
October	13
November	9
December	12

The first wedding of the year was that of Oscar T. Johnson to Minnie Haugan, while the last couple to apply for a license were John Haufek and Kathren Katlan.

The first wedding of the new year is that of John Bratrud and Myrtle Rasmusson, which took place last evening at the Brumund.

A comparison of the record of the past year with those of former periods shows the following: Number of licenses in 1911, 99; in 1912, 106; in 1913, 96; 1914, 116; 1915, 123; 1916, 120; 1917, 110.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in the stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and cannot get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all of the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Movies.

The Princess theatre for the coming week offers a bill of such variety and excellence that it is doubtful if a better showing can be claimed by any moving picture house in the country. The most brilliant stars in the moving picture business will be seen in the very latest of their productions and it is hard to see how a program of greater general interest could be selected.

Beginning this evening Clara Kimball Young heads her own company in the great emotional masterpiece, "Magda." On Friday evening Wallace Reid appears in the Paramount play, "Nan of Music Mountain." This is said to be the greatest play in which this young man has yet starred. On Saturday night charming Viola Allen appears in "Aladdin's Other Lamp," a Metro wonderplay of which very nice things are said by the city press.

It is some time since William S. Hart has been in this city and his appearance will be greeted by packed houses on Sunday and Monday evenings when he appears in his latest and greatest success, "The Narrow Trail." Hart is in a class by himself and a strong favorite everywhere.

Tuesday is Greater Vitagraph day at the Princess and the stars are Alice Joyce and Harry Morey. It is one of the Blue Ribbon features.

On Wednesday the wonderful Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa, appears in a picturization of Wallace Irwin's famous masterpiece of humor, "Hashimura Togo, the Japanese School Boy."

Manager Lawrence will leave at the end of the week for the cities for the purpose of deciding upon plans and selecting material for remodeling the interior of the Lyceum and the work will begin in a short time.

Philippine Begonias.

The Philippine Islands are very productive of begonias and a California begonia expert is responsible for the statement that of late some 60 species and varieties never known to commerce have of late been found in our new eastern insular possessions. It is feared, however, that all of these need tropical temperatures and, therefore, are only subjects for greenhouse culture.

PROGRAM GOES WITHOUT HITCH

CITY COUNCIL ORGANIZES WITH NO DISSENTING VOICE ON ANY SUBJECT

NEW APPOINTMENTS MADE

A. H. AKRE IS NOW CITY CLERK AND O. E. ERICKSON CHIEF OF POLICE

The new council met and organized for business on Tuesday evening and [illegible] a jarring note was to be observed [illegible]ng the proceedings. The retiring [illegible]bers closed up their business [illegible] neatness and dispatch and their successors took control as if they were old hands at the business.

President O. L. Bakken was the valedictorian for the retiring council. He spoke of the progress made during the past two years and said he believed the administration had been generally satisfactory to the people. For himself and associates he pledged the most loyal support to the men who are to guide the destinies of the city during the next two years, which he hoped would be both prosperous and pleasant.

City Clerk A. H. Fasel followed with a few words in praise of the council with which he has worked during the past two years and stated that while he had been assured that his official head would be among the first to fall into the basket, yet such are the vicissitudes of politics and he bore no person any ill will because of what was about to happen to him.

Ihle Made President.

Nothing more harmonious than what followed could well be conceived. Ole L. Ihle, during the past two years alderman from the Third ward but now one of the councilmen-at-large, was elected to the presidency, and Peter O. Myhrum, his successor from the Third, was made vice president. The name of A. H. Akre was presented for city clerk, and he received the votes of all six councilmen. The same process was followed in the case of Theo. Quale, who was re-elected as city attorney. Then followed in order the following selections, all unanimous: City assessor, Martin Evenson; street commissioner, O. L. Bakken; superintendent of water and light, Leonard Peterson; incinerator superintendent, Martin Owen; city physician, Dr. H. W. Froehlich; auditorium custodian, George Doland.

The Mayor's Recommendations.

Mayor G. A. Penney in presenting his message to the council stated that [illegible] was well aware of the prevalence [illegible] reports to the effect that certain persons or parties would now receive greater favor than in the past, but he wanted to go on record as saying that so far as it lay within his power he would see that the law was obeyed in every particular. He suggested that the administration adopt as its slogan, "Economy and Conservation," and that all work for the future should be most carefully worked out. He doubted the advisability of engaging on any great municipal enterprises at this time, but urged that the necessities of the city be borne in mind at all times in order that the city might be ready to go forward when matters again resumed their normal aspect.

Certain suggestions were made in regard to the conduct of the water and light department and Mayor Penney evidently thought a new plan should be followed in dealing with public utilities.

In closing, the mayor made a strong plea for united support of the government during the war. He hoped that the people, individually [illegible] as a municipality, would aid him in hunting down any indication of sedition that might become evident in order that no stigma might attach to the name of the city when our soldiers return victorious from the war.

Mayor Penney's message was applauded heartily by the councilmen and the large gathering of people present.

Erickson is Chief.

The mayor's appointments were next in order. He named O. E. Erickson as his choice for chief of police, and Roy Morgan for patrolman. On the cemetery committee Fred Roth was appointed to succeed W. W. Prichard, Sr., who wished to retire. As members of the park board were appointed Dr. C. R. Crandall and H. [illegible] Brumund, while the post of health [illegible]icer went to Dr. O. F. Mellby.

For Book Fund.

A small additional amount has been received for the Soldiers' Book fund, which will be forwarded to Washington, D. C., and credited to Pennington county. Dist. 44, Trine Dosland, $1; Dist. 10, Olga Olsen, $1.

Will Dedicate Service Flag.

The Methodist Episcopal church will be the first in the city to unroll a Service Flag in its auditorium. The dedication will take place with special sermon and music next Sunday forenoon, at which time the pastor, Rev. G. O. Parish, will take as the subject for his discourse: "Over the Top With Christ." The flag to be unfurled will contain a star for each of the nine young men who were affiliated with the congregation previous to their enlistment. A general invitation has been extended to the public to attend this dedication service.

FRIDAY IS THRIFT DAY FOR CHILDREN

WAR SAVINGS TO BE EXPLAINED IN ALL RURAL AND CITY SCHOOLS

Teachers in the Thief River Falls schools have received a communication from the Minnesota Committee of Four Minute Men, carrying the notification that Friday, Jan. 11, has been designated as Thrift day in all city and rural schools of the state. Supt. J. H. Hay announces that a part of the afternoon will be given over to explaining the savings certificates and thrift stamps to the children and every teacher will urge that the pupils form the habit of investing their savings in this manner.

The teacher is also asked to appoint, or, if preferred, have the pupils themselves appoint, a boy or girl who will talk to the pupils and to their parents on the different phases of the subject.

After these speeches have been made, the boy or the girl who is most deserving in each school room or in each grade, as best able to represent the school as a Four Minute worker, will be reported by the teacher to Washington. This gives the boy or girl so selected an official status, and he or she is recognized by the Committee of Public Information at Washington as the representative for the War Savings Certificates Speaking campaign in that school or grade.

Minnesota is going to be given a chance to show what can be done in the schools in this way and if the plan works it will be extended throughout the whole nation.

Postmaster John Morgan states that the necessary stamps and certificates will be forthcoming as soon as the government is able to supply the demand. This plan of saving has proved more popular than was thought possible and the first supply of the little savings certificates was not sufficiently large to meet the demand.

Masonic Installation.

A joint installation of officers of Northern Masonic lodge and the Order of the Eastern Star was held last Thursday evening, followed by a lunch. Following were the officers installed by the Masons:

Harry R. Prichard, W. M.; Herbert Fuller, S. W.; Nels A. Nelson, J. W.; T. L. Melgaard, Treas.; Fred A. Gobler, Sec.; J. M. Bishop, Trustee; Glenn I. Richardson, S. D.; Ingwald H. Fossum, J. D.; T. Cliff Orme, Chaplain; Edwin Hill, S. S.; Harold P. Miller, J. S.; S. V. Bailey, Tyler.

The Eastern Stars inducted into office were:

Worthy matron, Edith Bottleson; worthy patron, Fred A. Gobler; associate matron, Nettie Booren; secretary, Anna Quale; treasurer, Mathilda Crandall; conductress, Edith Haynes; associate conductress, Sadie Nason; chaplain, Anna Kinghorn; marshal, Agnes Bakke; organist, Inga Hamry; Adah, Effie Hamry; Ruth, Una Nelson; Esther, Francis Larson; Martha, Jean Stauff; Electa, Mathilda Silk; warder, Bessie Robinson; sentinel, F. F. Haynes.

Sons of Norway Install.

The annual installation of officers of the Sons of Norway lodge took place last Friday evening. E. P. Burstad, former president of the local lodge, now a resident of Cass Lake, was the installing officer. A fine musical program was rendered under the direction of Dr. P. L. Vistaunet and an excellent lunch served. Following were the officers installed:

Judge, Sigurd Grolid; president, Bernhard Knudsen; vice president, Edward Ness; regent, Dr. P. L. Vistaunet; secretary, N. K. Nelson; finance secretary, Sam Johnson; assistant, Tilfred Rolerson; cashier, D. D. Bakke; marshall, William Parbst; outer guard, Iver Aaseby; inner guard, Tobias Reep; trustee, George Eide; chairman sick committee, A. O. Burringrud.

Miss Jean Hay, who is a student at the St. Cloud normal, returned to that place Monday after having spent the holiday vacation with her parents, Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Hay.

COUNTY DADS IN ANNUAL SESSION

COMMISSIONERS ORGANIZE AND PREPARE FOR YEAR OF ACTIVE WORK

TIMES IS OFFICIAL PAPER

DR. P. L. VISTAUNET IS NAMED CORONER—SALARIES SAME AS LAST YEAR

Oscar J. Peterson, commissioner from district No. 3, was chosen chairman of the county board at the annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Peter C. Wold of district No. 4 was made vice chairman. The reports submitted of the work done during the past year showed that it had been a very busy season in most directions. The road construction, while perhaps not as great in mileage as in some former years, has been of a more permanent character and the highways of the county are in excellent shape in all directions.

Vistaunet New Coroner.

As county coroner to fill the unexpired term of H. R. Halverson the board appointed Dr. P. L. Vistaunet. Dr. H. W. Froehlich was made county health officer, with Commissioners Peter G. Wold and J. S. Roy as his confreres on the board.

The Times Official Paper.

The contract for the official printing of the county was awarded to the Thief River Falls Times. This is the publication therefore in which will appear the financial statement, delinquent tax list, proceedings of the board and such other matters as may by law be required to be published during the year. This award was made in recognition of the fact that The Times is the one general news medium of the people of the county and the publication towards which they will naturally look for such matters as is of greatest interest to them.

Salaries the Same.

No changes were made in the salaries of the county employes over which the board has control.

A complete report of the transactions of the meeting will be found in the official proceedings in these columns next week.

NON-PARTISANS TO HOLD BIG MEETING

R. B. MARTIN OF MONTANA TO BE SPEAKER HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The objects and aims of the National Non-Partisan League will be explained to the citizens of Thief River Falls and vicinity by R. B. Martin of Montana, one of the party organizers, who will speak at the Commercial club rooms on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 17. Mr. Martin is said to be one of the ablest of the league's speakers and as there is a considerable membership in Pennington and surrounding counties he will no doubt be greeted by a large audience. Few things now transpiring in this country have come in for more comment than the activities of this organization and many who are not in sympathy with the aims announced will no doubt wish to hear what one of the leaders in the movement has to offer.

This meeting will be held at the time of the State Dairymen's and State Buttermakers' conventions, and for this reason the Auditorium was not available.

In New Quarters.

The Thief River Music company will in a few days be settled in their new quarters in the Union block on Third street. The quarters formerly occupied by the concern on Second street became too small to accommodate the growing business and a larger store as well as work room became an absolute necessity. Ebert & Hagen, the proprietors, have built up an excellent trade throughout this section and the larger quarters will enable them to increase their stock as well as make a better display.

Card of Thanks.

We wish in this manner to thank the citizens generally and our neighbors in particular for the assistance and comfort extended when our residence was destroyed by fire Monday evening. We saved absolutely nothing and had it not been for the prompt response of the neighbors, the members of the family and the young girls making their temporary home at the house would have been in a much worse plight.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gullingsrud.

MAYOR G. A. PENNEY

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

A meeting of much importance to the welfare of the community and the standing of Thief River Falls among Minnesota municipalities has been called for Friday evening, Jan. 11, at the Auditorium.

Inasmuch as a number of the members of Company C, Eleventh Battalion, Minnesota Home Guards, have been called to the colors and are enlisted in the defense of their country, it becomes advisable to recruit new members of the Home Guard to take their places. It is therefore hoped that as many of our citizens as are interested in the welfare of the state and community will be present at this meeting. The young men will be asked to join the company in order that it may be recruited up to its full strength of 76 men.

This is a patriotic duty you owe at this time and is a matter of much importance. I therefore join the officers of the company in urging upon the citizens that they attend this meeting and, further, that they prevail upon the young men of the community to become members of the company.

G. A. PENNEY, Mayor.

Entertained W. C. T. U.—
Mesdames Olaf Ramstad and Anna C. Watson entertained the W. C. T. U. on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the former, 606 LaBree avenue north. This was a Mother's meeting and after the business meeting the following program, in charge of Mrs. T. T. Kiland and Mrs. E. O. Erickson, was given:

Piano Solo, Selected—Mrs. Oscar Sponheim.
Paper: "Helps for Mothers of Boys" —Mrs. T. T. Kiland.
Vocal Solo, Selected—Miss Elsie Watson.
Reading, Selected—Miss Louise Erickson.
Paper: "Are Boys Worth Saving?"—Mrs. E. O. Erickson.
Songs—By the Union.

Refreshments were served after the program by the hostesses.

For Mrs. Giller—
Mrs. Chas. Fiterman entertained on Wednesday afternoon of last week at her home, 410 Duluth avenue north, in honor of Mrs. Maurice Giller, who left Sunday for her parental home at Boston for an extended visit. Bridge was played at three tables and light refreshments were served by the hostess. The rooms were artistically decorated, red and white being the color scheme.

For Mr. and Mrs. Miller—
The Eastern Star lodge is giving a farewell party this evening at the J. M. Bishop home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, who leave tomorrow for Crookston to make their new home. Mrs. Miller has been organist in the lodge during the past year and Mr. Miller was patron.

Gave Dinner Parties—
Hugh Bottolson entertained at a six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening at his home in honor of Lawrence Hermanson, who is home from Camp Dodge on a furlough. Oscar Paulson was host at a similar event last evening at his home. Both dinners were attended by members of Mr. Hermanson's class at Lincoln high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Wengeler Entertain—
Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. John Wengeler entertained at their home, 715 Bridge street. The evening was spent in dancing and music. Refreshments were served. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Keating, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Michaels, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cosgrove, and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Mussey.

TEN HERDS ARE NOW REGISTERED

THIS NUMBER OF ENTRIES CERTAIN AT NEXT WEEK'S MEETINGS HERE

CREAMERY TO PAY PART

TO CONTRIBUTE FIFTY CENTS TOWARD THE COST OF THE BANQUET

Ten owners of Pennington county dairy herds have thus far signified their intention of entering the prize contests at the annual meeting of the State Dairymen's association to be held in this city for four days beginning next Tuesday. As the entries will not close until the day preceding the opening of the convention it is likely that this number will be somewhat increased. So far only Pennington county is represented, but the expectation is that dairymen from other sections of the Northwest will enter herds for competition. Any general representation from the state at large can hardly be expected at this time of year as the transportation facilities are too uncertain.

Following are the owners who have notified the secretary of their intention to have exhibits, together with the breed of cattle they will show: Hans Anton, V. C. Noper, Fred Beerbauer and Hans Rued, Holsteins; W. E. Sargent, F. B. Conklin, C. Jensen of Clearbrook; Peter Engelstad and Dr. F. H. Gambell, Guernseys.

Fifty Head Certain.

The ten herds above mentioned alone insure a total of fifty head being displayed. The rules of the association are that each exhibit must consist of one registered sire, one cow, one two-year-old and one yearling heifer, and one calf. The ages of the young stock is figured from August 1.

Creamery Helps Pay.

The Thief River Falls Co-operative Creamery association has offered to pay fifty cents per plate toward defraying the cost of the banquet to be given for the visitors on Wednesday evening. Business men of the city generally have been liberal in their donations and this unexpected aid on the part of the creamery officials places the finance committee in excellent shape to meet whatever demands may be made upon it.

Governor Will Speak.

There will be a number of the foremost dairy authorities in the West present to make addresses during the four days of the convention. Gov. Burnquist will be the principal speaker at the banquet to be given on Wednesday evening, this being one of the very few occasions on which the governor will be absent from the capital during the winter.

The meeting is considered of great importance by dairymen everywhere in the state as it will be the first time the annual gathering has been held in this section.

Buttermakers Also Here.

The State Buttermakers' convention will be held at the same time as that of the dairymen. Butter from nearly all the creameries in the association will be shown and at the close of the meeting the exhibits will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. At the time of the Northwestern Dairymen's convention here last winter there was spirited bidding for the butter exhibited and with the more numerous entries certain at this time the competition will be even more keen.

This will be the biggest convention of its kind in the state this year and special efforts have been made to provide entertainment for the delegates.

To Entertain Today—
Mrs. Nate Harris and Mrs. Ila Reynolds are entertaining at a parcel shower this afternoon at the home of the former in honor of Mrs. H. W. Froehlich, whose home was destroyed by fire Monday. Invitations have been issued to twenty-two guests and the afternoon will be spent in knitting and needlework.

Entertained at Dinner—
Rev. and Mrs. George Larson entertained Monday evening at their home, 315 Arnold avenue north, in honor of the Misses Olive Skramstad and Hannah Peterson of this city, who returned Tuesday afternoon to Fargo to resume their studies at the Oak Grove seminary. Dinner was served to the following guests: Misses Adelia and Birdie Tvet, Grace, Olive and Helen Skramstad, Hannah Peterson, Louise Erickson, Mabel Husted, Myrtle Oftelie and Helvise Stang.

Francis Burns returned Saturday afternoon from Badger, where he had spent a few days with his aunt:

New Banana Room.

The Thief River Grocery company is having the banana ripening room of the plant remodeled by an expert this week. The plan adopted answers for both refrigerating and heating purposes and will be among the best to be found anywhere in the country when completed. The room is being enlarged and will have a capacity of two carloads of the fruit. The cold storage plant of the company is also being gone over by the same expert and many improvements will be installed. The ventilating system of the building was found not quite satisfactory and this will be attended to

MORE MEN WANTED FOR HOME GUARD

MATTER TO BE TAKEN UP AT IMPORTANT MEETING ON FRIDAY NIGHT

First Lieut. Oscar Sponheim, commanding Company C, 11th Battalion, Minnesota Home Guard, has notified all members of an important meeting to be held at the Auditorium on Friday evening. Attendance is compulsory and nothing but unavoidable absence from the city will be accepted as an excuse for non-compliance with the order.

Among the important matters coming before the meeting is the selection of a new captain. Maj. Charles Loring of Crookston will be present, as will also Capt. H. Z. Mitchell, former commander of the local company. All guns and equipment is ordered brought to the armory in order that they may be checked up.

This will be an open meeting and the public is invited to attend. Owing to a number of the company members having joined the army the unit is short several men of its full quota and it is desired that enough new men make application to bring the enrollment up to the maximum strength.

Drilling has been suspended for the present but will be resumed in a short time. It is probable that the instructions during the winter months will take the form of tactical study rather than the arms manual and marching movements, these being handled to better advantage out of doors.

The boys of the company are justified in being proud of the progress thus far made. Capt. Mitchell before leaving made the assertion that it was the best-drilled unit in the state home guard and hoped that the interest would not be permitted to lag.

WILL HAVE CHARGE AS SALES MANAGER

TESSUM COMPANY ADDS ANOTHER EXPERIENCED MAN TO ITS FORCE

A. W. Hockenberger, for a number of years in charge of this territory for the Washburn-Crosby company, with headquarters at Crookston, has been made sales manager at the plant of the Tessum Seed, Grain and Supply company of this city, entering upon his duties last Monday. Mr. Hockenberger has traveled through this territory for years while in the employ of the big milling concern and will thus be no stranger to many of the patrons of his new employers. His family will remain at Crookston for the present, but will move as soon as a suitable location can be found in the spring.

Gynther C. Tessum, who has been combining the office of sales manager with that of general buyer, will now devote his attention entirely to the buying and traffic end of the business.

Card of Thanks.

On our own behalf and the behalf of those who lost their belongings in the fire which destroyed our residence on Monday night we wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the many kindnesses shown us in our trouble. The houses of the neighbors were thrown open to us and we realize they were put to considerable inconvenience because of our misfortune. Many of us might have been in a decidedly serious predicament had it not been for the prompt assistance extended.

Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Froehlich.

Big Dance at Mavie on Saturday evening, Jan. 19, given by the Silverton band. Music by Greenfield's orchestra. Car will leave Thief River Falls at 8 o'clock. A fine supper served. Everybody invited.—J-10-17

TWO BAD FIRES ENDANGER LIVES

TEACHERS DRIVEN INTO THE STREET IN BITTER COLD WHEN HOUSE BURNS

SCHOOL PUPILS LOSE ALL

SECOND FIRE GIVES GIRLS TIME ONLY TO ESCAPE IN THEIR NIGHT CLOTHES

Two bad fires within twenty-four hours is the week's record, this being one of the worst experienced by the city for a long time. The total loss is in the neighborhood of $10,000 with insurance of about half that sum. Two modern dwelling houses were burned to the ground and in both cases the lives of the inmates were endangered.

About five o'clock on Monday morning the residence of Dr. H. W. Froehlich at the corner of Main avenue and Seventh street was discovered on fire and was so badly damaged that it is almost a total loss. The cause of the blaze is a mystery as Dr. Froehlich had looked to the furnace but a short time previously and had then found everything in good shape. A box of kindling standing near a wall appears to have been the source of the blaze, although it is not known to have contained any matches. The space between the studdings near where this box was located formed a flue for the fire, which was thus drawn to the upper stories first.

Teachers Driven Out.

Four of the teachers in the city schools were roomers in the house—Misses Carrie Trogan, Gertrude Holmes and Margaret Skully and Mr. C. J. Roberts. The latter had just returned from his holiday vacation and his effects were packed up as he had left them on his departure from the city. His trunk was flung through a window and thus escaped injury, while two suit cases full of clothing had been left at the Evelyn Hotel upon his coming from the train. The other three teachers were less fortunate. They also had just returned from their vacation trips and had taken their suit cases from the train to the house. The clothing and effects contained in these were all destroyed, the loss perhaps being $500 in the aggregate. The ladies reached the street without injury but were clothed only in what they were able to grab in their flight. They were at once taken care of so far as their physical well-being was concerned by the neighbors, but were left in a decidedly bad plight for clothing.

Mrs. Froehlich and children were no better off, having saved practically nothing.

The Second Fire.

Monday night about 12 o'clock the department was again called out, this time to find the residence of John Gullingsrud at Main avenue and Fourth street a mass of flames. This fire is supposed to have started from defective wiring and so rapidly did it burn that it was impossible to save any of the interior effects. The fire started in the kitchen and the inmates had barely time to escape. Besides the members of the family, there were six high school girls staying at the place and these were driven out in their night clothes. None of them saved a stitch of any kind and some of them will feel the loss heavily. Mr. Gullingsrud's loss is about $7,000 on the building, with insurance $3,000. The furniture, valued at about $1,500, was not covered by insurance. In this fire were also destroyed a number of family keepsakes which were very highly prized by Misses Clara and Lena Gullingsrud, who had no time in which to secure even their most cherished belongings.

Surgical Dressing Classes.

The Red Cross rooms at the Auditorium will be open on Monday and Tuesday afternoons during the week for those who are receiving instructions in the making of surgical dressings. Saturday evenings have been set aside especially for teachers who wish to assist in this work. All the ladies of the city are invited to attend, as there will be plenty for everyone to do. Those attending the classes are advised to bring a long apron with sleeves to protect their clothing and a piece of square cloth to use over their hair.

W. O. W. Meeting.

Annual installation of officers of Sterns Camp No. 122, Woodmen of the World, will occur at the meeting of the camp next Friday evening, Jan. 11. All Woodmen are requested to be there and help make the meeting a success. J-10

ARE WE SLOWING DOWN?

It is now some time since the Commercial club of this city has been host at one of those "get-together" functions for which the city was famous only a year or so ago, and merchants and farmers alike are wondering why it is. For genuine community upbuilding nothing equal to these little affairs was ever devised. The farmer was made to feel that the city man had a genuine interest in his welfare, while the merchant was given an opportunity to meet and converse with people who might not have come to the city were it not for the cordial invitation extended and the inducements held out in the way of entertainment.

When asked why this policy was suddenly abandoned, the answer of those who should know is that the war and general retrenchment is responsible. This is not a good excuse. The merchant is particularly anxious that the farmer shall not get the idea fastened into his head that conditions are such as to make a niggardly policy in expenditures necessary, but he helps this impression along through his failure to "carry on" as in the past. If the merchant (and the Commercial club is practically an association of merchants) finds it advisable to hold down expenses by cutting out these little affairs, which cost so little and mean so much, it is only to be expected that the farmer will take the cue and begin a policy of unnecessary and unwise retrenchment on his own hook.

The merchant is naturally anxious that the slogan "business as usual" shall mean just exactly what it says, yet the fact that the very activities originating with and carried on by that merchant have been discontinued since the war was brought to us is evidence sufficient to many that he does not believe in his own preachment. The farmer and other consumer is justified in thinking that there must be some well-founded reason for this condition and begins to curtail expenses—very often at the wrong end.

There is more need for co-operation between farm and city than ever before in the history of the country. Not only is this now a matter of business but also a patriotic duty. A better understanding of what our government requires of us all in the present emergency will be gained through a closer intercourse. Business will thereby be helped and the farmer encouraged.

There was naturally some kick on the cost of these little parties at the time they were regular events, but there is more kicking now that they have stopped. If we must have something to growl about it might better be for the reason that we are doing too much than because we are doing nothing at all.

THE ONE STAND-BY

When it comes to according unflinching support to the administration in the present troublous times, the country press should be accorded the place of honor. It sometimes happens that the editors of these journals do not entirely agree with everything proposed or attempted, but they almost without exception take the position that what they themselves think does not matter and applaud the action on general principles. It is freely admitted that the success of the two Liberty Bond issues was largely made possible by the work of the newspapers outside the big cities, while the enthusiasm with which the Red Cross requests were met and the Y. M. C. A. fund subscribed was in a great measure due to the excellent work done by the smaller publications. Occasionally a city daily is willing to acknowledge these things, as witness the following from the Fargo Courier-News:

"To one whose work and pleasure it is to scan some hundreds of country papers each week for items of general interest, there comes a realization of the great power of the press that perhaps could not come in any other way.

"Week after week, in unison, the country papers appeal to the patriotism of their readers and report the results of their appeals.

"It costs money to set type, and if the cost of setting all the type—most of it by hand—used by the country papers of the nation in backing Mr. Wilson and Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Hoover and the other war-chiefs each week could be computed, the total would probably be greater than any amount given in like time by any other business interest of the nation.

"And the country papers keep this up week in and week out, the year around. If it isn't one thing, it's another, for the good of the nation or the community.

"Congress should be very careful in any legislation affecting the press. There should be the widest circulation of reading material—daily papers, weekly papers, magazines and periodicals of all kinds.

"There should be no tax on public information.

"Rather, present restrictions should be removed. This government should not commit the folly of hindering the current that is its very life blood."

A MESSAGE TO THE NORTHWEST

The outcome of the war depends more upon the farmers of this country than upon the soldiers in the trenches. There is not a doubt in the world as to how these latter will perform the work allotted to them—providing they are properly equipped and fed. And the farmer must provide the food. So important is his part of the task that any failure to do what is expected could easily be responsible for the losing of the war. Thoughtful men all over the country are calling attention to this fact and the farmers themselves are awake to its importance. In a published message addressed to the farmers of the Northwest, Cyrus L. Northrup, president emeritus of the University of Minnesota, urges still greater effort in order that our soldiers and those of our Allies may be fed. He says:

"The most vital problem before the farmer is how to raise the largest crops on the land cultivated, and to cultivate as much land as possible. Upon the farmers of the Northwest rests the responsibility for feeding, not only a large part of our own people, but also our allies in Europe, to say nothing of the hungry people in other countries. The task of the farmer is rendered increasingly difficult by the withdrawal of a million or more men from productive labor and the inevitable increase of difficulty in securing sufficient help for the farm work. But the absolute necessity of raising immense crops to meet the world demand should make every farmer zealous to do all he can. The failure of the food supply might cause the war to go against us. Patriotism, if not self-interest, should inspire every farmer to raise as large crops as possible. The future of the world in large measure depends today on the united, loyal and enthusiastic farm work that shall produce as much food for the world as the world needs."

The intention of the Minnesota Council of Defense in requesting that the people be permitted to cut the dead and down timber on state lands for fuel is without question very good, but it is doubtful if any very general advantage will be taken of the privilege extended. The trouble is that the intrinsic value of the wood itself is a comparatively small part of its delivered cost. Minnesota has enough wood rotting on state lands to keep the entire northwest from freezing for a long time, but permission to cut it is the smallest obstacle in the way of its utilization. Transportation and handling charges are the main items in the cost of wood in Minnesota and these matters will not be remedied to any great extent through permission to secure the actual material free of cost. Persons living in the immediate neighborhood of state lands generally have all the wood they care for on their own places and will have to burn it off anyway before they can use the land for any other purpose. If the defense council could devise some plan whereby this fuel could be gotten to the people of the cities at a lower price than at present through a reduction in the shippings costs it would prove of the greatest benefit, but as matters now stand it is very much to be feared that coal will continue to be the commodity demanded by practically everyone. At that the council is to be commended for making a move in the right direction. Things may yet come to a pass where this wood will be an absolute necessity, in which case the preliminary work of having secured permission to cut it will be just that much gained.

The food administrator is asking the people of the United States to use more potatoes as a wheat-saving measure. Why? Because we have somewhere between thirty and seventy million surplus bushels of table potatoes that must be consumed between now and the next crop in this country. Not only must this excess be saved as food but more wheat must be sent to our associates in the war and a baked potato which saves a slice of bread is a real soldier. Both are rich in the starch that keeps up energy. Americans eat only about two and one-half bushels of potatoes per person per year. The English and the French eat more than three times as many. Use potatoes. There are few "new" ways in which they can be cooked but little improvement over the old way is needed.

Billy Sunday's peculiar style of putting his arguments across may not always meet with the approval of people who find it unnecessary to exercise their religious convictions in a gymnasium, but what he says often contains a barb that makes it stick in the memory. While delivering one of his characteristic discourses the other day he said that when the kaiser attempted to make the achievements of Krupp set at naught the teachings of Christ, and to make the rest of the world believe that the iron cross is a greater civilizing influence than the cross of Calvary, he assumed a contract that he will never be permitted to finish.

The third Liberty Loan drive will open on February 15, according to reports from Washington. Do you remember what a comparatively easy matter it proved for you to meet the payments on the preceding two? This one will probably be made even easier and by the time it is over a lot of people will have more money than they ever expected to have at this time. Something funny about a Liberty Bond. The more you buy of them the more money you have left.

It finally develops that Luxberg was crazy at the time he sent those messages from Buenos Ayres. Now, in order to clear up the entire situation, it is only necessary to prove that the Berlin foreign office was also insane at the time the orders were sent to Luxberg.

To Our Friends and Patrons

In announcing the removal of our store and workroom to the Union Block, we wish to thank our patrons for the liberal patronage extended while we were at the old quarters on Second street. The new store will enable us to meet the needs of the community better than ever before. We will have the space necessary for the proper display of our wares as well as the room required in order to accommodate the much larger stock we are intending to carry.

We will appreciate a visit to our new quarters and will assure you of the same courteous treatment and the same liberal trading conditions that have always characterized our house.

Yours truly, Thief River Music Co.

TALES OF THE FAR NORTH

Being an Account of My Experiences During the Three Years I Was Employed by the Government in Alaska.

By Dr. F. H. Gambell, Thief River Falls.

After graduating from medical work in 1898, I passed the state boards of Iowa and Minnesota and located for the practice of my profession in a small city in northern Minnesota. I had only been there long enough to learn of the tediousness of sitting in the office, waiting for patients, with nothing to do, while the whole outside world was astir with spring work. It seemed that I would exchange my position for anything had I only the opportunity to do so. Then when a letter came from Washington asking me to telegraph my acceptance or refusal of work offered me in a medical line in Alaska, I could not wait with patience till I knew definitely that I was to go. Then, when the commission was sent me and I was ordered to leave on such and such a date, I was eager and ready to leave when my transportation reached me.

How I reveled in the thoughts of an ocean voyage! I dreamed of the new experiences which were to be mine. I could see the Eskimos and the seals, the Polar bears, and the walruses, just as I had seen them in the pictures in my old Swinton's geography back in that little old red school house in Iowa.

I dreamed of Alaska; I ate seal blubber with a relish; I went spearing seal in a native kyak; I took long winter trips with dogs and reindeer, sleeping in the open, buried in snow in reindeer sleeping bags; I hunted and fished and saw the winter days all night and the summer nights all day, just as though I had really been in person in this cold, snowy land.

I wanted to see the strange flowers that must grow and be so different in that country from the ones I was accustomed to seeing in this temperate zone. I wished to study the Eskimos, their mode of living, the food they ate, their superstitions, their dialect and their religion.

I was just overflowing with pent-up energy. My imagination took me over wild and dreary places almost unimaginable. I wanted to go with all my heart, though I knew that I would suffer hardships and privations.

While I was in the government's service, nevertheless, I was dependent upon myself as to my food supply, my clothing, and anything else that I might need. There was so much uncertainty as to what I would require. To put in an order for a year and not forget anything, when I did not even know my wants for a week ahead in this country where I was wont to live, was a task of no small proportions, especially as it dealt with a country and conditions altogether unfamiliar to me. But upon reaching Seattle and getting into one of those large stores fitted up especially for the purpose of supplying Alaska miners with all the necessities of life for at least a year to come, I was soon convinced that a man's ration had accurately been figured out for that length of time and that there was no question as to how many pounds of flour, how many tins of butter, how many cans of condensed milk, how many pounds of evaporated potatoes, the number of pounds of dessicated eggs, there should be; and when it came to beans and bacon and oatmeal and everything else imaginable, were they not recorded on a list that everyone might see, and buy to the limit?

Of course, like everyone else going to Alaska, I was persuaded to buy the very unnecessary paraphernalia for self defense—the revolver and a sufficient quantity of ammunition for the year. Had I used all the cartridges I was persuaded to purchase I would either have been shooting in self defense every day of the year or killing wild animals continually. As to my clothing, I hardly need say that with the heavy hobnailed lace boots, the blue flannel shirts, the mackinaw and overalls, I was rigged out much different than when I appeared upon the platform a few short months before to receive my diploma.

The cost of all this seemed enormous to me, for I was in debt for my school work and I was planning on using as little as possible of my first year's salary and applying the remainder on my indebtedness. It seemed that all my meagre allowance would go a glimmering before I had even started my work in Alaska. But I did not need to wait till I had reached Alaska to begin my work, for a whole colony of government people were stationed at Port Townsend out a ways from Seattle. Thither I was instructed to go.

Now, I had always been blessed by the fact that I had lived where the people with whom I came in contact could be addressed in English and could respond in the same language, but when I saw my colony—the people with whom I was to work and live more or less for at least the next year, dressed in their odd four cornered caps, their loose blouses belted with a belt carrying a heavy, sheathed, murderous hunting knife; with their feet clothed in such odd turned-up cow-skin shoes—such funny little people with straggly hair, and the men with whiskers sparsely covering their faces; the men, women and children with their oval faces and peculiar eyes suggestive of the Mongolian races—I say when I saw these and knew that they were Laplanders and heard their Lappish conversation, I knew for a certainty that their tongues were guiltless of ever having uttered an English word. And as for me ever being able to speak their language—it was out of the question. Greek used to be hard enough for me, but it did not compare with the Lappish language. In fact, during the three years that I was with them I learned but one word and that was, "Heleve, heleve, heleve!" I would not have learned that had it not been that one of my reindeer drivers used to repeat it over and over again when anything went wrong. I never learned what that meant, for when I asked him he would only laugh. The word sounded so suggestive, and it was used always to give vent to his pent-up feelings, it meant but one thing to me.

Most of the Laps could speak some Norwegian for they came from Kauntikano, a city in the northern part of Norway. I also had learned a little and when it came to communicating one with another, if there was no interpreter present we expressed ourselves in a very peculiar language—so peculiar in fact that on one occasion after we had been talking regarding the deer, we left the tent and a Norwegian who was present turned to one of my friends and said: "What language were those people using?"

I have failed to give you any information as to why these people were here, away off from their native land. The government was endeavoring to introduce domesticated reindeer into Alaska from Siberia with the intention of placing the deer into the hands of the Eskimos. As the life of the Eskimo was anything but that pertaining to a pastoral existence, he needed teachers before he could change his mode and manner of living.

First Siberians had been brought over from their own county along with the deer, but they were so savage and quarrelsome that it was soon learned that they were productive of more harm than good and they were returned to their homes. Next a few Lappish families were brought over and got along fine with the Eskimos, and, when they wrote home and told of their experiences in this country, it was not difficult to get this whole colony to come over. It was a long trip for them to take and they attracted much attention all along the way.

While some of these people became homesick and returned home after a year or two spent in Alaska, a good many families are there yet and doing well with large herds of reindeer. Some of the unmarried men have married Eskimo women, and a new race of deer men is being developed in Alaska.

These people were to teach our Eskimos not only how to herd and care for the deer, but they were to teach them how to make their sleds, their harness and their lassoes; they were to teach them how to break the deer to the sled, to care for them during the fawning season, and a thousand things more, so essential and so foreign to the poor Eskimos, who had always lived in villages and sustained themselves and families by fishing and hunting.

A week or so passed by at Port Townsend and we were looking every day for a vessel to come and take us on board to carry us to our destination. Ships and barks and schooners would come and anchor in the harbor and then would draw up anchor and sail away, but no ship seemed to be coming for us. The whole colony was becoming restless and uneasy. Liquor could easily be procured in the city and was being brought out to our camp. Men and women were becoming demoralized because of it, and I was growing tired of the hideous nights and wished for the arrival of our vessel to take us away.

At last, one morning as the fog raised from off the water, we saw a vessel lying closer to the shore than any vessel had anchored before, and the word went from one to another that we were to sail. And "sail" it surely would be, for the vessel was a sailing vessel with two tall masts. They told me that I should not call it a ship for it was a two-masted schooner and not a ship. I thereupon acquainted myself by inquiry with the distinguishing features of a ship, a schooner, a brigantine, a full master, and the other numerous characteristics belonging to the family of sailing vessels seen at anchor in a large harbor.

But coming back to our schooner—how all that crowd of people could live in that boat, so little of which could be seen above the water line except those two tall masts sticking straight up into the air! I knew absolutely nothing about a sailing vessel. Had they asked me about it, and had I been compelled to answer as to what our fate would be should we ever leave the quiet harbor and get out into the great rolling waves of the ocean with a vessel like that, I should have said that the first wave big enough to be crowned by a white cap that came along our way would swamp us and go rolling along without the least sign that there had ever been anything in its way.

But I was not consulted in the least and there was a great bustle in the whole camp. All the personal belongings were being gathered together and packed ready to be put on board. There was a meeting on shore when, after the first load, it was found that twenty miners were already on board. It was finally agreed that there was not room for all, and about thirty Laps—men, women and children—were put amidships, while the rest waited for other transportation. The captain, the miners and myself were in the cabin aft, while the sailors, one cook and his helper were in the galley in the bow of the boat.

Before embarking I sent all my friends a pre-ocean voyage message, for I did not know that they would ever hear from me again. The idea of going between two and three thousand miles and reaching our port of destiny in safety seemed very problematical to me, especially on a vessel like that. But I had been clutched by the fates and could not turn back, for I was aboard the boat that June afternoon when those two great white wings were spread out to catch the breeze, and the anchor lifted. We were off, headed straight west, destined to make the best of the discomforts in store for us on the great, heaving, restless, disturbed breast of the old Pacific ocean.

New Teachers Assume Duties.

When school opened after the holiday vacation last Monday there were several new teachers present. Miss Oldaker of Marshalltown, Ia., takes the place made vacant by the resignation of Morlan Bishop as science teacher; Miss Smith, Hudson, Minn., succeeds Miss Jacobs at the Washington school, and Miss Erickson of Meadowlands, Minn., took charge of Miss Krueger's former pupils at the Knox. A new secretary, Miss Estelle Tolfstad, formerly of Minneapolis, is in charge of the clerical work in the office of Supt. Hay.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NEWS

Scott Laird, city salesman for the Thief River Grocery company, is this week covering the territory of W. J. Gray, who is spending a week in the Twin Cities. Harry Warner is substituting for Mr. Laird during his road trip.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warner on Sunday morning, Jan. 6, a son.

Anyone having rooms to rent during the dairymen's convention which meets here Jan. 15, 16, 17 and 18, kindly notify H. A. Brumund.—J-10

Mrs. Roy Lambert and son, George, returned last Thursday from Detroit, where they had spent the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Lambert's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Howard Smith returned on Wednesday of last week from St. Paul, where they had been visiting with Mrs. Smith's parents. Mrs. Smith had been at St. Paul for several weeks, while Mr. Smith was there only for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Palmer and children left the first of the week for Minneapolis, where they will make their future home. They have made this city their home for the past year, Mr. Palmer being owner of the Lyceum theatre. Mr. Palmer will be engaged in the farm loan and mortgage business at Minneapolis.

Mrs. R. H. Ross, who has been visiting at Luverne, this state, with her parents for the past month, is expected to return to this city on Saturday.

E. O. Mogensen left Sunday night for Minneapolis for a few days' business trip. He returned on Tuesday.

Miss Sidona Poston, who is teaching in the public schools at Warroad, returned to that place Saturday after having spent her Christmas vacation here at her home.

Miss Ruth Vik returned to her home at Strandquist last Saturday after spending several days in this city with friends.

One Newspaper Now.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Since the consolidation of the Thief River Falls Times and the News-Press, which took place last week, that city has only one paper. A few years ago that condition would not have been allowed to exist but now high prices of labor, paper and all materials entering into the production of a newspaper, it is a mighty hard matter for one paper to make a reasonable rate of interest on its investment, let alone having two to occupy the same field. Both Times and News-Press were model newspapers but Thief River Falls was not large enough to support both so the merger was the only means at hand to save both of them from bankruptcy. The war has so altered conditions in the newspaper business that where two papers have existed and managed to scrape along before, there is room for one and that one will not make a fortune by any means. Editor Ross of The Times will no doubt attain the heights demanded from a publisher in a one-paper town and will give the city of Thief River Falls as good a paper as can be found in the state.

Caught Under Gravel Load.

Clare O'Hara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. O'Hara of this city, was quite badly injured in an unusual manner last week. He was hauling gravel with a four-horse team belonging to his father near Lockhart, using a sleigh and regular dump box. He was standing on the roller and in crossing a small ditch the sleigh struck the edge with the result that the load was thrown forward, pinning both the young man's feet to the frozen ground. Workmen in the neighborhood attempted to haul the heavy load backward but it stuck fast and had to be shoveled off by hand. This took a matter of a half an hour, Mr. O'Hara remaining pinned down during that time.

He was brought to this city, where it was found that although no bones were broken the injuries were of such a nature that he is likely to be laid up during the remainder of the winter.

Injured in Cave-In.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Alec Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Swanson, was badly injured Tuesday when a cave-in occurred in the county gravel pit where he was working.

Alec had gone in the pit under an overhanging ledge to set off a charge of dynamite to uncover a part of the gravel vein. While engaged in this work, the ledge caved in and buried him. His brothers, with the assistance of other men in the pit at the time, managed to get him out and medical aid was summoned at once. It was found that his spine was injured, part of his face crushed and that he had sustained numerous injuries and bruises. He is at present in a precarious condition.

An advertisement in The Times is sure to bring the desired result. It is the real business tonic.

Heart Disease Almost Fatal to Young Girl

"My daughter, when thirteen years old, was stricken with heart trouble. She was so bad we had to place her bed near a window so she could get her breath. One doctor said, 'Poor child, she is likely to fall dead any time.' A friend told me Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy had cured her father, so I tried it, and she began to improve. She took a great many bottles, but she is spared to me today, a fat, rosy cheeked girl. No one can imagine the confidence I have in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy." A. B. CANON, Worth, Mo.

The unbounded confidence Mr. Canon has in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is shared by thousands of others who know its value from experience. Many heart disorders yield to treatment, if the treatment is right. If you are bothered with short breath, fainting spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pains about the heart and shoulder blades, palpitation, weak and hungry spells, you should begin using Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy at once. Profit by the experience of others while you may.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Notice is Hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Mary Horejsh and John Horejsh, her husband, Mortgagors, to Red Lake Building Association, a corporation, Mortgagee, bearing date the 14th day of June, 1916, with power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of June, 1916, at one o'clock p. m., in Book 58 of Mortgages, on page 7, which default has continued to the date of this notice, by the failure and neglect of said Mortgagor to make payment of the sum of Two Dollars and 20 cents monthly premium and monthly dues by said Mortgage secured, which by its terms became due and payable on the 1st day of April, 1917, and which default has continued for more than six months.

And Whereas, the said Mortgagee and holder of said Mortgage has elected and hereby does elect to declare the whole principal sum of said Mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said Mortgage, and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of Two Hundred Thirty-three and 75-100 Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from the 4th day of December, 1917; and whereas, the power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, to-wit:

Lots Eighteen (18), Nineteen (19), and Twenty (20) of Block Sixteen (16) of Porter's Addition to Thief River Falls, Minnesota, according to the Official Plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County at the front door of the Court House in the City of Thief River Falls, in said County and State, on the 25th day of January, 1918, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Two Hundred Thirty-three and 75-100 Dollars, and interest, the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five Dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

EXCHANGE BUREAU FOR THE FARMERS

PLAN FOR BRINGING BUYER AND SELLER TOGETHER IS ANNOUNCED

Farmers in the Red River valley are constantly in the market, either with a surplus of seed grain and breeding stock for sale, or as buyers looking for some such products. In some cases the surplus for sale does not warrant the expense of advertising in the regular way or, as it more often happens, the farmer neglects to give any time or thought to advertising. With some easy means for exchange of products, the farmer who has and the farmer who wants can be brought together and a transaction made that will be of material benefit for each.

This article outlines briefly an exchange plan that can be established through the farmers' clubs of the valley. At a regular meeting of the club, the members can fill out lists (on forms which will be furnished) of their wants and products for sale. These lists should be corrected monthly. A copy of the club list may be sent to the Northwest School of Agriculture, which in turn will make up a complete list for the valley. This larger list will be sent to all the club secretaries of the valley. In this way it is hoped that a well established exchange plan can be worked out.

The success of this plan rests with the individual farmers whose hearty co-operation with the officers of the farmers' clubs is urged. To make this plan a success, prompt business methods are necessary on the part of the club members and especially the club secretary. An exchange list of this kind cannot carry with it any guarantee against misrepresentation nor is there any desire to boost the products of any particular farmer. The final and only purpose of such a list is to bring buyer and seller together and between these two individuals the transaction is to be made. The larger the list of farmers wanting to purchase and of farmers having products for sale, the better will be the chance for both classes to make an exchange. The home trade among farmers needs to be encouraged; it will mean a saving in time and expense over products received at a distance, besides supplying products that are already adapted to the section.

A Times want ad will fill that want and do it quickly. Try it.

LIVE SUBJECTS AT FARM CROPS SHOW

EXCELLENT PROGRAM TO BE PRESENTED AT CROOKSTON FEBRUARY 11 TO 15

The Farm Crops Show will be held at Crookston this year, February 11-15. The program committee has been at work all year getting in touch with speakers who will entertain and instruct. As a result the people of the Valley will have the opportunity of listening to such men as Premier T. C. Norris, Province of Manitoba; President M. L. Burton, University of Minnesota, and Governor Burnquist. Specialists will discuss their particular lines at each meeting.

Monday will be taken up with the judging contests by farmers' clubs and high schools. Stock, corn and potatoes will be judged. Northwestern Minnesota High School Declamatory contest will take place in the evening.

Tuesday—"Live Stock Industry," Prof. W. A. McKerrow; judging demonstrations, a., dairy cow, Prof. H. H. Kildee; b, beef animal, Prof. Andrew Boss. Crop rotation and live stock vs. grain farming will be another subject treated.

Women's meeting—The house, its care, furniture and decoration. The spelling contest and a lecture will be put on in the evening.

Wednesday—The seed corn situation, the farm bureau's usefulness, and food conservation will be handled by competent speakers. Other topics will also be treated. Premier Norris speaks in the evening.

Thursday—Wind breakers, sheep, swine, prevention of stock diseases, and other topics have been given to experts and much valuable information will be given out. The ladies will be given out. The laides will consider the canning of vegetables and meat. Pres. Burton speaks in the evening.

Friday—Subjects: "Pastures and Meadows in the Red River Valley," "Potatoes and the Hen and the Hun," which will be presented by the chicken specialist, W. E. Chapman. Gov. Burnquist will appear on the evening program.

SANDERS

The Ladies' Aids of the United and Synod churches met at the home of Mrs. Peter Bugge, where they organized a new society of the Oak Ridge congregation. Each society donated $50 to the Soldiers' Encampment fund and an amount for missionary work. The following officers were chosen: Mrs. P. Bugge, president; Mrs. E. Joringdahl, vice president; Mrs. Olaus Ordahl, secretary; Mrs. Peter Swanson, treasurer.

Nels K. Anderson left Saturday for Renner, this state, where he was called by the serious illness of his brother, Cornelius.

MAY BE ASSIGNED AS COUNTY AGENT

AFTER ORGANIZATION WORK R. P. WHITE MAY RETURN TO COUNTY

While the resignation of Ross P. White as agricultural instructor at the Thief River Falls high school has been accepted by the board, there is still a possibility that he may be returned for work in Pennington county. At present he has been drafted by the government for the purpose of aiding in the organization of farm clubs throughout the state but when the preliminary steps to this end have been taken the necessity of securing agents for the different counties will come up. Should the agent himself have an opportunity to express a preference it is certain that Mr. White will be returned as he believed this section offers exceptional opportunities for a full appreciation of just the kind of service he is best equipped to render.

He became very popular with our farmers during his stay in the city and was scheduled to become the first county agent when the time came for making the selection. Mr. White's residence will continue to be at Thief River Falls for the present, and will remain so unless the government orders him elsewhere.

PAMPHLET LIBRARY IS NEW ADDITION

RURAL SCHOOLS AND FARM CLUBS CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED FROM HERE

Through the courtesy of Congressman Steenerson the Carnegie library in this city has been supplied with a very complete set of governmental pamphlets dealing with farm topics and household economics. Miss Emma Backe, librarian, has catalogued and arranged the pamphlets into different classes for convenient perusal in the reading room and is also prepared to supply any that may be required for debating societies, farm clubs and rural school libraries. Since the outbreak of the war the campaign for better farming has been continuous and the interest taken in these authentic publications has greatly increased.

The pamphlets deal with almost every subject which might in any way prove of interest to the farmer. The growing of grain, proper care of the crop after harvest, raising of cattle and curing of meats, the canning of fruit and vegetables, the best plan for the housing of stock, dairy farming, butter and cheese making, the best manner of combating crop-destroying insects, and a thousand other matters of value and interest to the farmer and householder are available in convenient form.

Rural school libraries and farm clubs will be supplied directly from the library here if a request is made to Miss Backe. The pamphlets are published by the government for the use of the people and information they contain is the result of investigations made by experts in the different departments.

The local library has distributed a large number of food pamphlets since the campaign for the conservation of food stuffs was begun and inquiries thus far would indicate that the demand for the farm publications will be even greater.

THE TIMES COMPANY
QUALITY PRINT SHOP

To the Merchants of Thief River Falls and Vicinity:

IT HAS BEEN THE CUSTOM each year during the month of January for salesmen of various out-of-town calender manufacturers to canvass the city taking orders for calenders for the next year. This money can just as well be kept here and incidentally some money can be saved for the merchants who go in for this class of advertising. ¶We have received and now have on display, one of the most beautiful lines of calenders, fans, wall-pockets and novelties that it is possible to secure and in a much larger variety than it would be possible for a traveling salesman to carry with him. They include everything from the small ordinary prints to the most expensive of lithographic and hand-colored work—and at prices that are a little lower than you ever paid for this kind of goods before. ¶Drop into our office at any time and let us show you this really wonderful line and remember that it is the patronizing of home industry that keeps the city alive.

is the perfect oil for deep frying, sautéing, shortening, salad dressings—and the economical one.

PRESSED from the heart of golden American Corn, Mazola supplies the need for a vegetable oil which is pure and wholesome.

Fry any food in Mazola and you will find it retains more of the natural flavor.

Use Mazola over and over again—it does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another—the great factor in economy.

Mazola quickly crisps the surface and thus makes fried foods more digestible—free from greasiness or sogginess.

And since Mazola is a vegetable oil it is an important factor in Mr. Hoover's campaign to save butter, lard and suet.

Imported oils are so scarce and high priced now-a-days that you will do well to use Mazola when you want a really delicious salad dressing.

You can get Mazola from your grocer in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins. The large sizes are most economical. Also ask your grocer for the free Mazola Book of Recipes, or write us direct. Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

LEAVES ON BUYING TRIP IN THE EAST

CLOTHING MERCHANT PREPARING FOR OPENING OF NEW STORE HERE

Albert L. Lieberman and Grant Ohm left Saturday evening for the East, where they will make the selection of clothing, furnishings and shoes that are to go into the new store of Mr. Lieberman when it is opened for business the latter part of next month. It is Mr. Lieberman's intention to secure the best lines from the most reliable houses in the country in order that his store may at the outset acquire a reputation for reliability. Albert says that he will positively refuse to handle anything except such goods as will be taken back by the manufacturer if found in any way unsatisfactory.

At the new store the selections will be of a larger variety and of newer pattern than has been possible at the old place, although even there Albert had at all times an enviable reputation for reliability. During the absence of Mr. Lieberman and Mr. Ohm the store will be in charge of E. J. Overland.

Horseshoer in the Army.

Ralph Werner, who is at present located at Fort Riley, in writing to thank the publishers for sending him The Times, states that he has just completed a course of study in the department of hippology, which is the scientific name for the horseshoers' school. For this reason he was not included when 18 men of his company were selected for duty in France. He expects to go before long, however, but the officers do not wish him to leave because of his value in the camp as a farrier.

Mr. Werner also speaks of meeting Ernest Parker, a former high school student and basket ball star in this city, at a dance in the community hall of the camp. The latter is at Camp Funston and was at Riley simply for a visit.

Mr. Werner also says that one man from each of the companies at the fort was sent to the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburg for the purpose of taking a course in automobile repairing.

The Times, only $1.60 a year.

Do Not Cash Thrift Stamps.

The United States treasury department has issued a warning to merchants in connection with the cashing of thrift stamps. It seems that the holders of these stamps have in some instances used them the same as cash and that merchants have so accepted them. A ruling recently made states very specifically that these stamps cannot be cashed at any other place than that of purchase, and that is the postoffice.

The University of Minnesota strongly urges all farmers to send their cream to a farmers' creamery. Says thousands of dollars are saved every day by the greater efficiency of the farmers' organization. We quote as follows:

"For the farmer to hold his own in the business world he must work in co-operation with farmers. The more thorough and more extensive the co-operation, the better. The co-operative creamery system is the first lesson. Farmers who fail in this are not apt to succeed in any co-operative enterprise. In Minnesota, where you find the greater number of co-operative creameries, you find also the greatest number of co-operative stock shipping associations and other lines of co-operative work, which in time must settle the big problem of the cost of distribution of farm products."

Give a Thought to Your Surroundings

At a comparatively small outlay of money you can often make a very great difference in the appearance of your home. A piece of new furniture, for instance, does not cost much. A bright rug in the place of the one that has become frayed makes the entire room more cheerful. A new dining room table is worth ten times its cost in the service it gives and the satisfaction it affords. A brass bed or an enamelled dresser will make any bed room more inviting. Give these matters a thought and permit us to show you the different articles we can supply from our large stock.

WILL YOUR HOUSE BE THE NEXT TO GO?

THE SEVERAL DISASTROUS FIRES of this week in Thief River Falls should convince you that you cannot afford to trust to luck.

HAVE YOU ANY REASON TO BELIEVE that fire may not at any time destroy your property too?

IF YOUR HOME is not already insured, you should take steps immediately to safeguard yourself against loss; and if you are carrying an insufficient amount of insurance you should take on enough more to keep pace with the tremendous leap in the cost of all materials entering into the construction and equipment of a building.

VOL. 7 $1.50 PER YEAR THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINN., THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1918 NO. 46

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Resolution Adopted at a Special Meeting of the Thief River Falls Commercial Club Held This Morning

At a special meeting of the Commercial Club held at the club rooms the following resolution was offered and unanimously carried:

Resolved, That the Commercial Club of Thief River Falls regrets the action of its President in excluding from its rooms the meeting of the Non-Partisan League of Pennington County, advertised for January 16, 1918, and that such action was owing to a misunderstanding of the rules and regulations of the Club, and was not due to any ill feeling towards our friends and neighbors, and particularly the farmers of Pennington county.

FLOCK TO HEAR NON-PARTY MAN

ABOUT 250 FARMERS ATTEND MEETING AT COURT HOUSE YESTERDAY

DEFENDS LEAGUE RECORD

SPEAKER DECLARES MEMBERS ARE PROVING PATRIOTISM BY THEIR ATTITUDE

Leon Durocher of Grand Forks, an organizer for the National Non-Partisan league, delivered an address to an audience that crowded the court room and extended into the hall of the building here yesterday afternoon. The meeting was scheduled to take place at the Commercial club rooms, but through a misunderstanding permission to use these quarters was withdrawn at the last moment and the meeting had to be held in the only other place available large enough to even partially accommodate all who wished to hear what one of the spokesmen of the much-discussed organization had to say.

Does Not Blame Town.

T. H. Bjerge of the town of North, acted as chairman and introduced Mr. Durocher, who opened his address by stating that the interests of the farmers and the business men of the smaller cities and towns were so closely interwoven that they were almost compelled to work together. For this reason he hoped that the action of the Commercial club president in denying the use of the club rooms after these had been promised did not indicate the attitude of the people of the city generally toward the man on the farm.

Farmers Are Loyal.

With more moderation than might have been expected under the circumstances the speaker voiced his objection to the attitude taken by certain of the big daily papers in their attempt to put the stamp of disloyalty on the Non-Partisan league. He said that it was his firm belief that there is not a class of people anywhere in this country more loyal than the farmers of the Northwest. As proof of this assertion he said that North Dakota—an almost exclusively agricultural state—had oversubscribed the second Liberty Loan by 70 per cent, and this in the face of two successive crop failures.

Lying Reports Circulated.

At this point Mr. Durocher called the attention of his hearers to a certain article appearing in one of the city dailies a short time ago in which it was claimed that the farmers of North Dakota, members of the league, were disloyal and opposed to the government. The article went on to say that fields of wheat remained uncut, corn was left to rot in the shock, potatoes remained in the ground to freeze, and here and there where farmers were not members of the organization only a black spot remained to indicate where the farm buildings had once stood. The inference was that these buildings had been burned by or at the behest of the Non-Partisan league.

Branded as Insult.

"I want to brand this article here and now as an insult to the farmers of the Northwest and as a deliberate and infamous falsehood from beginning to end," said the speaker. "The farmer of the Northwest last year borrowed money on which he paid ten per cent interest in order to buy seed so that he might increase his acreage in response to the call of his government. The result was the largest acreage in the history of the section. Then the same farmer oversubscribed the Liberty Loan by 70 per cent, donated liberally to the Red Cross and other war auxiliaries, sent his sons to the front and is now making preparations to put in a still larger crop of the kind of grain of which the government stands most in need. If that is disloyalty, then the farmers of North Dakota are disloyal."

A Shot at Politics.

Mr. Durocher then proceeded to ask some questions and to answer them himself. "Who controls the politics of Minnesota?" he asked. "The steel trust and other big interests of the state controls them." "Why are the daily papers so bitterly attacking the Non-Partisan league?" "Because they are the semi-official mouthpieces of big business."

The speaker also contended that wholesalers are exacting enormous profits and that it was one of the league's aims to eliminate the wholesaler. He stated that the farmer and laboring man contribute 90 per cent of the population of Minnesota and that the ambition of the league is to see that this 90 per cent has the representation in the state's law making body that it is entitled to. He also contended that the daily papers are unfair to the league even in their news articles and are using the war for the purpose of disrupting the organization.

A Large Program.

Speaking of some of the things the league hoped to be able to bring about he mentioned state owned elevators, stock yards, packing plants, exemption of farm improvements from taxation, and the establishment of rural credit banks. Mr. Durocher said that the farmer had been promised legislation looking to needed reforms in nearly every political campaign, but that he was always forgotten soon after election. Now, however, he proposed to take things into his own hands and see if he could not bring the needed changes about for himself.

GOOD WATER AT SECOND ATTEMPT

PROTECTED BY GRAVEL BED

AN OVERLAY OF TWELVE FEET OF THIS MATERIAL INSURES PURITY

Drillers at work on the second city well on Duluth avenue last week uncovered a vein at a depth of 215 feet that gives every indication of being able to supply all the water necessary. So far as appearances and taste go the product of this second source of supply seems to meet the requirements in every way and samples have been sent to the laboratories of the state university in order that its purity may be tested. There is no doubt in the minds of the drillers but that the supply is ample.

At Depth of 215 Feet.

This latest well is not as deep as the first one drilled near the pumping station, it being necessary in the case of the latter to go down 263 feet before a satisfactory flow was indicated. Superintendent Leonard Peterson of the water and light department believes, however, that both as to quality and quantity the water in the last well is fully equal to that disclosed by the other.

An attempt to uncover a vein of satisfactory water was made near the site of this second well, and an abundance was discovered. Because of the fine sand which persisted in flowing into the pipes, however, this had to be abandoned. New attempt was made within a few feet of where the other well was drilled and seems to have proved most satisfactory. At a depth of about 200 feet the drillers encountered a bed of coarse gravel, which is regarded as the surest sign that good water is to be found within a short distance. This proved correct in this case. The gravel brought up is clean and coarse, providing the best kind of natural filterer even though this should prove necessary at this depth.

The water from well No. 1 was used in fighting two serious fires last week without any noticeable effect on the supply. In fact, water from this well has been running through the city mains for some time, although this has not been generally known. Because of the condition of the mains and the tank but slight improvement over former conditions has been noted, but as soon as possible these will be cleaned out and flushed, when it is expected that satisfactory results will follow. The tank always has a coating of ice on the inside during the winter months and it is impossible to do much until this has been thawed out by warm weather. The old well and river water has been coursing through the mains for years and it may take a little time to entirely get rid of the effects of this. As soon as the weather makes further work along this line possible, however, it is positively promised that the water supply of Thief River Falls will be as pure and plentiful as any to be found.

Donations to Library.

During the past year the Carnegie library in this city has received many valuable donations from citizens of Thief River Falls and other places. These gifts have taken the form of books, pictures, picture frames, plants, magazines, pamphlets and money, receipt of which has been gratefully acknowledged. Those who have thus remembered this invaluable institution are: Congressman Steenerson, Mrs. Clara Shay, Rev. I. T. Aastad, Mrs. M. C. Cutter, Mrs. A. H. Fasel, Mrs. F. H. Gambell, German Lutheran Ladies' Aid, Gena Granum, August Johnson, Mrs. Anna Kretzschmar, Mrs. Perl Mabey, Gustav Melby, Maren Michelet, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller, Gust Opseth, W. W. Prichard, Sr., Gertrude Swanson, Mrs. M. M. Vesey, G. Ward, Mrs. Knute Ystesund, Emma L. Backe.

Is Happy at Camp.

Walter Smith, formerly of the postoffice force in this city, now a member of the 20th regiment of engineers, located at Camp Belvoir, Va., has written a letter to E. O. Mogensen of this city, in which he says that army life suits him pretty well but that he does not think he will adopt it as a profession when the war is over. He says he is now in fine shape and likes to drill, but that four hours of it at one stretch is a little too plenty.

HERD OUTPUT TEN DOLLARS PER DAY

THIS IS RECORD MADE FOR MONTH BY E. SARGENT, DAIRYMAN.

The Sargent herd of Jerseys still holds the top position for production at the Thief River Falls creamery. During the month of December the product from Mr. Sargent's cows amounted to $10.36 per day, which is doing pretty well for a mid-winter month.

Creamery checks as a whole showed that herds everywhere are picking up. Twenty-three patrons came in under the $60-or-better ruling, their average being $96.25. Besides Mr. Sargent there were four whose returns were over $100. The prize list for the month was as follows:

E. Sargent	$321.35
Henry Koop	155.22
Kirk & Christenson	154.41
H. P. Rued	146.04
Hans Anton	142.71
M. M. Boyd, Stephen	133.89

FULLER ELECTED GUARD CAPTAIN

COMPANY C FORMALLY MUSTERED IN LAST FRIDAY BY MAJOR LORING

A SUMMER ENCAMPMENT

BATTALION TO PUT IN WHOLE WEEK UNDER SOLDIERING CONDITIONS

W. B. Fuller was on Friday evening unanimously elected to the captaincy of Company C, 11th Battalion, Minnesota Home Guard, to succeed H. Z. Mitchell, who has left the city. Although the unit has been in existence for some time it has had no standing in fact with the military authorities of the state because the original enlistment papers were lost in transit and have therefore never been recorded with the adjutant general. Major Charles Loring of Crookston, who administered the oath to the guardsmen, stated that had it not been for this oversight the Thief River Falls company would have been one of the first to be called out during the recent disturbances in the Twin Cities. The call was ready for forwarding to the officer in command when it was discovered that so far as the records were concerned, there was no company located in this city.

Major Compliments Men.

Major Loring made a short address to the men and urged that they take the fact of belonging to the state's military organization as a serious and important matter and to attend drill. This last is compulsory, no excuse except sickness or absence from the city being valid in the case of non-appearance. Major Loring complimented the company highly, stating that there was not a guard unit in the state better drilled at this time and that but few superiors were to be found even among the old established militia companies.

The Summer Program.

There will be at least three battalion drills in the different cities containing the companies during the coming summer and one encampment, the latter probably being held some time early in July near the Red Lakes.

A large number of recruits were signed up and more are expected to follow. Capt. Fuller believes that there will be a total of 125 men in the company at an early day. This will permit of some being excused in case of a call, which is a very necessary provision as in a number of cases two or three men from one institution are members.

New Guns Coming.

Capt. Fuller thanked the company for the compliment extended in making him captain and only hoped that the interest evinced at Friday's meeting would continue. He had been assured, he said, that there would be no difficulty in securing the necessary equipment, now rifles being among the things promised. These may be expected at any time now, the Springfields with which the company has been drilling since its organization being replaced by the more modern Krags.

The matter of another military ball before the lenten season was discussed informally and it is likely that the matter will be taken up at an early meeting.

PROSPERITY SHOWN IN BANK DEPOSITS

NO INDICATION OF A LACK OF MONEY AMONG PEOPLE OF THE COUNTY.

It may be that there is a shortage of cash in some sections of the United States, but the statements of condition published last week by the banks of Pennington county do not indicate that such is the case in this neighborhood. With the possible exception of the winter following the bumper crop year of 1915 it is doubtful if a better showing has ever been made. So far as concerns the banks in the city, it is likely that there is less available cash at this time than there was a few weeks ago, but the smaller institutions have increased their holdings sufficiently to more than offset this. Such showing on top of two of the poorest crop years in the history of the section is one in which all the people may well take pride.

The nine banks of the county show total deposits amounting to $2,293,795.98. Of this amount the sum represented as held by the three Thief River Falls institutions is $1,815,026.69. The two banks at St. Hilaire, always strong on deposits, reported $260,530.96; the two Goodridge banks $146,553.98, the Hazel bank $41,678.35, and the Mavie bank $30,000.

If the population of Pennington county is assumed to be 12,000—and the chances are that it is but little greater than this at the present moment—it means that the wealth per capita, as represented by the bank deposits, is practically $191.00. This is a highly satisfactory showing when the fact that we have no large institutions carrying heavy balances to their credit is taken into consideration.

Atty. Bishop at Old Stand.

The remodeling of the second story of the First National bank building has advanced sufficiently far to enable certain of the former tenants to move back into their old quarters. Attorney J. M. Bishop this week vacated his temporary quarters in the Kiewel block and will hereafter be found at the former stand.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO HOLD ELECTION

OFFICERS AND BOARD OF DIRECTORS TO BE CHOSEN NEXT THURSDAY

The annual election of officers and directors of the Thief River Falls Commercial club will be held on Thursday, Jan. 24, the ballot box being open from 9 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock in the evening. All members in good standing are requested to record their votes as on the result of this election may depend the future of the organization. There are to be elected a president, vice president, second vice president, treasurer and five directors, who at the annual meeting on the second Tuesday in February will elect a secretary for the ensuing year.

The present officers whose terms will expire at that time are: Dr. C. R. Crandall, president; John Bratrud, vice president; Scott Laird, secretary; W. W. Prichard, Jr., treasurer; C. L. Hansen, Fred Roth, C. A. Pitkin, Roy Lambert and O. L. Cronstrom, directors.

FIRST 300 MEN PUT IN CLASSES

CONSIDERABLE NUMBER HELD FOR IMMEDIATE SERVICE BY THE NEW RULING

DRAFT LAW CHANGE URGED

WOULD INCLUDE THOSE WHO REACHED TWENTY-ONE SINCE JUNE FIRST

At the request of the War department, Chairman Chamberlain of the Senate military committee has introduced a bill for the registration for military duty of all men who have become 21 years of age since June 5, 1917, when the draft law went into effect.

Another bill which Senator Chamberlain introduced at the request of the administration would provide for furloughing national army men for harvesting crops and other agricultural duty.

Another bill would put the quota of the states on the basis of available men in the first class instead of population.

In determining upon the registration of men who have become 21 since the draft law was enacted, the War department has rejected any plan to raise the age limits of the draft to take in men more than 31.

Registration of men who have become of age since the draft law was enacted was referred to in the recent report of Provost Marshal General Crowder as one of the means by which a supply of men from the national army might be assured without taking those who might have others dependent upon them. The War department has adopted the suggestion that, it is estimated, will add 700,000 men to the draft available each year.

The Pennington county registration board has been busy during the past week assigning men to their proper classes as these are disclosed by the questionnaires returned. The first 300 names on the list have been gone

Draft Doctors at Duluth.

Dr. H. W. Froehlich, examining physician for the Pennington county exemption board, left for Duluth on Monday morning, having been called for the purpose of meeting with other doctors similarly situated in the state to hear an official explanation of the duties required of them under the terms of the questionnaire regulations. As is natural, there is considerable diversity of opinion among the boards of the different sections of the state as to just what their duties are, and this will be cleared up at the meeting.

SEED CORN BRINGS $7 AND $8 PER BU

THIS IS RESULT OF COUNTY AGENT WORK IN TESTING AND SELECTING

Ross P. White, former agricultural instructor at the high school in this city, returned the first of the week from the southern part of the state where he has been engaged in organization work for the government. He came up for the purpose of attending the dairymen's convention and will return to his post the latter part of this week. Mr. White says that he does not know how long his present work will keep him away and that he expects to return for the purpose of taking the county agent's position here as soon as the government relieves him.

In speaking of his present work, Mr. White said that the people are not all agreed as to the value of a county agent, but in the communities where the plan has been tried they would not now be without one. As a proof of the value of these officials he cites the fact that in a number of southern counties they are now engaged in sorting and testing seed corn for next year's crop with the result that farmers in many localities will receive between $7 and $8 per bushel for corn that under ordinary treatment would bring about $1.50.

Mr. White does not know just at what time he will be permitted to begin his duties here, but is ready at any time the government sends the appointment.

LOCAL BANKS HOLD ANNUAL ELECTIONS

FORMER OFFICIALS RETAINED BY BOTH FIRST NATIONAL AND CITIZENS

The record made by the banking officials of Thief River Falls must be satisfactory to the stockholders—at least the same men are retained at the head of affairs, this applying to both officers and directors. The First National and Citizens State banks have both held annual elections during the past week and the same officials and boards of directors that have served the institutions so efficiently in the past were re-elected.

The directors of the First National decided at their meeting to increase the surplus fund of their bank from $10,000 to $20,000, making the total of capital and surplus $70,000. The following are the officers re-elected: C. L. Hansen, president; Rasmus Oen and F. H. Gambell, vice presidents; W. W. Prichard, Jr., cashier; W. H. Akre, assistant cashier. With the exception of Mr. Akre the above gentlemen constitute the board of directors, with the following additions: J. P. Curtis, Daniel Patterson and Fred H. Roth.

The annual report showed a prosperous year for the Citizens State bank and the business control was left in the hands of the following: President, Olaf Ramstad; vice presidents, Louis Hanson and A. M. Langseth; cashier, T. L. Melgaard; assistant cashier, C. W. Vorachek. To the above, as a board of directors, are added Rasmus Oen and C. Amundson.

FOURTEENTH CONVENTION OF MINNESOTA DAIRYMEN

"Types of Cattle," George P. Grout, Duluth.

Judging Dairy Cattle, George P. Grout, Duluth.

Awarding of Prizes.

Report of Committee on Resolutions.

Unfinished Business.

Adjournment.

It is usually the case that the first two days of a four-day gathering of any kind are the slowest of the series, and the Fourteenth Annual convention of the State Dairymen's association, which convened in this city on Tuesday, proved no exception. This fact is to be regretted as the proceedings of Tuesday and Wednesday were of such a nature as to have made them of the highest value to every man connected in any manner with the dairying or live stock industries in this state.

Those who failed to arrive in time to hear the address of Marion L. Burton, president of the University of Minnesota, delivered at the Auditorium in the evening, are particularly unfortunate, as this was without exception the great feature of a convention that has proven a success from every point of view.

A Remarkable Address.

The Auditorium was fairly well filled with townspeople and visitors when Dr. Burton began his address about 8 o'clock. His remarks throughout were of the deep-sinking, intense kind that does not call forth a spontaneous burst of applause, but send the audience away thinking over what has been said. Of all the patriotic addresses made in this city since the outbreak of the war none have made such deep and lasting impression.

In one particular respect the address of Dr. Burton was different from any that have preceded it. He did not ridicule the attempt of the power-crazed kaiser to become the ruler of the world, but rather pointed out that such thing is quite within the possibilities. "Germany has now accomplished nine-tenths of what she started out to accomplish," said Dr. Burton, "and only concerted action and great sacrifice on the part of the democracies of the world will prevent her gaining the rest." To permit ourselves to become lulled into any sort of security with the belief that such thing as German domination of practically the entire world is out of the question would prove the gravest mistake we ever made, said the speaker. The countries that have been in this war from the outset understand this and know that nothing short of the complete overthrow of the powers that now hold the German people under their thumb will ever make the world safe from a repetition of the scenes being enacted today.

What It Might Mean.

President Burton was rather severe on that not inconsiderable portion of our people who, while they are yielding a sort of quiescent support to the government in the war, can see no reason for our entering it in the first place. The speaker has himself made visits to Germany and

What Twenty Years Has Wrought

Twenty years ago there was one bank in the territory now comprising Pennington county. This institution was located at Thief River Falls and its statement of condition, issued on January 1, 1898, showed that the total deposits amounted to $32,464. Last week the statements published in compliance with the call of the comptroller of the currency and the state bank examiner showed one national bank and eight state banks in the same territory, with deposits totaling two and a quarter millions of dollars.

There are, of course, sections in Minnesota where more remarkable records have been made. On the iron ranges, for instance, there are substantial cities and large villages now where not even a postoffice was to be found at that time. In certain other localities lumbering has been responsible for a remarkably rapid growth of a more or less permanent nature. But for a region that has had no enormous wealth-producing resources of this kind and has depended solely upon the settlement of its farming lands as a means of development, it is doubtful if a better record can be found in the state.

Significant and satisfactory as this showing of bank deposits undoubtedly is, it provides but a short and comparatively unimportant chapter in a story of consistent progress. The improvement of the section itself is what really counts, and bank figures are merely indicative.

Twenty years ago much of the land producing this wealth was unfit for cultivation. Roads were practically unknown. Farm buildings were represented by homesteaders' shacks in some instances and Indian tepees in others. The country farther west was far more inviting to the farmer, while the timbered sections to the east held out much greater inducements to the investor. It was anything but a land flowing with milk and honey.

The change in twenty years has been phenomenal. Fine graveled highways traverse the section in every direction. Costly and commodious farm dwellings occupy the sites at that time disfigured by the tar paper or log hut. The overflowed land has been reclaimed and made the most fertile in the Northwest. Cities and villages with all the conveniences of the most advanced American municipalities have sprung up on the site of the wigwam. Herds of thoroughbred stock graze contentedly in meadow lands at that time covered with water—and bank balances have increased seventy fold.

It is a record to be proud of, and yet our real development has only begun. The pioneering is hardly at an end as yet and we are far from having reached a stage where this remarkable program of progress will stop. From now on the work will be easier and the next twenty years will show an even greater advancement than the ones just past.

Must Use Judgment

While there is no danger of getting too much wheat, yet it is easily possible to devote too much land to this one particular variety of grain. The fact of the government's having guaranteed a price for the 1918 crop will tempt many farmers to sow wheat on land not suited to the production of this cereal, to the detriment of some other crop for which there is only slightly less need. Other grains, hay, potatoes, and staple crops generally will be in almost as great demand as wheat, and the farmer should not forget this in planning his acreage distribution for next spring. The Grand Forks Herald calls attention to the necessity for exercising judgment in this matter in the following timely editorial:

"To increase his production of grain as largely as possible is one of the duties that every farmer owes to his country, just as the individual engaged in any other occupation owes it to his country to increase his production as much as he can. There is a special need for a larger production of wheat, which is the food crop most needed both here and abroad, the most staple, most easily transported and used, is the crop in which, of all the main food crops, there is the greatest shortage. Increased production depends, in a measure, on increased acreage. But the two may part company. Large acreage and indifferent cultivation may mean a smaller aggregate production than smaller acreage with better cultivation. And, even with the best methods of culture, there are limits beyond which the farmer may not wisely go in adding to his grain acreage. There is always the possibility that acreage may be devoted to wheat that ought to be given to something else. The nation will not be well served by the farmer who wastes energy in the effort to grow wheat on land that is not fit for wheat, even though there may be a slight increase in his aggregate production. There is such a thing as producing things at too great cost; and if land is used for wheat which, because of its character, ought to be growing grass, there is a loss of labor, and the country needs the full effectiveness of every man in it. The wise selection of land for wheat is as important as the increase of acreage."

Our Guests This Week

The dairymen and buttermakers who are this week with us have the honor of being entertained in the city that is destined to be known far and wide as the central shipping point for the greatest dairying region in the world. Had we not already made considerable strides towards this goal it is very doubtful if the conventions would have been held here at all. The city was chosen because it is realized that here would the twin industries be seen in the course of development as enterprises correlated with grain growing on a scale more extensive than could be found in any other place within the state. Nowhere in the Northwest has dairying made such rapid strides during the past few years, a fact that is being proved to the visitors by the fine herds displayed and the numerous samples of butter sent in for competition by the creameries of the section. We hope all will be pleased with what they see.

The speakers thus far have been highly complimentary both to the section and the city. For their kind remarks we are truly grateful and will be even more so if they can conscientiously continue the good work after leaving.

On behalf of the city we extend to them a most hearty welcome and hope their meetings are proving both instructive and profitable.

Keep Right At It

The faint-hearted business man who has so little faith in his own government's ability to overcome the difficulties that now beset it as to permit his stocks to run down and to quit going after trade, deserves all that he is certain to get. He deplores the fact that in some instances people are evincing a disposition to curtail expenses, losing no opportunity to assure them that everything is all right and urging that they keep right on hustling and spending their money the same as ever. The very next move he makes tends to throw suspicion on his sincerity. Instead of "carrying on" as usual himself he is found cutting expenses, bemoaning the fact that matters are very uncertain and that he does not know exactly what to do. In one sense he is a more dangerous slacker than he who fails to do his full duty by the country at this time. His attitude is contagious and if it becomes epidemic may cause the most serious consequences to the entire business fabric of the nation. Should this happen the short-sighted business man would blame the buying public, when as a matter of fact the people in a great many instances would only have taken their cue from his own attitude.

Keep right on doing business, following as nearly as possible the lines found successful before any war occurred to upset them. The man who most nearly manages to do this will be the one to secure the business of those who wish to believe that present conditions are only temporary and therefore can see no good reason for entirely changing their mode of living. People are going to keep right on eating, and wearing clothes, and going to picture shows if they are not frightened into thinking that these things are sinful or unnecessary. The business man can do more to help them get this wrong idea than anyone else through indicating by his attitude that he is afraid.

Go after business as usual and business will be found pretty much as usual—at least in this section of the United States.

Should Provide Seed

That the farmers of the Northwest will need some aid when it comes to securing seed for next season's wheat crop is certain, and the government is acting wisely in thus early attempting to devise some means by which it may be forthcoming. With the prices of less important crops at their present level it will not take much to discourage the farmer from planting even his usual acreage of wheat. If in addition he finds it almost impossible to secure such seed as will in some degree insure the best results, he will naturally lean more heavily toward the less risky crops. The northwestern farmer will sow more wheat than ever this coming spring, principally because the soldiers who are fighting for him need the grain, but also in order to keep the peoples of other lands from starving. He would perhaps be better off financially at the end of the season if he followed the lines indicating a greater and more certain profit but he will sow the wheat nevertheless—if he has the seed. The Northwest has had two years in which the crop has been considerably below the average and many had about concluded that giving up wheat raising entirely would prove the wisest course to pursue. The nation's need has changed all this and it is certain that there will be more wheat put into the ground this spring than ever before—provided, again, the seed is available. It will be impossible for each individual farmer to look after this matter himself. Uncle Sam will have to help him at the outset if the government is to get the crop in the end. Otherwise the output will be no larger than in previous years, and this might mean disaster.

The report of the business done by the Thief River Falls Co-operative creamery during the past year, which is to be submitted to the stockholders at the annual meeting on February fourth, will prove a big surprise to many people in this section. It has been predicted that the business would show a decided falling off for the year, but instead there is recorded a very substantial increase. This proves that the dairyman heeded the warning not to sell the milch cows off the farm, and the result shows the wisdom of the course pursued. The man who refused to be stampeded into selling either by the high feeding cost or the high beef price now finds himself far ahead of the game. Instead of selling he is looking around for more and better stock. The creamery has made this possible. He has learned that in supporting this institution he is helping to build up the one industry that will always stand by him. Heretofore the creamery has often proven his salvation when other sources of revenue were more or less uncertain; now he is prepared to regard it as his mainstay under all circumstances.

The Times believes that Mayor Penney's recommendations to the council will be generally approved. It is perhaps not the first time a mayor has announced "economy and conservation" as the policy of his administration, but Dr. Penney tells why this is more than ever advisable just now. He urges, however, that the city be prepared to take up certain matters of civic improvement when normal conditions again make such course possible, and this is a good idea. The mayor's message was well received by the council and the people generally, and he will have the unhesitating support of everyone in the course he has outlined.

Perhaps we had better knock on wood, but we just cannot help calling attention to the wonderful winter weather we are having. The entire country has been in the grip of blizzards and almost unprecedented cold weather during the past week, but this immediate section has thus far escaped.

THE GREATER TIMES

Not Large Enough For Two.

Grygla Eagle: Thief River Falls has but one newspaper now, caused by the consolidation of The Times and the News-Press. That city is large enough, one might think, to support two papers but the contrary has been proved. One good paper, well supported and edited as well, is far more beneficial to a young city than more half supported. The past record of The Times, under Bro. Ross' administration, has been a "cracker-jack," and now with a better chance and the new responsibility of necessarily representing the city to the world in a booster light, will keep them hustling, but they have done it and can do it again.

Elimination and Consolidation.

Norman County Index: Newspaper consolidation—or elimination—seems to be becoming popular. Last week the Thief River Falls Times purchased the News-Press and now that city, with a population of 6,000, has only one newspaper. The constantly increasing cost of production is resulting in hundreds of newspapers going out of business and the coming year will see many more newspaper consolidations.

Consolidation the Vogue.

Middle River Pioneer: Consolidation is in vogue at Thief River Falls. Two banks, two moving picture theatres and the two newspapers have been consolidated at the place during the past month. The Times has purchased the News-Press and Editor Mitchell has purchased a half interest in the Bemidji Sentinel and will assume editorial charge of that paper immediately. This move makes The Times one of the largest weekly newspapers in the state and in all probability a daily will be the outcome. Here's success to the venture.

Two Didn't Pay.

Long Prairie Leader: The Thief River Falls News-Press and The Times have been consolidated. Thief River Falls is a city of 6,000 and the consolidation leaves but one paper in the city. Inability to make two good papers pay is what forced the consolidation. R. H. Ross, who is editor and manager of The Times, the consolidated paper, is one of the best newspaper men in the northwest and with the support he is now assured will give Thief River Falls a splendid paper.

Mrs. Roe Noesen left for her home at Crookston Wednesday, following a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Mulry.

Five Years Ago.

The largest and one of the most representative bodies of business men that has ever gathered in this city at a banquet board, met last Saturday evening at the Hotel Evelyn at an informal banquet given in honor of Chase L. Dobner, the retiring president of the First State bank.

The home of Paul Midderigh, chief of the fire department, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday forenoon.

Mrs. Geo. Walker and infant son left the city the first of the week for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Walker's mother at Annandale.

Miss Effie Hamry was called to her home at Red Lake Falls last Tuesday on account of the serious illness of her sister.

Ira C. Richardson returned Saturday from the South, where he has spent part of the fall and winter. His health is slightly improved.

Mrs. W. B. Fuller returned last Saturday from Faribault, where she had accompanied her little son, Master Herman, who resumed his studies at the school for the blind.

Last Wednesday Mrs. Wallace W. Watson entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner party in honor of her sister, Miss Jean McDonald.

The library board authorized Miss Hazel Prichard, librarian, to appoint an assistant, and she has appointed Miss Hazel Cutter, who assumed her duties Monday.

Froze Both Wrists.

A rather unusual story of a man's freezing comes from Radium. Last Thursday it was decidedly cold in that section, according to reports, besides which a considerable wind was blowing. A man named John Smith was engaged in pitching hay to a baler on a farm near the above station and froze both wrists to such an extent that serious consequences are likely to follow. He was working away with his companions, none of whom noticed that the exposed portions of the wrists between his mittens and coat sleeves were frozen. It is further reported that instead of following the usual course in such cases the frozen memebrs were permitted to thaw out by the aid of a fire, wtih results that cannot as yet be definitely foretold.

To Old Soldiers' Home.

Peter Newman, an old soldier, was last week sent to the Soldiers' Home at Waupeca, Wis., by the aid of good hearted citizens. The old man waited until he was positively unable to maintain himself through his own efforts before applying to the government for the aid to which he was entitled, but friends finally prevailed upon him to seek admission. A paper was circulated for the purpose of securing the necessary funds and practically everyone approached helped the old fellow along.

Mr. Nichols Here.

W. K. Nichols, manager of the lumber yard and mill property here during the old lumbering days, was in the city a few hours on Friday. Mr. Nichols is now located at Big River, Sask., where the company has a large saw mill. He paid a visit to the old mill site and found that but little remains to remind a person of what was once the busiest manufacturing plant in these parts.

Still Being Advertised.

The champion hockey team of two years ago is still busy advertising Thief River Falls. In the Sporting Guide issued by the Spalding people for the years 1917-1918, which has just come to hand, there is a picture and a very good description of the team, together with the record made during the winter.

A Record of Steady Growth

In spite of changing conditions and an occasional backward season there is one institution in Thief River Falls that has progressed steadily since its organization. This institution is the Creamery. It has proven itself the mainstay of the farmer when everything else has failed; the income from his herds has arrived with the regularity of clockwork, and to the man who has kept pace with the demand it has brought independence. Read the following record

1912 . . $40,000
1913 . $50,000
1914 . $90,000
1915 . $120,000
1916 . $124,000
1917 . $150,000

The business has nearly quadrupled in six years and the dairy farmers of this section have themselves made this possible

Mayor's Message to the Council

DR. G. A. PENNEY
Mayor

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Council: In keeping with the custom handed down on similar occasions in the past, I wish to make a few suggestions and recommendations, which I hope will be entitled to your careful consideration.

It is my desire to present the matter in a straight-forward, business-like manner, and in no way cause offense to anyone, or give you the impression that I wish in any manner, shape or form to dictate to your Honorable Body.

Go Slow on Improvements.

First let it fully be understood that in my opinion the present administration should adopt for its slogan: "Economy and Conservation," and that all the work for the near future should be taken up and carefully worked out on very conservative lines.

On account of the high cost of materials and the present condition of the labor market no improvements of consequence should be undertaken through the present year, unless it appears that the proposed improvements are such as seem necessary to maintain the comforts to which our citizens are entitled, and for the success and progress of the city.

This does not seem to be a good time to undertake anything involving much expense but it may be an exceptionally good time to make preparations for improvements that are bound to follow, and I will offer for your consideration a few recommendations along these lines:

Prepare For Paving.

I believe the city council would do well to prepare plans and specifications complete for city paving, decide upon the proper kind of material to be used, and have everything in readiness to go ahead in case the country and community should suffer a set-back upon the conclusion of the war. Should there be a period of depression, as is anticipated by many, public work should be undertaken in order to provide employment. As this preparation takes about as long as to do the actual work, it might be a good plan, and an inexpensive one, to have these matters prepared.

Install City Scales.

I believe it would be well to supply the city at some time with city scales for the protection of the retailer as well as the consumer and to insure efficiency.

It would appear that the water mains and sewer extensions had gone as far as is demanded at present. However, this is a local improvement and must be regulated according to the desires of the abutting property owners.

I believe the public should have the use of the sidewalks twelve months out of the year, instead of seven to nine months as at present, and it seems that some simple, effective plan to this end could be put into use without much expense to the taxpayers.

For An Equitable Tax Rate.

The average taxpayer does not complain because his taxes are excessive, but because they are not levied in proportion with his neighbor and fellow citizen. No matter how efficient your assessor is, he cannot regulate these difficulties without first having the standard set—a proper basis to work on. I should therefore suggest that the council select, say a committee of three, sound, reliable, conscientious men, who can study the work, familiarize themselves with the present conditions and adopt a fair basis for the taxation of all property and effects.

This may incur some expense at the time, but when completed will be a guide and a basis for future taxation, a boon to the assessor and a square deal for the taxpayer.

Make Street Work Permanent.

The street commissioner is an important office—a great deal of the city's money is spent here—and it is about time that something should be done to put our streets on a permanent basis. Right here I wish to say that I think too much temporary work has been done for the city in the past. If it is worth doing at all it is worth doing well.

The Fire Department.

Our volunteer fire department has a wonderful record. It is our duty to support them at any and all times and, in order to make their system more effective, to assist them in the protection of our property and lives. I would suggest that you arrange at an early date for one or two firemen to sleep at the hall each night during the winter months. This will prevent delay in getting away to the fire, will develop speed and "quick action" and help the present system as well give us better protection.

Begin Park System.

We have no city park, which fact is nothing to our credit. We may not be able to do much regarding this matter at this time, but it should not be forgotten. The park board should be kept alive and prosperous, and steps should be taken at our earliest convenience to secure the necessary grounds and provide our city with the long cherished beauty spot and resting place for us all.

Proud of Library.

Let me particularly call your attention to the city library—by far, from every standpoint, the strongest institution we have in the city. The board is now and has been handicapped by lack of funds to buy the necessary books.

You should be extremely liberal with the public library, even at the expense of something else. It is indeed a necessity. As a social and educational department is stands second to none. Of unquestioned value to old and young, rich and poor, it is worthy of your careful consideration and liberal support.

THEO. QUALE

New City Charter.

I strongly recommend the adoption of the city charter prepared by the charter commission, appointed by District Judge Grindeland. These men labored for months and prepared this to fit the existing conditions of our city, and I firmly believe this charter covers as near the ideal of a city government under our present conditions as is possible to work out.

Favors City Manager.

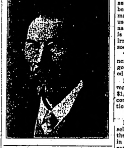
Our city, owning and operating its own public utilities, is a large business corporation, and we should not from time to time employ every Tom, Dick and Harry to run the business, but on the contrary should select the best man we could get hold of as a manager of the city. He need not be a specialist in any one line, but rather a broad-minded man of executive ability; one possessing good common horse sense and who can be depended upon to fill the different departments with men qualified to discharge their duties to his and the public's satisfaction. And this manager should be held responsible.

The Public Utilities.

Our light and water department should be run for the benefit of the taxpayers. They are the real owners and are entitled to a fair profit. Looking through the city rate book you will find in many places, through the business sections, notations in connection with risks, reading like this: "Charged for electrical defects." What does this mean? Why should property-owners be held for this extra charge?

We have an ordinance that provides for a system of inspection and a permanent record of all business houses wired. Is it done? If not, why not? Is the retail department of the light system a paying proposition? Is the proper checking system on this department used? Is the city making money or losing money on competitive bids? Why can the taxpayers at any and all times buy light fixtures, globes, sockets, supplies, etc., cheaper than these can be furnished by the city department? Why should it be necessary for the citizens of a municipally owned plant to buy these things out of the city?

O. L. BAKKEN
Street Commissioner



This is done repeatedly. Goods are laid down here at a saving over the price paid to our department, transportation and drayage charges included. Is our department paying too much for their supplies or are they sticking exorbitant prices on the taxpayers? Either one or the other condition must prevail.

Water Rate Too High.

Is it not a fact that in cities all over the United States the annual water rate is often less than our charges for only one-fourth of a year? And ours a municipal plant owned by the people and for the people.

These are plain statements with no personal feeling in the matter whatsoever. Is this square with the taxpayer? Are these statements not worthy of your careful consideration?

No Fancy Salaries.

Every working man should receive a reasonable and just compensation for his labors. I heartily endorse this system but I do not and will not favor the city paying anyone a salary that I feel he or she does not earn. If the council finds that the services of any of its employes can be dispensed with and thus a saving made for the taxpayer, you should use the same judgment and liberty as exercised in your own business. It is your duty to make these changes, irrespective of political, friendly or social affiliations.

This, gentlemen, is purely a business proposition, presented for the good of our city. It should be treated as such.

I firmly believe changes can be made that will save the city from $1,200 to $1,500 annually, and I recommend that you give it conscientious, unprejudiced consideration.

Asks Loyal Support.

In conclusion I would ask for myself the loyal, unswerving support of the council and the people of the city in any attempt that may be necessary in order to root out anything of a seditious nature that may become apparent during this war. Our boys are on the fighting line. It is easily within the bounds of possibility that some of them may return minus a limb or with their health shattered. Should that time come I hope we may all be able to grasp them by the hand without feeling that we have left something undone which might have made their position easier to maintain. They will acquit themselves with honor to themselves and credit to the community. The enemies in front of them they themselves will take care of. It is our duty to hunt down and suppress their enemies at home, and in this task I hope that I shall have not only the aid of this council but the assistance of every man and woman in the city.

TALES OF THE FAR NORTH

Being an Account of My Experiences During the Three Years I Was Employed by the Government in Alaska.

By Dr. F. H. Gambell, Thief River Falls.

(Second Installment.)

An Ocean Voyage.

Up to the time of going to bed on the first night at sea the water was quiet. It was rather a pleasant sensation to be on the deck of a sailing vessel where the ropes and the railing and the wood-work were so nice and clean and so free from the soot and smoke of any engine. How smoothly the little vessel glided along, free from the jar of machinery. As evening came on I could not help but think that our voyage was to be a very pleasant one.

It was only a short space of time until we were all acquainted and were surmising as to how many days we would be sailing before we would reach the port near St. Michael. The conclusion we arrived at was that we would be at Knaikleet in ten days. I will leave it to you as to whether our judgment was good or not.

On the following morning we found that during the night we had left the calm water and were really out upon the ocean. That is, those who felt like getting up and going out upon the deck and looking around to see that we were almost out of sight of land, realized that we were sailing upon the ocean proper.

The First Big Sea.

When the great waves, crowned with their caps of snowy foam, came rolling in from nowhere to meet us, we could not help but admire our little boat as she clambered straight up on one side to mount them and then seemed to disappear from underneath our feet, leaving that vacant feeling in the pit of our stomachs as she glided down the opposite side of the wave to meet another one and perform the same feat over again, not once or twice but an innumerable number of times till our digestive apparatus no longer considered patience a virtue but rebelled most emphatically, and we suffered the consequences.

Time Hangs Heavy.

But in time we grew accustomed to the motion of the boat and were not annoyed by it, and began to look around for something to occupy our attention. Books and magazines were read and passed on to be read. The men played cards till they grew tired of them. There was so much latent energy cooped up in each one of us and no way to wear it away. They played one game that seemed to lend them not only amusement but gave vent to some of their surplus energy. Six or seven of the younger men would line up while one man would be blindfolded and step in front of them. Then one of the group of men would step forward and strike him upon that part of the body where the clothes were taut a stinging blow with the palm of his hand, and then step back into line. As soon as he had taken his place the blind was removed from the man's eyes and it was now his game to guess after watching the countenances of the men which one had struck him. Often the man who had delivered the blow would break out laughing while the one was watching them to make up his mind who had struck him. Of course it was easy telling then, but others could keep their countenances better and he was liable to guess the wrong one. If he guessed the right man he exchanged places. If the wrong man, the same experience was to be his again. They played as though they were boys—great big men though they were. What more was there to do?

Antics of the Gulls.

The great white sea gulls followed us and gave us no small amount of amusement. They screamed and fought over and ate of the refuse from the kitchen. This suggested something to the men and they would save their fat meat from the table and take a long string and tie two pieces together, then throw them out upon the water and watch two of the gulls light and see each one take a piece, after which one would start to fly and be annoyed until he had relieved or been relieved of the dinner. I remember when one of the men threw a baited fish line out and succeeded in catching one of these big birds and drawing it onto the deck of the ship. It was so unaccustomed to anything but the water that, while it was free, it could not rise from the deck. Not only that but the bird became sea-sick and it must have experienced the same sensation that is experienced by a human being for the results bore testimony.

Sighted Many Whales.

The whales often were seen raising the tops of their heads above the water to spout and then throwing their great tails high into the air as they went down. One of the men had been shooting at them for fun with his rifle, but they were usually so far off and the boat was so unstable that the bullet usually could be seen striking the water anywhere but in the region of the whale. One day right by the boat a whale came up to spout and the man happened to have his rifle. The whale seemed to see the boat for it went down very quickly with its head and away up in the air went its tail. All the men yelled at the fellow to shoot but he could not get his gun ready when the head was up so he aimed at its tail. Crack went the gun and spat went the bullet into the whale's tail, making him go out of sight with a great splash.

Spent Time Tacking.

We had been sailing for a week and the captain had been sailing by the compass as he had no sun to get his bearings. Then one afternoon the sun peeped out from between the clouds. He ran down to get his sextant and get his bearings. Figuring out his longtitude we learned that we had spent seven days bucking a head wind, tacking, tacking, all the time tacking, and that we were a long ways from being near the end of our journey.

So we read more books, learned more nautical terms, played chess with the captain, wrote letters home and waited for one day to finish and the next to begin.

A Derelict and Booze.

All at once we espied a black object on that great expanse of water. As we drew nearer we saw it was a derelict—a river boat set adrift, all battered by the storms of the ocean. The captain "put to" and two boats were lowered and manned by sailors who rowed to the rudderless, mastless, wheeless boat and clambered up over its side.

Several boat loads of guns and ammunition and miners' outfis were brought back. With the last boat load there was a five-gallon jug of brandy, or what was left of it, for from the appearance of the sailors they had been freely helping themselves. The jug somehow or another got up onto the boat and was hurried down into the galley without the captain seeing it. But he got track of it and ran hunting until it was found. Then running to the stern of the boat he raised it above his head and with a curse and a great deal of bluster he crashed the whole thing down upon the deck, breaking the jug into a thousand pieces, while the brandy ran off into the sea.

I was learning to realize that a captain on board a boat at sea is all powerful, and that his word is law and not to be questioned.

Long Calm Spell.

The days dragged drearily along, with nothing to break the monotony. All the time we were sailing except when in a calm. Then the sails would flop to and fro. The ship would be riding upon and over and in the trough of the waves with the rudder absolutely useless as to its purpose in directing the course of the ship.

Appetite All Gone.

After thirty days had gone on in this same way, and we had been eating canned meat and the tinned stuffs found on board a ship, until we little cared whether we ate or not, only that the process of eating seemed to break the monotony of the life we were living, the captain ordered soundings made to determine the depth of the water. When he was satisfied that we were on the great fishing banks of the Alaskan waters, the ship was brought to a stop and men were furnished with long lines. On the end of each were two baited hooks. Soon great, fat, shiny cod fish began to come up over the edge of the boat, often two to each line. They weighed all the way from 20 to 30 pounds apiece. So many were caught that the deck was covered with fish.

A Feast of Cod.

It was interesting to note that these fish, always living at a great depth, when brought to the surface could not go down again if thrown overboard as the great pressure being taken from them when they came to the surface caused their eyes to bulge from their sockets and their whole body to inflate as a balloon.

What a feast we had! I never ate such fish chowder, although it was made in an old lard can that I saw the cook cleaning out with an old scrub broom an hour or so previous to our meal. We crowded and jammed to get to the first table and demonstrated the fact that all barbarism is not a stranger to civilized man. The fish were all gone long before we were tired of them, and then we dropped back to corned beef, and still kept sailing and sailing on.

Entering Harbar.

At last we came in sight of the Alution Islands and in time were sailing into Dutch Harbor, where we were to take water at Onalaska, ready for the last third of our journey. When we were seeking a harbor in which to anchor it was noticed by many of us on board that the captain, who was at the wheel was heading the boat directly for a bay in which there was no other boat, but instead it showed the teeth of ugly rocks upon which the water was angrily dashing. It seemed that he was bent on wrecking the boat upon the rocks with all on board. Then, as it were, he repented and with quick, short commands the sails were shifted, and with a dexterity known only to one born on the sea, the boat narrowly escaped striking the rocks, made a complete circle and cast its anchor along side the other boats in a safe harbor.

We learned afterwards that he wrecked the boat at Point Hope and in that way got even with the company that owned her for some transaction which had transpired previously and had angered him at the company.

On Land at Last.

Oh, it was a joyful realization to be on land again and to have something under our feet that was not constantly moving. We ran over the great hills and scampered about as children. Later we visited the Methodist mission on the island and were taken in and given such a good dinner. The government school teacher was met and as we had been exiled from the influences of the gentler sex for so long, we appreciated the fact of having an opportunity of meeting someone so remarkably entertaining.

New Baby Arrives.

Our stay was all too short, but the boat had taken on its fresh water and soon set sail again on its last lap. This last part of the journey was not so slow as the first part for we had favorable winds. In fact the winds were so fair that at times the lower rail of the schooner was half under water.

It was on such a night as this that I was called to go from aft to midship to be in attendance on the occasion when the number of Lappish passengers was increased by one. It was not without an effort that I worked my way forwards over the slippery deck, having the hatch removed and then closed after me to keep out the splashing sea.

A Good Omen.

It was an occasion of great importance to us all, for it was to the sailors on board an omen indicative of good luck to have a child born on board the boat. I have reason to think that the little schooner, with its cramped quarters, never experienced such a happening before.

St. Michael's at Last.

It was not many days before we could see the low coast of the mouth of the Yukon river, then we passed the point of land on which St. Michaels was built and kept on sailing up until we came to the native village of Unalakleet, the village on the sea near where was to be built the government reindeer station of Eaton. It was a pleasant realization to know that our journey on sea was over after having been on the boat almost continuously for forty days and forty nights.

The regular monthly meeting of the Red Cross was held last week in the Commercial club rooms with an attendance of nearly 75. In the absence of Thos. A. Way, Mrs. T. L. Melgaard, vice chairman, presided.

Father Noesen was the speaker of the evening and gave a talk which rang of true patriotism throughout. He said that at one time there had been some agitation as to the right of the United States to enter the war. Now that was gone. There had also been rumors that Red Cross supplies were not going to the men at the front. That lie had been nailed. Another story, now being circulated, (probably by pro-Germans) is to the effect that there is no use in making any more supplies for the men as the war is nearly over. This, the speaker said, is wrong, absolutely wrong.

All Must Work.

The work of the Red Cross is here to stay, and the women are ready and willing to do their part, by knitting and sewing. The men must open their purse strings even more than in the past. All must do their share.

Father Noesen compared the situation of the boys in the trenches in the severe winter weather with that of the Red Cross workers present at the meeting, in the club rooms, enjoying the conveniences of home life.

Mrs. H. H. Spink told of her work in Minneapolis for three weeks previous to Christmas, when she was receiving instructions in the making of bandages and other Red Cross hospital supplies. She told of the urgent need at present for a vast amount of bandages and implored those present to assist, and to ask their friends to do the same. The Red Cross rooms in the Auditorium are to be used Monday, Tuesday and Friday afternoons for this class of work, the classes in instruction meeting at 2:30 p. m.

The Hospital Supplies.

Various committee reports were made, among those of interest being that of the Hospital Supplies committee by Mrs. Melgaard, showing that during December there had been shipped the following:

From the Woman's club: 15 pair pajamas.

From the St. Hilaire branch: 22 hospital shirts.

From the Girls' Auxiliary: 80 napkins.

From the Goodridge Branch: 10 wash cloths.

From the Normal Unit: 10 triangular bands, 35 four-tail bands, 15 abdominal bands.

From the Naval Auxiliary: 15 skultitus, 20 triangular bands, 55 four-tail bands, 10 abdominal bands.

From the Friday Unit: 20 abdominal bands, 15 four-tail bands, 15 skultitus.

This made a total of 200 bandages shipped by Pennington county Red Cross workers.

Handled wool to the amount of $649.00; sent in 199 socks, 66 sweaters, 50 mufflers, 64 pairs wristlets, 2 helmets.

This includes the articles sent in by Goodridge and St. Hilaire auxiliaries. This is one of the most enthusiastic committees engaged in the work and the entire chapter takes a great deal of pride in the showing made.

Auxiliaries Hustling.

In addition to these goods, St. Hilaire was also quite active in making other articles, as shown in the monthly report to Secretary Scott Laird, as follows. Shipped 4 mufflers, 11 sweaters, 7 pairs wristlets, 17 pairs socks, 22 hospital shirts; on hand, 4 pairs wristlets, 1 pair socks, 1 helmet and 4 sweaters.

H. A. Pratt, chairman of the Membership committee reported 158 new members in the city during the Christmas drive. It was believed that the country districts would show up even better than the city, thus insuring a total county membership of not far from 1,000. There were 154 members at the close of the year in St. Hilaire and 46 in Hazel.

Petitions asking the granting of branch charters at Hazel and the township of Rocksbury were presented and favorably acted upon by the meeting. This makes five active organizations now, viz: the Pennington County Chapter and branches at St. Hilaire, Goodridge, Hazel and Rocksbury. Then there are several auxiliaries doing work, and several Junior Red Cross organizations.

Still Awaiting Papers.

Harry Johnson, agent for the federal government in the collection of income taxes, has not yet received the necessary blanks from Washington but has been busy taking down the names and addresses of those who come under the taxing provisions of the law. As soon as the necessary documents are received they will be sent to those who have registered and may then be filled out and returned direct. Mr. Johnson is at Oklee today but will return in time to again take up his work at the court house tomorrow.

TIME FOR FILING IS ALREADY HERE

NOT LIKELY THAT CANDIDATES WILL BE IN ANY GREAT HURRY, HOWEVER

In these times of war local politics are very apt to suffer in interest, but there is to be an election next fall and the time for candidates to file their names in order that they may be placed on the primary ballot is here, January 2 being the first on which candidates for state and county officers in the state of Minnesota could file.

The dates for filing is open until a short time before the primaries which come next June. Not much is heard about politics these days, the war being the main topic, but as the time of the primaries approaches no doubt things will warm up.

The only requirement asked of a candidate is that he is a citizen of the United States and of the state and county and that he has the required filing fee of ten dollars. It is not necessary to file a petition, just the filing with the county auditor of your desire to be a candidate for the office of your selection being sufficient.

From the rumors heard there is no question but what there will be plenty of aspirants in Pennington county when the weather gets a little warmer, but none of them can see any sense in getting into the game at this time. The primaries are not held until in June and that leaves ample time before the first Tuesday in November for them to do their campaigning and spend their money.

NORWEGIAN CHURCH REPORTS FOR YEAR

CONGREGATION IN EXCELLENT FINANCIAL CONDITION AND MEMBERSHIP GROWING

The members of the Norwegian church held their annual meeting last week and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Rev. I. T. Aastad; secretary, Lars Backe; treasurer, H. P. Sponheim. Owing to the change in name necessitated by the amalgamation of the three Norwegian Lutheran bodies, it was necessary to elect a full set of trustees, the following being chosen for the respective terms indicated: H. P. Sponheim and A. O. Burringrud, three years; Nels Larson and Peter Hornseth, two years; Olof Tessum and A. E. Anderson, one year. Andrew Trovaton and A. E. Teslow were named as the committee in charge of parochial school affairs during the summer months. Gynther Tessum was named as superintendent of the Sunday school, and Tobias Reep and O. D. Ostby were appointed ushers.

The report of Treasurer Dahlen showed the church corporation to be in excellent financial condition. The congregation has enjoyed a steady growth and is perhaps the largest in the city.

REPORT WILL SHOW GAIN AT CREAMERY

ANNUAL MEETING TO BE HELD AT COMMERCIAL CLUB ROOMS FEB. 4

The annual meeting of the Thief River Co-operative creamery association will be held at the Commercial club rooms in this city on Monday, Feb. 4. The usual dinner will be served to the patrons, and officers for the ensuing year elected. The creamery dinner is an event to which many look forward with great interest, as not only are the things provided of the very best, but the meeting itself is full of interest.

The report of Secretary Henry Hanson is not yet ready for presentation, but L. Hazelrud, buttermaker at the creamery, states it will show receipts totalling between $145,000 and $150,000. This is an increase over last year of approximately $25,000 and is made possible by the higher prices received for the product. The output in pounds is somewhat less than a year ago, but the falling off has not been as great as expected. Mr. Hazelrud states that he does not believe any great number of milch cows have been sold off the farms in spite of the high prices of beef. This proves that our dairymen have generally followed the course recommended as wisest by the foremost authorities in the country.

The season has in some respects been the best in the history of dairying in this section, while on the other hand there have been a number of unusual drawbacks.

The school in Dist. No. 29, three and a half miles northeast of this city, taught by Miss Emma Tandberg, gave a basket social before Christmas and made a considerable sum of money, $9.40 of which was given to the Red Cross society.

Appointed Medical Advisors.

M. H. Corcoran, clerk of the state medical advisory board, this week notified Dr. F. H. Gambell that Gov. Burnquist had appointed him chairman of the district board for the district composed of Pennington, Red Lake and Kittson counties, with Drs. O. F. Mellby and Jacob Biederman of this city as his associates. This board is created for the purpose of considering any cases among the drafted men where it is claimed that the examining physician erred in his recommendations as to their fitness for military duty. The associating of Pennington, Red Lake and Kittson counties into one district is not the most convenient arrangement that could have been devised from a geographical point of view, as either Roseau or Marshall would seem to be the logical third unit to be connected with Pennington and Red Lake.

BOYS SEEM WELL: ANXIOUS TO FIGHT

PROF. JOHNSON AND RALPH MATHEWS ARE HEARD FROM THIS WEEK

The Times regrets very much that the regulations forbid the publishing of any more letters from the boys at the training camps. Two have been received at this office during the past week and both are very interesting. Albert I. Johnson, last year's science instructor and athletic director at the Thief River Falls schools, is still at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., but expects to be called soon. Just how soon he of course does not know, and the date could not be divulged even if he did.

He is well and happy and particularly thankful for the remembrances sent him from friends at Christmas time. On that day he received five letters from the boys and girls of his former class here and these were the best of all, according to his own declaration. Mr. Johnson has received his sergeant's stripes and has been directed to acquire a working knowledge of the construction and operation of an X-ray machine. He now does all but the diagnosis work, this being of course in charge of an M. D.

The other letter is from Ralph Mathews, formerly linotype operator on The Times force. He is with the hospital corps at Fort Riley and is getting along fine. He states that an outburst of meningitis was checked before any particular damage was done and is very enthusiastic in his praise of the efficiency of the army medical men. He hopes soon to go to France, where there will undoubtedly be a greater call for his services. While it is a fact that the boys on the actual firing line get vastly more credit than is accorded those in other branches of the service, continues Mr. Mathews, those in the hospital and medical corps also face certain dangers that are liable to be overlooked. He is well and happy, although the first few weeks of training were a little hard on him.

WILL SELL WOOD ON PUBLIC LANDS

PERMIT CUTTING AT A COST TO CONSUMER OF 35 CENTS PER CORD

At a recent meeting of the State Safety commission a resolution was passed authorizing State Auditor J. A. O. Preus to sell at private sale dead and down timber and green hardwood located upon state lands.

The resolution was passed as a fuel emergency measure as the commission is somewhat alarmed over the fuel shortage, and by proper use of wood for fuel in the timber districts this situation may be relieved to a great extent. The amount of fuel wood is limited to from one cord to one hundred cords to any one person at twenty-five cents per cord.

Application must be made to the Timber Department of the State Auditor's office for the timber, stating the amount of fuel wood desired and the legal description of the land upon which the timber is located. A form contract will then be issued and sales made in the order they are received. Payment shall be made upon scale after the timber is cut and paid for before removed from the land.

DISTRICT SHORT OF QUOTA FOR NAVY

REGISTRANTS ARE STILL GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO ENLIST IN THIS BRANCH

The recent announcement by Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder to the effect that no more formal calls for deferred percentages of the present draft quota would be sent out before February 15th, makes it possible for more draft registrants to enlist in the navy than at any time since December 15th.

The navy is greatly in need of apprentice seamen, the quota of 800 for this district being far from filled. This number must be obtained by February 22. Men enlisted now are being sent home on furlough, subject to call, because the training stations are filled. Pay, $32.60 a month to start, begins the day of enlistment. Men enlisted, after their periods of training, are put in branches they are best qualified to fill.

Recruiting officers at the Minneapolis station, 30 Marquette avenue, Minneapolis, Minn., say that there are very few instances where registrants in the draft have not been able to secure certificates stating they are not needed for current draft quotas. These are required of all those registered and are obtained from the applicant's local draft board. Even many who have been called and examined by their local boards are eligible to enlistment in the navy.

Men can enlist at the Minneapolis station or any of its branches. Substations are located at Fargo, Grand Forks, Duluth and St. Paul.

OFFERS TO AID TIMES READERS

LIEUT. KJOMME WILL CONTRIBUTE ARTICLES DEALING WITH MILITARY SUBJECTS

In a letter to The Times received this week from First Lieut. Hans O. Kjomme, now stationed at Ft. Brady, Mich., that officer compliments the publishers upon the success of the consolidation proceedings and adds that "The Times ought now to become, even more than in the past, the great journal of the Northwest."

Lieut. Kjomme will shortly submit a series of letters dealing with military matters for publication in The Times. He says that there are a number of subjects concerning which there is more or less misunderstanding and he will be pleased to offer his services in clearing them up for our readers, so far as he may be permitted to do so. The Times will gladly avail itself of this offer and the first of his letters may be looked for at an early date.

He says he likes the work at the fort very much, although it is not so strenuous as that at the training camp. It is likely that his regiment may be moved to some more southern point during the next few months—"and then to France," adds Mr. Kjomme.

Aided Needy Family.

The Kinsella family, residing just north of the fair grounds, has had a rather hard row to hoe since the death of Mr. Kinsella some time ago. The family moved from here to Minneapolis last year, Mr. Kinsella dying in that city. The widow and children returned to this city, where the oldest boy secured employment. He, however, had the misfortune to break his arm while cranking his employer's auto, and thus became an additional charge. Mrs. Kinsella has not resided in the county sufficiently long to become entitled to a mother's pension and as she resided outside of the city limits nothing could be done through the municipality. John B. Conner, a resident of the town of North and secretary of the Thief River Falls commercial club, interested himself in the matter with the result that the township has taken it up and is providing temporary relief.

Includes Electric Line.

In referring to the order of the President taking over all the railroads of the country last week, The Times stated that interurban lines were not included and that the Minnesota Northwestern Electric road would for this reason not be taken over. Early this week the officials received notice from headquarters, however, notifying them that the road was considered a common carrier and thus would come under the ruling. The notification requested that the officials hold themselves in readiness to act on any orders that might emanate from the office of Director General McAdoo, but as yet no such orders have been received. As a considerable feeder for one of the principal trunk lines of the country the line may assume considerable importance.

An advertisement in The Times is sure to bring the desired result. It is the real business tonic.

Thief River Falls Concern Calls Attention of Stock Raisers to Its Business

To Dairy Convention Delegates: While we are not directly in the business of handling dairy products, yet much of the stock we do handle is of the highest importance to the stock raiser generally.

Ours is a general produce house, handling hay, straw, feed of all kinds, flour and feed. Besides this we have the most modern potato warehouse in the Northwest and are in the market for this crop at all times. This modern warehouse has just been completed and we invite your inspection. It is located on 3rd Street opposite the Soo depot ¶Our shipping facilities are unexcelled by any house in the Northwest. ¶The seed department of this plant aims to handle the varieties and kinds particulary suited to this section. Clover, Timothy and other grass seeds are given special attention.

We are always in the market for corn—either for seed or feeding purposes.

Items of Interest Regarding Activities on the Soo Line and the Great Northern

GUMBO ON TRACK CAUSE OF DELAY

GREASES RAILS AND DRIVE WHEELS SPIN TO NO PURPOSE

The Soo train on the Wheatline was five hours late in getting in last Friday night. There was a strong wind blowing in the region west of Thief River Falls, but the inability of the train crew to make port on schedule time was due to an altogether different cause. There was but little snow carried by the storm itself and the fields were soon swept clean. When the covering was gone the wind continued its work, scattering a layer of sticky gumbo in the path of the trains. This had the effect of greasing the rails and no amount of sand seemed to have the slightest effect in making the drivers grip. It was rather an unusual occurrence for this time of year, delays being usually caused by too much snow instead of not enough.

On Leave of Absence—Hans P. Battleson, Soo line brakeman, has been granted a 90 day leave of absence and will put in the time visiting relatives and friends at Minneapolis. A. L. Auringer, another brakeman, has been given an indefinite leave of absence in order that he may have an opportunity to get his affairs in order before being called to attend training camp, he being a member of the next national army contingent to be called.

Few Lay-Offs Necessary — The usual winter slump is responsible for a few men being laid off on the division. One reason for this is that very little wheat is being shipped, the farmers evidently preferring to hold the grain. This is rather remarkable as the price for the year has been established and it is certain that there will be no change before another harvest roll around. The present winter has also been very favorable for railroading because of the small amount of snow and the few storms encountered. During some seasons it has been necessary to keep large crews at work at track clearing, particularly on the division westward from this city, and this number has been dispensed with thus far.

Clerk Becomes Operator—W. E. Bens, formerly ticket clerk at the Soo depot in this city, has been put on as day operator and cashier at Alexandria, relieving A. P. Pfeifer, who goes to Conway, N. D., as agent. From the latter place the former agent, M. F. Howe, goes as operator to Detroit, succeeding J. H. Seveland, resigned.

Back on the Job—Edwin Gulden, formerly a resident of this city, is again back at work as warehouseman at Odelin, after having undergone an operation for appendicitis. J. N. Dalton, who has been filling the position, has been relieved until further orders.

Injured Man Improving—Berger Wold, who was injured while jacking up a car on the repair track here a month ago, is now able to be about, although he is still moving very carefully. If the present improvement keeps up, however, he expects to be back on the job in a couple of weeks.

Is Resting Up—A. E. Ekbon, engineer on the Federal Dam run, is taking a lay-off at the present time for no other purpose than that of resting up. He does not expect to get back to pulling the throttle for another month at least.

Visited at Camp Dodge—Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Erickson returned this week from Camp Dodge, where they had been to visit a brother of Mr. Erickson's, who is a member of the national army with the Grand Forks contingent.

Ice Contract Completed—The Red Lake Ice company has just completed the contract of filling the ice house of the Soo railway. A total of 3,500 tons have been stored for use of the road during the coming season.

Took Wife to Hospital—Daniel Parenteau, car repairer, left on Tuesday for Rochester, to which city he accompanied Mrs. Parenteau, who will undergo treatment at the Mayo hospital.

Stenographers on Visit— Misses Nettie Ove and Anna J. Quale, stenographers in the office of District Superintendent W. A. Barnard, were visitors in Minneapolis over Sunday.

Returns From Minneapolis—J. E. Bloomquist, switch foreman, and Axel Williamson, switchman, returned Saturday morning from a brief visit with friends at Minneapolis.

Visited at Chicago—John Kasa, car repairer, left this week for a visit with relatives and friends at Chicago.

Car Cleaner Back—Roy Ellefson, who has been working for the Soo at Fordville for some time past, is back at his job as car cleaner at the round house here.

New Call Boy—Edward Langevin, Jr., residing with his parents at 319 Arnold avenue south, is now employed as call boy at the station in this city.

New Cashier at Warren—Charles Wittensten, well known to many people in Thief River Falls, has been appointed cashier for the Soo at Warren.

Visited With Family—O. L. Skorheim, telegraph operator at the Soo offices in this city, spent Sunday at Henning, Minn., with his family.

Visits in Cities—A. J. Nyhus, civil engineer connected with the Soo, spent Sunday in Minneapolis on a visit to friends and relatives.

Firemen Are Thankful.

Fighting fire when the thermometer is hovering near the 20 below zero mark is hardly to be reckoned among the "light occupations," and whenever anything is done to make the work of the firemen a little less trying they are truly thankful. During the Dr. Froehlich fire of last week, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sharp, residing next to the scene of the fire, prepared coffee for the boys and assisted them in other ways in combatting the frigid temperature. This was an act that met with the unqualified approval of the latter. Being invited to partake of a hot cup of this cheering beverage when you are half frozen to death is next thing to having your life saved and the firemen have asked us to express their thanks to those providing the treat.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

WHEN you compare the low prices of Ford cars with the prices of farm produce, farm stock and everything else on the market, the great value of the Ford car can be fairly estimated. The price for the Ford Touring Car is only $360 f. o. b. Detroit—the same as last year. It is the greatest value, not only among motor cars, but in the whole run of articles grown and manufactured. Think of a five-passenger motor car with the reputation for service, durability and economy that's behind the Ford car, selling for $360! We urge prospective purchasers to give their orders without delay.

Grant Ohm salesman at the Lieberman store, who accompanied the head of the concern on this journey, will return this evening, having stopped in Minneapolis to visit friends and attend to business matters. While absent Mr. Lieberman purchased the goods for his new store and these will arrive in ample time to be in place on the opening date, which will likely be some time early in March.

Local Doctor Honored.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Red River Valley Medical association held last week at Crookston, Dr. H. W. Froehlich of Thief River Falls was chosen president for the ensuing year. Other officers elected were Dr. Franklin M. Dryden, vice president, and Dr. Ralph L. Kirsch, secretary, both of Crookston. The meeting was held at the Hotel Crookston and nothing excepting matters of business were discussed. The general program meetings are held in June or July and it is probable that this city will entertain the doctors at the coming session.

PERSONAL TAX IS NOW MADE PUBLIC

OPPORTUNITY IS GIVEN TO COMPARE YOUR STANDING WITH OTHERS.

In this week's issue of the Times will be found the list of the personal property tax payers of Pennington county as compiled by County Treasurer Theo. Liden. There is a total of 2,801 names in the list, 743 being those of residents in the city of Thief River Falls. Among the townships Rocksbury carries off the honors for having the largest number, there being 118 personal property tax payers within its confines, while the town of Bray has the smallest number, there being but 41 reporting from that division.

The highest personal property tax payer is the Oen Mercantile company, the contribution of this concern toward the upkeep of the county and state being $1,606.20. The Peoples State bank comes next with $1,221.46, after which come the Thief River Grocery company and First State bank with $1,221.46 and $1,139.30 respectively. The lowest tax will be paid by Severt Benson of Thief River Falls who is assessed eight cents. The next two contenders for the consolation prize are William Pricher of Star township with 14 cents and Berget Danielson of Wyandotte with 12 cents.

Bray	41
Cloverleaf	53
Deer Park	68
Goodridge (twp.)	32
Hickory	61
Highlanding	97

GERMAN CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS

EXPECT TO HAVE THE CHURCH PROPERTY FREE OF DEBT BY MARCH 1

The annual meeting of St. John's congregation was held last week and the various reports received showed that the congregation closed one of its most successful years. All obligations were paid, over $300 had been received for benevolences and over $500 applied towards clearing the remaining debt. Last spring the congregation voted to make an effort to pay off the outstanding church debt of $1,000, of which over $800 now has been covered by subscriptions. It is expected that by March 1 the entire sum will be pledged.

St. John's congregation is one of the youngest organizations in the city, and although it lost its entire church property in a disastrous fire in 1910, it now prides itself in having a beautiful church and parsonage, and also a district parochial school building four miles southwest of here, all of it free of debt. This speaks well for the members of the congregation and its pastor, Rev. F. J. Seltz, whose good judgment and untiring efforts was an incentive to the members.

All of the old officers were reelected for the ensuing year, with the exception of secretary, to which position H. Wilken was elected. The congregation is arranging for a big banquet to take place as soon as the sum remaining on the church debt has been pledged.

OBITUARY

Cornelius Anderson.

Deceased was born near Drammen, Norway, and immigated with his parents to America in 1862. He had made his home in this county for several years before moving to Remer.

The surviving relatives are a daughter, Mrs. Whitney, Simpson, Minn.; two sons, Attorney A. S. Anderson of Philip, S. D., who attended the funeral, and Sergeant Edward Anderson of Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.; a sister Mrs. R. H. Deyarmond, Bend, Ore., and a brother, Nels K. Anderon, of this place, at whose home the funeral services were conducted. Rev. A. H. Bergford of St. Hilaire conducted the services at the house and at the Oak Ridge church. Interment was made at the Landstad cemetery in the N. K. Anderson family lot.

Basket Ball Friday Night.

The Thief River Falls basket ball team will meet the fast Stephen quintet at the school gymnasium here on Friday night. There are few better basket shooters in this section than the Stephen bunch and as the locals absolutely refuse to be beaten by anything from anywhere this year there is going to be a grand tussle for the supremacy.

Warren was to have played here last Monday evening, but through a misunderstanding the team failed to show up. The crowd was given their money's worth, however, in the game played between the 1917 and 1915 alumni, which was fast and exciting throughout. The class of 1917 won by a score of 19 to 6.

WILL YOUR HOUSE BE THE NEXT TO GO?

THE SEVERAL DISASTROUS FIRES of last week in Thief River Falls should convince you that you cannot afford to trust to luck.

HAVE YOU ANY REASON TO BELIEVE that fire may not at any time destroy YOUR property too?

IF YOUR HOME is not already insured, you should take steps immediately to safegard yourself against loss; and if you are carrying an insufficient amount of insurance you should take on enough more to keep pace with the tremendous leap in the cost of all materials entering into the construction and equipment of a building.

The Citizens State Bank

as the agent for eight of the strongest companies in the field, is equipped to care for your needs, and is anxious to serve you.

That Little Dinner Party

Let us take charge of it for you. Our Sunday Dinners are proving very popular with those who wish to do things "just a little different." They find our service the best and most economical way in which to entertain their friends. These dinners are not only a treat and convenience, but under prevailing high food prices, are also a decided economy.

MANY OF YOUR NEIGHBORS ARE FINDING OUR SERVICE JUST WHAT THEY HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR.

Joint Installation.

Last Thursday night at the I. O. O. F. lodge room, the members of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges held a joint installation of officers, A. S. Wilson, D. D. G. M. of the I. O. O. F. and M. Fricker, D. D. P. of the Rebekahs, acting as installing officers. The new officers for the subordinate lodges are: Duncan McAllister, N. G.; Myles Jackson, V. G.; M. Fricker, secretary; D. Patterson, treasurer. The officers for the Rebekahs are: Miss Gertrude Hooper, N. G.; Mrs. J. Hanson, V. G.; Miss Jessie Sinclair, secretary; Mrs. A. J. Hed, treasurer.

Over fifty members were present. After the installation a "war time lunch" was served and the balance of the evening was spent in dancing and playing cards. Those present from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. John Moore and Paul Olson of Rocksbury; Mr. and Mrs. C. Keller and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Denhart of Hazel; Christ Kruse of Polk Center; Selmer Walbeck of Black River, and L. C. Nielsen, O. E. Berg and Christ Halverson and daughter of Thief River Falls.

Birthday Party.

A group of young folks gathered at the C. H. Martz home Saturday evening for the purpose of helping Master Gordon Martz celebrate his tenth birthday. The evening was spent in playing numerous games, after which a delicious luncheon was served. A large number of gifts were given to Gordon before the children departed for their homes. Those present were: Miss Pearl Simonson, Donovin Bigelow, Ervin McKercher, Edwin Itner, Kenard and Thomas Hovet.

Thrift Day.

Having received a notification from the Minnesota Committee of Four Minute Men that Friday, Jan. 11th, should be designated as thrift day in all city and rural schools of the state, part of that afternoon was given over in the St. Hilaire schools in explaining the savings certificates and thrift stamps. Very fine speeches were given by the following pupils: Misses Esther Malmquist and Hazel Goings and Eddie Norman of the Sophomore class, George and John Whalen of the Freshman class, Miss Margaret Patterson, Leslie Bigelow and Erick Aaberg of the eighth grade class, and Melvin Sherva of the seventh grade class. Miss Esther Malmquist and Melvin Sherva were selected as the two who would be able to represent the school as the Four Minute workers. Therefore these two pupils will be recognized by the Committee of Public Information at Washington as the representatives for the War Savings Certificates speaking campaign o fthe St. Hilaire school.

Did You Ever Try To Save?

Thrift takes the "if" out of life. What of the future? We ask ourselves that question constantly. The children attending school, young men and young women, adults—all who engage in useful work ask themselves this question.

ANSWER IT TODAY

How, you ask? Answer that great and vital question by starting a Savings Account in our bank. Make it YOUR bank. Save diligently and let the little fairy, "Compound Interest", do the rest. If you are thrifty, financial security will be yours. Come in at once and see us about it

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Eight and 45-100 Dollars ($8.45), which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Emil J. Olsen and Emilia Olsen, his wife, Mortgagors, to the Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, (a corporation under the laws of the State of Minnesota), Mortgagee, bearing date the 11th day of November, 1916, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, on the 13th day of November, 1916, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 54 of Mortgages, on page 225, and also duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Marshall and State of Minnesota, on the 16th day of November, 1916, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., in Book 84 of Mortgages, on page 83.

And Whereas, The said Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, the Mortgagee and Holder of said Mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said Mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said Mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of Eight and 45-100 Dollars ($8.45), with interest thereon at the rate of Ten (10) per cent per annum from the 1st day of Dec., 1917, the further sum of Thirty-two and no-100 Dollars ($32.00) and the further sum of Fifty and 67-100 Dollars ($50.67) with interest thereon from December 1st, 1917, at the rate of Six (6) per cent per annum, for interest paid on prior Mortgage by this Mortgagee, making the total sum of Ninety-one and 59-00 Dollars ($91.59) claimed to be due this date by virtue of said Mortgage indebtedness, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz: The West Half of the Northeast Quarter (W½NE¼) of Section Seven (7) in Township One Hundred Fifty-four (154) North, of Range Thirty-nine (39) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, lying and being in Marshall County and State of Minnesota, and also that tract of land lying and being in the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, described as follows: The West Half of the Southeast Quarter (W½SE¼) of Section Seven (7) in Township One Hundred Fifty-four (154) North, of Range Thirty-nine (39), West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, containing 160 acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Thief River Falls in said Pennington County and State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, 1918, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Ninety-one and 59-100 Dollars ($91.59) and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five and no-100 Dollars ($25.00), Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Rosa Bonner, 825 N. 18th St., Birmingham, Ala., says:

"I have been suffering with nervous prostration for nine or ten years. Have tried many of the best doctors in Birmingham, but they all failed to reach my case. I would feel as if I was smothering; finally I went into convulsions. My little girl saw advertised in the papers and I at once began to take it. I continued to take it for some time and now I am well."

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep; if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what is the matter with you, but that is no reason why you should delay treatment.

has proven its value in nervous disorders for thirty years, and merits a trial, no matter how many other remedies have failed to help you.

Sold by all druggists. If first bottle fails to benefit your money is returned.

MAZOLA

is the pure vegetable oil for better cooking and salad dressings

THE pure, wholesome, and delicious qualities of Mazola appeal to the housewife from the standpoint of cooking results—in deep frying, sautéing, shortening and salad dressings.

And at the same time she knows she is doing her share toward saving the country's animal fats—butter, lard, suet.

Mazola is produced from the heart of golden American corn.

It does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another—can be used over and over again—a great factor in economical cooking.

Mazola is sold in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon sizes. Your grocer will give you a copy of the free Mazola Book of Recipes—or write us direct.

Miss Hetland's Reading—

Tickets for the entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Woman's club on Monday evening are selling rapidly and it is now certain that Miss Harriet Hetland of Minneapolis will be greeted by a full house when she appears at the high school auditorium. Her subject on this occasion will be "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," a play made famous by Forbes Robertson and one of the great stage successes of recent years. Miss Hetland has given readings in this city on three different occasions heretofore and is a decided favorite with our people. She is one of the readers of the University Extension department and her dates are always among the most popular numbers of any course of which she has a part. Her latest selection is said to give wide scope to her remarkable powers of dramatic expression and ticket holders are looking forward to an unusual treat. The admission price has been placed at 25 cents.

Guests at Mellby Home—

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Strunk of Sidney, Ohio, arrived last Friday evening from Warren, where they were guests of Mrs. Strunk's parents, Judge and Mrs. Andrew Grindeland, and are guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Mellby. Mrs. Strunk is a sister of Mrs. Mellby and Miss Evelyn Grindeland. She was formerly Miss Synnova Grindeland and held the position of principal in the local high school.

For the Gullingsruds—

The Ladies' Aid of the Synod church entertained Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Gullingsrud and family, whose home was destroyed by fire last week, at a six o'clock dinner in the basement of the church last Sunday. Covers were laid for over one hundred guests. The family was presented with several very costly gifts, including a feather rocker, a clock, table linen, a dozen silver knives and forks and a small purse of money.

Meeting of Dorcas Society—

The first meeting of the Dorcas Society of the United Lutheran church since the election of the new officers was held on Tuesday evening in the church basement, entertained by Miss Blanche Holum. The following are the new officers: Miss Blanche Holum, president; Mr. Theo. Liden, vice president; Miss Olga Gulrud, secretary; Miss Tillie Oftedal, treasurer.

Entertained Sunday—

Miss Christina Clausen entertained informally Sunday evening in her apartments, 210½ LaBree avenue north. During the evening a dainty lunch was served. The guests were: Misses Effie and Igna Hamry, Gladys Anderson, Ella Northup, Ruth Evenson, Gena Hanson, Lena Evenson, Selma Rustebakke, Thora Hanson and Lena Lonson.

Red Cross Carnival—

There will be a Junior Red Cross carnival held at the Central school on Saturday evening, Jan. 28. An unusual program is in course of preparation and the entertainment is heralded as one of the events of the winter. The details will be set forth in these columns next week.

A Social Evening—

George Thompson informally entertained a small party of friends last evening at his home on North Duluth avenue. The time was pleasantly spent at cards and other diversions. Refreshments were served by the host.

Gave Banquet—

Last evening the ladies of St. Bernard's church entertained the members of the dairymen's association at a banquet in the basement of the church. Covers were laid for 250. Speeches and toasts were given between courses.

W. C. T. U. Meeting—

The W. C. T. U. meets with Mrs. E. O. Erickson, 416 Horace avenue, January 22. This is membership day and not only members but all interested in the work of the organization are urged to attend.

To Entertain Aid—

The Ladies' Aid of the Norwegian Lutheran church will be entertained next Thursday, January 24, by Mesdames H. Langseth, Oscar Williams and I. T. Aastad, in the basement of the Synod church.

For Mrs. Strunk—

Mrs. O. F. Mellby entertained last evening at her home, 621 Bridge street, for her sister, Mrs. Strunk, of Sidney, Ohio, who is her guest. Sixteen guests were entertained.

Entertained Aid—

The Ladies' Aid of the Swedish Mission church was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. J. Lundell, 339 Kendall avenue north.

At the Princess.

The Princess theatre will start the week with something a little lighter than usual this evening when Constance Talmadge appears in "The Honeymooners," advertised as a "polite farce comedy." There is a world of fun in the piece and Miss Talmadge makes the most of it.

No more intensely dramatic performer is at the present time to be seen in moving pictures than Pauline Fredericks, who appears in "The Hungry Heart" on Friday evening. The play is taken from the story of the same name by David Graham Phillips, which of itself is a guarantee of its gripping details.

"The Hidden Spring" is the feature in which Harold Lockwood will apppear on Saturday evening. Mr. Lockwood has always been a strong favorite in this city and his latest play will make him even more so.

Sunday and Monday are the great days of the week. On these evenings will be presented "The World For Sale," from the novel of Sir Gilbert Parker. The presentation is directed by that master of screen stagecraft, J. Stuart Blackton, and is said to be the greatest achievement of that genius. It is a story of love, racial conflict and the great Northwest and is filled with romance, adventure and thrills galore.

Manager Lawrence is unable at this time to give his exact program for Tuesday evening, but it will be in keeping with those presented during the rest of the week.

On Wednesday evening Vivian Martin appears in "The Trouble Buster." The scenes are laid in the streets of a great city. Miss Martin is known as "The Girl With Personality Plus," and this play gives her ample opportunity for a display of her rare talents.

Goodridge Red Cross Notes.

On Friday evening, Jan. 11, a basket social and dance were given at the Goodridge hall for the benefit of the Red Cross. Owing to the stormy weather the attendance was not as large as expected and the amount netted was due to the splendid effort of the auctioneer, W. J. LaBree, of Thief River Falls. The hall was donated by P. P. Palmer and the music by local musicians.

On Saturday afternoon the ladies met at the school to do Red Cross sowing. They also served a lunch, the proceeds of which went for the obnefit of the cause.

studied her industrial conditions and needs at first hand. He said that what the country requires more than anything else is iron, a product of which Minnesota has an abundance. The past has shown that Germany is not at all backward in going after what she wants, no matter to whom it may belong. Supposing then that England and France were defeated, said the speaker, it is absolutely certain that the status of Canada would be changed and that German influence would predominate throughout the neighboring country. Canada has no iron, but Minnesota and the rest of the United States are very conveniently located. Is it not reasonable to suppose that, flushed with victory and able to dictate the terms of peace, an ambitious and ruthless monarchy would cast covetous eyes in this direction?

Urges Conservation.

One of the strongest portions of President Burton's address dealt with the duty of all Americans in saving in every way possible on the amount of food consumed. Many are living today as they did before the war, he said, and unless they changed their ways they will be contributing very largely toward a German success. Our allies need our wheat and have nothing else to substitute for it. We can easily ship them practically all we have of this cereal and get along quite comfortably on the other grains of which we raise an abundance. Without posing in any way as an alarmist, the speaker could not but feel that many people have failed thus far to realize the seriousness of the situation.

The Condition in France.

Dr. Burton drew an eloquent picture of the sufferings endured by the people of France. He stated that there was hardly a home in that country but what had contributed some male member on the altar of liberty. But throughout the entire domain no faltering is observed. The French are protecting their homes with a determination that challenges the admiration of the entire world. The people there look upon America as the land from which aid must finally come, and are only fearful lest it come too late.

Started as Newsboy.

In referring to America's position in this struggle, Dr. Burton said that no land in all history had been more worth fighting for or even dying for if need be. He cited his own case as an illustration of the possibilities it holds out to those who have nothing to begin with. Himself a newsboy on the streets of Minneapolis in 1891, he gave all the credit for anything he may have been able to achieve to the opportunities offered to any willing person in this land.

The First Program.

Rev. I. T. Aastad of the Norwegian Lutheran church opened the meeting on Tuesday morning with prayer, after which the delegates were welcomed by Mayor G. A. Penney. The freedom of the city was extended and the hope expressed that the meeting would prove of both value and profit. Andrew French of St. Paul responded on behalf of the delegates and thanked the people for the preparations that had been made for the comfort of those attending the convention.

The reports of the officials were then read, President Edward H. Ulrich of Biscay, Secretary Chris Heen of Osakis, and Treasurer J. M. Jack of Northfield, submitting their statements for the year.

The First Speakers.

Dr. Boyd of the University farm, was the first speaker on the program, his subject being "Preventing and Treating Diseases in the Dairy Herd." His remarks were highly instructive and it is to be regretted that his audience was not larger.

"Value of Farm Advertising" was the subject treated by F. B. McLaren of Wrenshall. He pointed out where the farmer and dairyman was losing money and prestige through not making better use of the publicity opportunities offered by newspapers.

Wednesday Morning Program.

Prof. H. H. Kildee was the first speaker yesterday. His topic, "Increasing Production From the Dairy Herd," was one in which all those present were interested and they found the speaker's advice worthy of serious and immediate consideration.

Supt. E. A. Williams of the Todd county schools, gave an interesting talk on "Co-operation," this closing the forenoon session.

In the afternoon Prof. C. Larson of Brookings, S. D., spoke to the delegates on "Alfalfa and Clover for the Dairy Cow," after which the butter scores were announced and the sale of the convention butter and cheese made.

The last address of the day was made by S. G. Gustafson of Delano, who spoke on "Butter Criticism."

The Banquet.

It had been announced that Gov. Burnquist would be the speaker at the banquet to be given for the delegates by the citizens of Thief River Falls in the evening, but he found it impossible to attend and Hon. J. F. T. O'Connor, Grand Forks, was secured in his place. Mr. O'Connor's address was of a highly patriotic order and was well received by the large crowd in attendance. The banquet was held in the assembly hall of the Catholic church as this offered more room for the function and is well equipped to take care of matters of this kind.

The Butter Scores.

The highest score in the whole milk class was made by A. J. Anderson of Otsego, who received a mark of 95½ points. He was followed by F. W. Hedke of Bougards, scoring 95¼ and A. L. Radke of Plato, with a score of 94¾.

In the cream class Carl Jorgenson of Pine City scored the highest, his sample being marked at 95. L. Haselrud of the Thief River Falls Co-operative creamery made a score of 93¾ and was eighth in a list of 140 entries. Elner Solstad, also of this city, was twenty-sixth on the list, his score being 93. The showing made by Mr. Haselrud is particularly good and places the local creamery among the topnotchers in the state.

CLUB ELECTION; STAND-UP LUNCH

A REGULAR OLD-TIME GET-TOGETHER MEETING THIS EVENING

MEMBERS VOTING ALL DAY

REVIEW OF YEAR'S WORK HELD AND PLANS FOR FUTURE DISCUSSED

Things about the Commercial club room in this city will remind the members of old times this evening when the results of the annual election is made known and one of those famous stand-up lunches served. Owing to war activities and other matters that have absorbed the attention of the officers and members there have been but few of these social gatherings during the past year and this one has been looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

Supper at Six-Thirty.

The supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock and H. A. Brumund will be the caterer. The price per plate has been placed at 35 cents, the following being the menu: Roast beef sandwiches, brown gravy; mashed potatoes, dill pickles, pie and coffee. There will be plenty for everybody and the service is not limited to club members.

Meeting is Important.

As soon as everyone has eaten all he can hold a regular meeting will be called for the purpose of canvassing and announcing the result of the balloting. A full set of officers is to be elected, including the board of directors. These latter will meet in February for the purpose of choosing a secretary.

The meeting tonight will in many respects be the most important of the year. The success or failure of the things undertaken by the club hinges in a large measure upon the ability of the men chosen as its leaders and every member is interested in the outcome of the election. It is very important, therefore, that all shall attend the lunch first and remain to add their counsel to the meeting.

No Slate Presented.

There is nothing to indicate who will be the choice of the membership for the various offices to be filled. No slate has even been suggested so far as The Times has been able to learn and no one will have even an inkling of the outcome until after the ballots are counted. This will add considerable interest to the evening's business.

Do not fail to be present.

HOME GUARD WILL DANCE FEBRUARY 1

ARRANGEMENTS UNDER WAY FOR SECOND PARTY OF THE WINTER

Company C, Eleventh Battalion, Minnesota Home Guard, which is the full title of the military organization claiming Thief River Falls as its home port, will give the second dancing party of the winter at the Auditorium on Friday evening, Feb. 1. The committees to have charge of the arrangements have not yet been selected, but something particularly special in the way of appointments may be looked for.

The first dance given by the company about a month ago proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. The people of the city turned out generously and the hole in the company exchequer was made considerably smaller. There are still a few debts, however, these being incurred for equipment, etc., at the time of organization, and the officers are desirous of cleaning the slate. They do not wish to ask for the money as a donation nor do they feel as if they should be called upon to foot these expenses themselves. A dance presents the most convenient way of raising funds as in this manner everyone contributing will be given their money's worth—and then some. Make your preparations now for attending.

Miss Clara Duffy and Miss Emma Hance of Red Lake Falls were in the city yesterday on a shopping tour.

JUDGE WILSON AT COMMERCIAL CLUB TONIGHT

Judge Wilson of Stillwater will address the citizens of Thief River Falls at the Commercial club rooms tonight at 8 o'clock, on the subject of Food Conservation. Both men and women are invited to attend.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Basket Ball Friday Night.

The real big basket ball game of the season will take place at the Lincoln school gymnasium on Friday night, when the local quintet goes against the bunch from Warren. The Thief River team has not been defeated this year and it is no part of their intention that they shall receive the first drubbing from Warren. The game will be worth while as the visitors are coming over with blood in their collective eye.

SCHOOL DEDICATES NEW SERVICE FLAG

CHURCHES ALSO PAY TRIBUTE TO MEMBERS IN ARMY OR NAVY

At 10 o'clock this morning a service flag will be unfurled with appropriate exercises at the Lincoln high school. The banner contains 72 stars, one for each of the former students at the institution who are now serving their country in the army or navy. It is believed that this is the largest number of stars exhibited by any high school in this section and Supt. Hay is naturally proud of the record made by the boys, most of whom finished their studies under his supervision. A program of songs and recitations has been arranged for the occasion and Mr. Hay will deliver a patriotic address to the students. An invitation to be present has been extended to the relatives of the men represented by the stars on the flag.

The service flag dedicated at the Methodist church in honor of the young men affiliated with that organization who have gone to the front contains 22 stars. At the exercises held recently, Capt. W. B. Fuller of the Home Guard delivered a short address on the respect due the men who were thus represented and stated that their action should serve as an inspiration to those remaining at home.

The flag at the Presbyterian church contains eight stars for those affiliated with that body who have gone to the front. A flag containing 17 stars will be unfurled at the Norwegian Lutheran church next Sunday, when Rev. I. T. Aastad will make appropriate reference to its significance in his sermon.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS COLLECTING FUNDS

SECURING SPLENDID SUPPORT FOR WORK IN CAMP AND ON FIELD

The Knights of Columbus, one of the three organizations whose right to labor among the soldiers in the camps and on the battlefields is recognized by the government, is making a nation-wide drive this week for funds with which to carry on the work. Monday was the opening soliciting day in Thief River Falls and the 20 volunteers forming the collection committee secured a total of $240 during the first 24 hours they were out. This was mostly in small contributions, the desire of the organization heads being to have the Catholic people throughout the nation all contribute something toward helping the men of their religion who are fighting for Uncle Sam or training to become fighters. The Knights of Columbus, like the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross, are permitted to continue with the army clear to the battle lines, these being the only organizations whose right to do this is recognized by both President Wilson and Secretary Baker. The society looks particularly after the soldiers from Catholic homes, but its work of humanity extends to wherever the need for its services exists.

Red Cross Meeting Postponed.

Because of the fuel administration's order closing down activities of practically every kind on Mondays for the present, the local Red Cross Chapter has decided to change the monthly meeting night to Tuesday evening. The next meeting will on this account be held on Feb. 5.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

ALIENS MUST REGISTER

Beginning at six o'clock a. m., Monday, Feb. 4, and continuing until the ruling of the government has been complied with, all alien enemies of the United States are required to register. The postmaster in each community has been appointed as the registration official in charge of this matter.

Failure to comply with this request of the government is punishable by a fine and imprisonment or by internment during the period of the war.

JOHN MORGAN, Postmaster.

FIRST PRIZE TO CONKLIN'S HERD

GUERNSEY CATTLE GET PLACE OF HONOR AT STOCK SHOW

GROUT IS NEW PRESIDENT

HEEN REMAINS AS SECRETARY AND JACK, TREASURER, OF STATE ASSOCIATION

The fourteenth annual convention of the Minnesota Dairymen's association came to a close last Friday with the awarding of the prizes for the best cattle displayed during the meeting. F. B. Conklin of Thief River Falls won the first prize, a silver cup valued at $50, on his herd display of Guernsey cattle. Henry Kopp, also a Guernsey exhibitor, won second place, while the third fell to Hans Anton's Holstein herd. The grand championship of the show was won by the cow in the exhibit of Mr. Conklin, while first prize in the individual class went to a Holstein sire owned by V. C. Noper. All prize winners are residents of Pennington county.

Stock Judging Winners.

In the boys' stock judging contest Wallace Burkert was winner of the first prize, Ray Hanson, second, and Gordon LaBree third. George Kelly of Pelican Rapids won first award in the men's contest, with Ben Rosendahl, Thief River Falls, second, and W. A. Lindberg, Gonvick, third.

Duluth Man President.

At the business meeting officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, George P. Grout, Duluth; vice president, F. B. McLaren, Wrenshall; secretary, Chris Heen, Osakis; treasurer, J. M. Jack, Northfield. The reports of the officers showed that the association had enjoyed a most prosperous growth during the year and that its work was greater than at any time since its organization.

The Red River Valley Dairymen's association also elected officers during the convention, the following being chosen: President, G. O. Selvig, Crookston; first vice president, N. P. Hansen, Westbury; second vice president, L. Steensgaard, McIntosh; secretary, L. J. Houske, Halstad; treasurer, C. M. Danielson, Climax.

Was a Success.

The visitors were unanimous in declaring the convention a success, although they expected to see a larger turnout of local farmers. The lectures and addresses were of an exceptionally high order, it being doubtful if in this respect the meeting has had an equal in the history of the association. The foremost authorities on cattle raising and the dairy industry to be found in four northwestern states were present and their advice was of the highest value and interest to those attending.

The Resolutions.

At the close of the meetings the following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted, after which the delegates and audience sang "America," and the convention adjourned sine die. The resolutions are as follows:

Resolutions.

Whereas: The present annual convention of the Minnesota Dairymen's association has been one of the most helpful in its history, and

Whereas: The success of this must be attributed to the co-operation of the members of the association, together with the citizens of the City of Thief River Falls, and the Red River Valley Dairymen's association, now, therefore, be it

Resolved: Thanks of the members of this association be extended to the citizens of Thief River Falls and to the Red River Valley Dairymen's association for their efforts in promoting the convention.

Resolved: That we appreciate the untiring efforts of the officers of this association in advancing the interests of this great industry.

Resolved: That a vote of thanks be extended to Edward H. Ulrich, the retiring president, for his efforts in promoting the welfare of this association.

Resolved: That we approve of the work thus far accomplished by our dairy and food commissioner, Mr. James Sorenson.

Resolved: That we wish to express our approval of the recent changes in the course of training at our Minnesota State Dairy school, in that the term has been extended to three months.

Resolved: That we recommend that our association continue to promote the organization of cow testing associations and lend all reasonable assistance to communities wishing to organize for this purpose.

Resolved: That the State Dairymen's association wishes to place itself on record as being absolutely opposed to any law passed by our congress whereby the manufacture of oleomargarine, or any substitute for butter, be permitted to disguise their product so as to make it appear as butter.

Resolved: That this association wishes to endorse the suggestion of the federal government that food value of the by-products of the creamery be utilized to the fullest extent.

Resolved: That this association tender its thanks to the Thief River Falls Co-operative Creamery association for the splendid banquet which it provided.

Resolved: That this association wishes to endorse the action of our government in its prosecution of the war, and that we hereby pledge ourselves collectively and individually in the support of our government, especially in the conservation of food, the sale of Liberty Bonds, and War Savings Stamps, and that we urge the various creamery associations to use their influence in the sale of these securities to their patrons.

Resolved: That we tender our thanks to Dr. Marion L. Burton, president of the University of Minnesota, for his inspiring and patriotic address, and to all the other speakers who by their presence and assistance contributed to the success of this convention.

Resolved: That we recommend to the joint committee on standards that all butter contain not less than eighty per cent of butter fat, and that butter made from cream in which neutralizer has been used for any purpose whatever shall not be termed standard and be required to be labeled in a way such as will clearly convey to the purchaser and consumer the fact that butter so made is inferior to standard butter.

Whereas: The belief has become general that certain instructors in the Home Economics division of the College of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, and teachers in the Home Economics division of our state high schools have advised their students that oleomargarine is the equivalent of butter, therefore, be it

Resolved: That this association places itself upon record as being opposed to the further spreading of such propoganda, and that we earnestly urge the Dean of the College of Agriculture and the high school superintendents over the state to take such action as will prevent further teachings of this kind.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) ANDREW FRENCH,
E. A. WILLIAMS,
O. A. STORVICK,
J. B. CONNER.

DATES SET FOR NEXT BIG FAIR

AUGUST FIFTH, SIXTH AND SEVENTH SELECTED FOR THE COUNTY SHOW

LABREE DECLINES TO SERVE

SUCCESSOR TO SECRETARY TO BE CHOSEN LATER BY THE DIRECTORS

The annual Pennington county fair will this year be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 5, 6 and 7. This was decided on at the meeting of the directors held last Saturday evening and corresponds pretty nearly with the dates on which this event has taken place generally. In some quarters the advisability of holding a fair at all this year had been somewhat questioned, but it has been discovered that the federal and state authorities are more than willing that no changes shall be made in this respect. Encouragement of stock raising and agriculture is more than ever desirable and the abandonment of fairs might give the people a wrong impression.

Some Changes Made.

The first day of the fair will be open entry day for all exhibitors, but entries will be accepted until 10 a. m. on Tuesday on nearly everything except live stock. This must be entered on the first day of the fair. Another thing decided upon was the discontinuance of the issuing of free passes to the stockholders.

Officers Elected.

W. J. LaBree, who for years has been the fair association secretary, declined longer to serve in that capacity and a successor will have to be chosen by the directors. All the other officers were re-elected as follows: Herbert Fuller, president; Albert Johnson, first vice president; Fred Beerbower, second vice president; N. J. Anderson, treasurer.

H. O. Loken left last evening on an extensive buying trip to Eastern markets. From Minneapolis he will go to Chicago, Cincinnati and New York before returning. It may take three weeks for him to finish the business in hand.

CLOSING ORDER STRICTLY OBEYED

NO VIOLATION OF FUEL ADMINISTRATION EDICT IN THIEF RIVER FALLS

ASK MEASURE EXPLAINED

ALL PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO ABIDE BY INTERPRETATION OF LOCAL BOARD

After having been practically closed down since last Thursday evening, the industrial plants of the city again resumed operations yesterday morning. The shut-down was ordered by the Federal Fuel administrator and compliance throughout the country was general. The object of the order was evidently two-fold. In the first place the clearing away of the congestion on the trunk lines of railroads was aided through the cessation of manufactures for five days, while the practically total suspension of business for one day resulted in the saving of a vast amount of coal. According to reports from every section of the country the situation has been improved to a greater degree than was thought possible.

Strictly Observed Here.

The order to close down was unexpected, coming as it did after the continual requests for "speeding up" that had been forthcoming since this country entered the war, and people at first did not know what to make of it. The offices of the local fuel administrators, Daniel Shaw, Robert McGinn and O. D. Ostby, were flooded with inquiries as to what the move might portend and just what would be necessary in order to comply. The administrators themselves were, as much in the dark as anyone and could only refer their questioners to the daily papers.

Meeting on Sunday.

It was finally decided to meet at the Commercial club rooms on Sunday afternoon and talk the matter over. Mr. Shaw presided and F. H. Herrick was appointed secretary. It was the most representative gathering of merchants and professional men ever held in the city and there was not a murmur of dissent or fault-finding with the order. Those present simply asked what was required of them and stood ready to carry out instructions, no matter what these might be.

Permitting every man to comply with the order according to his own understanding of its provisions would cause endless confusion, and it was decided to follow strictly any ruling laid down by Messrs. Shaw, McGinn and Ostby. These gentlemen placed the broadest interpretation on the edict and ordered the closing of practically every industry in the city on Monday. Grocers were permitted to run during the forenoon and amusement places to keep open on that day but to close on Tuesday. Work on newspapers was permitted to continue but the ban was placed in the turning out of commercial printing of any kind. Hotels and restaurants were permitted to sell food as usual but cigars and cigarettes were not to be sold. Fruit stands also came under the ban. Compliance was absolute so far as can be learned, there being not a single violation reported in the city.

Change Made in Theatres.

According to the first order received the theatres would be expected to remain dark on Monday night, but representations were made which convinced Dr. Garfield that this would prove an unnecessary hardship and they were allowed to close on Tuesday night instead. The same ruling also applies to pool and billiard halls and other similar places of amusement.

At the conclusion of the meeting on Sunday afternoon a committee composed of Thos. A. Way, E. O. Mogensen and H. O. Loken offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, that the business and professional men of Thief River Falls express their hearty and cheerful compliance with the request of the fuel administrator and their patriotic co-operation in carrying out the provisions of Commissioner Garfield's recent order."

To Change Location.

The Western Union Telegraph company this week entered into a contract with Julien Provencher for the lease of the west front room of the Evelyn hotel as a telegraph office. The company takes the place for five years and it will be fixed up to meet their requirements. This will prove an ideal location for the concern and will also provide a most desirable tenant for Mr. Provencher. The place has been used as a card room for the hotel guests since the saloon was taken out a little over two years ago.

Lancaster Scouts Here.

The Lancaster Boy Scouts were in the city last Friday and Saturday and drilled with the local troop. This is the first time that an outside troop has been here to drill with the local boys but arrangements have been made for the Lancaster lads to be here again in the near future. At the last meeting of the Scouts a second troop was formed, with J. T. Majeres as Scoutmaster and Ben Bothun as assistant.

WAR STAMP SALE REPORTED AS GOOD

TOTAL DISPOSED OF SINCE DECEMBER IN COUNTY IS $2,703.63

The money received from the sale of thrift tamps and war savings certificates at the Thief River Falls postoffice since the campaign opened on Dec. 3 totals $2,703.63. All sales thus far have been made directly through the office, but local merchants and associations of different kinds may soon be called upon to aid in the work.

It has been figured out that every man, woman and child in the United States will have to purchase $16.50 worth of these securities during the year 1918 if the total asked from this source by the government is to be realized. As the stamps and certificates present the very best means yet devised for the small investor to put a little something by at a good rate of interest, it is thought that there will be no trouble in securing this sum.

The stamps may be purchased from any postoffice employe, or from rural and city carriers. Thrift stamps are 25 cents each and the certificates are $4.12 this month, with one cent added each month. Those who desire to save by the means of the stamps may secure these as often as desired until sixteen are pasted into their little book when this may be exchanged for a certificate bearing four per cent interest, compounded quarterly. All certificates are redeemable on Jan. 1, 1923, at their face value of $5.00.

LANDMARK GUTTED BY FIRE TUESDAY

THE CONFECTIONERY STOCK OF HERMAN OHM ALSO IS A COMPLETE LOSS

An overheated stove in the fruit and confectionery store of Herman Ohm was responsible for the practical destruction of two buildings at 313 and 315 LaBree avenue north early Tuesday morning. The place occupied by Mr. Ohm was owned by Lars J. Skomme, who until recently was a resident of Holland, Iowa, but who is now in the military service. The loss is practically total and is estimated at $2,400 with $1,000 insurance. The adjoining building was owned by Holem Brothers and had not been occupied since some time in the fall.

The last named structure was one of the old-time frame dwellings still remaining in the business district of the city. It was formerly occupied as a hotel by John Linde, who also conducted a meat market on the ground floor of the structure. The lower story was built of tamarack logs, the upper story and a half being of frame construction. Both buildings were so badly damaged that it is doubtful if permission will be granted for their repair.

For Red Cross Benefit.

The Rocksbury township branch of the Pennington county Red Cross chapter will give a basket social at Valhalla hall next Saturday evening. Greenfield's orchestra from the city will furnish the music for the entertainment and it is certain that a general good time will be had. A number of townspeople have signified their intention of attending and it is likely that if the weather is favorable there will be several parties going out. The Rocksbury branch is the youngest in the county but numbers about 200 members. They are an energetic bunch and are already engaged in helping out with the good work.

POWER COMPANY MUST FIX DAM

LEAK IN STRUCTURE PREVENTS ANY USE BEING MADE OF TURBINES

NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

WILL PROVIDE THAT ALL AUTOS SHALL PARK IN CENTER OF STREET

In spite of all the money spent on the power dam at this place by the Kretzschmar-Schreiter company, the structure is not giving satisfaction to the city and the council at its Tuesday night meeting decided to stop payments for power until such time as this is furnished in sufficient quantity to at least aid the Diesel engines in carrying the load.

Superintendent Leonard Peterson reported that he had called the attention of the owners to a leak that made the dam practically useless, particularly in the winter when the water in the river is low, but that they had not as yet done anything to remedy the matter. The leak occurs in the temporary carrier erected between the new cement construction and the apron of the old dam and the waste of water is so great that no use can be made of the power turbines until it is checked.

The council was also notified that fuel oil is constantly becoming more difficult to secure as well as higher in price and that power from the dam might soon be absolutely necessary.

New Traffic Ordinance.

The matter of so amending the ordinance dealing with the use of the city streets as to compel auto owners to park their machines in the middle of the street was discussed and the subject left to a committee, some of the members of which will be appointed by the automobile club and some by the city council. There is at present no traffic ordinance worthy of the name on the statutes of the city and it is likely that a complete revision will be made so as to cover traffic of all kinds.

The Minor Items.

The council ordered bids for the city printing to be advertised for and approved the bonds of the city clerk. A motion was made cutting down the salaries of some of the city officials, and although the proposition received four out of the six votes it was lost as a four-fifths vote is required in order to bring about a change of this kind.

The cigarette license of James Cosgrove was granted and a transfer permitted of the bowling alley license of Wickman & Main to Sam Robinson. Phil Zeh asked permission to run his roller rink during certain hours on Sunday afternoon and pool room men asked that they be permitted to keep open until 11 o'clock in the evening. These matters will be adjusted in such manner as to conform to the requirements laid down by the state safety commission.

JUDGE WILSON TO SPEAK HERE TODAY

WILL ADDRESS LADIES AND OLDER CHILDREN ON FOOD CONSERVATION

Judge F. T. Wilson of Stillwater, one of the state agents now in the service of the federal food administration, will deliver an address at the Auditorium at three o'clock this afternoon. Judge Wilson appeared in the city about a year ago in the interests of closer community work and those who had the pleasure of hearing him at that time know that his message this afternoon will be worth considering. The address will be particularly directed to the women of the community, but will hold much of interest for all school children above the Fifth grade.

Judge Wilson is one of the best known speakers on matters connected with community welfare and kindred subjects in the West and in his newly acquired role of urging greater economy in the home he will be right in his element. The fact that he has been selected by the government for this mission testifies to his reputation and capabilities in this direction. Admission is free.

District Court Tomorrow.

There will be a special term of the district court held here tomorrow for the purpose of hearing applications for citizenship. Judge Grindeland will preside and the names of the parties applying are as follows: Edward Hansen Brekken, Norway; Olof Casper Langseth, United States; Jens Almquist, Sweden; Ole Hans Telgen, Sweden.

Official Paper of Pennington County, City of Thief River Falls, and Independent School District No. 18.

> We shall fight for the things we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations, and make the world itself at last free. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and the peace which she has treasured. GOD HELPING HER, SHE CAN DO NO OTHER.—President Wilson.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ACTIVITIES

If you are a member of the Thief River Falls Commercial club you owe it to yourself, your city and the organization itself to cast your vote for officers sometime during the day. Unless you do this you have failed in your full duty and to a great extent have forfeited any right to find fault should things fail to suit you later on.

There has been quite a little grumbling over the lack of activity displayed by the club during the past year, but there are two ways of looking at that matter. If by "lack of activity" it is meant that the club has accomplished little or nothing, the assertion is not well founded. On the other hand, if nothing but matters connected with strict business affairs are to be taken into consideration it is probable that the organization has not been as active as during the preceding season.

It is absolutely certain that never since it was first organized has the Commercial club in this city undertaken so many absolutely necessary and highly meritorious projects as during the past nine months. The principal business of the nation is and has during all of that time been WAR, and it is in war work and enterprises connected with the successful prosecution of the conflict that the club has busied itself.

In case you are among those who are inclined to think the club remiss in its work, we would refer you to the county chairmen during the two Liberty Loan campaigns of the past year. The organization placed itself squarely behind these enterprises and was in a large measure responsible for the success they attained in the city. Committees were appointed from the club membership direct, and these worked harder to make their city show up favorably than they ever did on any matter connected with their own business. This was not properly a club activity but the directors took it up and no one had better find fault with them on this score.

Red Cross work next claimed the attention of the community—is still claiming it, for that matter. The club members again disregarded affairs of a purely business nature and labored late and early to get an energetic chapter going in the county. It took both work and money to do this, and many of the things that under ordinary circumstances would have occupied the attention of the club, were on this account postponed until a later date. In this matter the club members were urged on and encouraged by the women of the town, whose interest in the work has never wavered, and it would be a hard matter to get any of these to admit that the Commercial club has been of no value.

The Y. M. C. A. drive also received its share of attention. Club members were the solicitors for the funds necessary to this organization and it is not probable that anyone will contend that they might have been engaged in a more necessary or more laudable pursuit.

It will be found that the Commercial club has been a decided factor in the progress and development of the community during the past year. Its activities were thrown somewhat into uncharted channels by the turn of events, but what was most necessary under the circumstances was attended to. It is not likely that any great changes will be ordered in this program. In fact, the necessity for becoming of even greater usefulness to the nation during this war is liable to be emphasized at the meeting tonight. That is our first and most pressing duty. If it shall be found that the Commercial club has been instrumental in keeping the city up to the standard of other American municipalities in the service we all owe to our common country at this time, no higher or better recommendation for its continuance and support could be produced.

Other things are necessary, of course. Business must be kept as nearly normal as possible under the circumstances. The duty owed the community in this respect by the club must not be forgotten, but the greater obligation must come first at all times. While conditions continue as at present there is nothing that the club can outline as a task that will in so great a degree meet with the approval of everyone.

Monday has been added to Wednesday as a wheatless day. In this connection it is rather illuminating to note how easily people can accommodate themselves to changes of this kind. When the order for a wheatless and meatless day first came out many were inclined to regard it as a sort of joke and prophesied that it would never be practiced sufficiently to make any difference in the amount of the prohibited articles consumed. That was only a short time ago, yet no one now even thinks of ordering of the prescribed articles on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. It will be the same with Mondays and Saturdays, should the movement to make the latter a porkless day be carried out all over the country. People are beginning to realize that we are at war and will without argument conduct themselves according to the regulations laid down. At least such is the result in this section.

HEATLESS MONDAYS

While it is certain that many of our people cannot see any particular value to the government in being forced to close their places of business on Mondays, yet they complied with the regulation without a whimper. At one of the best meetings ever held in the Commercial club rooms, the matter was explained so far as the county fuel administrators were able to explain it from the rather meager data at hand, and it was unanimously voted to comply explicity with whatever ruling was made by that body. No question of profit or loss entered into the discussion. Those present simply asked that they be made acquainted with the requirements, pledging themselves to live up to these in every respect.

This is the right spirit to display at this time. No matter what the government asks us to do, we must stand ready to comply without asking a lot of useless questions or waiting to have everything explained to our entire satifaction. Many could not see where any fuel could be saved by closing the stores, as in this latitude it is absolutely necessary to keep a certain amount of heat at this time of year if the freezing of many classes of merchandise is not to cause more loss than could be made up by the price of all the coal saved in the county by closing down for one day. Nevertheless they never hesitated in approving the measure, trusting to the government to know what it was about. And that is the right way to feel.

CAUSE NEEDLESS MISERY

Two incidents of the past week have demonstrated how dangerous it is to believe any reports purporting to emanate from the battle fronts, camps or cantonments at this time. Two young men from this city, now serving in the army, were at different times reported to have died from pneumonia, when as a matter of fact but one of them had even been ill, and he is rapidly recovering, according to the most authentic reports.

The mother of the other young man was caused a vast amount of needless worry and grief because of the reports. She tried in every possible way to get some confirmation or denial of the rumor, and the authorities in charge of army matters in the city did everything in their power to get at the facts, only to find at last that there was no truth in the story. The other man is a member of fraternal organizations here and his fellow lodge members were naturally concerned. In this case also it was found that the report of death was untrue, although he had been very ill.

Such news is bad enough at all times. When there is no foundation for the report the originators should be severely dealt with. There is absolutely no excuse for thus bringing needless misery to relatives and friends, and the spreading of such stories should be made a serious offense.

WHERE THE DIFFERENCE LIES

As was to be expected, the publication of the personal property tax list in The Times last week proved a valuable means for checking up between neighbors. Comparisons were not always satisfactory and there has been more or less explaining to do. The great trouble in nearly every case has been that the reader failed to take into consideration the difference in rate for the school districts in his township. The state and county tax is the same in all cases, but the school tax may vary greatly. Take for instance the township of Bray. In school district No. 69 the rate is 24.7 mills, while in district No. 99 it is 30.5 mills. This would make a difference in the tax for those particular school districts although they might be located side by side. In the town of North the rate in district No. 18 is 57.8 mills and in district No. 219 it is but 31.3 mills. The taxes that the residents in these different districts must pay will naturally differgreatly.

Should it appear as if you were being more heavily assessed than your neighbor, compare the amount of school taxes that you are required to pay with those prevailing in his district and you will see where the difference comes in.

Beginning next Monday a nation-wide campaign for the sale of Smileage Books will begin, the work in Pennington county being under the direction of Senator D. P. O'Neill, one of the vice presidents in this state for the America First association. This is a proposition originated and encouraged by the War department for the purpose of providing the boys at the different army camps and cantonments with wholesome entertainment of the higher class. These Smileage Books contain twenty coupons which will be good for seats at any of these entertainments, and the plan is for the home folks to purchase the coupons and send them as presents to the boys. Secretary Baker gives the movement his unqualified endorsement and it should prove popular. It is somewhat different from donating toward a general fund for the benefit of the soldiers as it becomes a personal gift, with the donor known to the party to whom the book is sent.

If the draft board officials of every county in the United States were to be paid for the time they have put in for Uncle Sam since the registration of last June, the total would be most surprising. It is noted that in some places a murmur is going up over the amount of extra work thus saddled onto the officials and for which they receive no pay whatever. Nothing of this nature is heard in Pennington county—nor any other county in Minnesota that we are aware of. Auditor Anderson, Sheriff LaBree and Dr. Froehlich are applying themselves as conscientiously to the business in hand now as at the outset. When it is considered that this work has been going on almost without interruption for more than six months, with the end not yet in sight, it will be seen that these officials are contributing rather more than their share toward the success of the gigantic enterprise upon which the country is now engaged.

There will be no more appropriations for federal buildings until after the war. Thief River Falls has been promised one such, but if anybody starts to argue that it should be forthcoming at once he is very liable to get biffed on the end of the nose. Uncle Sam has another sizable contract to finish before he can be expected to look after these little matters.

Attend tonight's Commercial club meeting, vote for the best men for managers of the organization, lend your counsel to the discussions and your aid to whatever may be undertaken for the good of the community and country. Talk and act tonight as if you were interested in your immediate surroundings, or forever hereafter hold your peace.

NEWS from the RAILROADS

Items of Interest Regarding Activities on the Soo Line and the Great Northern

UNLOADING LAW IS IN EFFECT JAN. 21

HEAVY PENALTIES FOR FAILURE TO RELEASE CARS WITHOUT DELAY

Local railroad agents are in receipt of notifications of the change in the demurrage laws ordered by W. G. McAdoo, director general of railroads and made effective this week by the Interstate Commerce commission. All tariffs have been ordered changed so as to comply with the new rulings. Following are the principal points to be taken into consideration hereafter by all those who may receive freight of any kind:

Forty-eight hours (two days) free time for loading or unloading on all commodities.

Twenty-four hours (one day) free time on cars held for any other purpose permitted by the tariff.

Demurrage charges per car per day or fraction of a day until car is released are as follows: $3.00 for the first day, $4.00 for the second day, and for each succeeding additional day the charge to be increased $1.00 for each succeeding day until $10.00 has been reached which, is the eighth day of detention beyond free time, the charge thereafter to be $10.00 per car per day or fraction thereof. These charges will supersede all those named in existing tariffs applicable to domestic freight, and specifically contemplate the cancellation of all average agreement provisions of existing tariffs.

No change is authorized hereby to be made in demurrage rules, regulations and charges applying on foreign export freight awaiting ships at export points.

In notifying agents of this change in the demurrage penalties imposed, J. O. Klapp, supervisor of demurrage and storage of the Soo says:

"It is hoped that shippers and receivers of carload freight will make special effort to expedite the handling of cars in loading and unloading, to avoid the very heavy charges resulting from delay in accordance with the above and that all parties will cordially co-operate to hasten in every way the movement of all cars handled."

Minneapolis Visitors—H. J. Peterson and J. H. Reed, car repairers, left Tuesday evening for Minneapolis on a two-day visit. Arthur Berg, also employed in the car repair department of the Soo, went down the same evening for the purpose of witnessing the fistic contest staged in the Mill City the following evening. Not to be left behind Berger Wold followed for the same city on Monday night to be gone a couple of days.

On Visit to Chicago—I. H. Fossum, storekeeper for the Soo, left Friday night for a couple of days' visit in Chicago.

On Business Trip—W. A. Barnard, district superintendent, went to Minneapolis Friday night on business, returning Monday night.

Warren Agent Relieved—H. Carlson relieved J. O. Herrick, agent at Warren, on Thursday of last week. The latter was called to Britton, S. D., because of the serious illness of his father. W. C. Herrick, a brakeman on the line, also left at the same time.

On Sick Call—K. O. Johnson of Radium was sent out to relieve Agent T. J. Briley at Brooks this week. Mr. Briley was called to Brainerd because of the serious condition of his son, who recently underwent an operation in a hospital in that city.

Strock Relieved—D. L. Emory relieved C. E. Strock at Hurd on the 19th, the latter being forced to lay off on account of illness.

Railroaders Transferred — C. A. Lindstrom, a brakeman of this division since 1905, and G. M. Denhart and R. E. Johnston, both old-timers, have been transferred to the Duluth-Superior division and will hereafter work out from Glenwood.

Backus is Chilly—Train Dispatcher E. F. Dolan this week received a letter from David Backus, who is one of Uncle Sam's aviators "somewhere in France." Dave says that the weather is cold in the section where he now holds forth and that all aviators are encased in fur from head to foot in order to enable them to withstand the rigors of the climate. This is while they are flying, of course, as such protection would hardly seem necessary in any part of France at this time. He is driving a one-man machine capable of flying at a speed of 100 mile per hour—a gait that Mr. Dolan thinks ought to be fast enough even for Dave.

Get Raise in Pay—All warehouse men, night men and office employes in the freight department of the Soo railroad have been made happy by the announcement that beginning on the first of the year they would receive a raise in pay amounting to about ten per cent. This was most cheering news to spring on the boys and girls and will aid considerably in meeting the increased cost of living.

Compliance is General—The new demurrage law went into effect on Monday and thus far there has not been a single case in which the increased penalty has been invoked in this neighborhood. H. A. Pratt, local agent of the Soo, says that the freight has been very well cleaned up all along the line and that there never has been anything in the nature of a congestion at the terminal here. The Twin Cities are also in pretty good shape in this regard, the trouble being on lines to the east of Chicago for the most part.

Visited Capital—T. G. Tinsley, warehouse man, left Saturday evening on a visit to St. Paul. He returned Tuesday evening.

No More Assigned Runs—All the trainmen and enginemen have been taken from assigned runs and are placed in what is known as "the pool." This means that there are no longer any special trains or runs to which the men are assigned but that the first one in is the first one to be called for duty, no matter what the occasion may be. This is done in order to even up the work and thus make for greater efficiency. Every man is thus made available at any time he is needed and for almost any purpose so long as it is in his line of business. This upsets some well-established schedules but the men are not growling as hard as might be expected, realizing that it is but another part of the program necessary at this time in order to meet the unusual conditions.

New Night Policeman — Rudolph Werner has been appointed night policeman at the Soo station and entered upon his duties the first of the week. He was at one time a city patrolman, and has thus had some experience in the requirements of his new position.

Engineers Transferred—H. J. Coyer and H. F. Loomis, engineers, have been transferred to the Minnesota division of the Soo and will hereafter make their headquarters at Enderlin.

Rotary Ready For Business—The rotary snow plow has been brought up from Minneapolis and is in the yards here ready for action. So far this winter there has been no necessity for using the big revolving shovel but past experience has demonstrated the wisdom of having it handy. On the Fordville line the drifts are ten and twelve feet deep, but are comparatively short and the flange plow has had no difficulty in keeping the track open. The drifts are steadily lengthening out, however, and it would not take much of a storm to gum things up pretty badly.

Gone to Join Army—Joe Johnson, for three years clerk in the office of Master Mechanic J. W. Hendry, left last week for Clear Lake, Wis., where he will remain with his parents until such time as he is called for the army. Two of his brothers are already in the service. Mr. Johnson has proven himself a very efficient young assistant to Mr. Hendry and he is most highly regarded by all the men with whom he has come in contact during his residence here. His place is being filled by Victor Johnson, a young man whose home is at New London, Minn.

Not Permitted to Land—A number of former employes of the Soo in this city are among the members of the American railroad commission which started for Russia to aid in getting that country's railways into shape for meeting the demands incident to the war. At the time the commission started Russia was still an active belligerent and the need for just such men as were sent from the northwest was most urgent. Things have since changed, however. When the expedition reached Vladivostock in Siberia they were not permitted to land and had to return to Nagasaki, Japan. The report states that although they were warned not to land in the Siberian city, about 100 members of the party braved the consequences and went on shore. They were all finally rounded up, however, and are awaiting developments. Unless things take a sudden change in Russia it is doubtful if the mission will ever be permitted to accomplish anything as the plan is not favorably considered by the Bolshevik government.

Military Discipline.

Pay attention to the discipline of your army. One month's relaxation will cause mischief which can be repaired only by six months of incessant care. It is not by placing your forces everywhere, but by making them move about that you will guard all points. This manner of dispersing the army is fatal to discipline and order.—Napoleon.

Pleasant Enmity.

Mildred—"Women don't have so many enemies as men have, do you think?" Clarence—"Maybe not, but the women seem to get more pleasure out of theirs."—Judge.

Hang Watch at Night.

The care of the watch at night or when it is not in use is an important item, concerning which the United States Bureau of Standards states: "At night or when the watch is not in use it is desirable to leave the watch in the same position as during the day, and preferably in some place where it will not be subject to any great temperature change."

TALES OF THE FAR NORTH

Being an Account of My Experiences During the Three Years I Was Employed by the Government in Alaska.

By Dr. F. H. Gambell, Thief River Falls.

(Third Installment.)

First Sight of Section.

The clanking of the anchor chain ceased, as the anchor reached bottom, the ship came to rest and boats were lowered. We who were to go ashore stepped down into them and were soon on our way toward the mouth of the Unalakleet river, near which we could see a native village. This village bore the same name as the river and meant, "The Place Where the South Wind Blows." The Swedish people sustained a mission at this point, while eight miles up the river was the location where the government reindeer station was to be built. This was to be known as the Eaton Reindeer Station and was to be my home.

We were farther north than I had ever dreamed of being until a few short weeks ago. The Arctic circle was only about two hundred miles away. We were so far north that in the summer we needed no lights with which to see the whole night through. The moon was so pale that it never made enough light to make a shadow. The stars were not seen for months at a time. The sun on its endless journey went skirting along the northern horizon seeking to hide and find rest, but failed, for no sooner had it gone out of sight than it was forced to rise and begin the whole journey over again. It seemed that the whole world had changed for me.

First Sight of Eskimos.

As we stepped from the boat to the shore we found the whole population down to meet us—the Swedish mission people and ever so many Eskimos. How interesting the native people were to us! Most of them short, fat, little people with small hands and feet, round faces with high cheek bones and eyes set rather obliquely in their heads. Their skin was dark, their hair coarse and black. On the whole a good-hearted, gentle people to look at. Most of the women had their faces tatooed with indigo blue circular lines running up and down on their chins, all of the same color. Some were dressed in the white people's dress and some had the native dress of reindeer skins. All wore the native boots made from seal skin or skin from the leg of the deer, using the walrus skin for the soles. Some could speak English well, some a very little and some not at all.

Found Land of Flowers.

When we saw these people we knew for a certainty that we were in Alaska. But what of these little blue forget-me-nots, and the wild pea vines we were passing? What of the wild yellow poppy with a big buzzing bumble bee wallowing around in its cup of gold? What of all the fine trees we could see back on the foot hills and the willows growing along the streams? What of robin chirping and flying from her mud nest with her four beautiful eggs of blue? What of the garden near the mission where the turnips and rutabagas crowding one another out of the ground so furiously were they growing in the summer of all sunshine? And what of the potatoes and cabbage and lettuce and radishes around which was a border of the old familiar flowers grown at home? Then we caught sight of an old roan cow pasturing on the green grass, switching away the flies as she ate. What of all these things? Could this be Alaska, that land of snow and ice?

No Barking Dogs.

Then on the other hand here were these odd people in their queer dress, carrying little burdens on their backs, and out from each bundle, which was almost hidden by the reindeer parkie and fur hood, peered forth a cunning face with two bright, black eyes looking straight into yours. Here also were running to and fro the wolf-like dogs that were never known to bark but were able to give forth the most dismal howls, making a most hideous noise when twenty or thirty joined in a grand chorus as was their wont. Then all around us were the log huts, while in the center was the great council house. Fresh salmon in the sunshine were drying on frames, and we could see the skin boats of the natives dragged up on the beach to dry. We had to be convinced that this was Alaska although it was not the desolate land we were taught to believe it to be. It surely was a land of wonders.

The Mission people took us in and proved to be our friends. Very agreeable was their home, with its white, soft beds, the snow-white curtains, the woven rugs on the floor and all the comforts of a home in the states.

Would Like to Remain.

It would have pleased me greatly could I have remained at the Mission but my work was mostly with the people at the reindeer station, and so on the day following I seated myself on one of the loaded row boats used in hauling the supplies up the river. For the first two miles the land was low and marshy except on the ridge where the village stood. The river was wide and when the tide was in, ran lazily to the sea. Then we came to the bluffs upon which grow the pine trees, the white birch and the elder. Back on the hills could be seen great areas covered with the reindeer moss looking so clean and white.

The farther up the river we went the swifter it became, until it was impossible to row against the current. Then ropes were fastened to the boat and the men jumped to land and pulled, while one man sat in the stern and steered the boat. At noon we stopped and made an open air fire and cooked coffee, warmed up some canned beef, and with the bread and butter we had with us, made a good meal. We dipped water from the river and so cold and sweet it was, for it came from the snow capped mountains we could see back in the distance.

Mosquitos Were Plenty.

After dinner we pushed on, for we wanted to reach the station by night. We were all protected by some kind of cloths around our necks and faces and kept constantly swinging in front of our faces a branch which we had broken from one of the trees, for the mosquitos were terrible. They would not leave us alone for one minute, day or night, unless we were protected against them. When we needed to cross the river because of a bend or a sand bar or when we found the current too strong, the mosquitos would alight on our hands and faces and necks and bite us unmercifully, while we were pulling on the oars with all our might to keep the boat from striking the opposite shore farther down than was needed. What a comfort it was to kill a thousand when we were safe across and able to let go of the oars. Our necks and faces and hands would be smeared with blood, due to the fact that the partly filled insects had been crushed underneath our hands while we were freeing ourselves from the terrible onslaught.

Mosquitos Kill Bears.

I had every reason to believe the stories which I heard afterwards from old trappers that bears were often killed by the sting of the mosquitos, the insects stinging them around the eyes to such an extent that they were blinded, then pestering them so much and keeping their eyes so closed that they could not see to get their food and so causing their death through hunger and starvation.

In time we rounded the bend in the river, which brought us into view of the ground where the station was being built. It was really a picturesque place, situated as it was on the bank of the river and at the foot of a bluff which rose hundreds of feet almost perpendicularly into the air, protecting us from the north winds. The slanting rays of the descending sun smoothed away the roughness of the rocky exposures which nature attempted to cover with her growth of spruce and delicately tinted silver white bodies birch trees. Hurrying by ran the sweet clear waters of the river, cool from the snows of the mountains from which they sprung. To the south was the pleasing view across the valley, limited by the foot hills covered with their soft, snowy robes of reindeer moss, while beyond them were the mountains of the Yukon. Looking to the west the blue waters of the sea could be seen, while up the river the valley gradually narrowed between the two mountain ranges until it lost itself in their snow-white ridges.

Found Busy Scene.

Busily were the men employed on the store building the superintendent's house and the row of smaller houses being built for the families who were to aid in the care of the reindeer. The logs for the buildings were being taken from the forests on the river banks, while boards were being whip-sawed for furnishing lumber.

I could not help being interested in all that was going on. To see a whole village cut out of a primeval forest where no village had ever stood before is an opportunity coming to but few of us.

Ordered to Siberia.

I was not permitted to stay long at the camp, for one of the natives from the village below paddled up in his long kayak and brought me word that I was to go along with Sheldon Jackson to Siberia in the interest of the reindeer transportation.

Wedged Into Kayak.

It was interesting to know how I would get down the river with the native in this boat of his. The kayak has a long and narrow frame covered with walrus hide and was altogether enclosed except where the passenger sat, and that opening was not very large. He told me to crowd in with my back to his. I tried but I could not make my knees bend enough to get in and sit down. I had to sit down just as a baby sits on the floor with my feet straight out before me. When he saw that I could not get down far enough to get seated, he proceeded to disappear into his end of the boat until I could see nothing but the top of his head, which left the whole of the opening free for me. Then I got my position, which was not an enviable one for a white man accustomed to sitting on a chair. He then proceeded to make his appearance and up he came, wedging the two of us in this one opening. As we went down the stream in that unstable, rolling, susceptible conveyance I wondered not a bit what our fate would be were the boat to go side ways on the rapids, strike a snag or rock and upset.

I was pleased when we reached Unalakleet, not only because we had a dangerous ride, but I was not accustomed to sliding over the water backwards, and as for my position, I had never found it comfortable since the year 1870. We disembarked just as we had embarked, the native first disappearing from view and I emerging, and then he again making his appearance and stepping out of the boat.

Goes After Reindeer.

The ship had not yet sailed for Siberia so I was taken on and steamed away. How it pleased me to know that I could go along. It is probably of interest here to state that the government had been transporting deer in small numbers since 1892, and that the herd now numbered some over a thousand. The main herd had been driven the previous winter from Port Clarence to the Unalakleet valley on account of the protection afforded by the timbered country and the splendid moss pasturage. It was hoped that many deer might be brought over on this summer as two men were stationed on the Siberian shore with a large supply of barter goods and were instructed to secure all the fawn deer possible. You will learn as to the success of the new departure in my next article.

OBJECTION RAISED TO NEW DRAFT PLAN

THOSE REACHING 31 SINCE THE LAW BECAME EFFECTIVE MAY BE EXCUSED

The plan of discharging all men certified under the selective army regulations who have reached the age of 31 years since June 5, but who have not yet been called into service, is reported as one of the things being considered by the army authorities at Washington. At the same time it is proposed to include as liable for service all those who have become 21 years old since that date.

In this section this plan is proving unpopular. One of the members of the examining board for Pennington county in speaking of the matter said: "This is fair enough as far as it affects the younger man, but will prove far from satisfactory to the one who is just past the age limit at this time. In the case of the latter it must be remembered that he has made all the preparations for going into the army as soon as he shall be needed, has given up his usual occupation and so far as possible put his affairs into shape for a long absence. Now the order comes to him that if he is a day over 31 all this preparation is to go for nothing while some youth who did not expect to be called must make the same preparations as had already been made by the man formerly selected. It would seem that a man's usefulness as a soldier does not come to an absolute end on the day that he is 31 years of age, nor does it necessarily begin when he is 21. I believe there will be quite a howl go up over this matter if the authorities try to put it across. To include as available soldiers all those who have reached the proper age since the law went into effect is all right, but to discharge those who were among the first called while still there is imperative need for their services looks like poor business to me."

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number Two

Jimmie Collins Tells What He Saw—What Military Training Does for Boys.

"Well, here we are!" exclaimed Billie, presenting his chum, Jimmie Collins.

"Very glad to see you, Mr. Collins," said Uncle Dan with a smile.

"Aw," said Billie, "Just call him Jimmie. That's the only name he knows. He's the pitcher of our baseball nine, and he's some pitcher, too. Just feel of his arm."

"Well," said Uncle Dan, feeling, "That's a mighty good arm!"

"Now, boys," said Uncle Dan, "what do you want to talk about?"

"Well," said Jimmie, "I was down to Galesburg a few months ago when the boys came home from the Mexican border. They looked fine. Everybody was surprised to see how straight they stood and how manly they were. The boys seemed proud to wear the uniform. I tell you their muscles were as hard as nails. I heard Banker Haskett say that the training and discipline the boys had had was exactly what every boy in the country ought to have, and that now these boys could get a better job at higher pay than they could have had before. Do you think that's so, Uncle Dan?"

Uncle Dan replied: "I have a friend who employs hundreds of young men. He always gives boys having had military training the preference; he says it pays to do so. He finds they are more alert, more prompt, more courteous; they know how to carry out orders; they are quicker to think and to act than those without training. He said from his experience he believed that six or eight months of intensive military training would add at least 20 per cent to a man's earning capacity, and that it was the best investment any young man could make.

AFTER FIVE MONTHS.

The two pictures are of the same young man. The first was taken the day he enlisted and the second after he had had five months' military training. His home is in North Carolina.

"Billie, if you will go up to my room and bring my small handbag, I will let you see two photographs of the same young man, showing what only five months of intensive training on the Mexican border did for him."

The bag was brought. Uncle Dan, showing the pictures, said: "Well, here they are. They tell their own story and it is a mighty interesting one. The young man, before training, has a discouraged look; he has seen but little of the world. There was very little in his surroundings to bring him out. When he joined the colors and Uncle Sam took him in charge, life for him took on a new meaning. He saw a chance to do something and be something. He woke up. His captain says he is twice the man he was when he joined the army. This may be one of the extreme cases," said Uncle Dan. "I can tell you, though, that war or no war, no one thing will do the young men of this nation so much good in so short a time as a few months of intensive military training. It fits a man to fight his own life battles in the business world as well as to defend his country and its flag.

"Nearly every civilized country gives its boys military training. It is compulsory. It is based upon the fact that it is the duty of everyone to help defend his country; and as war is now carried on, no one can do much unless he is trained. Also, the records show that the killed and wounded among untrained troops is nearly three times as great as it is with well-trained men who know how to fight and how to protect themselves. By this plan a nation has trained men to defend her and the individual is a stronger and better man for the training.

"If the Chamberlain Bill for Military Training is passed by congress, as it ought to be, the same thing would be done for millions of other young men throughout the land. Everybody ought to demand of his congressman and senators the passage of this bill."

"All right, sir, exclaimed Jimmie, we will see Judge Brownell, Mr. Haskett, and Professor Slocum, and get them busy."

REGISTRATION OF ALIENS ORDERED

GERMAN CITIZENS REQUIRED TO REPORT TO POSTMASTER BEFORE FEB. 9

Joseph A. Wessel, United States Marshal for the District of Minnesota, has notified all chiefs of police, which are designated as "chief registrars," of cities having a population of 5,000 or over by the federal census of 1910, and Otto N. Raths, postmaster at St. Paul, who is designated as "chief registrar" of all non-urban areas having a population of less than 5,000 by the federal census of 1910, relative to registration of German alien enemies, as promulgated by rules and regulations of the Attorney General of the United States under the authority of the President's proclamation, dated Nov. 16, 1917.

Registration of German alien enemies is fixed within the District of Minnesota to commence at 6 a. m. on Feb. 4, 1918, and to continue on each day successively thereafter between the hours of 6 a. m. and 8 p. m., up to and including the 9th day of February, 1918, at 8 o'clock p. m.

The fact that the basis of population is fixed on the census figures of 1910 places Thief River Falls among the communities having less than 5,000 population and the registration will therefore take place at the postoffice. The rules are very specific in designating those who are to be classed as enemy aliens and a failure of anyone so designated to register makes him liable to restraints, imprisonment or detention for the period of the war.

Having declared an intention of becoming a citizen of the United States and being thus in possession of "first papers," does not release a man from the duty of registering. On this point the ruling says:

"A male native, citizen, denizen or subject of the German Empire or of the Imperial German Government is an alien enemy, even though he has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States by taking out his first papers of naturalization, or has been partly or completely naturalized in any country other than the United States."

The ruling applies to all males above the age of 14 years, but the registration of women is not required.

CONTRIBUTORS TO Y. M. C. A. ARMY FUND IN COUNTY

Donations Average Twenty Cents Per Capita for Entire Population but are Far Short of Goal Set at Headquarters

Pennington county did not reach the figures set by the state officers of the Young Men's Christian association in their campaign for funds with which to support the war work of the organization but this was to be expected.—Liberty Bonds and the Red Cross had rather effectively cleaned the surplus cash of the people before the Y. M. C. A. movement was gotten fairly under way and the showing is better than many considered possible at the time it was launched. C. D. Gustafson, in charge of the work in the county, states that continued unfavorable weather also made it a hard matter to reach all sections of his district. The chairman believes, however, that under the circumstances the showing is very good and that the people are to be commended for their liberality. Over $1,800 was secured, and as this is an average of 20 cents for every man, woman and child in the county, the showing is by no means bad.

As will be seen by the report appended, the total pledged was $1,810.17, of which all but $189.17 has been collected. As Mr. Gustafson is anxious to clean up the matter and report in full, he requests those who have not yet remitted their contribution to do so at once. The expense of conducting the campaign was $2.50, this being the amount spent for postage.

The solicitors worked in teams, the following being a detailed report of the contributions received by them:

E. O. Mogensen, G. A. Penney and Geo. G. Johnson.

Lincoln State Club Head.

Fred T. Lincoln, formerly secretary of the Thief River Falls Commercial club and who left that position to take up a similar line of work at Brainerd, has been elected president of the League of Minnesota Community clubs, succeeding Peter Seberger, resigned. Mr. Lincoln has been vice president of the organization during the past year. The league is made up of some thirty of the leading commercial clubs and community organizations of the state and the new president was very active in its organization.

Evidently He Was Annoyed.

A girl who was running a London Bus was making out her first report. Under the heading "Accidents" she stated: "Bumped into an old gent." Under the heading "Remarks" she said: "Simply awful."

Condition of Life.

It is true that air and moisture conditions are necessary conditions which make possible soil life, but they do not constitute life. We have seen a previous article state that warmth is a cardinal point of life action. When we speak of life in a soil we must contemplate active life represented by some kind of growth or development and a dead soil is characterized by inactivity or inaction.

A Record of Steady Growth

In spite of changing conditions and an occasional backward season there is one institution in Thief River Falls that has progressed steadily since its organization. This institution is the Creamery. It has proven itself the mainstay of the farmer when everything else has failed; the income from his herds has arrived with the regularity of clockwork, and to the man who has kept pace with the demand it has brought independence. Read the following record

1912 . . $40,000
1913 . $50,000
1914 . $90,000
1915 . $120,000
1916 . $124,000
1917 . $152,000

The business has nearly quadrupled in six years and the dairy farmers of this section have themselves made this possible

QUALITY PRINT SHOP

To the Merchants of Thief River Falls and Vicinity:

IT HAS BEEN THE CUSTOM each year during the month of January for salesmen of various out-of-town calender manufacturers to canvass the city taking orders for calenders for the next year. This money can just as well be kept here and incidentally some money can be saved for the merchants who go in for this class of advertising. We have received and now have on display, one of the most beautiful lines of calenders, fans, wall-pockets and novelties that it is possible to secure and in a much larger variety than it would be possible for a traveling salesman to carry with him. They include everything from the small ordinary prints to the most expensive of lithographic and hand-colored work—and at prices that are a little lower than you ever paid for this kind of goods before. Drop into our office at any time and let us show you this really wonderful line and remember that it is the patronizing of home industry that keeps the city alive.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA

WILL YOUR HOUSE BE THE NEXT TO GO?

THIS WEEK there was ANOTHER DISASTROUS FIRE in Thief River Falls. This should convince you that you cannot afford to trust to luck.

HAVE YOU ANY REASON TO BELIEVE that fire may not at any time destroy YOUR property too?

IF YOUR HOME is not already insured, you should take steps immediately to safegard yourself against loss; and if you are carrying an insufficient amount of insurance you should take on enough more to keep pace with the tremendous leap in the cost of all materials entering into the construction and equipment of a building.

The Citizens State Bank

as the agent for eight of the strongest companies in the field, is equipped to care for your needs, and is anxious to serve you.

We Originated the Cash and Carry Plan in Thief River Falls

Our success has led others to imitate us. It is now recognized that this way of merchandising is the most satisfactory, both to the consumer and the merchant, and our customers would not go back to the old method if given the opportunity. They KNOW that they have been saving money and also getting the best goods obtainable.

We Shall Hereafter Specialize in Another Direction

Quantity mail orders will be given special consideration. It will be unnecessary for people living at a distance to come to Thief River Falls in order to get the benefit of our plan of merchandising. They can get the same service through the mail and it is this plan to which we wish to call their attention. Price lists, containing the latest and lowest quotations on the articles most generally in use, will be mailed on the first of each month. Send in your order, enclosing the amount required and the goods will be forthcoming by whatever transportation means you may select. SATISFACTION IS AS FULLY GUARRANTEED AS IF YOU PERSONALLY SELECTED THE GOODS AT OUR STORE. You know our reputation—we do exactly as we say. Send us a trial order. You will be as pleased with this service as you was with the cash and carry plan.

SEND SOLDIER BOY A SMILEAGE BOOK

CAMPAIGN FOR THEIR SALE SOON TO BEGIN THROUGHOUT THE STATE

The America First association will conduct a campaign in Pennington county beginning Jan. 28, for the sale of Smileage Books.

The War department through Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, has directed and authorized the association to dispose of 20,000 of these Books, and Senator D. P. O'Neill, county vice president, will handle the matter for the association.

F. W. Murphy, president, Robert W. Hargadine, secretary, and the other officers of the association accepted the work for the War department and it is expected that a sufficient number will be disposed of during the week that the campaign is on so that every soldier, sailor and marine from this county will receive Smileage Books.

F. A. Doggett, field director for the War department, who is in St. Paul, addressed a letter to the officers of the America First association in which he stated that he had been instructed by the War department to endorse the association as a proper one to handle the Smileage Books in the state of Minnesota, outside of the Twin Cities and Duluth, where the rotary clubs of these cities will conduct the campaign.

Urged by War Department.

"This movement is nation-wide," wrote Mr. Doggett, "and is a government proposition pure and simple, fostered by the War department. I feel that the America First association, with its large membership and its great influence in the state, will be the most important means of acquainting the people with the value of these Smileage Books and the great benefit they will be to our boys in camp."

The Smileage Books contain coupons entitling the holder to admittance and seats at Liberty theatres which have been established at the various camps and cantonments under the management of the War department and in which high class entertainment features will be provided. These books are sold for $1 each and contain 20 coupons which will be good for payment for seats at any performance.

These Smileage books are to be forwarded by the purchaser to any soldier, sailor or marine in the service of the United States, or turned in to the county vice president of the America First association, who will see that the book is properly forwarded to some Minnesota soldier, sailor or marine that has not been remembered by the folks at home.

WAIT TWO YEARS FOR CITIZENSHIP

FATE OF THOSE WHO HAVE NOT APPLIED WITHIN THE TIME LIMIT

Lack of interest on the part of men who had taken out their first papers but who had failed within seven years to complete their citizenship, will now cost them their naturalization papers and they will be regarded as aliens until new proceedings are started, which cannot be for two years more, according to a decision of the United States supreme court. Information regarding this decision has been received by Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund. There had been some question whether the new ruling applied to notices of intentions issued under the old system or whether it applied only to those now being issued. The supreme court held that in all cases where more than seven years has elapsed between the filing of the notice of intention and the issuance of the final papers the proceeding was void. This will throw several men in Pennington county back into the alien class because of dilatory methods employed in securing what is now considered a valuable asset, the right to be considered an American citizen.

MONDAY IS ALSO MADE WHEATLESS

STATE FOOD COMMISSIONER SO DECREES UPON ORDERS FROM WASHINGTON

A. D. Wilson, state food administrator, Monday night officially ordered two wheatless days a week in Minnesota. He acted on recommendations from Washington officials.

In addition to Wednesday, which has been observed as wheatless day for several weeks, Mr. Wilson designated Monday as the other day when wheat must be dispensed with.

He expects that housewives and public eating places will be ready to comply with the new order within a week.

Lauding housewives and public eating establishments for their efforts to conserve food, Mr. Wilson declared that what they already had done has been only a change of food habits, and they now must be ready to make real sacrifices to supply the armies with all the necessary food.

"So long as our housekeepers, restaurants and hotels establish a base supply in their kitchen there is assurance that our soldiers, fighting 3,000 miles from home, will have plenty to eat," he said.

BRAY MUTUAL HAS ANNUAL ELECTION

REPORT SHOWS COMPANY IS IN EXCELLENT FINANCIAL CONDITION

The statement of business of the Bray Mutual Insurance company, read at the annual meeting at Wylie last week, shows that the losses during 1917 totalled $1,486 and that other expenses connected with the administration of the company were about $600. The membership now numbers about 1,300 and the insurance carried represents a valuation of over $2,000,000.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Nels K. Anderson; secretary, John O. Swanson; treasurer, N. A. Nelson; directors, Ed. Aubol, Ferdinand Gother and Anton Peterson. All officers were re-elected except A. August Erickson, who was defeated by Mr. Peterson by one vote for director.

OBITUARY

Henry L. Anderson.

A telegram received by the officers of the First National bank from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., yesterday afternoon, announced the death of Henry L. Anderson, which occurred at that place about two o'clock. Mr. Anderson enlisted in the ordnance department about a month ago.

It has for some time been known that this young man was ill at the barracks and that at certain periods his life was despaired of, but late reports were to the effect that he was recovering and that the danger was practically over. For this reason the news of his death came as a surprise as well as a shock.

Henry L. Anderson was 29 years of age at the time of his death. He was teller at the First National bank in this city at the time of his enlistment and was one of the best known and best liked young men in the city. When the first call came he tried to pass the physical examination for the navy, but was rejected because of his eyes. He also tried other branches, but the result was always the same until he found a berth in the ordnance department.

What disposition will be made of the body is not known. His parents live at Ada and it is probable that it will be shipped there. The telegram, which was sent by Arthur F. LaBudde, who previous to his enlistment in the aviation corps was a fellow worker with Mr. Anderson at the First National, contained no details further than to state the hour of death.

TOTAL TAX LEVY NEARLY $300,000

OF THIS AMOUNT $56,653.19 IS CHARGEABLE TO DITCHES AND SEWERS

CITY SHARE IS $114,266.45

OF TAXES IN TOWN OF REINER MORE THAN HALF GOES FOR DRAINAGE

At the request of The Times a statement of the tax levy for the different subdivisions of the county has this week been prepared by County Treasurer Theo. H. Liden. The total amount levied for all purposes in Pennington county for the year 1918 is $291,051.02, of which sum $56,653.19 will be used in defraying the cost of ditches built in the different townships and sewers within the city, leaving a balance for all other purposes of $234,397.83.

Outside of the city of Thief River Falls the highest amount is levied against the township of North, with Highlanding, Goodridge and Kratka following in the order named. Polk Center is the only township in the county where there is no ditch assessment to meet. Following is the levy for the respective subdivisions. As no sum can be assessed as ditch assessment in the city, the figures represent the amount required to meet the outlay for sewers:

STORE IS CREDIT TO ENTIRE REGION

NEW QUARTERS OF THIEF RIVER MUSIC CO. MODEL IN EVERY RESPECT

The new store of the Thief River Music company in the Union block is without doubt one of the finest of its kind in northern Minnesota. During the past week hundreds of people have taken the trouble to drop in and tell Messrs. Ebert & Hagen that they considered the institution a credit to the city and to compliment them on their enterprise.

All the woodwork has been stained and re-varnished, giving the interior a rich, harmonious coloring. The musical instruments from pianos to accordeons, have been so arranged as to make for the most effective showing, and the music racks placed where their contents can be seen with the least effort. Throughout the establishment the best of taste and judgment has been displayed.

In thus providing the best music store to be found in this section the proprietors wish to thank the public for the splendid patronage they have enjoyed in the past as well as to give assurance that with the greater facilities now at hand they will be in still better position to serve the people.—adv.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS

The following is a list of the unclaimed letters at the postoffice of Thief River Falls, Minn., for the week ending Jan. 19, 1918. If not called for in two weeks from the above date they will be sent to the Dead Letter Branch at Chicago, Ill.

MOTOR INN LEASED TO K. A. SUNDAHL

OVERLAND AGENT WILL TAKE CHARGE OF GARAGE ABOUT MARCH FIRST

The Northwestern Auto company, local agent for the Overland car, has leased the Motor Inn from A. C. Rasmussen & Co., and will occupy the premises about the first of March. It is understood that the deal has been pending for some time as K. A. Sundahl, proprietor of the Northwestern, found it necessary to acquire larger quarters for his steadily growing business.

The Motor Inn was erected two years ago especially for a garage and is one of the best and most complete in this section of the state. The main storage floor has a great deal more space than the present quarters of Mr. Sundahl and the machine department is also in all respects the best for the purpose in the city.

The room formerly used as a soft drink parlor will be turned into an office and show room, to which purpose it is admirably adapted. The new lessee will continue to handle the Overland car exclusively, he having been very successful in placing these machines in this neighborhood.

AUTOS HELP ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND

PENNINGTON COUTY RECEIVES TOTAL OF $22,200 FROM THE STATE THIS YEAR

The road and bridge fund of Pennington county has been increased to the extent of $22,200 through the distribution of the state road aid, as announced by the state highway commission last week. This is an increase of $7,875 over last year, the greater sum being made possible by the large payments into the fund made by auto owners as license fees. It has been estimated that the total amount received by the different counties of the state from this source during 1918 will not be far from $800,000. The amount available in the state for roads and bridges is $18,308,996.

In order to secure this sum of $22,200 it will be necessary for the county to expend $17,760, making a total for state roads of $40,000. This is the largest sum available in any one year since the organization of the county and should maintain the highways already built in the best possible condition and make adequate provision for meeting the cost of any new work undertaken.

Goodridge Red Cross Notes.

Friday evening, Jan. 11, a basket social and dance were given in the Goodridge hall for the benefit of the Red Cross. In spite of the inclement weather a fairly good crowd was in attendance and the receipts netted $77.30. If the weather had been more favorable both the attendance and the receipts would easily have been doubled. As it was the latter was very satisfactory, those present bidding briskly for the baskets under the able salesmanship of our genial Jesse LaBree. His smiling countenance and pointed remarks were irresistible and elicited quick responses from the male attendants.

To all those who turned out to make this event a success hearty thanks are due. Likewise to those who made contributions but could not come in on account of the weather. The following deserve special mention in this connection: The merchants for their contributions in the line of coffee, etc., the orchestra for the free music, Mr. LaBree for crying the sale, Patrick Brick for the free use of his hotel kitchen and dining room, P. P. Palmer for the gratis use of the hall, and H. W. Smith for the free printing and advertising. The splendid result achieved proves the loyalty and patriotism of the people of Goodridge and vicinity. It shows that the boys who are going forth to risk their all for their and our country will not be forgotten, but that they will be equipped in a manner worthy of the cause for which they are fighting.

The following day, Saturday, Jan. 12, the ladies met in the school house for Red Cross work and to serve a Red Cross lunch. This lunch netted something over six dollars.

The Four-Minute Men.

Supt. J. H. Hay of the city schools on Monday evening made the first of a series of four-minute talks on food saving and war topics in general at the Princess theatre. It is the intention to continue these short addresses for the present at least in order to aid in bringing the need for conservation and saving before the public. Prof. Hay made a very good talk, calling attention to the danger of wasting anything that can in any manner be used at this time. We are the most wasteful nation on earth, he said, and if we wished to be of the greatest assistance in winning this war we will at once change our mode of living so as to make use of everything possible both for wearing apparel and on our tables.

A. Sapero left Tuesday night for Bemidji on a brief business trip.

ATTITUDE OF TIMES IS TOO PATRIOTIC

SUBSCRIBER REFUSES TO TAKE PAPER ADVOCATING "WAR AND BLOODSHED"

"McGregor, Minn., Jan. 16, 1918.—The Times, Thief River Falls, Minn. Do not send me the T. R. F. Times' any more for two reasons. First, I have not received your paper regularly (the number for Jan. 10th was the first I have received for more than a month.) Second, I want no newspaper that is patriotic for pay and advocates war and bloodshed.

"Trusting that this is plain and that you will send me The Times no more, I am, J. W. ERLANDSON."

The above communication was received this week by The Times. It was written on a postal card and the message it conveys is not to be misconstrued. Mr. Erlandson's paper will be stopped forthwith.

The publishers quite frankly do not like the reason he gives for no longer belonging to their family of readers and publish his epistle in full in order that his former neighbors may see just what kind of an American they were harboring. This man Erlandson taught school for a season in Mayfield township of this county and it was known then that he held convictions on governmental policies that were not in accord with those of good Americans generally. He left the county before war was declared and his activities were thereafter lost sight of. Now that he has thus called attention to himself again, however, an effort will be made to find out just what brand of patriotism he is instilling into the minds of his pupils in Aitkin county, to which jurisdiction he moved upon leaving here.

The Times in the meantime will keep right on preaching Americanism, and it will not be "for pay." War and bloodshed it has never advocated, but will support the government to the very last when these things are found necessary in order to maintain our national honor and the rights of free peoples throughout the world. Anarchical pedagogues may stop their subscription and those in sympathy with the kaiser may disapprove, but this course will be followed in the future as in the past. The case of Mr. Erlandson, in the meantime, is being looked into.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Richard Zeh was operated upon last Friday for obstruction of the bowels. He is doing nicely.

Arvo Rippy of Middle River had an iron plate put on the bones of his leg for an un-united fracture.

Mrs. Alfred Quild of Wauhon was operated upon Monday for a ruptured appendix.

Mrs. Harry Nelson of Orleans was discharged from the hospital on Friday, having recovered from an operation for removal of goitre.

Sam Wayne of Rollis was discharged last Saturday, having recovered from an operation performed a week previous.

Mrs. Peter Lee, whose home is at Karlstad, was operated on Wednesday for appendicitis.

Mrs. Bert Norby of Strathcona was discharged from the hopital Thursday.

The hospital now is affiliated with the City hospital of Minneapolis so that the nurses from this hospital will spend their last year of study in the Minneapolis institution.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carlson, Monday, Jan. 21, a son.

Seeking Grain Thieves.

William Smith, residing on a farm a short distance from the city, was in on Tuesday to see if he could trace down the party or parties who have been stealing barley from his granary. As near as he is able to figure out, about 35 bushels were taken, but just at what time the theft was committed he is unable to say as the grain was stored at a distance from his home and he has not been near the place for some weeks. It was so long ago at any rate that the tracks had been entirely obliterated. A bundle of Scandinavian newspapers addressed to Frederick Edenholm, the former owner of the farm, was taken at the same time for some purpose, and Mr. Smith thought it possible to trace the thief by the aid of these as there was enough of them to make worth while disposing of to some junk dealer. No one could be found who remembers having seen anything of them, however, and the culprit is by now comparatively safe.

Dental Notice.

Commencing Feb. 1, 1918, and until further notice is given, the offices of the undersigned dentists will close at 6 p. m. each day, and remain closed over Sunday. Services after office hours will not be rendered excepting in emergency cases, when an extra fee will be charged. J-24-31

The Public Forum

Readers of The Times are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas on topics of general interest, but discussion of sectarian religious differences as well as personalities are barred. All communications must be signed, not necessarily for publication, but in order to show the good faith of the writer. In thus throwing open its columns to the public, The Times assumes no responsibility for the opinions expressed, nor is it to be assumed that their tenor necessarily corresponds with the policy of the paper.

Editor Times and Readers:

I noted with pleasure the announcement regarding your paper's policy, published immediately after you took over the News-Press, stating the paper would be as impartial as possible in all matters of political differences among your readers who cared to discuss such matters in your paper.

I have also noticed your paper has been fair to the Farmers' Non-Partisan league, which is far more than can be said about the bulk of our daily papers.

I have great respect for anyone who fights any political organization FAIRLY, if he thinks such organization stands for bad policies, but I have not the slightest respect for anyone who tries to make people believe that the league is a disloyal organization. Nearly all of the farmers in our county are either members of the Farmers' Non-Partisan league, or sympathizers with it.

Just think how ridiculous such a statement is! Here are a lot of law-abiding, hard-working people who have made this part of the country what it is; have built homes; made farms out of swamps and woods and wild prairie; built schools and roads—yes, and cities for that matter—called "disloyal" by a bunch of city dudes hundreds of miles away! Isn't it nice? O, what hypocricy for such contemptible people to pretend to be "patriotic," who deliberately misrepresent the most independent (and consequently most reliable element we have when it comes to voting) honest and industrious people we have! I certainly reserve the right to criticise the Non-Partisan league in case its platform in the future should be such as I thought were not good for the country, but I am inclined to think that whenever the league meets in convention there will be such overwhelming majority of well-posted, cool-headed farmers that any few radicals who may be "visionary" will be outvoted 5 to 1 or more.

One thing is certain, that it is high time for the common people to wake up before the intrenched politicians take away the people's constitutional rights of assembling and speaking. Some of these pretended patriots—papers especially—talk much about "democracy" but there is nothing in the world they are so scared of as real democracy. If they would come out openly and take the stand that "democracy is a failure" I would respect them for their honesty, though I certainly would not agree with their political stand.

Yours for a "Square Deal,"
ANDREW TROVATON.

The Wool Situation.

On the last page of this issue of The Times will be found an advertisement by E. O. Mogensen, the Thief River Falls clothier, calling the attention of farmers particularly to the wool situation. This advertisement not only sets forth reasons why the buyer should secure his woolen goods now, but also points out the certain profit there is for anyone engaging in the raising of sheep. The securing of sufficient wool to meet the demands of the nation is going to be a serious matter for years to come and the farmer who takes advantage of the situation and makes sheep raising a part of his business will be an immense gainer.

WHAT COMMISSION OF PUBLIC SAFETY MEANS TO PEOPLE

Splendidly Organized Body Helps Make Minnesota Ready and Efficient.

TO CO-ORDINATE RESOURCES

Board Created by Last Session of Legislature, Given Extraordinary Powers for Good—Has Support of Loyal Citizens—Saves State Money.

The Minnesota Commission of Public Safety is an organization that is unique and one that has attracted the attention and the compliment of imitation in nearly every state in the union.

With the extraordinary powers given it by the act which created it, passed at the last session of the Legislature, it has been in a position to undertake a wide range of activity and at times use its powers in taking immediate and effective steps to hasten the military preparedness of our state, cut waste and extravagance, make "profiteering" impossible, and adjust economic questions for the relief of the people. In fact, the opportunities of the Commission as a force for the co-ordination and correlation of the moral, material and military resources of our state for the effective prosecution of the war on the part of our state and placing it at the forefront of the sisterhood of states in a national effort to carry out our part in the war for democracy and the overthrow of Prussian autocracy, have been tremendous. They have developed almost hourly since the creation of the Commission and every problem that has presented itself has been met squarely, handled with patriotic motives, statesmanlike vision and without regard to personal or political consideration.

An Economical Proposition.

The creation of the Commission meant that thousands of dollars would be saved to the people of Minnesota. Without it, it might have become necessary to continue the Legislature in session almost continually in order to take up public matters with respect to the present war conditions and activities that are constantly presenting themselves for adjustment. For this purpose a body of nearly two hundred men with widely differing opinions, would have proven unwieldly, expensive and slow as to results. With a small organization of but seven members appointed for the one great patriotic task of placing our state in position to do its full share in the war, and with this idea back of their every official act, taken after conscientious and broad minded deliberation, our state has made wonderful progress in its war preparations and has excited the envy and admiration of all other defense bodies in the nation.

Has Support of Loyal People.

The Commission of Public Safety has the patriotic support of all loyal people who realize that every personal consideration must be put aside during the present crisis. They realize that the Commission is Minnesota's pledge to the national government that our state is back of our President and Congress in their war program. The Commission is the official head of our government in Minnesota and as such, must be given the undivided support of every citizen in the discharge of the tremendous task it assumes. Its decisions and orders have all been taken with uniform good grace and obeyed in a large sense, with great credit to the patriotic citizenship of our people, regardless of whatever hardships might ensue, by seemingly unwarranted restrictions, knowing that the action would result in the greatest good to the greatest number in the final outcome of this world wide war.

The Organization.

The great task of the Commission and one of the essential fundamental ideas back of its creation was the mobilization of the sentiment of our people for the war; the popularization of the war idea for the protection of national honor, perpetual world peace and the safeguarding of democratic forms of government.

This task has been one of the greatest problems of the Commission of Public Safety, to which all others have subordinated themselves. It meant that the mental attitude and disposition of a large majority with regard to the war and its problems would have to be utterly changed if victory was to come to our armies.

This was to be accomplished by the presentation of facts, and causes of the war through the press, the pulpit, the platform, literature and every means of expression that could be brought to bear.

At the time of the entry of this nation into the war the people of our state were in anything but a warlike mood. They were prosperous, happy, peace loving and had no idea of the deadly peril that threatened them at the hands of the Prussianized autocratic power seemingly so far removed as to make any thought of danger now or in the future too ridiculous to contemplate.

To awake them to their real danger and to emphasize the fact that a real danger has threatened, and does threaten their very homes right here in Minnesota, has been a task that seemed almost impossible of accomplishment. There has been a great change in public sentiment everywhere, however, which has been brought about by the work of the Safety Commission, aided by its splendidly organized system of county units and various patriotic bodies who have assisted in the work.

During the first few weeks of the life of the Commission, a great deal of careful thought and study was brought to bear on the task of selecting county and township chairmen of the Commission who would co-operate earnestly and conscientiously with the head office in making Minnesota ready and efficient. The result has been something that is a source of pride to Governor Burnquist, and all members of the Public Safety Commission, whom we all honorably regard as the center of every patriotic endeavor in our state. Less than five changes have been made in county chairmanships and this only because of ill health or a call to a wider sphere of patriotic service. This is a record that cannot be shown by any other state so far as can be ascertained.

Each and every county or township chairman responded loyally to the call and have done yeomanlike service in their particular communities, under conditions many times that would have brought dismay to the stoutest heart and absolute surrender to a faint heart.

It is stated, without the slightest fear of contradiction, that the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety has the most fearlessly faithful and most conscientiously patriotic set of county officers that can be gathered together for any like purpose. Without this organization the task of coping with the earlier state of public sentiment would have been well nigh hopeless.

There is yet a great deal to be done and it will be done well. The Commission with the aid of its faithful members of the county units will continue to "smoke out the Huns within our gates" with the great fires of patriotism kindled within the breast of every loyal American.

Washington Co-operation.

The present day watchword among the allied nations is "unity of action." This will be brought into the war work in this country and from Washington comes the command to fall into line. The various loyalized and reorganized defense bodies of the state have been directed to co-operate all war activities under their immediate supervision. Duplication will be eliminated and a tremendous unified effort of the United States, individually and collectively, will be made to make our whole people practically of one mind in the desire to make our world safe for democracy.

Educational Campaign.

The great "drive" will be against the lukewarm pacifist, those that hesitate and those who have failed to realize what their danger is or their personal responsibility in war activity and preparation. The openly disloyal and seditious must be made to feel their isolated disgrace. Tons of literature will be the barrage fire against anti-war sentiment, a speaking campaign, nation-wide in its scope, to carry the war message directly to the most isolated individual in the nation, will follow as the infantry to make sure that the trenches of the public mind are clear of all pro enemy thought.

This is the task that the organization of the Minnesota State Commission of Public Safety is prepared in every detail to assume and discharge with fine effect and assurance of results. Many efforts along similar lines have been made, but not until a correlated nation-wide movement was instituted at the suggestion and official request of President Wilson in September, was it recognized that to be permanently effective, all movements must be joined as one body under the direction of the official defense body.

It has proven fortunate that Minnesota was in a position through a well established organization in lively working condition to take up this great work. While it has done splendid work from the first, it will do even better with the added prestige of co-operation and recognition from the National Council of Defense.

The Commission Needed.

No mention has here been made of the numberless problems that have been solved by the Commission or the manifold duties that have been thrust upon it. Enough has been touched upon to indicate that without a defense body of this nature, any state would have been in no position to do herself justice in the discharge of her responsibilities. The state officials would have been at the mercy of the demagogue, the charlatan and selfish political interests who seize upon every patriotic issue to cloak their nefarious designs.

Should Recognize Work of County Organization.

The work of the state Commission would have meant less to this state, and it would have been infinitely harder to accomplish its various tasks, without the splendid service given by county units. A mere request invariably brings instant action in any section of the state and worlds can be conquered by such spirit and patriotism as has been the characteristic of the work of the county units.

If you are working in harmony and co-operation with the State Commission of Public Safety and its county units, it means that you are doing your "bit" to assist our state in driving the "Hun from our gates" and for winning a glorious victory in the war to make liberty everlasting, democracy safe and enforce enduring world-wide peace.

NO DISLOYALTY IN NON-PARTY TALK

MAYOR OF CROOKSTON SO REPORTS UPON RETURN TO HIS CITY FROM ADA

It appears as if the authorities in nearly every community in this section have a different idea of how the emissaries of the National Non-Partisan league ought to be treated. During the past week the speakers for the organization have been rather active throughout that state and the welcome accorded them in different places varies from absolute prohibition to enthusiastic reception. Here in Thief River Falls they were permitted to meet in the court house and there was little or no objection. A meeting was scheduled for Red Lake Falls but the speaker was informed that he would not be permitted to appear there. It was thereupon decided to hold the gathering at Wylie but the authorities interposed an objection to this, stating that it would not be permitted in the county. At Alvarado the speaker was not only made welcome, but the citizens tendered him and the visiting farmers a banquet.

A big meeting was held at Ada without any attempt being made to prevent it. Crookston was next in the limelight, an address being scheduled for that city. In order to satisfy himself that everything was all right Mayor Morissey attended the Ada gathering and came back satisfied. According to the Crookston Times the mayor found that "there was not a word spoken that could be construed as in any way seditious or disloyal. On the contrary, there was a hearty sentiment to uphold the government in its war policies."

About the same time T. Tharaldson, formerly of Thief River Falls, was having an exciting time in another part of the state. He was scheduled to deliver an address at Glencoe but was prevented from doing so by citizens who kept him under guard until a train came along, when he was placed aboard and shipped out of town. There seems to have been no charge of any kind brought against him and the proceeding is regarded as decidedly high-handed and uncalled for. The League speakers appearing in this section have said nothing at which the most captious critic could take offense and it is not hard to find persons of calm judgment who doubt the wisdom of the tactics pursued in other places.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Princess.

From now on until the ruling of the fuel administrator is changed, the Princess will be closed on Tuesday night of each week. The first order was that all theatres should remain dark on Monday evenings, but this was changed at the earnest request of the theatre men themselves. This necessitates the making of a slight change in the program for the week. Instead of running the same show on Sunday and Monday nights as has been the custom for some time, the program will be changed every day hereafter. Mr. Lawrence is cheerfully complying with the order to close, although it upsets his business perhaps more than that of any man in town.

The week's program at the popular play house starts out this evening with Clara Kimball Young in "Shirley Kaye," one of those intensely emotional plays in which this superb actress has made such a wonderful success. She appears in a role both forceful and appealing.

"His Mother's Boy," a picturization of Rupert Hughes' great story, "When Life is Marked Down," will be the stellar attraction on Friday evening. It is one of the finest bits yet undertaken by this great delineator of boys' parts.

Saturday is Metro night and Mabel Taliaferro, perhaps the favorite star of that organization, appears in "Peggy, the Will o' the Wisp." She is supported by a cast of superlative excellence.

And then comes Douglas Fairbanks. He will be on hand Sunday evening in his latest and greatest success, "The Man From Painted Post," and there is nothing left to say.

For Monday, matinee and night, the Greater Vitagraph company presents Mary Anderson and Antonio Moreno in "The Mangnificent Meddler." This is the story of a reporter who aimed to set the world in order and is a dandy.

On Wednesday evening Wallace Reid appears in a great military drama entitled "The Hostage." This is a story of the conflict between love and duty.

Her Unexpected Action.

"There hain't no way in the livin' world of telling what a woman will do next!" disgruntledly declared the Missourian. "Why, I took and gave my wife for a birthday present a nice new ax, so's she could cut her washday wood in comfort. And burhung if she didn't whirl in the first thing and knock me down with it!"—Judge.

Myrvel Kromer arrived the first of the week from Minneapolis, where he has been employed for some time, to visit friends for a few days.

LAST CHANCE
SALE ENDS
Tuesday, January 29

On account of the Government Fuel Order closing all stores on Mondays, we will continue our sale ONE DAY MORE after January 26th, as previously advertised. There are still good quanties and varieties of fine merchandise to select from at our JANUARY CLEARANCE Sale. We have but two clearance sales a year. We mean what we say---we want to clear out as much stock as possible regardless of profits.

We earnestly advise you to supply your needs now. Merchandise is constantly raising in price. We cannot see any lower prices for this year.

This sale opened January 12, and has been a great success. We predict that the last three days will see greater crowds than at any time during the sale.

ONLY THREE MORE DAYS! ONLY THREE MORE DAYS!
FRIDAY January 25 SATURDAY January 26 TUESDAY January 29

We will make still further reductions in order to make the last three days the crowning event of this great sale. ALL WINTER GOODS MUST GO.

The Peril of Prussianism

DOUGLAS WILSON JOHNSON

FOREWORD.

The following pages contain the substance of an address delivered by the writer before the annual convention of the Iowa Bankers Association at Des Moines on June 14, 1917. A request from the bankers of one section of the state that the address be printed in German for circulation among the large German-born population of their district, together with a number of inquiries for copies of the English text, have tempted me to believe that some good purpose might be served by publishing the address in its present form.

However opinions may have differed in the past as to our duty in the world crisis, there can be no two opinions regarding our duty today. America has decided that splendid isolation is no longer possible in a world rendered wondrous small by the swift steamship and express train, the telegraph and telephone, the cable and wireless telegraphy. We are our brothers' keeper, and have entered on a policy of international cooperation, first to compel a just peace, and then to preserve it undisturbed from future assaults by autocratic militarism. We have pledged our faith and must fight a good fight to make the world safe for democracy. Every ounce of the national strength must be brought to bear, every man in the whole country must render loyal, devoted service. The Stars and Stripes have never yet been unfurled in a lost cause. They must not now go down to defeat.

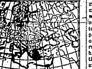
The only assurance of success lies in the unswerving devotion of our whole people to a cause they believe sacred. It is imperative therefore that the issues of the present war be made clear to every citizen. Americans will not support with enthusiasm a cause they do not understand, nor shed their blood with unmeasured generosity to achieve ends they cannot see. If the following pages help a few among my fellow citizens to measure the magnitude of the cause we serve, they will not have been written in vain.

DOUGLAS W. JOHNSON.

New York, July 1, 1917.

TWO IDEALS OF GOVERNMENT.

There exists in the world two fundamentally opposed ideals of government. One is based on the conception that the government is the servant of its citizens and exists for their benefit. According to this conception the divine right of the individual to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness must be conserved, and the most successful government is the one which most effectively promotes the free development of its citizens. The growth of this ideal of government can be traced through the whole history of the Anglo-Saxon race, but first reached its full fruition in the American Declaration of Independence. Because of the supreme faith of our forefathers in dedicating their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor to the maintenance of this ideal in the New World, Canada and other English colonies today enjoy a freedom which would not otherwise be theirs. The loss of her American colonies taught England the fearful cost of obstructing man's aspirations for true self-government, with the result that both in her colonies and at home the growth of democratic ideals has seldom been seriously checked. France lit her torch of freedom at the American altar, and in Russia when the bureaucrats would denounce Milyukof for his democratic aspirations they hurl at him the epithet "American." It will not appear unseemly, therefore, to call the ideal of government just described "The American ideal." In a peculiar degree America has long stood before the world as its champion and defender.



The Hohenzollern dominions in 1477. A small province surrounding the little town of Berlin.

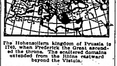
The second ideal of government is diametrically opposed to the first. It is based on the conception that the individual is the servant of the government and exists for the benefit of the government. According to this ideal, the State is everything, the individual nothing. The perfect government is one which so disciplines its citizens that they render absolute and unquestioning obedience to every order of the State, performing with machine-like precision the tasks assigned to them. Organized efficiency and team work replace the uncoordinated and ineffectual efforts of individuals which forever clog the clumsy mechanism of democracy. Individual liberty is permitted only where it does not interfere with the good of the State, and it is the State, not the Citizen, which decides where the line shall be drawn. This ideal of government was more than once introduced into England, but has never seemed to thrive among Anglo-Saxon peoples. France suffered it for a space, then permanently rejected it. Russia endured it with ever increasing protest, and after long years of bitter struggle and threatening revolution has at last trampled it under foot. But among Teutonic peoples it has thriven amazingly. Its supreme development is bound up with the history of Prussia, and reaches its most perfect manifestation in the modern state of Prussianized Germany. As Professor Munsterberg has truly said, "In the German view the State is not for the individuals but the individuals for the State." Both Kaiser and people unite in presenting to the world the most efficient example of a government paternally solicitous for the material welfare of its citizens, docilely served by a disciplined people rendering unquestioning obedience to the commands of their sovereign. Assuredly this second ideal of government is preeminently the Prussian ideal.

THE INESCAPABLE CONFLICT.

Having placed in contrast the American ideal and the Prussian ideal of government, let us next consider this all-important fact: The two ideals are mutually antagonistic and cannot long exist in the world side by side. This statement may on first thought seem extreme. One may ask, "Cannot every nation select that one of the two ideals of government which it prefers, leaving every other nation in peace to do the same? Is there not room enough in the world for the peaceful development of both ideals?" The answer is in the negative, and for this reason: The Prussian ideal denies one of the primitive instincts of mankind, the instinct of individual freedom and personal sovereignty. From the beginning, man has rebelled against slavery, whether the enslaving power be beneficent or brutal. An inefficient government of his own creation is more tolerable to him than the most efficient control imposed by another. A people enjoying unwonted prosperity may for a time docilely submit to the hand which feeds them; but sooner or later the instinct of freedom will assert itself and the people grow restless. Especially is this true where the people enslaved by an autocratic government are surrounded by freemen who govern themselves. Liberty is an inevitable, unconscious proselyter.

There remains to the autocratic government but one procedure. It must offer to its subjects compensation for their slavery, and destroy the proselyting influence which surrounds them. Both are accomplished at one stroke by military conquest. Just as freemen will undergo stern military discipline for the sake of victory, so a subject people will submit to a ruler who assures them military glory and the privilege of triumphing over their neighbors. Autocracy and aggressive militarism are inextricably bound together. Through militarism autocracy must conquer the world, or from a peaceful penetration of the ideals of liberty it will suffer decay.

No one understands this truth more clearly than does the autocratic government of Germany. Its motto: "World power or downfall," is not the silly ranting of a wild extremist, but brutally frank statement of a profound truth. The German government's oft-repeated assertion that it is fighting a defensive warfare should not be pushed aside as an idle falsehood. The tide of popular discontent with autocracy was beginning to rise in Germany, and the autocratic government's most effective defence was a war which should unite the people once more in loyal subjection. Prior to July, 1914, the German papers were publicly ridiculing the Kaiser's pompous assertion of his devine right to rule, and were indignantly denouncing his angry threat to tear the Constitution of Alsace in shreds and annex the unhappy province to Prussia; representatives of the people in increasing numbers were refusing to vote the government's burdensome war taxes and were protesting against the exaltation of military above civil authority. A month later, the entire nation was enthusiastically acclaiming the war lord whose victorious legions were sweeping across Belgium to carry German dominion to the shores of the English Channel. Never was the Hohenzollern dynasty more securely in the saddle than during the many months when flag-bedecked Germany was celebrating her victories on every front. An offensive warfare against Germany's neighbors had proven the best defensive warfare for Germany's government.

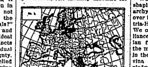


The Hohenzollern kingdom of Prussia in 1740, when Frederick the Great ascended the throne. The scattered domains extended from the Rhine eastward beyond the Vistula.

GROWTH OF PRUSSIANISM.

The historical development of the Prussian ideal of government shows Prussia's realization of the fact that nothing save the most aggressive exploitation of that ideal would prevent its ultimate extinction. Some time before the discovery of America by Columbus, there appeared on the world stage an unimportant house by the name of Hohenzollern which ruled over a small tract of country surrounding the little town of Berlin (see map, Figure 1.) Successive rulers of this line added to their holdings by conquering neighboring lands, until the scattered domains under Prussian control stretched from the banks of the Rhine eastward beyond the Vistula. In 1640, there came to the throne one of the most famous and early exponents of the Prussian ideal of government, Frederick William, the Great Elector. He is described as "coarse by nature, heartless in destroying opponents, treacherous in diplomatic negotiations, and entirely devoid of refinement." Fully realizing that the Prussian theory of government could live only by perpetuating and extending the policy of conquest successfully pursued by his Hohenzollern ancestors, he organized, against the protests of his subjects, an enormous standing army, the beginning of the modern Prussian military machine.

It would not be profitable to trace in detail the particular part played by each Hohenzollern ruler in exploiting the Prussian ideal of government. It is the proud boast of the Hohenzollern dynasty that almost every one of its members has in peace or in war added something to the extent of Prussian dominions. The rough and boorish Frederick William I, scoured all Europe in search of tall men for his armies, selling the royal jewels and turning the family table silver into money to defray the cost of building up an invincible military machine for further conquest. His son and successor disliked military pursuits, preferring the company of music and books. But he, too, realized on ascending the throne that the Prussian ideal of government could not endure apart from a policy of aggressive militarism, and skillfully employing the military machine painstaking perfected by his thrifty father, he became the all-powerful Frederick the Great, one of the most renowned military geniuses of history. Silesia was brutally wrenched from the helpless young Empress of Austria without the pretense of an excuse, and the shameful partition of Poland was successfully begun. Militarism approximately doubled the size of Prussia in the lifetime of this one man (see Figures 2 and 3).



Prussia in 1786, at the death of Frederick the Great. Silesia has been forcibly wrested from Austria, and the first seizure of Polish Territory accomplished.

The time soon came when the normal growth of the Prussian ideal of government demanded the extension of Prussian influence on an enormous scale. Thus far the Hohenzollern dominion had risen by successive acquisitions from a small province surrounding Berlin to a European power (Figure 4). It must next ascend to the position of a world power. To accomplish this two things were essential. Austria had long been a powerful rival of Prussia in the struggle for dominant influence among the smaller German states. Since the absorption of Austria was not yet possible, her influence must be destroyed by military defeat. With Austria eliminated, Prussian domination over the remaining German states must be consolidated, to the end that a great Germanic power, pledged to the support of Hohenzollernism and the Prussian ideal of government, should arise in the world. Two remarkable men undertook this colossal task. William I. of Prussia, grandfather of the present Kaiser, bent all his energies to developing the military resources of his kingdom, while Bismarck proceeded to apply his policy of blood and iron. In defiance of the Prussian parliament which refused to vote taxes for a great army, in defiance of the constitution which guaranteed to the parliament control over taxes, and in defiance of the voice of the people as expressed in the public press, the military machine was enormously strengthened. William I. and the Iron Chancellor knew that all crimes against the people's liberty would be forgotten when a war of conquest had been successfully concluded.

In the course of a few months, the Danish provinces of Schleswig and Holstein were conquered and annexed to Prussia, Austria was overwhelmingly defeated and her influence destroyed, and a number of the independent north German states which sided with Austria were brought under Prussian control. Soon after, the south German states were brought into the Prussian union for a new war of conquest, Alsace-Lorraine and a huge indemnity were extracted from prostrate France, and the Hohenzollern king of Prussia became the autocratic ruler of a great world power, the modern German Empire (Figure 5). The Prussian ideal of government was now firmly established among a great people pledged to a policy of aggressive militarism.

It is well for us to review these salient facts of Prussian history, lest we forget that from the earliest time the house of Hohenzollern has efficiently and consistently pursued a single policy which inevitably involves the maintenance of a great military machine and the periodic employment of that machine in ever-enlarging conquests of neighboring territory. He is blind indeed who would imagine that, after pursuing a given policy for five hundred years with phenomenal success, the Prussian government should today suddenly abandon that policy in favor of another which it truthfully admits would lead to the downfall of a painstakingly reared autocracy. Both the nature of the Prussian ideal of government and the facts of Prussian history assure us that Germany is today, as she has ever been in the past, struggling for world domination in order to prevent the downfall of the autocratic Hohenzollern rule.

THE MAILED FIST AT WORK.

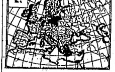
Fortunately for our clearness of vision, Germany's plans for her next step toward the goal of world domination are too plain to be doubted. They are precisely what Prussian history would lead us to expect. A petty Hohenzollern province first dominates Germany, and now the plans provide that Germany shall dominate Europe. The method of achieving the desired end is precisely the same with which history has made us so familiar. Adjacent territories are to be brought under Hohenzollern rule by the annexation of some and the federation of others into a great Central European Empire, with Germany the directing force and the Prussian military machine the invincible bond which holds them together. Let us lift the curtain for a moment and watch the mailed fist as it moves the pieces on the European chessboard in preparation for the coup of 1914.

We see the evil hand in Vienna, shaping the policy of the Dual Monarchy and gaining that ascendency over its affairs which has reduced Austria-Hungary to a state of vassalage. We observe Italy bound in unholy alliance with the historic enemy of Italian freedom. We realize that it is the mailed fist acting through Austria in the seizure of Bosnia and Herzegovina in flagrant violation of treaty pledges. We behold the Prussian war lord appearing "in shining armor" beside his obedient Austrian vassal to threaten Russia when she protests against this injury to her brother Slavs. We see Servia robbed of her hard-won port on the Adriatic and Albania erected into a make-believe kingdom under Austrian tutelage; and we recognize the old, familiar methods of the Hohenzollern. We find the mailed fist clasping in fraternal greeting the bloody hand that massacres the Armenians, the Emperor of Christian Germany becoming a brother to the unspeakable Turk, training and officering his armies, and securing from him concessions for the future Berlin to Bagdad railway. We see puppet Hohenzollern kings placed on the thrones of Bulgaria and Roumania and King Constantine of Greece married to the Kaiser's sister. We watch the meshes of German intrigue wound about the Russian government, and the mighty Slav reduced to partial impotence. By ruthless conquest and by peaceful penetration, the stage is set for the great Central European Empire, while at home the war lord prepares for the coming contest by accumulating military stores in quantities which have since astonished the world, by forcing the passage of a naval bill destined to make Germany formidable on sea as well as on land, by enlarging the Kiel Canal to permit the passage of the largest battleships, by building heavy metalled, double-tracked railways along the borders of Belgium and other peaceful neighbors, by securing a grant of $250,000,000 in special war taxes with which to raise the army to a peace footing of 700,000 men and a war footing of nearly ten million and by marshalling the voices of obedient professors and the pens of servile writers in one vast campaign of education, designed to poison the German mind with dreams of Pan-Germanic power.

At last the propitious moment is arrived, and the mailed fist pulls the strings. Austria approaches Italy with the proposition, that they unite in the conquest of Servia; but Italy refuses. A delay of some months ensues, while European diplomats struggle to avert the impending calamity. Then an Austrian prince is murdered in the capital city of conquered Bosnia. This furnishes the desired excuse for beginning the long-planned war. Vienna secretly confers with Berlin, and at the end of a month of silence suddenly astounds the civilized world by accusing the Servian government of the murder and submitting ten demands designed to be so humiliating in their nature and so insulting in their tone as to insure a prompt rejection. But unfortunately for the Hohenzollern plan Servia, on the advice of her peaceably inclined friends, accepts outright eight of the unjust demands and agrees to submit to arbitration the remaining two which seriously threaten her independence. This is most disconcerting, but the plan must not be balked. War is therefore declared on Servia despite her humiliating surrender, and the mobilization of Russia in support of Servia gives Berlin the pretext for declarations of war against Russia, France and Belgium. The work of conquering and consolidating a great Central European Empire under Prussian control is now in full swing according to the most approved Hohenzollern methods.

A WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING.

It cannot be denied that as things stand today the plans for a Prussianized Central Europe have succeeded to a remarkable degree (see Figure 6). Austria has come wholly under German domination, and is dependent upon the Prussian military machine for her very existence. Without its help, Serbs and Russians are able to defeat her at will. Her armies are but tools in the hands of German higher officers while her political administration is dominated by Berlin. Eager for peace today, she dares not ask for it till the Kaiser has given the word. Said an Austrian army officer, who had fought through the Galician campaign: "Our worst enemy is not Russia but the Prussian government. If the war is won by the Germans there will be no Austria." To an even greater degree Bulgaria and Turkey have become vassals of the Hohenzollern state, taking their orders direct from Berlin. German troops in Constantinople and German warships in the harbor hold the government of the Turk in abject servitude. The control of two thirds of Roumania has passed into German hands, the death of Germany's hand-picked puppet king having made forcible conquest necessary. Serbia has been destroyed and the main artery of the new Empire, the great Berlin to Bagdad route, is completely under German control to within a few miles of the Orient city. William II. began this war as the ruler of 68 million souls. Today he is the supreme war lord of an empire of 176 millions, strategically located in the center of Europe. As Cheradame truly says: "This is the brutal, overwhelming fact which Americans must face if they wish to learn the sole solution of the war which will assure to them, as well as to the rest of the world, a durable peace."



Prussia from 1815 to 1866, before Bismarck applied his policy of blood and iron. The Rhenish provinces, one half of Saxony, and further Polish territory have been annexed.

Realizing the vast extent of her success, and fearful that further warfare may lead to its undoing, Germany is today frantically working for peace "on very moderate terms"; even, if necessary, "without annexations or indemnities." With the war beginning to go against her, she is generously willing to surrender (for the present) all the lands conquered from Russia, Roumania, France and Belgium, and all of Servia save a narrow strip bordering the Berlin to Bagdad railway. She could restore all these and win the greatest victory in the history of Hohenzollern conquests. The blind would see only the status quo ante. Germany would see, and soon the rest of the world would see, the dream of a great Central European Germanic Empire come true (Figure 7). A real status quo ante is beyond the power of man to establish.

If there be those who, admitting the Hohenzollern policy of conquest up to and including the present war, nevertheless imagine that Germany would be willing to retire from the bloody struggle contented to let well enough alone provided her domination of Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey were unimpaired, they should remember, in the first place, that the new and vastly stronger Germany would be ruled by the same Hohenzollern dynasty as before, imbued by the same passion for conquest which for more than five hundred years had been eminently successful, and never so much as in the present struggle. Let them give heed, in the second place, to the testimony of eminent Germans concerning their own ideas of Germany's future policy. Let them read von Bissing's memorandum to his government in which as Governor General of Belgium he boldly advocates the dethronement of the Belgian royal house and the forcible annexation of the country to Germany. Let them consider the sinister import of his candid declaration that reconciliation and peaceful domination are impossible, and that possession of Belgium is absolutely essential to the success of Germany's plans for future wars against England and France. Let them listen to the intellectual leaders of Germany: to Nietzsche teaching, "Ye shall love peace as a means to new wars,—and the short peace more than the long"; to Treitschke describing war as "an ordinance set by God" and "the most powerful maker of nations"; to Bernhardi declaring, "The lesson of history confirm the view that wars which have been deliberately provoked by farseeing statesmen have had the happiest results"; and to Eucken asserting, "To us more than to any other nation is intrusted the true structure of human existence." Let them hear the revered pastors of Germany: Francke saying, "Germany is the representative of the highest morality, of the purest humanity, of the most chastened Christianity; its defeat would mean falling back to the worst barbarism"; Lehman preaching "The German soul is God's soul. It shall and will rule over mankind"; and Konig exhorting, "We must vanquish, because the downfall of Germanism would mean the downfall of humanity." Then perhaps will the thoughtless realize that the German nation, driven by a policy it cannot control, presses inevitably forward to new conquests, ever toward the goal of world dominion.

The Marvelous Jack Rabbit.

Westerners assert that the jack rabbit may be found, happy and fat, spending the day under a scrap of bush that makes little more shade than a fishnet. His skin is as porous as a piece of buckskin, and the heat is sufficient to evaporate every drop of blood in his body, yet he seems to get on very nicely.

Engineer Has Plan to Stop Floods on Mississippi River.

Would Provide Shorter Outlet to Sea by Using Atchafalaya to Carry Silt-Bearing Water.

The levee system on the Mississippi river from Cairo to the Gulf of Mexico was intended to protect the cultivated lands adjacent to the river. This system has resulted in building up the bed of the river from year to year by reason of the fact that all of the tributary streams running into the Mississippi river have greater velocity, and consequently sediment brought into the main river, whose current is slower, is deposited in the river between Cairo and the Gulf. This is the main cause of the flood line going higher each year with a given rainfall.

Now, the most practical and cheapest remedy for this is to make a shorter outlet to the sea for this vast volume of silt-bearing water, and this outlet is via the Atchafalaya river, the source of which is near the mouth of the Red river, where it empties into the Mississippi, writes M. F. Jefferdo in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The Atchafalaya river runs straight to the tidewater of the Gulf, a distance of about 100 miles, whereas, via the Mississippi river the distance from the mouth of the Red river to the Gulf is 200 miles. The fall of the Mississippi river from the mouth of the Red river to the Gulf is about one-tenth of a foot per mile; of the Atchafalaya about three-tenths of a foot to the mile.

The increase in velocity from the mouth of the Red river to the Gulf via the Atchafalaya would probably lower the grade line of high water to two-tenths of a foot per mile, which would reduce the high-water line for that point (mouth of Red river), 20 feet or more. This reduction in high-water mark would probably extend as far north as Memphis, or even Cairo; thus it can be seen that the levee as now built from Memphis to the Gulf would be of ample height and strength to give safety to the adjacent country for probably 100 years or more.

Would this improvement leave New Orleans an inland city? No. For the slowing down of the velocity of the water in the Mississippi from the mouth of the Red river to the Gulf via the old channels would result in all the sediment being carried to sea via the Atchafalaya, leaving the old channel a clear-water channel, which could be maintained at all times by a little dredging such as is necessary now at the jetties. The railroads entering New Orleans could then bridge the Mississippi river there and would profit in the long run by obviating the flooding of their tracks.

The jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi could be dredged to a depth of 40 to 50 feet and remain so, for no sediment would be going out that way to fill them up. The high-water line at New Orleans would hardly exceed ten feet above low water.

The low-water line at New Orleans being only one foot above sea level, with a depth of 50 to 60 feet of water, is can be seen that not only would New Orleans be secure from floods in the future, but that the largest vessels in the world could enter its harbor.

The Mississippi river, from the jetties to the mouth of the Red river, would be a canal, navigable at all times, with a little dredging, perhaps, between Baton Rouge and the Red river, and all that rich country on either side of the river from the mouth of the Red river to the Gulf would be absolutely secure from floods.

Some Cow!

"She's an awf'ly good cow. Our children think the world of her. You'll like her immensely."

"And how much milk does she give?"

"Don't know exactly, but she's a nice cow—first class."

"Well, you must have some idea—does she give a gallon at a milking?"

"Never kept very much track."

"But you have a rough notion about it. Does she give as much as half a gallon a day?"

"Couldn't say definitely. She's an awf'ly good, kind old cow, though. If she's got any milk she'll give it to you."—Exchange.

Paddy Was Sore.

'Twas somewhere in France, and the trenches looked like some river not on the map. Paddy was on guard in the communication trenches and was up to his chest in water. Along came a Tommy, who inquired of Paddy if he would direct him to A Company in the First Blankshires. Paddy's temper was not the best, for he had had a long, weary guard, and was not in form for being questioned.

"Holy smoke!" he replied, viewing his surroundings. "Chuck it! I'm not a bloomin' harbor master!"

Appreciate the Honors.

Some of the French soldier-policemen, veterans of the Marne, of the Yser and of Verdun, have made their appearance in the streets of Paris, after having done their share at making war, and they are showing themselves quite capable of doing their bit in the keeping of the peace, says a Paris correspondent. All are more or less decorated with the war crosses, military medals or other ribbons. The ribbons and chevrons seem to have a great calming influence upon turbulent spirits.

VICTORY THROUGH GOOD TEAM WORK

Local basket ball enthusiasts were given a real treat last Friday evening when the high school boys defeated the Stephen representatives by a score of 42 to 10 and the Junior girls won from the Senor young ladies by a score of 7 to 4. And the aforementioned enthusiasts were out in full force the attendance being the largest on record for an intercollegiate game.

The inter-class contest between the girls was staged as a curtain raiser, and had no other game been scheduled the fans would have been satisfied. The first half ended with the score 5 to 1 in favor of the 1919 class, but in the second period the '18 girls came back stronger and scored three more points, while their opponents were unable to record more than two points, both on free throws.

The big game of the evening was a whirl-wind set-to, the play being fast and furious—and remarkable as well, on account of the clean manner in which it was carried on. In the first half Stephen scored twice on free throws and once on a clean shot, while the locals secured nine baskets from difficult angles and following sensational spurts. In the second half the home boys played a still more furious game, making a total of twelve baskets while the visitors scored on one basket and four free throws.

There were no individual stars in the home team, every member playing like a professional. The team work was exceptionally good and if maintained throughout the season will bring the local team the district honors and the opportunity to represent this section in the interscholastic contests for state honors held annually at Carlton College, Northfield. During the last few minutes of the game Coach Roberts sent in a number of substitutes and the scoring continued as steadily as when the regular team men were engaged in the contest.

M. L. Swanson refereed the contest in a highly satisfactory manner, and there was not a single protest against any of his decisions. During the game the Junior girls served ice cream, netting a tidy sum for their class treasury.

ESSAY CONTEST AT FARM CROP SHOW

PENNINGTON COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS INVITED TO ENTER COMPETITION

County Superintendent of Schools E. A. Mostue wishes to see the schools under his supervision represented in the boys' and girls' essay contests to be held in connection with the farm crops show at Crookston next month. The subject assigned is "Patriotic Service That the Schools May Render to Our Country," and the following are some of the prizes:

Grand Sweepstakes Prize—One six months' scholarship, value $75, donated by the Crookston College, J. C. Sathre, president.

Girls' Sweepstakes Prize—Sterling silver toilet set, value $20, donated by Lanctot & Burkhardt, manufacturing jewelers, Crookston.

Five dollars in cash to one student in each county, writing the best essay.

To one boy in each county, writing the best essay, one year's subscription to American Boy Magazine.

To one girl in each county, writing the best essay, one year's subscription to Girl's Companion.

All essays must be in the hands of the committee not later than Thursday, Feb. 7, 1918.

Subject matter for essays may consist of work in connection with Boys' and Girls' clubs, such as home project work, activities of Little Citizens' leagues, Junior Red Cross work, Civilian Relief, Food Conservation, patriotic school exercises, accounts of practical work along these lines already accomplished, accounts of organization of active Boys' or Girls' clubs, and any other activities in which schools or school children may be of service to our country. Subject matter may not be in the form of an outline merely, but each suggestion must be followed by an explanation of its practical value.

Essays will be judged on the following basis: Subject matter, 75 per cent; neatness, 15 per cent; conformity to rules, 10 per cent.

The contest is open to pupils enrolled in the grades of the schools in the counties included in the Minnesota Red River Valley Development association.

Supt. Mostue invites any boy or girl who contemplates entering the contest to write or apply to him for further information concerning the rules.

Silverton Cong. Ladies' Aid.

On Wednesday, Jan. 9, the above named aid society met with Mr. and Mrs. Syvert Hanson of Silverton.

A representative of the Red Cross Society, Scott Laird of the Pennington County Red Cross, brought the matter of organizing a branch up before the society. The speaker outlined the work of the mose useful charity organization, in his opinion, to his interested hearers. Among other things he mentioned that the patriotism of the farmers was by a few people considered doubtful, as the farmer was not always ready with an open pocketbook to donate or subscribe to all loyalty donations appearing at the present time.

Upon the close of the remarks of this farmers' representative, Rev. I. T. Aastad gave a stirring address regarding the work of the Red Cross and strongly pointed out to his hearers and members of his church the necessity of aiding the movement.

Rev. Aastad's address, together with the charge of doubtful patriotism, resulted in a contribution by everyone present with the exception of a few who had contributed before to said cause.

Rev. Aastad also assured the Red Cross representative that he would permit him to present it to the congregation in general at one of the services or any other time he may see fit.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bergren, $1; Mr. and Mrs. Syvert Hanson, $1; Mr. and Mrs. Knute Loyland, $1; Mr. and Mrs. Engebret Nelson, $1; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson, $1; Mr. and Mrs. John Sundt $1; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Gunderson, $2; Mrs. M. J. Berg, $1

These were the only persons present at the meeting who had not previously contributed. It is the farmer representative's aim to reach everyone in the town of Silverton and have him remove that non-patriotic charge.

Now, fellow farmers, what do you think of the generosity of Mr. Henry Hanson? Last year he donated the proceeds of one-half acre of land to the Red Cross Society. Now he again remembered them with a dollar. He has no son or relative serving in this war and is not moved by that to donate. What's the matter if the rest of us farmers give the Red Cross the proceeds of one-half bushel of wheat at least if we cannot afford the proceeds off one-half acre of land? It's a worthy cause, fellow farmers, to ourselves and to our children, as well as to soldiers and poverty stricken, and everyone else. If any calamity befalls a locality, whether at home or abroad, who do you find there first but the Red Cross? Therefore, extend a helping hand, ready with your contribution, if not your person to aid the greatest of all charitable causes—the American Red Cross.

A Patriotic Farmer.

FARM BUREAU IN RED LAKE COUNTY

ED. ENRIGHT MADE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN AND 112 MEMBERS ARE SECURED

A representative meeting of Red Lake county farmers was held at the court house last Tuesday afternoon to perfect the Red Lake County Farm bureau organization. The county commissioners recently assured the temporary organization that an appropriation of $1,000 each year for two years would be granted in Red Lake county provided that 100 farm bureau members were secured for the next two years paying $2 each as membership fees.

The committee appointed at the meeting reported Tuesday that 112 members had already been secured and voted to continue the membership campaign until all the farmers in the county are interviewed. Temporary Chairman Ed. Enright conducted the meeting, with W. P. Schrepel as temporary secretary. Nine directors were elected for a term of one year, the directors to serve as a committee to draw up the by-laws of the organization for ratification at the next meeting of the organization. The directors will elect their own officers.

IS DE LAVAL
Service Day at Our Store

For the benefit of all users of De Laval Cream Separators we have established a DE LAVAL SERVICE DAY to be held annually.

On these dates we shall be glad to have any De Laval user bring his separator to our Store for a complete and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made Free of Charge. Should any parts, due to usual wear, or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used.

The De Laval Service man will be with us to have charge of this work. Bring in your separator and receive the benefit of his advice on the care and operation of your machine, as well as the Free Service. It is our wish, and that of the DeLaval Company, that every user of a De Laval Separator get the maximum of efficiency at the minimum of cost.

No expert is required to keep a De Laval in repair. A little care with the use of De Laval Separator Oil will keep it running satisfactorily for years if adjustments are made when needed.

J. F. T. O'CONNOR
of Grand Forks

Those attending the various sessions of the recent State and Red River Valley Dairymen's convention in this city were more than pleased with the excellent address delivered by Mr. O'Connor. The speaker is very well known throughout North Dakota and has even a wider reputation, having been called upon to deliver his patriotic talks in many cities.

Mr. O'Connor spoke last Wednesday evening, following the banquet which was tendered the delegates in the Catholic church. From start to finish he held the attention of his audience and time after time made statements that deeply impressed everyone with the necessity of upholding the government in its gigantic task of bringing democracy to the world.

Patriotism was the keynote of the evening and many people who have been somewhat dubious as to the right of this country to be in the present world conflict went away from the meeting well convinced that we had not only a right to be at war but that it was our duty, and the duty of every citizen, to do all they can to bring the war to a successful and early close.

CREAMERY LEASED TO BUTTERMAKER

HIGHLANDING PLANT FAILS TO SHOW A PROFIT DURING THE PAST YEAR

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Highlanding Creamery association it was voted to lease the plant to Buttermaker Geo. Nereson for the ensuing year. Mr. Nereson will not operate the creamery this winter but will open in the spring with the intention of making a strong bid for the product of the dairymen of his section. The annual report of the secretary showed that while the institution had about broken even there was nothing in the way of a profit to divide among the shareholders.

During the discussion it was disclosed that quite a lot of milk and cream from the eastern section of the county had been shipped to the creamery at Thief River Falls, where a considerably better price was paid. It was thought that by leasing the plant to one man that running expenses might be cut to a point that would permit of a better return to patrons and in this manner insure the cream being sent to the home creamery.

A proposition to close the plant entirely and convert it into a shipping station was voted down.

PROMOTING GENIUS BELONGS NOT TO US

THIS CITY IS NOT HOME OF ENERGETIC YOUNG MAN UNDER ARREST

Thief River Falls has had its share of promoters of one kind and another during the past year or two, but it is not the home of every genius of this class who manages to get himself into trouble. Postmaster Morgan says he knows nothing of the party mentioned in the following story, which appears in the Grand Forks Herald, and thinks we are being given credit which belongs elsewhere. The story appears as a telegram from Duluth and is as follows:

"Earl Hall 20 years old, of Thief River Falls, Minn., was indicted Saturday by the grand jury on a charge of misusing the United States mails. He supplied bail and is at liberty.

"According to evidence advanced, Hall started an enterprise known as the National Directory company, the purpose being to publish a directory containing names of all willing to pay 25 cents for the service. Agencies were established throughout the country, the agent paying $1 for instructions in securing names after which he retains $12.50 on each 100 collections made.

"After getting the business well started, Hall, it is said, went to Minneapolis to open an office, having his mail forwarded. Replies came in by the hundreds and were sent on to Minneapolis but as the letters continued to arrive, the Thief River Falls postmaster caused an investigation to be made which resulted in the finding of 2,500 letters for the concern in the Thief River Falls postoffice, but no signs of a directory being published. Proceedings were then started."

IT'S TIME TO SHOW UNCLE SAM!

ASKS AID TOWARDS REGIMENTAL FUND

PENNINGTON COUNTY PEOPLE ARE BEHIND IN THIS IMPORTANT MATTER.

There are so many things for which money is being collected at this time that it is not in the least surprising that even one of the important matters should be overlooked. The campaign for company funds to be used for the benefit of the boys of the 352nd infantry regiment, to which most of those who have gone from this section belong, will close on February first and Pennington county has not yet responded with the enthusiasm desirable under the circumstances. The chairman of the local committee in charge of this work, Theodore Quale, reports that so far he has received but few contributions and unless something is done quickly there is grave danger that the community will not loom up particularly strong in comparison with some of the others. Maj. H. A. Mayer, who is chairman of the committee in charge of this matter at Camp Dodge, urges Mr. Quale to send in the contributions he may have received for tabulation before Feb. 1, as the campaign will close on that date. There is as yet not much to send in and Mr. Quale urges those who would aid in this worthy cause to do so at once in order that he may close up the matter and make his remittance. Other communities have recognized the importance of the work and have contributed liberally. Pennington county is as much interested as any and should not be the lowest on the list.

PLACE NO LIMIT ON GOVERNMENT BONDS

SUPREME COURT HOLDS LAW WAS NOT INTENDED TO CURTAIL HOLDINGS

The Minnesota supreme court last week handed down a decision of much importance to every bank operating under a state charter. The title of the action is M. E. Trumer vs. South Side State bank, and was brought by the former for the purpose of compelling the corporation to dispose of sufficient of the Liberty Bonds held by it to bring the total within the limit of fifteen per cent of the capital and surplus permitted by law to be loaned to any one person or corporation. The bank held that this did not apply to government bonds and Mr. Trumer brought suit to test the matter.

The opinion was written by Justice Bunn and the contention of the bank upheld in the following language:

"When we consider the evil which it was the object of the legislature to remedy, and the fact that the bonds of the United States are recognized by our statutes and by everybody as the very safest investments, we have no hesitation whatever in deciding that the legislature did not intend by the provisions quoted to limit the amount of the United States bonds that a state bank might purchase or hold. We do not consider the point doubtful enough to demand further discussion or to require reference to the decided cases. They are readily available, and are all in accord with the view we take. It is unnecessary to consider any other question."

MOTOR MECHANICS NEEDED IN FRANCE

AUTO REPAIR MEN ARE GIVEN CHANCE TO WORK AT THEIR TRADE IN ARMY

Scott Laird, secretary of the local auto club, has been appointed a duly authorized agent of the U. S. Public Service Reserve of the Department of Labor for the purpose of assisting in the movement to secure motor mechanics for service in France, in connection with the upkeep and repair of aeroplanes. This information was conveyed to Mr. Laird in a letter from the American Automobile association, of which the local club is a member.

It is desired to enlist two regiments before February 1 and as the time is short the Labor Department has appealed to auto mechanics and auto owners and also to all members of auto clubs to assist the movement, with the hope that good mechanics can be secured from many localities.

Accordingly Mr. Laird would like to get in touch with any automobile mechanic who is desirous of giving his services to his country at this time. However, such persons must be men between the ages of 18 to 21, inclusive, and 31 to 40, inclusive.

Traveling men making the smaller towns of this section and knowing or hearing of mechanics in those towns who would like to enlist should have these write Mr. Laird at once so that he may send them to the proper recruiting officers.

Quite Common Failing.

"De only bit some men does," said Uncle Eben, "is to talk a little bit, remindin' others to do their bit."

AUTOS TO RELIEVE RAILWAY PRESSURE

URGED THAT CARS BE MORE EXTENSIVELY USED IN TRANSPORTATION

"President Wilson's message to congress setting forth his reasons for mobilizing the railroads under government control inferentially imposes upon automobile users and manufacturers the need to co-operate voluntarily with the spirit of the message of mobilizing the automobile strength through individual initiative," says J. N. Gunn, president of the United States Tire company.

"Several weeks ago Colonel Samuel P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber company, in an interview, urged automobile owners of both passenger and commercial cars to use their cars more and more to relieve the transportation pressure on the nation's railroads and merchants' delivery service. Other leaders in the country's business not alone those in the automobile industry, have since urged that this advice be followed. It has met with unanimous approval.

"Individual economy should be practiced to the end that no wastage shall result. It is not necessary to assume that national economy means curtailing the use of automobiles.

"The natural function of the automobile, both passenger and commercial, is the transportation of man and merchandise for short hauls. If this is realized a tremendous amount of railroad mileage may be diverted from short hauls to long hauls and just that much pressure on the railroads' transportation facilities relieved.

"National economy means readjustments, but not necessarily curtailment of the markets for commercial and passenger automobiles. Nor will it reduce the use of automobile tires or other accessories necessary to the efficient operation of the motor car.

"The national need calls for constructive economy in the operation of automobiles, but not in unthinking curtailment.

"It is my firm belief that, when we have satisfactorily ended this war, the automobile and kindred industries will find a market for all the goods that they can produce. Many concerns are being called upon by the government for war products. This will spur these manufacturers on to the use of their remaining facilities in even greater efficiency than has ever been known before, so that during and after the war all of their facilities will be required."

SOLD NEAR 7,000,000 RED CROSS SEALS

STATE REPORT SHOWS THAT RURAL SCHOOLS DID EXCEPTIONALLY WELL

The sale of Red Cross Seals in Minnesota passed the 6,000,000 mark and may reach 7,000,000. This is indicated by a preliminary report to the National headquarters by the Minnesota Public Health association, State Red Cross Seal manager.

The report reads in part as follows: "Total seals reported sold exceeds 6,000,000 but several local managers have failed to report. We hope to have all delayed reports in by Februry 1, when total may exceed 7,000,000.

"Rural schools did exceptionally well this year. However, many of them have failed to make reports as yet. In some counties over half of the teachers are tardy with their reports. Five-hundred seals were sent each teacher but many of them requested much larger amounts. If the teachers who are late with their reports sell as many seals as the ones who have already reported, the total sale will press the 7,000,000 mark."

enables the housewife to save butter, lard, suet—and give her family the best of foods

"THE proof of the pudding is in the eating"—and the proof of Mazola is in the cooking.

Mazola is not only the perfect medium for deep frying, sautéing, shortening and salad dressings—it is the perfect vegetable oil—produced from golden American corn.

Food Administrator Hoover asks us to use vegetable oils.

Mazola has not been established in a day. It has taken months of trial on the part of housewives who at first were reluctant to give up butter, lard or compounds.

If you are not already numbered among the thousands of Mazola users, get a can of Mazola and try this recipe.

BREAKFAST MUFFINS
2 cups flour
4 level teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 full tablespoon Mazola

Sift dry ingredients together, being sure they are thoroughly mixed. Beat the egg, add it to the milk and turn it into the bowl containing the dry ingredients. Add the Mazola and cut all together very quickly. Do not beat. Turn into muffin pans greased with Mazola, and bake in a moderately hot oven about 25 minutes.

Mazola can be obtained from your grocer. Pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins—for greatest economy buy the large sizes. Also ask him for the free Mazola Book of Recipes—or write us direct.

Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

OPERATING SALOON COSTS MUCH MONEY

RED LAKE FALLS CONTRIBUTES $30,000 TOWARD GOVERNMENT REVENUE

It costs money to operate saloons these times. The retail liquor houses of Red Lake Falls have contributed $29,100 to the revenues of the federal government under the new war tax, this amount being paid by seven institutions as follows: Consumers' Supply company, $7,900; J. E. Savard, $6,400; Dan Champeau, $4,300; W. H. Krueger, $3,600; John Deutschman, $3300; E. E. Miller, $2,300, and Lattendresse Brothers, $1,00. According to Elmer W. Simonson, manager of the Consumers' Supply company, over $2,250,000,000 has been raised in the United States by the new revenue tax on liquor. The local liquor dealers' association has accomplished a great deal in curtailing the blind pig business, and Val H. Dettling, the executive agent of the association, has been largely responsible.

FOOD CONSERVATION

Sensible Recipes.

The following letter and recipes are herewith called to the attention of all housekeepers by the domestic science deartment of the local high school. This department is constantly following all suggestions of the state and federal food authorities, and all the cooking classes are receiving instructions along the lines suggested by these authorities. The subjoined information from the state food administrator is a patriotic call which is of more than ordinary importance just at this time.

Recipes For Use of Barley Flour.

Barley Yeast Bread—3 cups liquid (milk and water), 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1½ tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 cake yeast, compressed or dried, softened in some of this liquid, 3½ cups barley flour, 7 cups wheat flour.

In using compressed yeast, soften the yeast in some of the liquid. Combine the ingredients as for wheat bread. Mix into a dough. Knead and let rise to double its original bulk. Knead and put into pans. When again double in bulk, bake about 45 minutes.

In using dried yeast, make sponge over night with one cake of dried yeast, the liquid, and part of the flour. In the morning mix into a dough with the remainder of the flour and knead. Let rise to double its original bulk. Knead again and put into pans. When again double in bulk bake about 45 minutes.

Baking Powder Biscuit—3 cups of barley flour or 1½ cups white flour and 1½ cups barley, 1 cup liquid, 4½ tablespoons fat, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cake—1½ cups sugar, ½ cup fat, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 7-8 cup barley flour, 1 2-3 cups white flour.

Note: If pastry flour is used, use 1 cup barley flour and 2 cups pastry flour. In dark cakes, molasses, spice or chocolate, as high as one-half barley flour may be used.

Ginger.

Ginger was well known in England even before the Norman conquest, being often referred to in the Anglo-Saxon manuscripts of the eleventh century. It was very common in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, ranking next in value to pepper.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

Croup
"I don't think there is a more anxious time for parents than when their children have croup. Without they are prepared with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy they must wait for the doctor and listen to the choking, metallic cough and watch their little one gasping for breath.
"Granny" Chamberlain
You know the great danger of croup is the formation of a false membrane in the larynx, and until this is expelled relief cannot be obtained, and the spasmodic choking continues. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in frequent doses. It will loosen this membrane and cause the child to expel it by vomiting.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy
is an absolutely safe and certain remedy for croup, and if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack."

Friday.

The Rosewood Farmers club held its 23rd general meeting at Rosebank this evening and the attendance was about 75. The meeting was opened by Pres. Kromer at 8:25 and the song, "America" was sung by the audience, with organ accompaniment by Miss Ebba Walbeck of Anita. President Kromer and O. J. Dahl jointly introduced the proposition of purchasing fodder and Northwestern dent corn jointly by the members of the club, and the secretary was instructed to write for prices in 100-bushel lots. Mr. Dahl also suggested that hereafter the club meetings be divided and that the young people have their meetings as before, once a month and with program, lunch and amusements, while the "heads of the families" also have a meeting each month, and that shall be devoted strictly to business. This will allow more time for the thorough discussion of farm problems, for sale and wanted articles, better farm principles and methods, stock raising, dairying, etc. All members were interested in this change and it was resolved to try it out.

A letter had been received from the Portland Cement company offering lantern slides showing what can be constructed with cement on the farm, and it was advised that we try to secure the use of this outfit at a future meeting. The proposed change of the Minnesota grain grade standards that were adopted by the wheat section delegates at the Farm, Stock & Home office at Minneapolis last December were read to the audience.

In connection with the next meeting it was voted to have a basket party for the benefit of the Red Cross, and this will be held on Saturday evening, Feb. 2, at the Rosewood hall. No program will be given at this meeting, but lunch will be sold to those not securing baskets.

The meeting adjourned at 9:50, a fine lunch was served by Alex Hellquist and Emil Anderson, and the floor was left to the young folks for games.

Mrs. Felix Arlington returned after a stay at Thief River Falls.

Rudolph Sagmoen is spending the week-end with his brother at Anita.

NEW CREAMERY AT PLUMMER PLANNED

BUSINESS OF PAST YEAR MADE A TOTAL OF $57,000—PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

The Emardville Creamery association, at its annual meeting held last week in Plummer, decided to commence the erection of a new creamery plant in the spring. The layout will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000, and is to be strictly modern in every respect. The annual report of the secretary-treasurer showed that the total business for the year amounted to $57,606.50, an increase over the previous year of $5,706.95.

L. J. Houske, state dairy inspector for this district, gave an interesting talk to the members on creamery work, as did also Mr. Mortenson, state buttermaker at the state creamery at Albert Lea, Minn. Mr. Mortenson explained just why the building of a new creamery was a purely business proposition. He also strongly advised that the building be built as near to the center of town as possible in order to eliminate the possibility of some of the centralizers putting in a buying station here.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: David Haugan, president; Nels Hanson, vice president; A. J. Hemsted, secretary-treasurer. Besides these the following were chosen as members of the board of directors: John Greenwald, Anton Lee and Carl Sorenson.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF STOCK SHIPPERS

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO REVIVE INTEREST IN THE ORGANIZATION

The annual meeting of the Thief River Stock Shippers association will be held at the Commercial-club rooms in this city next Saturday afternoon. Plans for the coming year will be discussed and officers elected. It is desired that every member be present as matters of much importance to the organization will be taken up.

The stock shipping association has not been very active during the past year. In fact not a single shipment has been made under its supervision. It will be the aim to again bring the organization into active operation as the results during the first year of its existence demonstrated that there is a wide field for its activities in this section. No one seems to know just why the joint shipping plan was dropped but interest in it seems to have suddenly died out. The intention is to again revive it if this is possible. In case there is no hope of accomplishing this it is likely that the association will be disbanded as there is no value in its maintenance unless the purposes for which it was organized are carried out.

H. D. Dublin of this city spent last Saturday at Crookston on business.

PROMOTING GENIUS BELONGS NOT TO US

Thief River Falls has had its share of promoters of one kind and another during the past year or two, but it is not the home of every genius of this class who manages to get himself into trouble. Postmaster Morgan says he knows nothing of the party mentioned in the following story, which appears in the Grand Forks Herald, and thinks we are being given credit which belongs elsewhere. The story appears as a telegram from Duluth and is as follows:

"Earl Hall 20 years old, of Thief River Falls, Minn., was indicted Saturday by the grand jury on a charge of misusing the United States mails. He supplied bail and is at liberty.

"According to evidence advanced, Hall started an enterprise known as the National Directory company, the purpose being to publish a directory containing names of all willing to pay 25 cents for the service. Agencies were established throughout the country, the agent paying $1 for instructions in securing names after which he retains $12.50 on each 100 collections made.

"After getting the business well started, Hall, it is said, went to Minneapolis to open an office, having his mail forwarded. Replies came in by the hundreds and were sent on to Minneapolis but as the letters continued to arrive, the Thief River Falls postmaster caused an investigation to be made which resulted in the finding of 2,500 letters for the concern in the Thief River Falls postoffice, but no signs of a directory being published. Proceedings were then started."

ASKS AID TOWARDS REGIMENTAL FUND

PENNINGTON COUNTY PEOPLE ARE BEHIND IN THIS IMPORTANT MATTER.

There are so many things for which money is being collected at this time that it is not in the least surprising that even one of the important matters should be overlooked. The campaign for company funds to be used for the benefit of the boys of the 352nd infantry regiment, to which most of those who have gone from this section belong, will close on February first and Pennington county has not yet responded with the enthusiasm desirable under the circumstances. The chairman of the local committee in charge of this work, Theodore Quale, reports that so far he has received but few contributions and unless something is done quickly there is grave danger that the community will not loom up particularly strong in comparison with some of the others. Maj. H. A. Mayer, who is chairman of the committee in charge of this matter at Camp Dodge, urges Mr. Quale to send in the contributions he may have received for tabulation before Feb. 1, as the campaign will close on that date. There is as yet not much to send in and Mr. Quale urges those who would aid in this worthy cause to do so at once in order that he may close up the matter and make his remittance. Other communities have recognized the importance of the work and have contributed liberally. Pennington county is as much interested as any and should not be the lowest on the list.

PLACE NO LIMIT ON GOVERNMENT BONDS

SUPREME COURT HOLDS LAW WAS NOT INTENDED TO CURTAIL HOLDINGS

The Minnesota supreme court last week handed down a decision of much importance to every bank operating under a state charter. The title of the action is M. E. Trumer vs. South Side State bank, and was brought by the former for the purpose of compelling the corporation to dispose of sufficient of the Liberty Bonds held by it to bring the total within the limit of fifteen per cent of the capital and surplus permitted by law to be loaned to any one person or corporation. The bank held that this did not apply to government bonds and Mr. Trumer brought suit to test the matter.

The opinion was written by Justice Bunn and the contention of the bank upheld in the following language:

"When we consider the evil which it was the object of the legislature to remedy, and the fact that the bonds of the United States are recognized by our statutes and by everybody as the very safest investments, we have no hesitation whatever in deciding that the legislature did not intend by the provisions quoted to limit the amount of the United States bonds that a state bank might purchase or hold. We do not consider the point doubtful enough to demand further discussion or to require reference to the decided cases. They are readily available, and are all in accord with the view we take. It is unnecessary to consider any other question."

MOTOR MECHANICS

AUTOS TO RELIEVE RAILWAY PRESSURE

URGED THAT CARS BE MORE EXTENSIVELY USED IN TRANSPORTATION

"President Wilson's message to congress setting forth his reasons for mobilizing the railroads under government control inferentially imposes upon automobile users and manufacturers the need to co-operate voluntarily with the spirit of the message of mobilizing the automobile strength through individual initiative," says J. N. Gunn, president of the United States Tire company.

"Several weeks ago Colonel Samuel P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber company, in an interview, urged automobile owners of both passenger and commercial cars to use their cars more and more to relieve the transportation pressure on the nation's railroads and merchants' delivery service. Other leaders in the country's business not alone those in the automobile industry, have since urged that this advice be followed. It has met with unanimous approval.

"Individual economy should be practiced to the end that no wastage shall result. It is not necessary to assume that national economy means curtailing the use of automobiles.

"The natural function of the automobile, both passenger and commercial, is the transportation of man and merchandise for short hauls. If this is realized a tremedous amount of railroad mileage may be diverted from short hauls to long hauls and just that much pressure on the railroads' transportation facilities relieved.

"National economy means readjustments, but not necessarily curtailment of the markets for commercial and passenger automobiles. Nor will it reduce the use of automobile tires or other accessories necessary to the efficient operation of the motor car.

"The national need calls for constructive economy in the operation of automobiles, but not in unthinking curtailment.

"It is my firm belief that, when we have satisfactorily ended this war, the automobile and kindred industries will find a market for all the goods that they can produce. Many concerns are being called upon by the government for war products. This will spur these manufacturers on to the use of their remaining facilities in even greater efficiency than has ever been known before, so that during and after the war all of their facilities will be required."

STATE REPORT SHOWS THAT RURAL SCHOOLS DID EXCEPTIONALLY WELL

The sale of Red Cross Seals in Minnesota passed the 6,000,000 mark and may reach 7,000,000. This is indicated by a preliminary report to the National headquarters by the Minnesota Public Health association, State Red Cross Seal manager.

The report reads in part as follows: "Total seals reported sold exceeds 6,000,000 but several local managers have failed to report. We hope to have all delayed reports in by enables the housewife to save butter, lard, suet—and give her family the best of foods

"THE proof of the pudding is in the eating"—and the proof of Mazola is in the cooking.

Mazola is not only the perfect medium for deep frying, sautéing, shortening and salad dressings—it is the perfect vegetable oil—produced from golden American corn.

Food Administrator Hoover asks us to use vegetable oils.

Mazola has not been established in a day. It has taken months of trial on the part of housewives who at first were reluctant to give up butter, lard or compounds.

If you are not already numbered among the thousands of Mazola users, get a can of Mazola and try this recipe.

BREAKFAST MUFFINS

2 cups flour
4 level teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 full tablespoon Mazola

Sift dry ingredients together, being sure they are thoroughly mixed. Beat the egg, add it to the milk and turn it into the bowl containing the dry ingredients. Add the Mazola and cut all together very quickly. Do not beat. Turn into muffin pans greased with Mazola, and bake in a moderately hot oven about 25 minutes.

Mazola can be obtained from your grocer. Pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins—for greatest economy buy the large sizes. Also ask him for the free Mazola Book of Recipes—or write us direct.

Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

OPERATING SALOON COSTS MUCH MONEY

RED LAKE FALLS CONTRIBUTES $30,000 TOWARD GOVERNMENT REVENUE

It costs money to operate saloons these times. The retail liquor houses of Red Lake Falls have contributed $29,100 to the revenues of the federal government under the new war tax, this amount being paid by seven institutions as follows: Consumers' Supply company, $7,900; J. E. Savard, $6,400; Dan Champeau, $4,300; W. H. Krueger, $3,600; John Deutschman, $3300; E. E. Miller, $2,300, and Lattendresse Brothers, $1,00. According to Elmer W. Simonson, manager of the Consumers' Supply company, over $2,250,000,000 has been raised in the United States by the new revenue tax on liquor. The local liquor dealers' association has accomplished a great deal in curtailing the blind pig business, and Val H. Dettling, the executive agent of the association, has been largely responsible.

FOOD CONSERVATION

Sensible Recipes.

The following letter and recipes are herewith called to the attention of all housekeepers by the domestic science deartment of the local high school. This department is constantly following all suggestions of the state and federal food authorities, and all the cooking classes are receiving instructions along the lines suggested by these authorities. The subjoined information from the state food administrator is a patriotic call which is of more than ordinary importance just at this time.

Recipes For Use of Barley Flour.

Barley Yeast Bread—3 cups liquid (milk and water), 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1½ tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 cake yeast, compressed or dried, softened in some of this liquid, 3½ cups barley flour, 7 cups wheat flour.

In using compressed yeast, soften the yeast in some of the liquid. Combine the ingredients as for wheat bread. Mix into a dough. Knead and let rise to double its original bulk. Knead and put into pans. When again double in bulk, bake about 45 minutes.

In using dried yeast, make sponge over night with one cake of dried yeast, the liquid, and part of the flour. In the morning mix into a dough with the remainder of the flour and knead. Let rise to double its original bulk. Knead again and put into pans. When again double in bulk bake about 45 minutes.

Baking Powder Biscuit—3 cups of barley flour or 1½ cups white flour and 1½ cups barley, 1 cup liquid, 4½ tablespoons fat, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cake—1½ cups sugar, ½ cup fat, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 7-8 cup barley flour, 1 2-3 cups white flour.

Note: If pastry flour is used, use 1 cup barley flour and 2 cups pastry flour. In dark cakes, molasses, spice or chocolate, as high as one-half barley flour may be used.

Ginger.

Ginger was well known in England even before the Norman conquest, being often referred to in the Anglo-Saxon manuscripts of the eleventh century. It was very common in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, ranking next in value to pepper.

Miss Clara Nelson went to Thief River Falls in the evening to resume her dressmaking work.

Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Haugen went to Thief River Falls this evening on a visit.

Gust Opseth left for Thief River Falls today to order railroad cars for his wood shipping. Mr. Opseth, Benhard Ranum, R. Skinner and the Blom boys have been busy all week hauling green pole wood to town to be cut up into three-foot lengths and loaded on cars ready for shipment to consumers both in Pennington county and the western part of Marshall county.

John Remmem of the Bargain store went to Thief River Falls in the evening to attend the O. W. Carlson sale.

Tuesday.

Minnie Bergland returned this morning after having visited at Thief River Falls for several days.

Dave Mosbeck, who has been employed at ice hauling at Thief River Falls of late, arrived home this morning and will, in company with his brother, Victor, enter upon a cordwood chopping contract on the former Remmem farm out west.

The following went to Thief River Falls this evening to attend the dairymen's and Non-Partisan meetings: O. J. Dahl, Jalmer Rafteseth, Elmer Rye and I. M. Westby.

O. Lappegaard went to Thief River after a ton of coal for Carlson & Sagmoen.

Wednesday.

The west bound passenger was delayed about twenty minutes today on account of trouble with the air brake.

Helmer Carlson left this evening on an extended trip to Vancouver, B. C., Seattle, Spokane, Portland, and Butte and expects to be absent for about two months. His principal visit will be with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Norwick, at Seattle.

Mr. Jopprud is home to spend the remainder of the winter with the home folks.

Mrs. Helmer Ostrom of Thief River Falls was a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Sagmoen, and her mother, Mrs. Eva Carlson, during the day.

Mrs. Nina Anderson entertained the Swedish Ladies' Aid at her home this afternoon and the Young People's Society in the evening. Both meetings were well attended.

Benhard Ranum and Ray Skinner have accepted a cordwood chopping contract on the former Setnes farm east of town.

Friday.

The Rosewood Farmers club held its 23rd general meeting at Rosebank this evening and the attendance was about 75. The meeting was opened by Pres. Kromer at 8:25 and the song, "America" was sung by the audience, with organ accompaniment by Miss Ebba Walbeck of Anita. President Kromer and O. J. Dahl jointly introduced the proposition of purchasing fodder and Northwestern dent corn jointly by the members of the club, and the secretary was instructed to write for prices in 100-bushel lots. Mr. Dahl also suggested that hereafter the club meetings be divided and that the young people have their meetings as before, once a month and with program, lunch and amusements, while the "heads of the families" also have a meeting each month, and that shall be devoted strictly to business. This will allow more time for the thorough discussion of farm problems, for sale and wanted articles, better farm principles and methods, stock raising, dairying, etc. All members were interested in this change and it was resolved to try it out.

A letter had been received from the Portland Cement company offering lantern slides showing what can be constructed with cement on the farm, and it was advised that we try to secure the use of this outfit at a future meeting. The proposed change of the Minnesota grain grade standards that were adopted by the wheat section delegates at the Farm, Stock & Home office at Minneapolis last December were read to the audience.

In connection with the next meeting it was voted to have a basket party for the benefit of the Red Cross, and this will be held on Saturday evening, Feb. 2, at the Rosewood hall. No program will be given at this meeting, but lunch will be sold to those not securing baskets.

The meeting adjourned at 9:50, a fine lunch was served by Alex Hellquist and Emil Anderson, and the floor was left to the young folks for games.

Mrs. Felix Arlington returned after a stay at Thief River Falls.

Rudolph Sagmoen is spending the week-end with his brother at Anita.

A number of young people from near Thief River Falls drove up this evening to attend the farmers club.

Stiner Johnson, John Sorenson and Mrs. Nakken were passengers this evening for Thief River Falls.

Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Rye and Newman and Hazel Rye moved to Thief River Falls today to take up their abode for the future. They have rented their property at this place.

The Hellquist boys are chopping their winter's wood on the S. Johnson farm.

NEW CREAMERY AT PLUMMER PLANNED

BUSINESS OF PAST YEAR MADE A TOTAL OF $57,000—PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

The Emardville Creamery association, at its annual meeting held last week in Plummer, decided to commence the erection of a new creamery plant in the spring. The layout will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000, and is to be strictly modern in every respect. The annual report of the secretary-treasurer showed that the total business for the year amounted to $57,606.50, an increase over the previous year of $5,706.95.

L. J. Houske, state dairy inspector for this district, gave an interesting talk to the members on creamery work, as did also Mr. Mortenson, state buttermaker at the state creamery at Albert Lea, Minn. Mr. Mortenson explained just why the building of a new creamery was a purely business proposition. He also strongly advised that the building be built as near to the center of town as possible in order to eliminate the possibility of some of the centralizers putting in a buying station here.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: David Haugan, president; Nels Hanson, vice president; A. J. Hemsted, secretary-treasurer. Besides these the following were chosen as members of the board of directors: John Greenwald, Anton Leo and Carl Sorenson.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF STOCK SHIPPERS

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO REVIVE INTEREST IN THE ORGANIZATION

The annual meeting of the Thief River Stock Shippers association will be held at the Commercial club rooms in this city next Saturday afternoon. Plans for the coming year will be discussed and officers elected. It is desired that every member be present as matters of much importance to the organization will be taken up.

The stock shipping association has not been very active during the past year. In fact not a single shipment has been made under its supervision. It will be the aim to again bring the organization into active operation as the results during the first year of its existence demonstrated that there is a wide field for its activities in this section. No one seems to know just why the joint shipping plan was dropped but interest in it seems to have suddenly died out. The intention is to again revive it if this is possible. In case there is no hope of accomplishing this it is likely that the association will be disbanded as there is no value in its maintenance unless the purposes for which it was organized are carried out.

H. D. Dublin of this city spent last Saturday at Crookston on business.

Royal Neighbors' Installation—
On Wednesday evening of last week the Royal Neighbor lodge held its annual installation of officers in the I. O. O. F. hall. The following four new members were initiated into the lodge: Mrs. C. A. Wiste, Mrs. Paul Harris, Mrs. Wm. Poirier and Mrs. Leo J. Fahey. Following is the list of officers: Mrs. Ira C. Richardson, oracle; Mrs. John Robinson, vice oracle; Mrs. S. V. Bailey, recorder; Mrs. C. M. Gillette, chancellor; Miss Edna Schmitt, receiver; Mrs. Bertha Lonson, marshal; Mrs. J. Davidson, inside sentinel; Mrs. T. P. Hornseth, outside sentinel. Eleven cards were handed in at the meeting and the applicants will be initiated in the near future. Dancing formed the entertainment of the evening and refreshments were served to one hundred and fifty guests.

First Freshmen Party—
Saturday night the Freshmen class of the local high school corralled five sleighs and journeyed out to the farm of H. G. Borden, where they were royally entertained for more than three hours. The Freshmen were wide awake going out and the town people probably heard the vociferous announcement as they drove through the streets of the city. The games at the party were especially interesting as they were planned by a class committee. After the program the guests were treated to a fine supper. Several class yells were given during the evening. Another class party will likely be given in the near future.

War Bread Recipe—
The following recipe has been handed in for publication. It has been tried, and if directions are carefully followed, delicious and economical war bread will be the result:

One heaping cup rolled oats, 1 cup bran, 1 cup corn meal, lard, size of an egg; ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons molasses. Pour over this 1½ cups boiling water. Let stand until cool, then add 3 cups of white flour, sponge, add enough white flour to mix a little softer than white bread. Makes two large loaves.

Entertained Saturday—
Misses Patience Lockhart and Belle McKenzie entertained in their apartments in the Union block last Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. W. S. Strunk of Sidney, Ohio, formerly Miss Synneva Grindeland, principal in the local high school. There were eight guests: Misses Antoinette Johnson, Avis Akre, Ruth Storli, Evelyn Grindeland, Ione Thorson; Mesdames O. F. Mellby, Carrie Johnson and W. S. Strunk.

Farewell For Mrs. Erb—
Last Friday night at the Robt. McGinn home, 511 Main avenue north, the Lady Foresters of St. Bernard's Catholic church entertained at a farewell party in honor of Mrs. Wm. Erb, who left last night for Edmonton, Canada, to make her new home. Mrs. Erb was presented with a Lady Foresters' pin by the lodge. Cards were played during the evening and light refreshments were served. There were twenty guests.

For Miss Hetland—
Mrs. Oscar Sponheim informally entertained a few ladies last Monday afternoon at her home, 122 St. Paul avenue north, in honor of Miss Harriet Hetland of the University of Minnesota, who gave the reading, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," Monday evening at the high school auditorium.

To Entertain Zion Aid—
The Ladies' Aid of the Zion Lutheran church will be entertained next Thursday, Jan. 24, by Mrs. E. A. Wistven at her home, 821 Taft street. The Zion Young People's society will be entertained in the evening at the Wistven home.

For Mr. and Mrs. Strunk—
Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brumund entertained at dinner Sunday at the Hotel Brumund in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Strunk of Sidney, Ohio, who are guests at the home of Mrs. Strunk's sister, Mrs. O. F. Mellby. Covers were laid for twelve guests.

Elks' Dance Friday—
Last Friday evening at the Auditorium the second dance of the season was given by the Elks lodge. Six of these affairs have been planned for the winter and the other four will be given in the near future.

Ladies' Aid to Meet—
The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will be entertained on Wednesday, Jan. 30, by Mrs. A. G. Gabrielson and Mrs. G. B. Doland at the home of the former, 904 Bridge street.

Willing Workers to Meet—
The Willing Workers society of the Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained by Mrs. Peter Paulson at her home on Bridge street east of the city on Tuesday evening, Jan. 29.

Gave Sleighride—
Last Friday evening the members of the Northern Minnesota championship football team enjoyed a delightful sleighride party. Two teams accommodated the members and after a short period of sleighriding they went out to the Albert Johnson farm south of town. Here they enjoyed a delicious lunch served by the Johnson family. After the lunch was over they assembled in the parlor, where a little program was rendered. First, the captain for next year's team was elected. This honor was conferred upon George Mostue. Each member was called upon to make a speech. George Mostue, John Steen and Chas. Prichard each gave a very interesting talk on the success of the last year's team and the prospects for that of next year. The following were present: Misses Palma Holmes, Betsy Ness, Carolyn Melby, Florence Fasel, Dorothy Miller, Myrtle Krohn, Lois Wold, Alice Hanson, Clara Oen, Ruth Storli, Avis Akre, Helen Dahlquist; Messrs. Chas. E. Prichard, Geo. A. Mostue, John Steen, Ambrose Zeh, Jordan Penney, Alf Krohn, Rufus Barackman, Leslie Provencher, Denis McGinn, Olof Tharaldson, Elmer Smith, Walter Trulson and Ralph Hilson.

Thorstad-Borden—
The marriage of Mr. Bert Newell Thorstad of Rocksbury township, and Miss Myrtle Iva Borden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Borden of North township, took place Monday evening at nine o'clock at the home of the bride, with Rev. G. O. Parish, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Miss Florence G. Thorstad, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, while Jesse E. Borden, brother of the bride, attended the groom. A fine wedding dinner was served after the ceremony, covers being laid for twenty guests. Mr. and Mrs. Thorstad will make their home on Mr. Thorstad's farm in Rocksbury township.

Entertained on Sunday—
Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Cerney entertained Sunday evening at their home, 418 Markley avenue south, in honor of Mrs. Maggie Bussy of Ada, Mrs. Donald Putzer of Brockton, Mont., and Bennie Bussy of Mahnomen, who were guests at the Val Yager home. A six o'clock dinner was served, covers being laid for Mr. and Mrs. Val Yager, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Protz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Protz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blake, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Becker, besides the guests of honor. Cards were played during the evening.

Band Concert Saturday—
Saturday evening at the Central school the Kid band will give its monthly concert. An excellent program has been arranged, as follows:
March: "On the Firing Line"—Jewel.
Selection: "Superba"—Dalby.
Waltz: "Sweet Briar"—Keifer.
Selection: Operatic—Southwell.
Cornet Duet: "Elner Polka"—Rose.
Selection: "American Melodies"—Ascher.

Mr. and Mrs. Yager Entertain—
Mr. and Mrs. Val Yager entertained at a six o'clock dinner Sunday evening of last week at their home in honor of their guests, Mrs. Maggie Bussy of Ada, Mrs. Donald Putzer of Brockton, Mont., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolfe of Viscount, Canada, and Ben Bussy of Mahnomen. Cards were played during the evening. Besides the guests of honor the following were were present: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Protz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Protz and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Cerney.

Surprised Mrs. Gullingsrud—
Mrs. H. Halland entertained a number of ladies last Friday afternoon at her home, 405 Atlantic avenue north. The party was in the nature of a surprise given in honor of Mrs. E. O. Gullingsrud, whose home was destroyed by fire two weeks ago. Needlework formed the diversion of the afternoon. Mrs. Gullingsrud was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. There were twenty-five guests.

New Orchestra Organized—
Thief River Falls has a new orchestra, with F. G. Rives as director. Mr. Rives will play trombone and saxophone, Mrs. Rives, piano, and Wilbur Roth, violin. The new orchestra will furnish music for the Home Guard dance on Friday, Feb. 1. Six pieces will be used on this occasion, Mr. Brunnell, the Red Lake Falls having been secured to play trap drums.

Surprise Party—
Rev. and Mrs. Aug. Bredeson were surprised by a number of friends last Friday evening in honor of their silver wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in music and conversation. Rev. and Mrs. Bredeson were presented with a neat sum of money by the eighty guests present.

Carnival Saturday Night—
The teachers and pupils of the Central school have long been making plans for the Juvenile Red Cross carnival which is to be given Saturday evening in the Central building. Each school in the city is to raise a sum of money in some manner for the Juvenile Red Cross. The high school did its bit by giving the operetta, "The Windmills of Holland," while the Washington, Knox and Northrop school entertainments are still to come. The Saturday evening carnival will be an entertainment well worth attending as a great many attractions have been planned. There will be lunch counters and all sorts of places to spend money for a good cause. The Kid band will also give its monthly concert on this evening at the school.

Miss Hetland's Reading—
A large crowd attended the entertainment given in the high school auditorium on Monday evening, when Miss Harriet Hetland of the University of Minnesota gave the reading, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Miss Hetland held the undivided attention of the audience for an hour and a half. Her reading was exceptionally good and those who heard her will never miss an opportunity of hearing her again. It is expected that she will appear here again next year.

To Aid Red Cross—
The Eighth grade pupils of the Northrup school will give an entertainment in the assembly room of the Lincoln high school on Saturday evening at eight o'clock. There will be a short play, drills and other features. Preparations for the affair have been under way for some time and it promises to be one of the best and most novel entertainments yet given for the Red Cross benefit.

For Mrs. Hoag—
Mrs. Harry Prichard entertained on Monday afternoon at her home, 511 Arnold avenue north, in honor of her guest, Mrs. William Hoag, of Minneapolis, who was formerly a resident of this city. There were twelve guests and the afternoon was spent in needlework. Light refreshments were served during the course of the afternoon by the hostess.

Entertained Saturday Evening—
Mr. and Mrs. Alf Bjorge entertained at their home east of the city last Saturday evening. Cards were played at six tables, and other games also furnished amusement for the guests. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

To Entertain Luther League—
The Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained by the P. B. Malberg family Thursday evening, Jan. 24, in the church basement.

HEIFERS SUCCUMB WHILE IN TRANSIT

THREE HEAD FROZEN TO DEATH ENROUTE FROM CROOKSTON NORTHWARD

During one of the coldest nights of last week a carload of young stock had to be hurriedly removed from a car on the Great Northern tracks in this city and taken to the old saw mill barn on the east side of the river in order to prevent their freezing to death. Three heifers were found to have succumbed when the plight of the animals was discovered and it is likely that others would have followed had not prompt aid been extended. The heifers must have died somewhere on the road between Crookston and this city and it does not seem that any particular blame is to be attached to anyone unless it is the original shipper, who should not have started them out under the circumstances.

The weather was bitterly cold and the heifers must have been so placed that the wind had a fair sweep at them as the distance from Crookston is comparatively short and the time consumed in making the run would ordinarily not be sufficient to freeze cattle to death, no matter how cold the weather might get. The remainder of the shipment was reloaded the following day and sent onward to their destination, which is understood to have been the neighborhood of Roseau.

Returns From the East.
Attorney Gay Halvorson returned Tuesday morning from an extended trip through the East. On the trip Mr. Halvorson visited with his daughter, Miss Doris, who is studying music at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, and spent some time in the state of Vermont, going through some of the largest stone quarries in the country.

NEW YORK'S BURIED WEALTH

Millions of Dollars' Worth of Copper Lead and Other Products Deposited Beneath Streets.

Under the streets of New York city are deposits of copper, lead and other valuable products far exceeding in quantity and value any mine yet discovered throughout the world. Engineers and scientists estimate the amount of copper to be found in the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx at 80,000,000 pounds, valued approximately at $7,500,000. The lead is estimated at 60,000,000 pounds, worth something like $4,800,000.

This discovery was announced at the electrical exposition at Grand Central palace, where the Consolidated Telegraph and Electric Subway company had a large exhibit showing a full-size cross section of one of the city's principal thoroughfares. In this mammoth cross section of earth and rock the veins of copper and of lead could be easily traced. Of course, the veins of copper are the wires carrying the electric current for lighting, heating, power and communication to every nook and corner of the great metropolis, while the lead is used to protect the cables.

The street cross section at the electrical exposition was 70 feet long by 25 feet deep. It showed the location of the street railway conduits and rails, electric service substation, distributing station, conduits, splicing chambers, with their unique water draining systems and other interesting things that lay beneath the streets of New York and mark the advanced stage of its civilization. It took a crew of 20 men a week to construct this interesting exhibit.

CHIEF HARBOR OF MACEDONIA

Salonica, Built About 315 B. C., Was Named by Its Founder for His Wife.

In the days when St. Paul Addressed his Epistles to the Thessalonians Salonica was not modern, for it was built about 315 B. C. on the site of an older city called Therme, says the London Globe, and was named by its founder after his wife, a sister of Alexander the Great. It has always been a place of importance, as it is the chief harbor of Macedonia, and was a point on the ancient highway from Rome to the East.

With a few fine buildings, like the old mosque which had been in turn a temple of Venus and a Christian church, it has always been a collection of houses largely of wood, and, therefore, highly inflammable in the extreme continuous heat of summer.

The conflagration which recently swept away the main part of it is not by very many the first experience of the kind in its history, one of the most memorable being the fire at the beginning of September, 1890, which did $4,000,000 worth of damage.

Bidding for Trouble.

Who would suspect the supreme court of New York having pronounced views on the equality of the sexes? But here is Justice Goff, comments the St. Paul News, who not only admits that a woman may practice law, but insists that she is just like other lawyers.

Mary L. Lilly rose to address the court. "Are you a member of the bar?" queried the justice.

"Yes, your honor," the lady replied.

"Then you should remove your hat, like all other lawyers."

This little dialogue merely shows that the court values the "woman's prerogative" of changing her mind. Not many years ago Dr. Mary Walker was in trouble with the courts because she wanted to wear trousers, "like all other doctors." Now what would Justice Goff decide if Lawyer Lilly carried his advice to a logical conclusion and came into court in regular male attire, "like all other lawyers?"

The Sound of Guns.

Conflicting statements have been made from time to time as to the distance at which the guns can be heard. On a still night, when an easterly breeze is prevailing, says a writer in the Dundee Advertiser, I have heard the dull thud quite distinctly in South London. It is this disquieting sound, not less than the din of an occasional air raid, which gives Londoners an idea how near the conflict really is. Now records are being prepared which show the extent of the distance at which the guns are heard. Scientists at University college declare they can be distinguished at a range of 200 miles. This would include places like Warwick, Hull, Cromer, Brighton and Weymouth. Sound travels at a rate of about 1,000 feet a second, so that the sound of the guns in Flanders reaches London about 12½ minutes after the explosions occur.

The Soldier's Life.

Sergeant Finnegan was all dressed up and looked it. He was stationed at Fort Tilden—which is away among the sand dunes off the far end of Rockaway Point—and he was going to take a day off, writes a camp correspondent.

"Good-by, fellers," he shouted. "It's going to be a cold night. Me for a warm bed at home tonight." And he started on a run for the boat waiting at the pier.

He had got about 25 yards along when he heard: "Sergeant Finnegan." The voice was the voice of his company commander, and the sergeant turned and went back and stood at salute. The captain spoke:

"You will distribute the underwear this afternoon and bring over the stoves which arrived at the barracks this morning."

Admitted the Truth.

Naomi was in the habit of crying when falling, whether hurting herself or not, and would wait for someone to come and pick her up. One day she fell down and began whimpering, but her mamma, not thinking her badly hurt, waited to see what she would do. Naomi looked around and, seeing no one coming, said, "Oh, shucks, I ain't hurt anyway, I'se dess fussin'."

Have You Any Wool?

"Baa, baa, black sheep, have you any wool?"—is now the chorused plaint of wool buyers, woolen mills, clothing manufacturers and merchant tailors.

There is an unprecedented shortage of wool throughout the world—due to the Great War. The reasons are clear as sunlight—and here they are.

Australia and the United States are the two great wool-producing countries. Australia's sheep men have been in the trenches for three years—she is now killing her sheep for mutton and every available ton of shipping is used to transport men, meat and equipment to Europe. Her contribution to the world's wool supply is therefore growing smaller and smaller and smaller, is rapidly reaching the vanishing point.

This same wool-shortage is being experienced in our domestic supply, for the same reasons and for added reasons.

Like any other business men, the sheep rancher in Wyoming or Montana is looking for profits. He will manufacture meat or wool, whichever pays him the best. There is an immediate cash demand, at very high prices, for his mutton and lamb. The supply of beef cattle and hogs are not beginning to meet our actual meat necessities. This means that more and more sheep are being slaughtered—the wool that's on their backs is all we'll ever get from them.

There's no use in winking or blinking at this situation or in pretending that it's just a trade scare. It is idiotic for us to say "pooh-pooh" to the repeated warning of the U. S. Government and the woolen manufacturers. It is foolish for us to read the "patriotic economy" warnings of representative clothing dealers and not heed them. We will pay dearly for our density—if we don't.

The buying moral is as plain as a pike-staff.

Every man who wants to wear woolen clothes next winter should buy them now, from present stocks, at present prices. These stocks were mostly bought a year ago when prices were normal. The merchant is now merely adding his usual profit and passing these normal prices along to his customers.

When these present wool-stocks are exhausted, it won't be a question of price at all, but a question of wool.

The man who wants to wear all-wool clothing next year AT ANY PRICE should buy it now—that's it. Two or three suits where he usually buys one—a whole year's supply while he can get any supply.

Never mind quibbling over patch-pockets or cuffs; don't get fussy over patterns—buy the wool. Every extra or new all-wool garment that you now hang in your clothes-closet will pay for itself, as compared with the increased prices that are now on the way.

Buy all the all-wool clothes you can while you can—it's money in the bank.

Notice to Our Patrons

The above advertisement explains conditions as they exist at the present time. We were fortunate in having the foresight to purchase a very heavy stock of clothing and woolen goods before the advance. They are absolutely all wool and foreign dyed.

We urge you to purchase your next Fall and Winter suit and overcoat now at a saving of 50 per cent less than they will cost you then. We positively have the largest stock of clothing in town. Many patterns to choose from in guaranteed all wool woolens.

TO FIX PRICES OF NECESSITIES

WILL ESTABLISH MAXIMUM BUT LEAVE MINIMUM TO INDIVIDUAL DEALER.

PUBLISH LIST NEXT WEEK

CO-OPERATION IS NECESSARY IF PLAN IS TO WORK OUT SATISFACTORILY.

Pennington county now has a fair food-pricing committee composed of twelve members, whose duty it is to meet once a week and fix what they judge will be a fair price for some score of food products, naming a minimum and maximum price at which the retailers of the county should sell, but still permitting them to go below the minimum if they choose.

This was the result of the talk last Thursday evening in the Commercial club rooms by Judge Wilson of Stillwater. He came here representing the national and state administrations and called on the various grocers, bakers, butchers, hotel and restaurant proprietors.

Will Appeal to Consumer.

In a forceful and conclusive manner the speaker pointed out wherein such a committee would be of immense assistance to the food administration and at the same time serve the buying public in a manner that would of necessity appeal to the people.

Similar price fixing committees have been named thruout this and other states and much good has already been accomplished. The committee met Monday of this week for the first time and elsewhere will be found the prices which they deem are fair and just in Pennington county. It will be observed that the wholesale price is given and also the retail prices. This table should be closely scrutinized each week by the people from all sections of the county.

Women Represented.

Various lines of endeavor were recognized in the choice of the committee, the aim being to make the committee as effective as possible. The personnel as given herewith, is one that should meet with the approval of all classes:

Hotels—Harry Brumund.
Wholesale grocers—F. H. Herrick.
Retail grocers—Emil Zeh and C. Christofferson.
Butchers—L. DeCremer.
Bakers—Fred Roth.
Railroad employees—N. J. Silk.
Citizens of Thief River Falls—Mayor G. A. Penney.
Farmers—Peter Englestad and George Eide.
Women—Mrs. H. A. Pratt and Mrs. T. L. Melgaard.

MERCHANTS NAME SMITH SECRETARY

LOCAL ASSOCIATION WILL BE REORGANIZED ON ENTIRELY NEW LINES.

At a special meeting of the Thief River Falls Retail Merchants association held last week Attorney G. Howard Smith was elected secretary to succeed John Wold, resigned.

The association will hold a general get-together meeting in the near future for the purpose of mapping out an entirely new line of procedure. The organization has been in existence only a short time but the effect of its good work is already being felt by nearly every affiliated business house. The new secretary will devote a large share of his time to the business of the merchants and as he has been very successful along lines which they desire to follow his selection should prove in every way satisfactory.

To Begin Alien Registration.

Postmaster John Morgan is ready to begin the registration of citizens of enemy countries on Monday morning, and any man born in Germany or Austria-Hungary who has not taken out his citizenship papers in this country must present himself at the postoffice. According to instructions received this week from Otto N. Raths, postmaster at St. Paul, who is in charge of the postoffice registrations in the [illegible], no charge for any part of the [illegible] can be made by the official administering the oath.

Mr. Morgan does not anticipate any difficulty in getting the Germans or Austrians in the county to register when the purpose is explained to them.

Leaves to Join Army.

Hugh Bottleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bottleson of the East Side Drug store, left Tuesday evening for Duluth where he will join the army. This young man is not yet of age and would for this reason not be called into the service, but he felt as if it was his simple duty to offer himself as so many of his neighbors and former classmates have already done. He did not see why a few months difference in his age should exempt him and followed what looked to him like the right course. At the time of leaving he had not definitely decided upon the branch of the service he would prefer.

GREENHOUSE BURNS; WILL BE RE-BUILT

NEW PLANT OF MARTIN BOTHUN COMPLETELY BURNED THURSDAY NIGHT.

Fire originating in the boiler room completely destroyed the greenhouse of Martin Bothun at Duluth avenue and Tenth street early Friday morning. The blaze was discovered about one o'clock and in a very short time the building was entirely consumed. The loss is about $3,000 with $1,500 of insurance, $1,100 of which is on the building and $500 on the tools and equipment.

Mr. Bothun, who resides within a short distance from the greenhouse, was awakened by the alarm sounded by the temperature indicator in his room, placed there for the purpose of warning him whenever the greenhouse became either too warm or too cold. He hurried out only to find that the interior of the building was a mass of flames. The telephone wires had been burned off and he lost some time in awakening a neighbor in order to notify the department. The building was located outside the fire limits and there was but little the firemen could do because of the distance from water.

Mr. Bothun at once made temporary arrangements for supplying his customers and will fill any orders entrusted to him as heretofore. Should conditions in the spring be such as to make the erection of buildings possible, he will at once begin the erection of a new and larger greenhouse on the site of the old one.

WELL AND HAPPY IN U. S. SERVICE

FOUR McCRUM AND THREE PROVENCHER BOYS NOT AMONG KICKERS

As a general thing the letters reaching the folks at home from soldiers and sailors who have enlisted from Pennington county speak in the highest terms of the treatment accorded them at the different barracks and camps. Once in a long while there is naturally someone who finds fault with conditions, but the tone of such letters rather leads the reader to suspect that the fault lies to a great extent with the soldier himself.

No such complaints come from the sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. McCrum, residing southwest of Thief River Falls. This family holds the blue ribbon for the number of enlistments and every one of the boys is a booster for the particular service in which he finds himself. Wesley, who is at the Norfolk navy yard, has received recognition at the hands of his superiors, being now a second carpenter's mate. Frank, the second son, is also in the navy, the last letter from him being dated at some port in France. James is with the British engineers and has put in a year at the barracks in Halifax. He expects to sail for France in a short time. Harold is in the marines and was last heard from in Texas. All are in good health and report the best of treatment.

In this connection it is interesting to note that there are seven boys from two families in the service from this immediate vicinity. If the McCrums are the blue ribbon winners, the second prize should certainly go to Julien Provencher of the Hotel Evelyn. Three of his boys have enlisted, as follows: Harold, with the Rainbow division now in France; Will, with the First Missouri Artillery, now at Fort Sill, Okla., and Doris, on the coast with one of the California militia regiments. These boys also are enthusiastic in their praise of the service and have never had a word of complaint to offer.

First Pennington County Soldiers Die in Service

HENRY L. ANDERSON C. HENRY HERMANSON

DEATH SUMMONS SECOND SOLDIER

FUNERAL HERE MONDAY

HENRY L. ANDERSON BURIED AT ADA LAST MONDAY AFTERNOON.

The second enlisted man from Pennington county to be called by death while he was preparing to become a soldier in the army of his country, is C. Henry Hermanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hermanson, 221 Sixth street west, Thief River Falls. His death occurred at Fort Jackson, North Carolina, on Thursday afternoon last, and was due to pneumonia. His call thus came within twenty-four hours of the summons to Henry L. Anderson at Jefferson Barracks. Both these young men enlisted at the same time and entered the same branch of the service, that of the ordnance department. Mr. Anderson was taken sick shortly after his arrival while Mr. Hermanson was transferred to Camp Jackson.

No Warning of Seriousness.

A postal card received from someone in authority a few days previous to the announcement of his death stated that Mr. Hermanson was not in danger and that he would be out again in a few days. For this reason the news of his death came most unexpectedly and proved a decided shock. L. A. Hermanson, a brother of the deceased, at present a member of one of the regimental bands at Fort Dodge, had no inkling of the seriousness of the case and hastened home as soon as the necessary leave could be secured.

Was Born at Halsted.

Henry Hermanson, as he was known to everyone in this section, was born at Halsted in 1887, being thus 31 years of age at the time of his death. He moved here with his parents in 1900, attended the public schools and his enlistment is commemorated by one of the stars on the service flag of the local high school. At the time of his joining the army he was employed by the Oen Mercantile company, being in charge of the shoe department. He was an industrious, thoroughly likeable man whose many boyhood and early manhood friends will be more than ordinarily grieved at his untimely taking off.

Besides his parents and the brother mentioned above, deceased is survived by another brother Edward, now a resident of Minneapolis, and two sisters, Mrs. O. G. Granum and Miss Belle Hermanson, both of this city.

As the time of the arrival of the remains is somewhat uncertain no definite arrangements for the funeral have been made. It will however, likely be held on Monday afternoon from the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Funeral of H. L. Anderson.

"Henry Anderson, son of A. J. Anderson of this place, died at the Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo., last Wednesday, January 23, from pneumonia. Mr. Anderson is the first Norman county boy to die for his country in the present war. His death is extremely sad as he was of a fine character and had a promising future. He was thirty years of age and previous to going to Jefferson Barracks had been located at Thief River Falls where he was assistant cashier of a bank in that city. He was raised in Norman county, growing to manhood at the family home near Borup. His father was called to St. Louis about two weeks ago, remaining with him for several days and returning to his home here after it was thought that he had passed the danger point and that his recovery was assured. He left St. Louis just a week before the death of his son, and received a card Monday of last week stating that he was recovering. The deceased is survived by his father, one brother and five sisters.

"The remains were brought to Ada Sunday morning and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Hinderlie and Rev. G. H. Drekke, at Our Saviours Lutheran church, Monday forenoon. A large number of friends of the family gathered to pay their last respects.

"While Ada has no regular military organization the members of the Ada Home Guard attended the funeral in a body. Following the services the remains were taken to Borup where interment was made in the Borup cemetery."

HOME GUARDS WERE SOMEWHAT PEEVED

ACTION OF G. N. RAILWAY OFFICIALS CAUSES KEEN DISAPPOINTMENT.

Nine members of Company C, Tenth Battalion, Minnesota Home Guard, left here on Sunday evening for the purpose of attending the funeral of Henry L. Anderson, who died at Jefferson Barracks last week. Before starting on their journey they called the offices of the Great Northern railway at Crookston for the purpose of learning whether or not they might be certain of making the necessary connections with that line, this being necessary in order to get to Ada. They intended taking the Soo from this city to Detroit, from which point they would go to Glyndon over the Northern Pacific, changing from that road to the Great Northern at that junction town. They were assured that even though the trains were not running on schedule time, stops of sufficient length would be made to enable them to make the necessary connections to get them to Ada in time for the funeral on Monday afternoon. The division superintendent at Crookston promised faithfully to see that orders to this effect were sent to the proper stations.

The Northern Pacific train reached Glyndon about four minutes behind schedule and the Thief River men alighted in time to see the tail-lights of the Great Northern disappearing in the distance. The train had not been held for one minute, although the headlight of the Northern Pacific engine was in sight when the Great Northern pulled out. It was impossible to secure conveyances of any kind for the trip at this time of year and the guardsmen waited for another train and started back home. They were to have been pall-bearers and were also the military representatives at the funeral.

An explanation of the conduct of the railway officials will be requested from President Louis Hill direct. The affair was either the result of deliberate attempt to cause inconvenience and annoyance or it was a mighty poor piece of railroad management.

Those making the trip were: Capt. W. B. Fuller, Lieuts. Oscar Sponheim and W. W. Prichard, Jr., Mayor G. A. Penney, E. O. Mogenson, W. H. Akre, E. C. Karwand, T. S. Brokke and Charles Swartz.

Rev. F. J. Seltz was at Lancaster last Monday where he conducted services.

NO MONEY FOR PRIOR DEFICIT

MEANS $6000 TO DISTRICT

APPROPRIATION FOR 1917 AND 1918 MUST BE APPLIED FOR THOSE YEARS.

The decision of the state school board to pay the deficit in the appropriation for years prior to 1917 out of the funds authorized by the legislature as available for the purpose during 1917 and 1918, is not authorized by law. This is the decision handed down last week by the state supreme court. The money appropriated as state aid for last year and the present year must be applied exactly as designated in the act passing the legislature.

Outcome of Veto.

At the last session a bill was passed appropriating the money necessary to meet all the deferred payments of state aid, but this was vetoed by the governor. The appropriation for 1917 and 1918 was, however, passed and approved. As this left many school districts in the state in debt because of their having depended upon the deferred payments being provided for, an attempt was made to have the deficits paid out of the same sum, a proposition to which the attorney general acceded. The state board of education, however, interposed an objection and action was brought by J. F. Mushel of Sauk Center to compel payment. The decision rendered upholds the state board.

The opinion was written by Justice Hallam, Chief Justice Brown and Justice Quinn dissenting and concludes:

"Construing this statute in the light of its history and circumstances, and in connection with other legislation, it is held it appropriates money for use in payment of aid accruing during the specific years mentioned and does not authorize payment, out of the amount appropriated, of a deficit accruing prior to those years."

Means About $6,000 Here.

District No. 18 of Pennington county will be cut off from about $6,000 by the decision. A part of this will be regained through the appropriation for the current year, but the amount lost will amount to a considerable sum.

GUSTAFSONS BUY PRICHARD STOCKS

WILL CONSOLIDATE BUSINESS OF TWO FARM IMPLEMENT CONCERNS HERE.

Charles Gustafson & Son, farm implement dealers in this city, on Tuesday closed a deal whereby they will take over the entire stock of similar machinery heretofore carried by the Prichard Lumber company. The consolidation will give the Gustafson concern one of the largest machinery stocks in this section as well as make them the only firm in the city handling this line of merchandise exclusively.

The removal of the Prichard stock from the old warehouse on Horace avenue to the Gustafson warehouse at the corner of Main and Fourth will be begun at once. The stock comprises everything in the line of farm machinery, including gas engines and power tractors.

That this consolidation will prove a good business move is certain. The maintaining of two such excellent establishments as the Prichard and Gustafson concerns cost a big sum of money in these times and the cutting down of the overhead expenses will make it possible for the sole owners to give better service and better prices than when two were bidding for the business.

No Further Notification.

The personal property tax must be paid before the first day of March and no further notification will be given of the amount due nor of the time for payment. The law now requires that the list be published as in the case of delinquent real estate taxes and this is all the notification the county treasurers are obliged to give. Treasurer Liden wishes attention called to this matter in order that no person will await the arrival of a further notice.

HOME GUARD DANCE IS POSTPONED ONE WEEK

Out of respect to the memory of Henry L. Anderson and C. Henry Hermanson, who recently died while in the service of their country, the Home Guard dance advertised for the evening of Friday, Feb. 1, has been postponed for one week. The dance will be given at the Auditorium on Friday evening, Feb. 8.

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

BALANCE IS OVER $48,000

TOTAL AMOUNT OF OUTSTANDING OBLIGATIONS, INCLUDING LIGHT BONDS $216,000.

The financial statement of the city as made public by the city clerk's office, shows that the conditions are generally very good and that it cost $111,558.78 to carry on the municipal business during the past year. The receipts fell a little below this figure, being $96,252.09, but considerable money was spent in sewer extension work, laying water mains and digging wells to supply the city with drinking water, as well as the construction of a half million gallon reservoir for storage of water for fire protection purposes.

The cash balance on hand January 1 was $48,157.21, a sufficient sum to carry on the city's affairs for some little time.

Good Sum on Hand.

The municipality starts the new year with a cash balance on hand of over $48,000 and total assets of nearly half a million. The table is as follows:

Water and Light System	$205,154.23
Auditorium	46,000.00
Sewer System	121,290.67
Sidewalks & Crossings	21,410.75
Steel Bridge over river	13,000.00
Cash on hand	48,157.21
Miscellaneous	41,738.00
	$496,750.86

Outstanding Obligations.

The total indebtedness of the city, including outstanding bonds, sewer certificates and time certificates, is $216,300, leaving assets over liabilities amounting to $280,450.86. The distribution is as follows:

Auditorium bonds	$ 45,000.00
Electric Light bonds	60,000.00
Water works bonds	92,000.00
Sewer Certificates	9,500.00
Time Certificates	5,500.00
Cemetery Contracts	4,300.00
Assets over liabilities	280,450.86
	$496,750.86

COMMITTEES FOR [illegible] TERM ARE NAMED

PRESIDENT IHLE OF CITY COUNCIL DIVIDES WORK AMONG COLLEAGUES

The new city council is now completely organized and the different standing committees have been selected. President O. L. Ihle has indicated his confidence in the ability and willingness of the new men on the board by selecting them for chairmenships in a number of instances. M. N. Benson remains at the head of the important committee on finance, while Mr. Ihle remains as the head of the committee on roads, streets and sidewalks. The committees are made up as follows, the first named in each instance being the chairman:

Finance—M. N. Benson, O. L. Ihle and P. O. Myhrum.
Board of Health—Dr. O. F. Mellby, C. Froseth, S. Brandon and A. K. Olson.
Poor—A. K. Olson, S. Brandon and C. Froseth.
Roads, Streets and Sidewalks—O. L. Ihle, M. N. Benson and P. O. Myhrum.
License, Printing and Municipal Buildings—S. Brandon, M. N. Benson and C. Froseth.
Electric Light and Water Works—P. O. Myhrum, O. L. Ihle and A. K. Olson.

CRANDALL AGAIN CLUB PRESIDENT

RECEIVES 34 VOTES OUT OF 57 CAST IN FREE-FOR-ALL ELECTION.

STRONG DIRECTING BOARD

SECRETARY TO BE CHOSEN AT ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING IN FEBRUARY.

President—Dr. C. R. Crandall.
First Vice President—John Bratrud.
Second Vice President—Scott Laird.
Treasurer—W. W. Prichard, Jr.
Directors—Roy Lambert, O. L. Cronstrom, Anton Langseth, E. O. Mogenson and Math Barzen.

The annual election of officers and directors of the Commercial club on Thursday of last week resulted as indicated above. All but the last three men were re-elected.

Dr. Crandall led all others in the race for presidency, receiving 34 votes out of 57 cast for that position. In no instance was there any doubt as to a choice but the field was quite large for each place on the ticket.

Plenty of Candidates.

There were 13 candidates for president, 19 for first vice president, 32 for second vice president, 17 for treasurer, and 51 names were submitted as directors.

The balloting started at nine o'clock in the morning and continued till eight in the evening. Many of the club members took occasion to stay for the stand-up lunch at half past six when they went to the club rooms for the purpose of voting. At the close of the balloting President Crandall named G. Howard Smith, Harry Prichard and F. F. Haynes as tellers and they canvassed the votes during the food conservation talk given in the club rooms that evening.

Select Secretary Later.

The annual organization meeting will be held early in February at which time a secretary will be chosen. A program of work for the coming year will also be outlined and general plans for the coming year discussed.

Since the outbreak of the war a great deal of the organization's time has been taken up by Red Cross work, Liberty Bond sales and kindred activities, and it is certain that these will continue to play an important part in its general program. It is felt, however, that other matters can be included without in any manner detracting from the value of the club as an aid of the government and the original intention should not be lost sight of. By keeping abreast of the times in all other matters the organization will better be able to do what is expected of it along patriotic lines.

SECOND HEATLESS MONDAY OBSERVED

NUMBER OF CHANGES MADE IN REGULATIONS GOVERNING CLOSING.

Thief River Falls took the second heatless Monday as a matter of course and not a growl was heard except from a few persons who had neglected to provide themselves with a sufficient supply of snuff or cigarettes. These could be procured on the first closed Monday a week ago, but a new ruling prohibits traffic in even such necessities.

Some slight changes have been made in favor of food selling emporiums. All grocery stores, meat establishments and other places selling food are permitted to run on Monday, but only until noon. Fruit and flower stores are allowed to stay open until noon, but only to sell fruit, food and flowers for funerals or weddings and on advance party orders. Barber shops and shoe shining parlors close at noon.

No violations were reported on either of the Mondays set apart as heatless, and but very few instances where merchants had even been requested to open their places. The order of the fuel commission is being complied with strictly, as far as Thief River Falls is concerned.

SOCIETY

Royal Neighbors' Installation—

On Wednesday evening of last week the Royal Neighbor lodge held its annual installation of officers in the I. O. O. F. hall. The following four new members were initiated into the lodge: Mrs. C. A. Wiste, Mrs. Paul Harris, Mrs. Wm. Poirier and Mrs. Leo J. Fahey. Following is the list of officers: Mrs. Ira C. Richardson, oracle; Mrs. John Robinson, vice oracle; Mrs. S. V. Bailey, recorder; Mrs. C. M. Gillette, chancellor; Miss Edna Schmitt, receiver; Mrs. Bertha Lonson, marshal; Mrs. J. Davidson, inside sentinel; Mrs. T. P. Hornseth, outside sentinel. Eleven cards were handed in at the meeting and the applicants will be initiated in the near future. Dancing formed the entertainment of the evening and refreshments were served to one hundred and fifty guests.

First Freshmen Party—

Saturday night the Freshmen class of the local high school corralled five sleighs and journeyed out to the farm of H. G. Borden, where they were royally entertained for more than three hours. The Freshmen were wide awake going out and the town people probably heard the vociferous announcement as they drove through the streets of the city. The games at the party were especially interesting as they were planned by a class committee. After the program the guests were treated to a fine supper. Several class yells were given during the evening. Another class party will likely be given in the near future.

War Bread Recipe—

The following recipe has been handed in for publication. It has been tried, and if directions are carefully followed, delicious and economical war bread will be the result:

One heaping cup rolled oats, 1 cup bran, 1 cup corn meal, lard, size of an egg; ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons molasses. Pour over this 1¼ cups boiling water. Let stand until cool, then add 3 cups of white flour, sponge, add enough white flour to mix a little softer than white bread. Makes two large loaves.

Entertained Saturday—

Misses Patience Lockhart and Belle McKenzie entertained in their apartments in the Union block last Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. W. S. Strunk of Sidney, Ohio, formerly Miss Synneva Grindeland, principal in the local high school. There were eight guests: Misses Antoinette Johnson, Avis Akre, Ruth Storli, Evelyn Grindeland, Ione Thorson; Mesdames O. F. Mellby, Carrie Johnson and W. S. Strunk.

Farewell For Mrs. Erb—

Last Friday night at the Robt. McGinn home, 511 Main avenue north, the Lady Foresters of St. Bernard's Catholic church entertained at a farewell party in honor of Mrs. Wm. Erb, who left last night for Edmonton, Canada, to make her new home. Mrs. Erb was presented with a Lady Foresters' pin by the lodge. Cards were played during the evening and light refreshments were served. There were twenty guests.

For Miss Hetland—

Mrs. Oscar Sponheim informally entertained a few ladies last Monday afternoon at her home, 122 St. Paul avenue north, in honor of Miss Harriet Hetland of the University of Minnesota, who gave the reading, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," Monday evening at the high school auditorium.

To Entertain Zion Aid—

The Ladies' Aid of the Zion Lutheran church will be entertained next Thursday, Jan. 24, by Mrs. E. A. Wistven at her home, 821 Taft street. The Zion Young People's society will be entertained in the evening at the Wistven home.

For Mr. and Mrs. Strunk—

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brumund entertained at dinner Sunday at the Hotel Brumund in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Strunk of Sidney, Ohio, who are guests at the home of Mrs. Strunk's sister, Mrs. O. F. Mellby. Covers were laid for twelve guests.

Elks' Dance Friday—

Last Friday evening at the Auditorium the second dance of the season was given by the Elks lodge. Six of these affairs have been planned for the winter and the other four will be given in the near future.

Ladies' Aid to Meet—

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will be entertained on Wednesday, Jan. 30, by Mrs. A. G. Gabrielson and Mrs. G. B. Doland at the home of the former, 904 Bridge street.

Willing Workers to Meet—

The Willing Workers society of the Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained by Mrs. Peter Paulson at her home on Bridge street east of the city on Tuesday evening, Jan. 29.

Gave Sleighride—

Last Friday evening the members of the Northern Minnesota championship football team enjoyed a delightful sleighride party. Two teams accommodated the members and after a short period of sleighriding they went out to the Albert Johnson farm south of town. Here they enjoyed a delicious lunch served by the Johnson family. After the lunch was over they assembled in the parlor, where a little program was rendered. First, the captain for next year's team was elected. This honor was conferred upon George Mostue. Each member was called upon to make a speech. George Mostue, John Steen and Chas. Prichard each gave a very interesting talk on the success of the last year's team and the prospects for that of next year. The following were present: Misses Palma Holmes, Betsy Ness, Carolyn Melby, Florence Fasel, Dorothy Miller, Myrtle Krohn, Lois Wold, Alice Hanson, Clara Oen, Ruth Storli, Avis Akre, Helen Dahlquist; Messrs. Chas. E. Prichard, Geo. A. Mostue, John Steen, Ambrose Zeh, Jordan Penney, Alf Krohn, Rufus Barackman, Leslie Provencher, Denis McGinn, Olof Tharaldson, Elmer Smith, Walter Trulson and Ralph Hilson.

Thorstad-Borden—

The marriage of Mr. Bert Newell Thorstad of Rocksbury township, and Miss Myrtle Iva Borden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Borden of North township, took place Monday evening at nine o'clock at the home of the bride, with Rev. G. O. Parish, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Miss Florence G. Thorstad, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, while Jesse E. Borden, brother of the bride, attended the groom. A fine wedding dinner was served after the ceremony, covers being laid for twenty guests. Mr. and Mrs. Thorstad will make their home on Mr. Thorstad's farm in Rocksbury township.

Entertained on Sunday—

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Cerney entertained Sunday evening at their home, 418 Markley avenue south, in honor of Mrs. Maggie Bussy of Ada, Mrs. Donald Putzer of Brockton, Mont., and Bennie Bussy of Mahnomen, who were guests at the Val Yager home. A six o'clock dinner was served, covers being laid for Mr. and Mrs. Val Yager, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Protz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Protz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blake, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Becker, besides the guests of honor. Cards were played during the evening.

Band Concert Saturday—

Saturday evening at the Central school the Kid band will give its monthly concert. An excellent program has been arranged, as follows:

March: "On the Firing Line"—Jewel.
Selection: "Superba"—Dalby.
Waltz: "Sweet Briar"—Keifer.
Selection: Operatic—Southwell.
Cornet Duet: "Einer Polka"—Rose.
Selection: "American Melodies"—Ascher.

Carnival Saturday Night—

The teachers and pupils of the Central school have long been making plans for the Juvenile Red Cross carnival which is to be given Saturday evening in the Central building. Each school in the city is to raise a sum of money in some manner for the Juvenile Red Cross. The high school did its bit by giving the operetta, "The Windmills of Holland," while the Washington, Knox and Northrop school entertainments are still to come. The Saturday evening carnival will be an entertainment well worth attending as a great many attractions have been planned. There will be lunch counters and all sorts of places to spend money for a good cause. The Kid band will also give its monthly concert on this evening at the school.

Miss Hetland's Reading—

A large crowd attended the entertainment given in the high school auditorium on Monday evening, when Miss Harriet Hetland of the University of Minnesota gave the reading, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Miss Hetland held the undivided attention of the audience for an hour and a half. Her reading was exceptionally good and those who heard her will never miss an opportunity of hearing her again. It is expected that she will appear here again next year.

To Aid Red Cross—

The Eighth grade pupils of the Northrup school will give an entertainment in the assembly room of the Lincoln high school on Saturday evening at eight o'clock. There will be a short play, drills and other features. Preparations for the affair have been under way for some time and it promises to be one of the best and most novel entertainments yet given for the Red Cross benefit.

For Mrs. Hoag—

Mrs. Harry Prichard entertained on Monday afternoon at her home, 511 Arnold avenue north, in honor of her guest, Mrs. William Hoag, of Minneapolis, who was formerly a resident of this city. There were twelve guests and the afternoon was spent in needlework. Light refreshments were served during the course of the afternoon by the hostess.

Entertained Saturday Evening—

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Bjorge entertained at their home east of the city last Saturday evening. Cards were played at six tables, and other games also furnished amusement for the guests. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

To Entertain Luther League—

The Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained by the P. B. Malberg family Thursday evening, Jan. 24, in the church basement.

NEW YORK'S BURIED WEALTH

Under the streets of New York city are deposits of copper, lead and other valuable products far exceeding in quantity and value any mine yet discovered throughout the world. Engineers and scientists estimate the amount of copper to be found in the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx at 80,000,000 pounds, valued approximately at $7,500,000. The lead is estimated at 60,000,000 pounds, worth something like $4,800,000.

This discovery was announced at the electrical exposition at Grand Central palace, where the Consolidated Telegraph and Electric Subway company had a large exhibit showing a full-size cross section of one of the city's principal thoroughfares. In this mammoth cross section of earth and rock the veins of copper and of lead could be easily traced. Of course, the veins of copper are the wires carrying the electric current for lighting, heating, power and communication to every nook and corner of the great metropolis, while the lead is used to protect the cables.

The street cross section at the electrical exposition was 70 feet long by 25 feet deep. It showed the location of the street railway conduits and rails, electric service substation, distributing station, conduits, splicing chambers, with their unique water draining systems and other interesting things that lay beneath the streets of New York and mark the advanced stage of its civilization. It took a crew of 20 men a week to construct this interesting exhibit.

CHIEF HARBOR OF MACEDONIA

Salonica, Built About 315 B. C., Was Named by Its Founder for His Wife.

In the days when St. Paul Addressed his Epistles to the Thessalonians Salonica was not modern, for it was built about 315 B. C. on the site of an older city called Therme, says the London Globe, and was named by its founder after his wife, a sister of Alexander the Great. It has always been a place of importance, as it is the chief harbor of Macedonia, and was a point on the ancient highway from Rome to the East.

With a few fine buildings, like the old mosque which had been in turn a temple of Venus and a Christian church, it has always been a collection of houses largely of wood, and, therefore, highly inflammable in the extreme continuous heat of summer. The conflagration which recently swept away the main part of it is not by very many the first experience of the kind in its history, one of the most memorable being the fire at the beginning of September, 1890, which did $4,000,000 worth of damage.

Bidding for Trouble.

Who would suspect the supreme court of New York having pronounced views on the equality of the sexes? But here is Justice Goff, comments the St. Paul News, who not only admits that a woman may practice law, but insists that she is just like other lawyers.

Mary L. Lilly rose to address the court. "Are you a member of the bar?" queried the justice.

"Yes, your honor," the lady replied.

"Then you should remove your hat, like all other lawyers."

This little dialogue merely shows that the court values the "woman's prerogative" of changing her mind. Not many years ago Dr. Mary Walker was in trouble with the courts because she Woodmen, Attention!

Have You Any Wool?

"Baa, baa, black sheep, have you any wool?"—is now the chorused plaint of wool buyers, woolen mills, clothing manufacturers and merchant tailors.

There is an unprecedented shortage of wool throughout the world—due to the Great War. The reasons are clear as sunlight—and here they are.

Australia and the United States are the two great wool-producing countries. Australia's sheep men have been in the trenches for three years—she is now killing her sheep for mutton and every available ton of shipping is used to transport men, meat and equipment to Europe. Her contribution to the world's wool supply is therefore growing smaller and smaller and smaller, is rapidly reaching the vanishing point.

This same wool-shortage is being experienced in our domestic supply, for the same reasons and for added reasons.

Like any other business men, the sheep rancher in Wyoming or Montana is looking for profits. He will manufacture meat or wool, whichever pays him the best. There is an immediate cash demand, at very high prices, for his mutton and lamb. The supply of beef cattle and hogs are not beginning to meet our actual meat necessities. This means that more and more sheep are being slaughtered—the wool that's on their backs is all we'll ever get from them.

There's no use in winking or blinking at this situation or in pretending that it's just a trade scare. It is idiotic for us to say "pooh-pooh" to the repeated warning of the U. S. Government and the woolen manufacturers. It is foolish for us to read the "patriotic economy" warnings of representative clothing dealers and not heed them. We will pay dearly for our density—if we don't.

The buying moral is as plain as a pike-staff.

Every man who wants to wear woolen clothes next winter should buy them now, from present stocks, at present prices. These stocks were mostly bought a year ago when prices were normal. The merchant is now merely adding his usual profit and passing these normal prices along to his customers.

When these present wool-stocks are exhausted, it won't be a question of price at all, but a question of wool.

The man who wants to wear all-wool clothing next year AT ANY PRICE should buy it now—that's it. Two or three suits where he usually buys one—a whole year's supply while he can get any supply.

Never mind quibbling over patch-pockets or cuffs; don't get fussy over patterns—buy the wool. Every extra or new all-wool garment that you now hang in your clothes-closet will pay for itself, as com-increased prices that are now on the way.

TO FIX PRICES OF NECESSITIES

WILL ESTABLISH MAXIMUM BUT LEAVE MINIMUM TO INDIVIDUAL DEALER.

PUBLISH LIST NEXT WEEK

CO-OPERATION IS NECESSARY IF PLAN IS TO WORK OUT SATISFACTORILY.

Pennington county now has a fair food-pricing committee composed of twelve members, whose duty it is to meet once a week and fix what they judge will be a fair price for some score of food products, naming a minimum and maximum price at which the retailers of the county should sell, but still permitting them to go below the minimum if they choose.

This was the result of the talk last Thursday evening in the Commercial club rooms by Judge Wilson of Stillwater. He came here representing the national and state administrations and called on the various grocers, bakers, butchers, hotel and restaurant proprietors.

Will Appeal to Consumer.

In a forceful and conclusive manner the speaker pointed out wherein such a committee would be of immense assistance to the food administration and at the same time serve the buying public in a manner that would of necessity appeal to the people.

Similar price fixing committees have been named thruout this and other states and much good has already been accomplished. The committee met Monday of this week for the first time and elsewhere will be found the prices which they deem a fair and just in Pennington county. It will be observed that the wholesale price is given and also the retail prices. This table should be closely scrutinized each week by the people from all sections of the county.

Women Represented.

Various lines of endeavor were recognized in the choice of the committee, the aim being to make the committee as effective as possible. The personnel as given herewith, is one that should meet with the approval of all classes:

Hotels—Harry Brumund.
Wholesale grocers—F. H. Herrick.
Retail grocers—Emil Zeh and C. Christofferson.
Butchers—L. DeCremer.
Bakers—Fred Roth.
Railroad employees—N. J. Silk.
Citizens of Thief River Falls—Mayor G. A. Penney.
Farmers—Peter Englestad and G[illegible]e Eide.
Women—Mrs. H. A. Pratt and Mrs. T. L. Melgaard.

MERCHANTS NAME SMITH SECRETARY

LOCAL ASSOCIATION WILL BE REORGANIZED ON ENTIRELY NEW LINES.

At a special meeting of the Thief River Falls Retail Merchants association held last week Attorney G. Howard Smith was elected secretary to succeed John Wold, resigned.

The association will hold a general get-together meeting in the near future for the purpose of mapping out an entirely new line of procedure. The organization has been in existence only a short time but the effect of its good work is already being felt by nearly every affiliated business house. The new secretary will devote a large share of his time to the business of the merchants and as he has been very successful along lines which they desire to follow his selection should prove in every way satisfactory.

To Begin Alien Registration.

Postmaster John Morgan is ready to begin the registration of citizens of enemy countries on Monday morning, and any man born in Germany or Austria-Hungary who has not taken out his citizenship papers in this country must present himself at the postoffice. According to instructions received this week from Otto N. Raths, postmaster at St. Paul, who is in charge of the postoffice registrations in the [illegible], no charge for any part of the [illegible] can be made by the official ad[illegible]ring the oath.

Mr. Morgan does not anticipate any difficulty in getting the Germans or Austrians in the county to register when the purpose is explained to them.

Leaves to Join Army.

Hugh Bottleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bottleson of the East Side Drug store, left Tuesday evening for Duluth where he will join the army. This young man is not yet of age and would for this reason not be called into the service, but he felt as if it was his simple duty to offer himself as so many of his neighbors and former classmates have already done. He did not see why a few months difference in his age should exempt him and followed what looked to him like the right course. At the time of leaving he had not definitely decided upon the branch of the service he would prefer.

GREENHOUSE BURNS; WILL BE RE-BUILT

NEW PLANT OF MARTIN BOTHUN COMPLETELY BURNED THURSDAY NIGHT.

Fire originating in the boiler room completely destroyed the greenhouse of Martin Bothun at Duluth avenue and Tenth street early Friday morning. The blaze was discovered about one o'clock and in a very short time the building was entirely consumed. The loss is about $3,000 with $1,600 of insurance, $1,100 of which is on the building and $500 on the tools and equipment.

Mr. Bothun, who resides within a short distance from the greenhouse, was awakened by the alarm sounded by the temperature indicator in his room, placed there for the purpose of warning him whenever the greenhouse became either too warm or too cold. He hurried out only to find that the interior of the building was a mass of flames. The telephone wires had been burned off and he lost some time in awakening a neighbor in order to notify the department. The building was located outside the fire limits and there was but little the firemen could do because of the distance from water.

Mr. Bothun at once made temporary arrangements for supplying his customers and will fill any orders entrusted to him as heretofore. Should conditions in the spring be such as to make the erection of buildings possible, he will at once begin the erection of a new and larger greenhouse on the site of the old one.

WELL AND HAPPY IN U. S. SERVICE

FOUR McCRUM AND THREE PROVENCHER BOYS NOT AMONG KICKERS

As a general thing the letters reaching the folks at home from soldiers and sailors who have enlisted from Pennington county speak in the highest terms of the treatment accorded them at the different barracks and camps. Once in a long while there is naturally someone who finds fault with conditions, but the tone of such letters rather leads the reader to suspect that the fault lies to a great extent with the soldier himself.

No such complaints come from the sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. McCrum, residing southwest of Thief River Falls. This family holds the blue ribbon for the number of enlistments and every one of the boys is a booster for the particular service in which he finds himself. Wesley, who is at the Norfolk navy yard, has received recognition at the hands of his superiors, being now a second carpenter's mate. Frank, the second son, is also in the navy, the last letter from him being dated at some port in France. James is with the British engineers and has put in a year at the barracks in Halifax. He expects to sail for France in a short time. Harold is in the marines and was last heard from in Texas. All are in good health and report the best of treatment.

In this connection it is interesting to note that there are seven boys from two families in the service from this immediate vicinity. If the McCrums are the blue ribbon winners, the second prize should certainly go to Julien Provencher of the Hotel Evelyn. Three of his boys have enlisted, as follows: Harold, with the Rainbow division now in France; Will, with the First Missouri Artillery, now at Fort Sill, Okla., and Doris, on the coast with one of the California militia regiments. These boys also are enthusiastic in their praise of the service and have never had a word of complaint to offer.

First Pennington County Soldiers Die in Service

HENRY L. ANDERSON C. HENRY HERMANSON

DEATH SUMMONS SECOND SOLDIER

FUNERAL HERE MONDAY

HENRY L. ANDERSON BURIED AT ADA LAST MONDAY AFTERNOON.

The second enlisted man from Pennington county to be called by death while he was preparing to become a soldier in the army of his country, is C. Henry Hermanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hermanson, 221 Sixth street west, Thief River Falls. His death occurred at Fort Jackson, North Carolina, on Thursday afternoon last, and was due to pneumonia. His call thus came within twenty-four hours of the summons to Henry L. Anderson at Jefferson Barracks. Both these young men enlisted at the same time and entered the same branch of the service, that of the ordnance department. Mr. Anderson was taken sick shortly after his arrival while Mr. Hermanson was transferred to Camp Jackson.

No Warning of Seriousness.

A postal card received from someone in authority a few days previous to the announcement of his death stated that Mr. Hermanson was not in danger and that he would be out again in a few days. For this reason the news of his death came most unexpectedly and proved a decided shock. L. A. Hermanson, a brother of the deceased, at present a member of one of the regimental bands at Fort Dodge, had no inkling of the seriousness of the case and hastened home as soon as the necessary leave could be secured.

Was Born at Halsted.

Henry Hermanson, as he was known to everyone in this section, was born at Halsted in 1887, being thus 31 years of age at the time of his death. He moved here with his parents in 1900, attended the public schools and his enlistment is commemorated by one of the stars on the service flag of the local high school. At the time of his joining the army he was employed by the Oen Mercantile company, being in charge of the shoe department. He was an industrious, thoroughly likeable man whose many boyhood and early manhood friends will be more than ordinarily grieved at his untimely taking off.

Besides his parents and the brother mentioned above, deceased is survived by another brother Edward, now a resident of Minneapolis, and two sisters, Mrs. O. G. Granum and Miss Belle Hermanson, both of this city.

As the time of the arrival of the remains is somewhat uncertain no definite arrangements for the funeral have been made. It will however, likely be held on Monday afternoon from the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Funeral of H. L. Anderson.

"Henry Anderson, son of A. J. Anderson of this place, died at the Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo., last Wednesday, January 23, from pneumonia. Mr. Anderson is the first Norman county boy to die for his country in the present war. His death is extremely sad as he was of a fine character and had a promising future. He was thirty years of age and previous to going to Jefferson Barracks had been located at Thief River Falls where he was assistant cashier of a bank in that city. He was raised in Norman county, growing to manhood at the family home near Borup. His father was called to St. Louis about two weeks ago, remaining with him for several days and returning to his home here after it was thought that he had passed the danger point and that his recovery was assured. He left St. Louis just a week before the death of his son, and received a card Monday of last week stating that he was recovering. The deceased is survived by his father, one brother and five sisters.

"The remains were brought to Ada Sunday morning and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Hinderlie and Rev. G. H. Brekke, at Our Saviours Lutheran church, Monday forenoon. A large number of friends of the family gathered to pay their last respects.

"While Ada has no regular military organization the members of the Ada Home Guard attended the funeral in a body. Following the services the remains were taken to Borup where interment was made in the Borup cemetery."

HOME GUARDS WERE SOMEWHAT PEEVED

ACTION OF G. N. RAILWAY OFFICIALS CAUSES KEEN DISAPPOINTMENT.

Nine members of Company C, Tenth Battallion, Minnesota Home Guard, left here on Sunday evening for the purpose of attending the funeral of Henry L. Anderson, who died at Jefferson Barracks last week. Before starting on their journey they called the offices of the Great Northern railway at Crookston for the purpose of learning whether or not they might be certain of making the necessary connections with that line, this being necessary in order to get to Ada. They intended taking the Soo from this city to Detroit, from which point they would go to Glyndon over the Northern Pacific, changing from that road to the Great Northern at that junction town. They were assured that even though the trains were not running on schedule time, stops of sufficient length would be made to enable them to make the necessary connections to get them to Ada in time for the funeral on Monday afternoon. The division superintendent at Crookston promised faithfully to see that orders to this effect were sent to the proper stations.

The Northern Pacific train reached Glyndon about four minutes behind schedule and the Thief River men alighted in time to see the tail-lights of the Great Northern disappearing in the distance. The train had not been held for one minute, although the headlight of the Northern Pacific engine was in sight when the Great Northern pulled out. It was impossible to secure conveyances of any kind for the trip at this time of year and the guardsmen waited for another train and started back home. They were to have been pall-bearers and were also the military representatives at the funeral.

An explanation of the conduct of the railway officials will be requested from President Louis Hill direct. The affair was either the result of deliberate attempt to cause inconvenience and annoyance or it was a mighty poor piece of railroad management.

Those making the trip were: Capt. W. B. Fuller, Lieuts. Oscar Sponheim and W. W. Prichard, Jr., Mayor G. A. Penney, E. O. Mogenson, W. H. Akre, E. C. Karwand, T. S. Brekke and Charles Swartz.

Rev. F. J. Seitz was at Lancaster last Monday where he conducted services.

NO MONEY FOR PRIOR DEFICIT

MEANS $6000 TO DISTRICT

APPROPRIATION FOR 1917 AND 1918 MUST BE APPLIED FOR THOSE YEARS.

The decision of the state school board to pay the deficit in the appropriation for years prior to 1917 out of the funds authorized by the legislature as available for the purpose during 1917 and 1918, is not authorized by law. This is the decision handed down last week by the state supreme court. The money appropriated as state aid for last year and the present year must be applied exactly as designated in the act passing the legislature.

Outcome of Veto.

At the last session a bill was passed appropriating the money necessary to meet all the deferred payments of state aid, but this was vetoed by the governor. The appropriation for 1917 and 1918 was, however, passed and approved. As this left many school districts in the state in debt because of their having depended upon the deferred payments being provided for, an attempt was made to have the deficits paid out of the same sum, a proposition to which the attorney general acceded. The state board of education, however, interposed an objection and action was brought by J. F. Mushel of Sauk Center to compel payment. The decision rendered upholds the state board.

The opinion was written by Justice Hallam, Chief Justice Brown and Justice Quinn dissenting and concludes:

"Construing this statute in the light of its history and circumstances, and in connection with other legislation, it is held it appropriates money for use in payment of aid accruing during the specific years mentioned and does not authorize payment, out of the amount appropriated, of a deficit accruing prior to those years."

Means About $6,000 Here.

District No. 18 of Pennington county will be cut off from about $6,000 by the decision. A part of this will be regained through the appropriation for the current year, but the amount lost will amount to a considerable sum.

GUSTAFSONS BUY RICHARD STOCKS

WILL CONSOLIDATE BUSINESS OF TWO FARM IMPLEMENT CONCERNS HERE.

Charles Gustafson & Son, farm implement dealers in this city, on Tuesday closed a deal whereby they will take over the entire stock of similar machinery heretofore carried by the Prichard Lumber company. The consolidation will give the Gustafson concern one of the largest machinery stocks in this section as well as make them the only firm in the city handling this line of merchandise exclusively.

The removal of the Prichard stock from the old warehouse on Horace avenue to the Gustafson warehouse at the corner of Main and Fourth will be begun at once. The stock comprises everything in the line of farm machinery, including gas engines and power tractors.

That this consolidation will prove a good business move is certain. The maintaining of two such excellent establishments as the Prichard and Gustafson concerns cost a big sum of money in these times and the cutting down of the overhead expenses will make it possible for the sole owners to give better service and better prices than when two were bidding for the business.

No Further Notification.

The personal property tax must be paid before the first day of March and no further notification will be given of the amount due nor of the time for payment. The law now requires that the list be published as in the case of delinquent real estate taxes and this is all the notification the county treasurers are obliged to give. Treasurer Liden wishes attention called to this matter in order that no person will await the arrival of a further notice.

HOME GUARD DANCE IS POSTPONED ONE WEEK

Out of respect to the memory of Henry L. Anderson and C. Henry Hermanson, who recently died while in the service of their country, the Home Guard dance advertised for the evening of Friday, Feb. 1, has been postponed for one week. The dance will be given at the Auditorium on Friday evening, Feb. 8.

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

BALANCE IS OVER $48,000

TOTAL AMOUNT OF OUTSTANDING OBLIGATIONS, INCLUDING LIGHT BONDS $216,000.

The financial statement of the city as made public by the city clerk's office, shows that the conditions are generally very good and that it cost $111,558.78 to carry on the municipal business during the past year. The receipts fell a little below this figure, being $96,252.09, but considerable money was spent in sewer extension work, laying water mains and digging wells to supply the city with drinking water, as well as the construction of a half million gallon reservoir for storage of water for fire protection purposes.

The cash balance on hand January 1 was $48,157.21 a sufficient sum to carry on the city's affairs for some little time.

Good Sum on Hand.

The municipality starts the new year with a cash balance on hand of over $48,000 and total assets of nearly half a million. The table is as follows:

Water and Light System	$205,154.23
Auditorium	46,000.00
Sewer System	121,290.67
Sidewalks & Crossings	21,410.75
Steel Bridge over river	13,000.00
Cash on hand	48,157.21
Miscellaneous	41,738.00
	$496,750.86

Outstanding Obligations.

The total indebtedness of the city, including outstanding bonds, sewer certificates and time certificates, is $216,300, leaving assets over liabilities amounting to $280,450.86. The distribution is as follows:

Auditorium bonds	$ 45,000.00
Electric Light bonds	60,000.00
Water works bonds	92,000.00
Sewer Certificates	9,600.00
Time Certificates	5,500.00
Cemetery Contracts	4,300.00
Assets over liabilities	280,450.86
	$496,750.86

COMMITTEES FOR TERM ARE NAMED

PRESIDENT IHLE OF CITY COUNCIL DIVIDES WORK AMONG COLLEAGUES

The new city council is now completely organized and the different standing committees have been selected. President O. L. Ihle has indicated his confidence in the ability and willingness of the new men on the board by selecting them for chairmanships in a number of instances. M. N. Benson remains at the head of the important committee on finance, while Mr. Ihle remains as the head of the committee on roads, streets and sidewalks. The committees are made up as follows, the first named in each instance being the chairman:

Finance—M. N. Benson, O. L. Ihle and P. O. Myhrum.

Board of Health—Dr. O. F. Mellby, C. Froseth, S. Brandon and A. K. Olson.

Poor—A. K. Olson, S. Brandon and C. Froseth.

Roads, Streets and Sidewalks—O. L. Ihle, M. N. Benson and P. O. Myhrum.

Electric Light and Water Works—P. O. Myhrum, O. L. Ihle and A. K. Olson.

CRANDALL AGAIN CLUB PRESIDENT

RECEIVES 34 VOTES OUT OF 57 CAST IN FREE-FOR-ALL ELECTION.

STRONG DIRECTING BOARD

SECRETARY TO BE CHOSEN AT ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING IN FEBRUARY.

President—Dr. C. R. Crandall.
First Vice President—John Bratrud.
Second Vice President—Scott Laird.
Treasurer—W. W. Prichard, Jr.
Directors—Roy Lambert, O. L. Cronstrom, Anton Langseth, E. O. Mogenson and Math Barzen.

The annual election of officers and directors of the Commercial club on Thursday of last week resulted as indicated above. All but the last three men were re-elected.

Dr. Crandall led all others in the race for presidency, receiving 34 votes out of 57 cast for that position. In no instance was there any doubt as to a choice but the field was quite large for each place on the ticket.

Plenty of Candidates.

There were 13 candidates for president, 19 for first vice president, 32 for second vice president, 17 for treasurer, and 51 names were submitted as directors.

The balloting started at nine o'clock in the morning and continued till eight in the evening. Many of the club members took occasion to stay for the stand-up lunch at half past six when they went to the club rooms for the purpose of voting. At the close of the balloting President Crandall named G. Howard Smith, Harry Prichard and F. F. Haynes as tellers and they canvassed the votes during the food conservation talk given in the club rooms that evening.

Select Secretary Later.

The annual organization meeting will be held early in February at which time a secretary will be chosen. A program of work for the coming year will also be outlined and general plans for the coming year discussed.

Since the outbreak of the war a great deal of the organization's time has been taken up by Red Cross work, Liberty Bond sales and kindred activities, and it is certain that these will continue to play an important part in its general program. It is felt, however, that other matters can be included without in any manner detracting from the value of the club as an aid of the government and the original intention should not be lost sight of. By keeping abreast of the times in all other matters the organization will better be able to do what is expected of it along patriotic lines.

SECOND HEATLESS MONDAY OBSERVED

NUMBER OF CHANGES MADE IN REGULATIONS GOVERNING CLOSING.

Thief River Falls took the second heatless Monday as a matter of course and not a growl was heard except from a few persons who had neglected to provide themselves with a sufficient supply of snuff or cigarettes. These could be procured on the first closed Monday a week ago, but a new ruling prohibits traffic in even such necessities.

Some slight changes have been made in favor of food selling emporiums. All grocery stores, meat establishments and other places selling food are permitted to run on Monday, but only until noon. Fruit and flower stores are allowed to stay open until noon, but only to sell fruit, food and flowers for funerals or weddings and on advance party orders. Barber shops and shoe shining parlors close at noon.

No violations were reported on either of the Mondays set apart as heatless, and but very few instances where merchants had even been requested to open their places. The order of the fuel commission is being complied with strictly, as far as Thief River Falls is concerned.

We shall fight for the things we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations, and make the world itself at last free. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and the peace which she has treasured. GOD HELPING HER, SHE CAN DO NO OTHER.—President Wilson.

THE FIRST TO FALL

Thief River Falls is in mourning this week for the first two young men of its citizenry called upon to answer the final summons as a direct result of the war. The fact that they did not die while engaged in actual battle does not alter the fact that they were in the service, preparing to enter actively into any enterprise assigned to them. Their sacrifice is as great as though they had met their death facing the enemy amid the roar of cannon and clashing of sabers.

It is all very well to be philosophical and figure out to one's own entire satisfaction that there is nothing very unusual about two young men out of the two hundred or more sent from this county meeting their death while engaged in the most hazardous occupation in the world, and it is cetrain that our people would give the matter but slight consideration had it happened to anyone but our own boys. But just now we do not think of these things. All we are able to grasp is that here were two young men who might have been spared for long lives of usefulness had it not been that their country required their services and that they were for this reason called upon to face conditions for which their previous mode of living had but poorly fitted them. Like hundreds of thousands of other Americans, they went when they were called and early paid the price which thousands of others will without doubt be required to pay.

No nation in the world's history has ever engaged in a more just and unselfish war than the one upon which the United States has entered and no man ever volunteered in a more noble cause. They fully realize the dangers they are facing, but in order that the world may be forever freed from the danger of a repetition of these scenes they have give themselves without reservation to whatever the fates may have in store for them. That these two fell before being permitted to strike a blow is more to be regretted on our account than on their own.

The circumstances surrounding the death of these young men is rather unusual. Enlisting at the same time and entering the same branch of the service, but sent to different training camps, they died within a few hours of one another, and of the same complaint. Both were connected with business establishments in this city and their indoor life had perhaps but poorly equipped them for the rigors of the training camp. According to report everything possible was done for them by the medical men of the barracks, but although they made a good fight, pneumonia proved the victor.

They are the first from this county to fall and we owe their memory as much honor as if they had performed the work for which they volunteered.

ARE YOU CARRYING YOUR SHARE?

The Times has been given to understand that there will soon be a campaign launched for the purpose of enrolling every business and professional man in Thief River Falls as a member of the Commercial club. The only surprising thing about this is that any such campaign should be necessary.

The Commercial club today stands for more than just a boosting organization, maintained primarily for the purpose of booming the city and calling attention to its advantages. Without any apparent change of policy, it has drifted into a position of much greater importance to the members, the community and the country at large. This war has brought about certain changes in practically every line of human activity and nowhere is this more apparent than in the community organizations throughout the land. Without seeming particularly to do so, the clubs have assumed a sort of guardianship over the different activities connected with war work of any kind. The Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus—soldier welfare generally—all have to a greater or less degree been sponsored and aided by the organization. The club rooms have at all times been placed at the disposal of those who had anything to offer for the general welfare or public's information. Committees and individuals have without hesitation taken up work which could not by any possible stretch of the imagination be regarded as tending toward personal profit or even community development. Something larger and more important has engrossed the attention of the members.

There are, however, a few slackers on the job, and the whole-hearted, sincere workers have to carry their share of the burden. It takes time and money to carry on in this manner day after day, and those who fail to do their part simply make the load of the others that much heavier. The work must somehow be done and the task set would be severe enough if every man did his share. When any considerable number fail to do this, it simply means that others must do it for them.

This is not right and would, as a matter of fact, not be necessary if everyone understood in just what manner they could help. One of the best ways of finding this out is to join the Commercial club. You will be surprised at the number of places in which you can make yourself useful to your city, state and country if you mingle with men who are already doing their share in this respect. It is not your fault particularly if you have not found the place in which you can be of the greatest value, but it is decidedly your fault if you do not try to find out.

THE FIXING OF PRICES

Nothing has so ominous a sound to the buying public as the expression "price fixing." The term carries with it an impression of secret conferences, business agreements, price-boosting plots, monopolies and a general "public-be-damned" policy. The American citizen has of late years had no very good reason for suspecting that agreements might be entered into for the purpose of keeping the price "down." He is, however, at the present moment witnessing this phenomenon.

The grocers and butchers of Thief River Falls have voluntarily entered into an agreement to charge a fair and reasonable price for the products they handle. The price will naturally vary with the market conditions, but the percentage of profit will be kept as nearly as possible at the figure agreed upon. In no case is this price exorbitant, leaving instead of a swollen profit a much smaller margin than is usually considered a fair and just compensation for the tradesmen.

To prove their sincerity in this matter the merchants will each week publish the wholesale price of their wares, together with the profit considered fair by the United States Food Administration. The published price will be the maximum, it being understood that nothing in the agreement prevents a merchant from selling below this figure if he so desires. When it comes to taking the public into their confidence, the food dealers of the country are going just a little farther than any class of business men have yet ventured.

In looking over the published list it may seem to certain buyers, not well versed in the cost of doing business under present conditions, as if the margin is too large. They should remember, however, that while the cost of doing business is vastly greater than at any time in the history of the country, the difference between original cost and final cost has never been so slight. Because of his increased overhead cost the dealer ought of right to be entitled to a larger margin, but instead of this it is made closer. No one wants him to do business at an actual loss, a condition that would surely follow if a more drastic cut were made.

It is to be hoped that the buying public will be as reasonable as the merchants have been. They will have to pay somewhat higher prices, of course, but conditions over which neither wholesaler nor retailer has the slightest control make this necessary. The higher price extends clear back to the seed the farmer puts into the ground and to the feed he gives his stock. He, as the original seller of the product, must get a higher price for it from the wholesaler, who in turn must pass it on. As is the case under any and all circumstances, the ultimate consumer pays the bill finally. The latter's income has not kept pace with the growing costs, perhaps, but this will have to be gotten at through a different process. Asking merchants to sell their wares at less than a reasonable profit would only ruin the merchant and help the consumer but temporarily, if at all.

Everyone will have to use a little common sense and toleration in this matter.

BUY A SMILEAGE BOOK

If you were a soldier for whose entertainment and diversion a lot of thoughtful and patriotic people had provided entertainments in the shape of concerts, moving pictures, lectures and such like, and all that was necessary in order to enable you to enjoy this was a little Smileage Book, provided by the folks at home and costing one dollar, how would you feel if they failed to do this much for you? The boys from other cities and states would all be going. Their people had not forgotten. You, however, were not able to go with them because no one cared enough about your happiness or welfare to come across with the measly dollar. Wouldn't you be proud of the section from which you haled? How would you explain the oversight or negligence to the other boys of your acquaintance? You would be a thoroughbred, of course, and lie about it. You would say that you had received word that the Smileage Book would be along in a day or so as it had somehow been lost in shipment. You would never let a peep out of you about the bunch for whom you expected to fight being too miserly to give up the dollar or too lazy to give the subject a thought. No, you would stick up for a lot of home folks who were proving that they were hardly worth the effort.

But how would you feel?

These Smileage Books will provide many hours of the very best entertainment procurable for the boys at the training camps. But they must be bought by the folks at home. There is no danger of getting too many. In case one of the soldiers should have more than he can use there would always be someone who had been overlooked and who might therefore be persuaded to accept one from a more fortunate comrade. That is why it might be a good plan to hand your dollar to the county chairman in charge of the collection with instructions to use it to the best advantage. Some soldier would surely receive it, and while it might go to one from another section entirely, the matter would be evened up when some Pennington county man received one that had been paid for by a citizen of Florida or Oregon.

You may, of course, send the Smileage Book direct to the particular soldier in whom you are most interested. But whatever plan you employ to get it there—send one.

FOR FLOOD CONTROL

America needs more tillable acres and it now looks as if there might be some sensible plan evolved for providing them. In the states of Minnesota and the two Dakotas there are large tracts at present producing nothing in the way of crops that would be made productive if some attention could be given to their drainage. The crying need for the very crops to which these lands are best adapted has turned the eyes of congress toward them and something may come of it. In this connection the Fargo Courier-News has the following to say:

"To the man on the outside looking in it appears that there should be some action taken in the flood control situation. The federal government considers the situation in North and South Dakota and Minnesota of sufficient importance to send a representative here to look over the grounds and ascertain, so far as is possible by a brief examination, what the needs of this part of the country are.

"The government has also agreed to pay a part of the expenses of a preliminary survey and the state administration is also ready to see what can be accomplished. The request that is made of the individual counties as their share of the expenses is small, compared with the benefit that will accrue, and it appears that something should be done.

"It cannot be denied that a great deal of loss has been sustained by the farmers in the Red River valley as the result of flooded conditions during a number of springs. The damage estimate has been placed in the millions by men whom it is easy to believe are competent to make an accurate survey of the loss. The prevention of one spring flood will pay many times for the cost of the prevention."

A SHABBY TRICK

The Great Northern Railway company is about as popular in this city just at this moment as the meat packers are with the people of the country. The officials in charge of that corporation evidently care nothing whatever about the convenience of the public their line is supposed to serve. And that is not all. They will stoop to deliberate misrepresentation and evasion where anyone hailing from Thief River Falls is to be accommodated. The measly trick played on nine representative citizens from this city who attempted to get as far as Ada to be present at the funeral of one of the soldier boys who enlisted from this city will long be remembered here and the company will find itself placed at the end of the list when any question of business division comes up.

The nine men who went from here to attend the funeral of one who had died in the service of his country had the word of a high official of the company that the train over which they must make their journey from Glyndon would be held a few minutes if this were necessary in order to make connections with the Great Northern from Detroit. The last-named train was a few minutes late and pulled in to the depot at the junction town just in time to see the tail lights of the Great Northern disappearing down the track. Had the conductor waited only two minutes the connection would have been made. As it was the journey came to an end right there and the Thief River men came back without paying the last respects to their comrade.

If you have never seen a real mad bunch you should have been at the depot when these home guards returned. And if you think that the Great Northren made any money or friends through the performance you ought to hear them talk.

EAT MORE POTATOES

By eating more potatoes the people of the United States will be serving a two-fold purpose. First and foremost, greater home consumption means that there will be more wheat for export. It is doubtful if the American people generally understand fully even yet the importance of saving every bushel of wheat possible in order that it may be sent to our soldiers and those of our allies. Other things are necessary, but it seems that nothing is so absolutely essential as wheat. Potatoes cannot be shipped to Europe. The spoilage would be too great in the first place, and the lowly spud, while good and reliable as a food product as far as it goes, is not to be compared in this respect with wheat. The other reason is that potato raisers must have a greater home consumption if a very large share of last year's crop is to be saved. We will want potatoes again next year and unless the farmer gets somewhere near what they are worth at this time it is certain that he will refuse to plant them.

We have, it is estimated, at the present time a crop of 80,000,000 bushels more than normal, equal in food value to 20,000,000 bushels of wheat. In order to get the wheat to where it will do the most good we will have to eat the potatoes at home.

In this one respect we are urged to be lavish.

THE NEW FOOD PROCLAMATION

(Minneapolis Tribune.)

President Wilson's proclamation should impress the American people anew with the vital importance of conserving foodstuffs. The situation for the Allies is a serious one. It is in our power to prevent its becoming acutely critical, and that with mighty little sacrifice as the term is rightly understood in these trying days.

We are asked now to make Mondays and Wednesdays of each week wheatless and to have one wheatless meal on other days. We are further asked to eat no beef, pork or mutton on Tuesdays, to have one meatless meal daily and to cut out pork entirely on Saturdays.

The President puts this request up to the patriotism and sacrificing spirit of the people. We are to be volunteers at breakfast, dinner and supper tables while our soldiers and those of the Allies abroad are volunteers or conscripts in the trenches. The chasm between these two kinds of service and sacrifice is a wide one, with the big end of the glory and credit on the side of "the boys." They are to endure genuine hardship, privation and discomfort for our sakes. The sense of American appreciation is too keen to give rise to any doubt that they will do their part in the sacred compact for liberty and right.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans have been practicing for months a more extensive conservation of meats, wheat and sugar than the President now appeals to all to practice. Let us rest assured that if the need did not exist and if it were not imperative, we would not be adjured to meet it in the way suggested. We shall be fortunate indeed if the stress of war shall not be felt more heavily at the family boards before peace comes again. One excellent way to forefend such a fate is to live up to the letter of the latest proclamation and then some.

MAKE AN EXAMPLE OF THEM

The senate investigation into the methods employed by the big meat packers discloses a startling state of affairs. It shows that even at this time of peril to the country this rapacious trust has not failed to employ every possible means to wring a greater profit out of the people. The story is the blackest spot on our record as a country at war. There is nothing congress or any other power can do that will be deemed too severe as a punishment for these pirates.

Somehow the report made by Secretary of War Baker to the senate committee on military affairs on the progress made by the United States since we entered the war has a reassuring effect. His position was stated in the calm, dignified and thorough manner that the American people like, and confidence in him and his department has received a decided boost. People wanted to think conditions were just as the secretary has shown them, and are pretty well satisfied. The Roosevelt-Chamberlain attack on the war department, and incidentally on the administration, has fallen rather flat, and the stock of the former is down another notch.

The following is from Pollock's Weekly, a publication furnishing newspaper clippings to industrial enterprises and others throughout the Northwest. It indicates the trend in the newspaper business and proves that publishers as well as advertisers are beginning to look at things from a business standpoint: "Ayer's Newspaper Annual and Directory for 1918, which is now off the press, shows a loss of about 1,200 publications in the United States and Canada during the past year. There is a net decrease of 62 dailies, 60 semi-weeklies, 569 weeklies, and 9 monthlies. Many weeklies are accounted for by consolidations, which were a blessing both to the owners and to the communities served, giving one good strong paper, capable of giving the service to which the people were entitled, in place of two or three struggling papers which could not give service to the community nor a living to the publishers."

SOME KINDS OF STIMULANTS

Alcohol and Wine Favored by Europeans, Poppy by Chinese, Bhang by the Indians.

When the European is weary he calls for alcohol to revive him; when he is joyful he takes wine, that he may have more joy. In like manner the Chinese woos his "white lady," the poppy flower, the Indian chews bhang, the West African seeks [illegible] in kola, observes a correspondent in National Geographical Magazine.

Khat is more to the Yemen Arab than any of these to its devotees. It is no narcotic, wooing sleep, but a stimulant, like alcohol. Unlike alcohol, it conceals no demon, but a fairy. The khat eater will tell you that when he follows this fairy it takes him into regions overlooking paradise. He calls the plant the "flower of paradise."

How and when khat came into the Yemen is not certain. Botanists say that it was brought over from Harrar, in Abyssinia, many centuries ago. There is a tradition among the wise men of the East that the sheik Ibrahim Abou Zarbayn introduced it into Hodeidah from Ethiopia about 1430. But ask any Yemen Arab and he will tell you "it has been always. Allah gave it to us in the beginning, to make us forget labor and pain."

Contrary to the general opinion held by those who pretend to know anything about it at all, khat is never used as a beverage in the Yemen, but the fresh leaves are invariably chewed. The youngest leaves are the best. They have a sweetish, slightly astringent taste, not unpleasant to the European palate, but certainly not alluring. When brewed, they lose most of their strength and the flavor of the decoction is much like that of those grapevine "cigarettes" which most of us enjoyed (?) in boyhood days. The old leaves are tough and ought to tan a leathern tongue.

Just what is the exact toxic effect of khat on the human system has never yet been ascertained. It is certainly a stimulant with a lively and nearly immediate effect upon the brain and nerve cells; the gloomiest man becomes cheerful under its influence, the most enervated active. Withal, I have been unable to learn of a single case of immediate or harmful reaction such as invariably follows the use of other stimulants.

Australia Prepares for Soldiers.

Australia has, from the first, grappled with the question of providing for her soldiers after the war with commendable energy and forethought. For some months the Australian patriation fund has been devoting itself to the consideration and development of various plans whilst many practical steps have been taken by individuals and communities toward the formation of definite settlement schemes, says a correspondent. The state government of New South Wales has set aside special areas for cultivation by returned soldiers. These efforts were supplemented by the generosity of one landowner who gave a tract of land amounting to thousands of acres for that purpose. Australia's first need is population and the commonwealth will have an opportunity, after the war, not only to supply her own need but also to do a great service to the labor market by affording that "room for adjustment," which it will need. The federal government has already promised $10,000,000 for the work and has pledged itself to raise an additional $150,000,000 in the future.

Didn't Like It.

A colonel of a well-known Highland regiment, on returning from the army, had built a snug little villa which he had named "The Retreat."

His gardener, who was an old soldier from the same regiment, on being shown over the place for the first time by the colonel, was asked by the latter what he thought of the place.

"Fine! But I dinna like that," said the old soldier, pointing to the name on the entrance.

"Why?" replied the colonel. "What's the matter with it?"

"Weel, sir," replied the veteran, drawing himself up, "ye ken ye never heard that played on oor bugles."

Was Busy Enough.

"Here's a real joke," writes a correspondent of the Army and Navy Journal. "A conscript soldier of the National army at a western camp—one of the million that sprang to arms over night—was sitting on a lumber pile in the cantonment whittling out a 'rifle.' The whole company was similarly employed, by order. One of his old home neighbors from another company came up, looked him over, and asked, 'Bill, how do you like your new job?' 'Don't say a word, Bud; I'm mighty glad I'm not in the artillery!'"

Puts Trademark on Apples.

Here y'are—your monogram on an apple. It's the latest wrinkle. S. O. Butler, fruit grower of Helmer, Ind., has a method of putting initials, pictures of horses, cows and most anything on apples. After the fruit has become full grown, a stencil is placed on its surface and the leaves pulled away to allow the sunlight to color the skin.

Interior Adornment.

"What has become of my cream?" cried Mrs. Subbub.

"Your cherry cream?" repeated the cook.

"Yes, my complexion cream."

"I thought that was some fancy pasto you got for the party last night, so I spread it on the sandwiches!"

Letters From Our Soldiers

IS BOOSTER FOR THE AUXILARIES

THIEF RIVER SOLDIER WRITES OF WORK OF RED CROSS AND Y. M. C. A.

HAVE EVERY CONVENIENCE

PROVISIONS MADE FOR ENTERTAINMENT AND COMFORT IN SENSIBLE WAY

Omer Anderson, an enlisted man from Thief River Falls, a former member of the fire department and later employed on the Engelstad farm in Rocksbury township, writes from Washington University camp, giving his opinion of the work being done by the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. His attitude toward these organizations has undergone a complete change. He was one of those inclined to the belief that much of the money subscribed to help along the work of these army auxiliaries was either wasted or dishonestly diverted, and he managed to get himself quite seriously disliked on numerous occasions for his rather pronounced views on the subject. For this reason the following letter will be read with more than the usual interest.

On Way to France.

Paul Engelstad, to whom the letter is written, believes that its perusal will help many who are only lukewarm in their support of the work done by these two great organizations, and may aid in setting some of them on the right track.

Private Anderson is now on the ocean and will soon be with the boys who are actively engaged against the country's enemies in France. He promises to keep his old neighbors advised, as far as possible, of what befalls him over there, and future communication will be looked forward to with interest. In the meantime we hope Times subscribers will carefully read the following letter:

"Dear Paul: Your letter of the 21st received and I certainly was glad to hear from you. I like army life immensely and we are being treated very fine. I fully believe that a better lot of officers could not be found in any regiment, barring none. Although we cannot leave camp except on passes which are issued each Wednesday and Saturday afternoon, we have plenty of amusement.

A Grand Institution.

"The Y. M. C. A. is now regarded as one of the most efficient factors in the army and together with the Red Cross they are 'with the colors' in France looking out for the Sammies of the U. S. A. Every camp has a Y. M. C. A., which is used not by the privates alone but also by the officers. The hut is a long building with benches on both sides and with writing tables around the room against the walls. Here men are given writing paper and envelopes and if a Y. M. C. A. man learns that a chap is broke and wants to write home he is furnished with stamps, but more often a pal will give him some stamps. They have a number of musical instruments which the soldier boys can take if they can play any of them. Nearly every evening they have moving pictures, which are shown after a talk by either the Y. M. C. A. secretary or some other person who is invited to address the soldiers. The boys gather here and sing songs and there is always something doing every minute. The building is also used as a reception parlor where the men may meet their mothers, wives and sweethearts.

Regular Church Services.

"Church services are held here every Sunday for all denominations and visiting clergymen hold communion for the boys. Everything in the Y. M. C. A. is free—reading room, writing paper and envelopes, piano, etc. What would the soldiers 'over there' do without the Y. M. C. A. huts? They could not exist, and that is why more huts are needed in France.

Has Changed His Mind.

"There was a time when I thought that the money given for Y. M. C. A. work was not all used but I am now trying to figure out how they make the money go as far as it does. Any man who does not indorse the Y. M. C. A. work is not the right sort and not fit to be called an American.

Work of Red Cross.

"Then there is the Red Cross. At Christmas they gave the men here and at Fort Meyers, Va., a comfort kit and a sweater. The comfort kit consisted of soap, shaving brush, housewife, towels, paper, envelopes, shoe strings, pencil, etc. It certainly was some kit and one cannot imagine how many were given away. ALL the men at every camp or cantonment were given a Red Cross package. There are about 46,000 men at Camp Travis, San Antonio, Texas, and tens of thousands at other camps, not speaking of our troops 'over there.' All men of the United States in the Allied army also received their packages. After carrying on a work like that, don't you think that a fellow ought to be proud of the American Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A.? I know I am.

"I am leaving today for 'somewhere,' but will drop you a line no doubt — perhaps from a hut in France."

ON THE BROAD PACIFIC

Thief River Falls Man Writes Home of His Experiences With the Railroad Contingent.

While quite a number of railroad men who were residents of this city enlisted to go to Russia with the contingent sent to that country for the purpose of aiding in the straightening out of the transportation system, but little has been heard from them since they left home. The following letter from Thos. J. Rowan, formerly chief train dispatcher on the Thief River Falls division of the Soo, will therefore prove of interest. It was received by Mrs. Rowan, who still resides here, dated at sea, Thursday, Dec. 6, and is in part as follows:

"The trip from Honolulu has been rather uneventful so far, except yesterday, which was very stormy. An awful bunch of the boys were seasick, and believe me they sure did feed the fishes. Boyce and I kept our sea legs but we were not laughing at anybody as the sea was so rough no one knew when he would be the next. Every once in a while some chap would rush to the rail and spill his meal into the ocean, and you know that makes a man feel pretty much like following suit. You can imagine how bad the sea was when every little while a big wave would wash way over the top of the ship and if you didn't get under cover you would get a good ducking. I was wet several times while dodging under the decks to cover when some big roller came over.

Lost a Whole Day.

"Monday was December third and at four o'clock in the afternoon we passed the 180th meridian so that at 4:01 o'clock it was Tuesday, the fourth, and thus in this week there are only six days. Another peculiarity is that in Siberia they use a different calendar and are therefore 13 days later than we are. We expect to land there Dec. 17th and with them that day will be Dec. 4th.

"The general health of the bunch is very good, only a few mild cases of sickness being reported.

"The weather is about 65 or 70 degrees above zero today and we are still sitting on deck in our shirt sleeves at eight p. m.

Studying Russian.

"Our daily program is about as follows: Russian classes 9 to 10 o'clock; physical exercise 10:15 to 10:30, and book of rules from 2 to 3 in the afternoon. I have breakfast at 8, luncheon at 1 and dinner at 7, and you ought to see me eat. I eat more breakfast now than I used to eat in six meals at home. This bracing sea air sure gives a fellow a fine appetite—if he can only hang onto it after he comes on deck. Boyce is a good sailor and he and I have had no trouble so far in holding our meals.

"I take either a tub or shower bath every afternoon at 4:45 and shave myself every day, using cold water in the operation. Don't have any troubles at that.

No Time to Read.

"You know how I like to read. Well, there is all kinds of reading matter, but don't seem to find any time for it. Between eating and going to classes and studying my Russian I am kept pretty busy. We are getting along pretty well in Russian and have mastered about 125 words in addition to 100 sentences. We are now able to make ourselves understood to a certain extent and by the time we land we will be able to converse enough to ask for the necessary articles of food, drink, and price and quantity. We are now starting to learn the script writing and we naturally find that very hard. Our teacher, however, is very hopeful we will soon acquire that also.

Land in Japan.

"We will land at some Japanese port—either Nagasaki or Yokohama—and if we do I will mail this from there, but if we don't you will get this from Vladivostock or somewhere else. Don't know just how mail goes from Siberia. It would make better time via London than across the Pacific.

"At noon today we were 5971 miles from Japan and making about 300 miles per day. We have thus a long ways to go yet before this boat trip is over and I expect we (the Soo line contingent) have about 150 miles to go by rail in order to get to our working division. The feeding of this gang on board the boat is some job. Besides the 400 men in our bunch there are 220 employes on the boat, three big meals a day for 620 men means some provisions used up.

"We took 3,000 tons of coal at Honolulu and burn about 100 tons a day. Also loaded an enormous lot of fruit—pineapples, bananas and poipoa at Honolulu. Fresh pineapple is sure some delicacy and enjoyed by all of us. The way they serve it is to cut off the top right under the leaves, then cut around the inside of the shell with a sharp knife, cut off the bottom and [illegible] the required thickness in shell. I eat two [illegible] twice a day. While [illegible] bought whole ones for [illegible] ate them up quickly. The [illegible] bananas are short but [illegible] and we sure go after 'em. They serve a melon poipoa for breakfast. [illegible] are a peculiar thing—cross between a squash and an over-ripe cucumber. You put lots of lemon juice on them and if you have a strong stomach you can get away with it. The [illegible] of pepsin and is good [illegible] each, but I claim it is hard to swallow. [illegible] are fine and all you [illegible] there is always a variety [illegible] three to five [illegible] and fish each meal. The [illegible] which come from [illegible] sweet potatoes from Honolulu are very poor, especially the sweet variety.

"Well, it is time to ring off and I must go to supper."

NOW ON FRENCH SOIL

E. P. Brevig Writes Very Entertainingly of His First Impressions of the Country and People.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. T. L. Melgaard, The Times is this week enabled to print an interesting letter from E. P. Brevig, who is with Company B, First Battalion of the 20th Engineers, "somewhere in France." Mr. Brevig up to the time of his enlistment was a member of the Citizens State bank force and one of the best known and most popular young men of the city. Although the envelope in which the letter came shows that it had been opened by the censor, yet it came through without having a sentence expurgated. This proves that Ed., among other things, is somewhat of a diplomat. The letter follows:

Somewhere in France,
December 29, 1917.

Dear friends and folks:

In my last letter I think that I described most of my experiences, up to the time of landing. Since then many things have transpired and we have seen a little more of Sunny France, which is a darn lie. It is sunny today, but there is a light covering of snow and it is mighty cold. The people say that it is colder than ever before. Strange, isn't it, if there is any exceptional weather it is always when you happen to be there. As in California; it never rains except when you are there. At that it is a mighty mild winter for us mossbacks from Northern Minnesota. In a few months we are going to see a beautiful country, I know. Every scene I see, the roads, lanes and canals, all remind me of some picture or painting.

Since I wrote we have seen French trains and engines. The engines remind one of a peanut wagon, and the box cars would make a good-sized American wheel-barrow. But for a real treat, one wants to take a trip on the cars, a la side door Pullman. I can vouch for the pleasure derived from such a trip. One of the boys in our car figured out that there were no less than five hundred and sixty-seven varieties of jolts. I was too busy watching the passing scenery to count them. However, after our journey we fell into some luxurious quarters.

We have a good roof over our heads and iron beds with dandy springs. Besides we are split up and have a cook for twenty-five men. Our cook can make most anything out of nothing. We have dandy flap-jacks, only a half to an inch in thickness, and so good that I never ask for butter on them. There being so few of us, we can heat water for our morning plunge instead of breaking the ice as we have been used to.

I said that our company had been divided. Well, Jim and I, through politics and diplomacy, got into the division. Just now we are working in the office. I did not care to go into office work, but it won't be permanent and we are sure learning something of value. We are working directly under a famous lumberman from Minneapolis. I wish I could tell you his name. He is well acquainted with the Wintons; a mighty fine fellow, and he sure can figure out systems for taking care of the mighty volume of business we are to handle.

I wish I could tell you about everything. I know just how the war is going to be carried on, but of course I am not allowed to expose military secrets. No, really, you know more about what is going on that we do, from reading the Minneapolis Journal. I would like to receive a couple of copies of the Journal.

I must tell you of something which sounded strange to me. I went over for some wood and was told that we were allowed so many pounds per man. Who ever heard of pounds of wood? I suppose loaf sugar is sold by the cord.

The most important thing of all is that Christmas has come and gone. I will try to tell you all about it. Went to bed Christmas eve wondering what lucky devil was eating my Christmas dinner. Let me know who he was. The kind and considerate bugler woke us at 6:30 on Christmas morn, and there was not a single thing in our socks. Well, that was a rather discouraging find, but our cook made some good flap-jacks for breakfast. Jim will vouch for their quality. He stuck around like an old mortgage until the batter was all gone. We went down to church after breakfast—Catholic church. Of course we did not understand a word except "Amerique Soldat" mentioned now and then. After church we proceeded to spend the fifty francs which our captain had given us for our dinner. We came back with our arms full of goodies, only to find that the cook had our two turkeys nearly done. At this moment the greatest event of my young life occurred—the first mail arrived. Honestly, you can not realize the feeling—the first words from home for nearly two months. I had a creepy feeling extending from the tip of my hair to the soles of my feet. When you think of how far such a feeling has to travel in such a long fellow as I, you can realize to a very small extent our excitement. I just quivered so that I could hardly open my envelope. At this most inopportune moment the cook called us. Well, I knew the first real meal in two months was awaiting my pleasure so I had to leave the letters, and I will tell you about my wonderful dinner. The menu: Roast turkey with dressing, potatoes, gravy, white and war bread, a fig sauce and fig pie, apples, nuts and candy. You can't imagine how good the pie tasted—the first we had eaten in nearly two months. Although the crust was quite thick and tough, it was a treat for us. I rushed from the dinner back to my letters and spent a very enjoyable time reading them.

In the afternoon a sort of municipal Christmas tree stunt was pulled off, the surrounding people being invited to participate. So taking it all in all, we spent a very happy Christmas.

I am disappointed in the French wines. The talk of all the good dope over here is bosh. I wish that I might be able to cultivate the drink habit over here, but there isn't a chance. I confine myself mostly to tea and chocolate. There is a tea room down here which is run by a very nice lady and her "om la la petite daughter." Jim goes wild over every nice girl he sees and this one was no exception. But I am trying to beat his time by sneaking off to the shop as often as possible. By the way, she has your name, which in French is Renee. Our hopes were shattered when she received a bouquet of flowers from Nice, which she told me was from her fiancee. Of course our conversation is carried on in French, at which we are already quite adept. As one of the boys put it, he would ask "How do you do," but when asked how he was up a stump. I think, though, that we are picking up considerable, and after a year or two will be quite adept at speaking.

Now, there may be some things that you would like to know, which would get past the censor. If so, just ask me and I will tell you all I can. I imagine that you are interested in the Red Cross, but as yet I have seen little of their work. Most of the troops here received their Red Cross Christmas bags except our bunch. On account of our just recently having become established we were overlooked. It is impossible for them to keep tab on all the troops.

So far as real news goes, you are getting much more than I. I have been drifting in this discourse. Started to tell you that I couldn't cultivate the booze habit, nor any other habits—unless you call swearing a habit. Well, you would swear, too, if someone blew a d—d bugle outside of your door every morning at 5:15. It just seems to come natural.

Well, I will close by saying that if there are any of my pacifist friends asking if I ever wish myself back, just tell them no! I am glad to be here and will stay until it's over. Most boys feel the same. Also, I hope that none of you are taken down with the "writer's cramp." Write and tell me all the inside dope.

I haven't given much consideration to rhetoric or construction in this epistle, but I can give vent to my feelings by rambling.

With love to you all, I remain,
Yours affectionately,
Eddie.

The Peril of Prussianism

TWO SIDES OF A SHIELD.

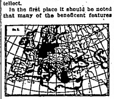
We have traced the history of the Prussian ideal government to the present, and have found that its very existence depends upon an aggressive militarism which must ever conquer new dominions, or suffer decay and death. It follows that the American ideal of government must in the end conquer or be conquered. There is no truce in this warfare of ideals. Lincoln realized that the Union could not exist half slave and half free. The Hohenzollern realizes, and we must realize, that the world cannot exist half in political slavery and half in political freedom, half autocracy and half democracy.

It is fair to ask, however, whether after all the Prussian ideal of government may note the best, if wisely administered. Human instinct may incline all mankind toward individual freedom, but instincts are not always safe guides to action. There is no a priori ground for assuming that the American ideal of government is superior to the Prussian ideal, and many an intelligent German has conscientiously argued that the Prussian Government is the most efficient, the most liberal and the most truly free of all modern states. Let us in all candor consider whether the American ideal is so good or the Prussian ideal so bad that we would shed American blood to preserve the one and destroy the other.

No fair-minded man will deny that a government of the Prussian type may attain the highest efficiency in many fields of action. With an intelligent and energetic ruler at the helm, with centralized control and responsibility, decisions may be quickly reached and promptly translated into action by the orderly teamwork of a disciplined people. For more than five centuries the Hohenzollern dynasty has consistently and efficiently progressed toward the ultimate achievment of a single ideal, while more liberal governments have blundered in confusion and through disastrous revolutions and profound changes of national policy. To-day Prussianized Germany, hopelessly outnumbered, holds the world at bay, counting her military victories while her enemies count their disastrous blunders. In social legislation, in municipal government, Germany gives lessons to the world. In the application of science to the arts she has no equal. Autocracy is admittedly efficient, democracy is certainly inefficient.

When every count in its favor has been duly recorded, however, the truth remains that the Prussian ideal of government is so immoral, so iniquitous, so debasing to the mind and soul of man, that its annihilation becomes the supreme duty of the hour. Let us review the indictments against this monstrosity of the Hohenzollern intellect.

In the first place it should be noted that many of the beneficent features



Prussianized Germany from 1871 to 1914, showing the result of Bismarck's policy of blood and iron. The Danish provinces of Schleswig and Holstein, and the French provinces of Alsace and Lorraine have been forcibly seized and the smaller German states brouht under Prussian domination.

associated with Prussian autocracy are not essentially a part of the Prussian ideal of government. They are, in not a few cases, bribes offered to a discontented people to quiet their grumbling against despotic rule. Take, for example, the workingman's insurance laws to which Germans justly point with pride. Both the accident insurance law and the sickness insurance law were introduced by Bismarck for the avowed purpose of quieting the socialist agitation for greater political liberty, after drastic laws for the imprisonment of socialist leaders had failed to crush their propaganda. A contented slave is better than one discontented, and it is a wise paternalism which provides for the material welfare of its subjects whether the form of government be good or bad. It has been well said that the German autocracy strives to govern so well that the people will have no desire to govern themselves.

The Prussian government of Germany is in point of fact a despotism in disguise. It has all the trappings of constitutional government, but the constitutional features are an empty sham designed to cloak the iron rule of Hohenzollern autocracy. If this seems an extreme statement, look for a moment at the structure of the Hohenzollern stronghold. Like our own government, there is a federation of different states under a President, the German Emperor. This President, like our own, controls the foreign policy of the federation and is commander-in-chief of the army and navy. There is an upper house or Senate called the Bundesrath, and a lower House of Representatives, the Reichstag. There is also a constitution defining the rights and privileges of the people and their rulers. All this sounds familiar to Americans, and might easily deceive them, as it has deceived many of the German people, into supposing that Germany enjoys self-government. But let us look more closely. We find that the upper house does not represent the people, but consists, (with three exceptions) of men personally appointed by twenty-two hereditary princes. Even the lower house is not truly representative, for the so-called universal suffrage is a farce. The conservative country districts, which are the strongholds of reactionary ideas, may have in proportion to their population ten times as much representation as the great cities where education and liberalism flourish. Less than two hundred thousand voters in certain country districts have sent to the Reichstag as many representatives as two million voters in some of the cities. In Prussia, the dominant German state, voting is based on a system which gives to the large taxpayers nearly thirty times as much representation as to the small taxpayers. Thus it is stated that in 1907 the large taxpayers, representing 3% of the voters, elected one-third of the electors, or as many as small taxpayers representing 87% of the voters.

Even this does not tell the whole story of autocratic Prussian rule. The Reichstag, or lower house has no control over the Kaiser's salary or civil list, none over the Imperial Ministers who determine national and international policy, and almost none over legislation. Practically all legislation initiates with the upper house of monarchical appointees, and it may, with the Kaiser's consent, dissolve the lower house. The Kaiser has the power to declare defensive war, and since even this war of conquest is to him a defensive war, he may in practice declare war at will. He can make treaties, appoint or dismiss the chancellor and imperial ministers, and with the consent of the upper house, dissolve the Reichstag. He is assigned enough votes in the upper house to enable him to pass any legislation which he desires, and to block any measure of which he disapproves. In a word, the Prince-appointed upper house controls the mis-representative lower house, and the Kaiser in turn controls both. Despite the outward form of constitutional government, Germany possesses the strongest autocratic despotism in the world today.

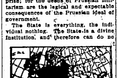
The Prussian government of Germany is an absolute despotism. The constitution is so skillfully devised as utterly to prevent any reform the Hohenzollern ruler does not approve, no matter how insistent the popular demand may be. The liberal-minded masses have a wholly inadequate representation in the Reichstag. But should reform pass there, the monarchical appointees of the upper house, ever jealous of their prerogatives, stand ready to stifle them. And could we conceive that real reforms should win the support of a majority of these princely delegates, we must remember that fourteen votes are enough to defeat any amendment in this body, and that the Kaiser controls seventeen votes! The despotic control is final and absolute.

The Prussian government of Germany is an irresponsible despotism. The chief minister of the empire is the Imperial Chancellor, who is responsible to the Kaiser alone. The Kaiser, in turn, owns responsibility only to God. William II. faithful to the centuries-old tradition of his Hohenzollern ancestors, seriously claims that he rules by the grace of God, and the claim is loyally supported by the conservative parties in the German state. The hateful doctrine of the divine right of kings is a fundamental article of the Hohenzollern creed, although frequently disguised for the German people under the more subtle, therefore more dangerous, doctrine of the divine right of the State. Since the State is, in the last analysis, the Kaiser, the difference is one of words. "We Hohenzollern," cries the present Kaiser, "take our crown from God alone, and to God alone are we responsible in the fulfillment of duty."

THE DIVINE RIGHT OF THE STATE.

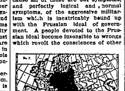
Out of evil things evil must come. No absolute and irresponsible despotism can breed peace, justice, and honor in the world. The evil may for a space be cloaked under the disguise of material prosperity, but the time soon comes when the horrid thing stands revealed in all its hideousness. We have seen that aggressive militarism is the inevitable accompaniment of the Prussian ideal government. And militarism is an evil. It brutalizes mankind and substitutes the pagan doctrine that might makes right for the Christian doctrine that right is might. In the twinkling of an eye the mask of material development which made Germany appear beautiful to the casual observer, drops to the ground, and we see all the hideousness of Prussian militarism exposed to the gaze of a surprised and indignant world. The indignation truly is justified, but not so the surprise; for the deeds of Prussian militarism are the logical and expectable consequences of the Prussian ideal of government.

The State is everything, the individual nothing. The State is a divine institution, and therefore can do no wrong. That which benefits the State is good, no matter what evil it may bring to individuals. Compared with the good of the State, the lives and the property of individuals, the suffering of mankind, and the harm done to other governments are as nothing. These are doctrines born of the Prussian ideal, and applied with conscientious consistency in the present war by the Prussian Government. "The State," writes Treitschke, "is the highest thing in the external society of man; above it there is nothing at all in the history of the world." The development of the State demands a policy of aggressive militarism, therefore war is moral and in the last analysis more to be desired than peace. The safety of the State demands expansion to the Mediterranean, hence the provocative ultimatum to Serbia was thoroughly justified. The advantage of the State necessitates a quick attack on France through neutral Belgium, therefore the wholesale slaughter of an innocent people while unfortunate is a proper measure. The security of the army, the strong right arm of State, is promoted by terrorizing the civilian populations of occupied territories, and so the shooting of hostages, the burning of cities, and the commission of unspeakable outrages are to be tolerated for the good end they serve. International law forbids the levying of indemnities on captured cities, the deportation of civilians, the employment of enemy subjects in military work, the bombardment of open towns; but the State is higher than international law and these things may be done if they are of advantage to the State. Humanity forbids the slaughter of non-combatants and the murder of women and children; but the State is higher than humanitarian considerations and these crimes are defensible if they are of convenience to the State. To the logical believer in the Prussian ideal of government, "military necessity" is an all-sufficient explanation for any crime, no matter how barbarous or revolting. There is no crime, if the State—that is, the Hohenzollern autocrat—gains some advantage from the deed.



Prussianized Central Europe as it exists in the early part of 1917, showing the vast territory now completely under the domination of Prussian militarism.

We need not deal specifically with the burning of Louvain, the bombardment of Rheims cathedral, the Zeppelin raids on Paris and London, the sinking of the Lusitania and other submarine atrocities, the deportation of girls from Lille and of workmen from Belgium, the judicial murder of Edith Cavell and Capt. Fryatt, because all of these are but symptoms, and perfectly logical and normal symptoms, of the aggressive militarism which is inextricably bound up with the Prussian ideal of government. A people devoted to the Prussian ideal become insensible to wrongs which revolt the consciences of other people, not because such a people is inherently more barbarous, but because militarism and the false doctrine of the divine right of the State inevitably degrade the ideals and brutalize the instincts of any political society. The American people, submissive for a few centuries to the false teachings of the Prussian ideal, imbued with the pernicious idea that they were destined by God to force the superior culture of their divine State upon the rest of the world for its own good, would commit acts as barbarous as any which have stained the record of German warfare.



Prussianized Central Europe according to the so-called "status quo ante," showing the basis on which Germany is willing to end the war. Black areas show extent of absolute Prussian control; hatched areas, spheres of German influence where Prussian control would be dominant.

THE ISSUE.

We have seen that the Prussian ideal of government and the American ideal cannot exist together in the world, and that the Prussian ideal is of necessity vicious in its nature and degrading in its effects. For Americans there is but one issue from this dilemma. The Prussian ideal must perish, the American ideal must live. We fight not to revenge the Lusitania, not to rebuild Louvain, not to exact reparation for murdered women and children. We fight to slay the government which taught its people to commit such damnable atrocities. We fight that never again may a nation with cynical insolence throw in the face of the world the base assertions that treaties are scraps of paper, that necessity knows no law, that might is the right of the strongest, and that the State can do no wrong. We fight to hurl the Hohenzollern and his dangerous doctrine of divine right upon the scrap-heap of useless trumpery, and to set the German people in his place, that they may learn to rule themselves.

How shall the end be achieved? Not by a half-way war, not by conciliation or compromise. Great ends are not achieved by petty measures. The Imperial German armies must be defeated on the battlefield and driven from the lands they conquered. The German people must learn that for all its inefficiency, democracy is stronger than disciplined autocracy. Restitution of the fruits of past conquests must be required. Bosnia and Herzegovina, Alsace-Lorraine and Poland restored to rightful sovereignty. The German people must learn that the dream of a Central European Empire, founded on military conquest, is forever dashed to earth. Reparation for grievous wrongs, so far as these may be repaired by money indemnities, must be exacted. The German people must learn that upon the guilty aggressor, not upon the innocent victim, falls the heavy burden of restoring ravished lands, rehabilitating burned and pillaged cities, supporting ruined homes, and indemnifying those whose innocent loved ones were foully wronged or slain. War in the past has been immensely profitable to Germany. She must be taught that it is the most costly crime a nation can commit. With these ends achieved we may reasonably hope that the German people, sick of the bloody disasters born of Prussian militarism, will awaken from the trance in which they live and throw off the hateful Hohenzollern yoke. If they do not, then we must fight to force the central citadel of Prussian power. We must not lay down the sword till the Hohenzollern throne is empty.

When the sufferings of this war press heavily upon us, when long casualty lists fill the columns of our papers, when business losses mount high and the people clamor for bread, there will arise a loud and insistent demand for an inclusive peace. Then let us envisage the magnitude of the issue of this war, and prepare to make sacrifices commensurable to the ends we seek. Let us remember that we fight to tear out, root and branch, an ideal government deep-grown in central Europe. The gathered strength of centuries is not overcome by the efforts of a day, nor the struggles of a deluded people stilled without much suffering. The contest may lengthen into years, defeat may humiliate us and dangers increase, every family may mourn its dead and every heart be heavy with foreboding; still let us fight on, shoulder to shoulder with our gallant allies, till the liberty of the world be won. As Christ died to make men holy, let us die to make men free; for God is marching on.

for the best results in deep frying, sauteing, shortening and salad dressings.

MAZOLA is the pure, delicious oil produced from American corn, which enables the housewife to serve the best of food and at the same time save the country's butter, lard, suet, in accordance with the plan of Food Administrator Hoover.

Mazola reaches cooking heat long before it smokes, prevents fried foods from becoming greasy, makes them more digestible and is more economical than the old cooking mediums.

Mazola does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another—can be used over and over again.

It comes in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins—for greatest economy buy in the large sizes. Ask your grocer for a copy of the free Mazola Book of Recipes—or write us direct.

THE TIMES COMPANY
QUALITY PRINT SHOP

To the Merchants of Thief River Falls and Vicinity:

IT HAS BEEN THE CUSTOM each year during the month of January for salesmen of various out-of-town calender manufacturers to canvass the city taking orders for calenders for the next year. This money can just as well be kept here and incidentally some money can be saved for the merchants who go in for this class of advertising. ¶We have received and now have on display, one of the most beautiful lines of calenders, fans, wall-pockets and novelties that it is possible to secure, and in a much larger variety than it would be possible for a traveling salesman to carry with him. They include everything from the small ordinary prints to the most expensive of lithographic and hand-colored work—and at prices that are a little lower than you ever paid for this kind of goods before. ¶Drop into our office at any time and let us show you this really wonderful line and remember that it is the patronizing of home industry that keeps the city alive

CLASS ONE MEN BEING EXAMINED

REGISTRATION BOARD BEGINS WITH THOSE PRESENTING NO EXEMPTION CLAIMS.

WILL EXPEDITE THE WORK

HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH ANYTHING BUT PHYSICAL DISQUALIFICATIONS.

The examination of men subject to selection for army service under the new classified ruling was begun on Tuesday morning and will be continued until the men in Class 1 have been gone over to ascertain their physical fitness. This is the only matter under the jurisdiction of the local board, claims for exemption on occupational grounds being referred to the district board.

County Auditor T. P. Anderson, Sheriff W. J. LaBree and Dr. H. W. Froehlich are conducting the examinations the same as at the first call. They have planned to expedite matters as much as possible by calling the men who are certain to present no claims for exemption for examination first. The board will pass upon nothing except the physical qualifications of the candidates, any claim for exemptions on other grounds being referred to the district board sitting at Duluth.

Classification Completed.

The questionaires have practically all been returned and the men placed in their respective classes. This work was completed last week and will make the task of final selection much easier. The board members have set the number of examinations per day at 40, but believe that this can be largely increased.

The names of the men not previously published in The Times and the classes in which they have been placed are as follows:

Council of National Defense.

The Council of National Defense was created under an act of congress passed August 29, 1916, and the same act provided for the creation of an advisory commission of seven to act with, under and by the authority of the council. By the terms of the act this council, with the "co-ordination of industries and resources for the national security and welfare," and with the "creation of relations which will render possible in the time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the nation." The main body, or central council of defense at Washington, consists of the secretaries of war, navy, interior, agriculture, commerce and labor. The advisory commission consists of railroad presidents, financiers, manufacturers, educators and specialists in particular lines. The board acts as a clearing house for the war industry needs of the nation with authority to determine the most effective ways of meeting them, and the best means and methods of increasing production, including the creation or extension of industries demanded by the emergency; the relative urgency of the different needs, also considering price factors, industrial and labor aspects and conditions affecting food supplies and prices. The authority of the council is nation wide.

Non-Freezing Mixture.

Protection against possible freezing of wet materials in a cement mixer during cold weather is obtained at low cost by using an oil-burning heater which can be attached to practically any mixing machine. Such a device unquestionably can save money for a contractor by making it safe to operate continuously when the temperature is low, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The heater is provided with a 25-gallon tank which is mounted above the mixer and is connected by a pipe with a burner situated at the opening in the side of the mixing drum. Compressed air, obtained either from a hand pump or a compressor, is used to vaporize the oil and in this way a flame is forced into the interior of the drum, keeping the materials there thoroughly warm.

Save Tin Plate.

The housewife will do her bit in the conservation of the limited supply of tin plate by soaking and cooking her own dried peas and lima beans in the kitchen and thereby releasing a proportional amount of tin cans for use in the packing of perishable foods, where they are greatly needed. Consumers are urged by the department of agriculture, to read labels of canned peas and lima beans carefully in order to see whether they are getting a fresh or a soaked dried product.

Women.

The women of the old dramas and the old novels are not more womanly women than the tax-paying, self-supporting women of modern life.—Exchange.

FAVORITE SPORTS OF TODAY

Baseball and Football Are Games Evolved From Daily Work of Our Forefathers.

Play is ancestral work. The things our forefathers, near or remote, did to live, we do for fun, muses an exchange. Away back in the dim distance, they lived by hunting—and by dodging the creatures which were hunting them. In those days, it considerably strengthened one's grip on life to be able to throw a stone with accuracy, to hit quickly and strongly with a club, to run from tree to tree so swiftly and with such nice judgment of distance as to foil old Saber-Tooth, the original apostle of frightfulness.

The men who could do these things well left descendants. Generations, centuries, aeons passed, and these descendants, struggling to repeat the daily work of their forbears, evolved such games as cricket, one old cat, and rounders. Out of this last, by happy chance and happier genius, was developed baseball, to exercise our lungs, improve our eyes and increase our vocabularies.

Far different is the origin of football. The keynote of that is the massed rush—like the one which won the battle of Marathon. Sometimes the massing is extra close, corresponding to the charge of the Theban column at Leuctra, and with pretty nearly as high a proportion of casualties until the rule makers abolished the flying wedge. But even in the most open game, football is essentially a disciplined charge, and the activities it calls into play are immeasurably less ancient than those of baseball.

Why the one game has become the greatest of professional sports and the other the peculiar joy of colleges, no one can say, but so it is. Perhaps half the problem can be solved by recollecting that the college age is the military age, and takes naturally to a game which mimics ancient war.

Alaska Natives Like Taxis.

High, white-topped shoes and silk and satin party gowns, worn by native Alaskans, are cited by J. L. McPherson of the Seattle chamber of commerce as proof of the prosperity being enjoyed by the residents of that territory.

Mr. McPherson, who has returned from a six weeks' trip to Alaska, says that the present fad of the Ketchikan natives is taxi riding at a cost of $3 an hour, according to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. The seven taxicabs recently installed at Ketchikan are doing a land office business, he says. To bid good-by to a native departing on one of the boats, an entire family of native friends rode down to the dock, alighted and shook hands with him, wishing him a good voyage, re-entered their motor car and the head of the family airily waved to the chauffeur, "Home, James."

With their rapidly acquired taste for the latest styles in clothing, Mr. McPherson says, has come a liberal patronage of the bootblack by both the men and women, much to the delight of the bootblack.

How He Slept at the Fort.

Ed Jackson, secretary of state, who is one of the students at the United States army officers' reserve training camp at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, had to spend one of the cool nights in the trenches, as that is a part of the training given to the embryo officers, notes the Indianapolis News. As he emerged from his "bunk" the next morning he was met by one of his fellow students.

"Well, how did you sleep last night?" inquired Jackson's friend.

"In sections," gruffly replied the state official.

"How's that?"

"Well, first my right foot was asleep and then my left one; then one arm and then another and so on. But I guess if I added them all up I got in a pretty good night's rest."

Leopard Ship of the Sea.

Fooling the enemy is a remunerative and interesting pastime with the allies, says Popular Science Monthly. They have their camouflage on land; now comes the camouflage of the sea. A ship is painted with spots which fade out into a glittering and shimmering haze in the sunlight. A submarine commander one or two miles distant might look straight at the ship and never see her.

The spots are of light gray and navy blue, which, even on a sunless day, blend with the waves of the ocean. The indistinct outline which this gives makes the ship a poor target.

A revised chart of New York harbor, on a scale of 1-40,000, has been issued by the United States coast and geodetic survey. The labor involved in bringing such a chart up to date is illustrated by the fact that in one year there have been for this chart 253 different items of change, which required 238 working days to compile and engrave. Marked changes in the contour of the bottom, disclosed by recent surveys, are shown at the entrance between Sandy Hook and Coney island.

Pay for Harmful Butterflies.

Butterfly catching was converted from a schoolboy's amusement into a serious business at Solingen and Dusseldorf, in western Germany. The communal authorities offered a premium of one pfennig apiece for every butterfly of the harmful varieties caught, with the result that the school children have already handed in 50,000 at Solingen and 150,000 at Dusseldorf. The method was adopted to combat the consequent caterpillar plague.

LOCAL and PERSONAL NEWS

In a letter to The Times, Hans Angell, formerly operator at the Lyceum theatre, states that he is now employed by the Firestone Tire & Rubber company at Akron, Ohio. He says that the fuel administrator's orders tied up the factories of that city for five days but that this did not effect him particularly as he is on the salary list and his time went on just the same. He likes his new surroundings and expects to remain at Akron indefinitely.

George W. Christie, one of the publishers of the Red Lake Falls Gazette was in the city last Friday having been asked to officiate as one of the judges in the inter-scholastic debate in the evening. Mr. Christie says that his town is getting along about as well as other communities in this section during the winter months and that everything looks promising for a good spring and summer.

MILLION POUNDS CREAM RECEIVED

PAID FARMERS $133,000

QUARTER MILLION POUNDS OF BUTTER SHIPPED TO OUTSIDE POINTS.

The report of the Thief River Falls Creamery association, appearing in another column of The Times this week, shows that the business has more than trippled during the six years the institution has been in existence. The total receipts from all sources amounted to $159,360.80 and the disbursements to $145,093.07 leaving a net balance after paying all expenses of $4,267.73.

Big Sum to Farmers.

The most interesting part of Secretary Henry Hanson's statement is doubtless that dealing with the amount of money paid the farmers for their milk and cream. The figures show that $133,076.78 was distributed among the herd owners patronizing the institution during the year. The season has been far from favorable for dairying, the hay crop being decidedly poor and the corn crop a failure. In spite of this the creamery has paid out more money and received more for its products than ever before in its history.

Shipped Quarter Million Pounds.

The total amount of butter sold was 342,972 pounds, of which 72,439 pounds were sold in the city, 2,007 pounds to creamery patrons and the balance, 268,526 pounds, was shipped to other sections of the country. The average price received for butter was 38.9 cents, while the average paid for butterfat was 44.3 cents per pound.

A Good Comparison.

Interesting as these figures are, it is only by comparing them with those of previous years that the remarkable progress of the creamery is made plain. In 1912, the first year of operation, the institution paid out $50,000 for milk and cream. This has increased every year until 1916 when $124,000 was the total. Last year's gain over this figure is in round numbers $35,000, and the officials in charge are naturally more than pleased. The greater part of the executive work has devolved upon Secretary Hanson and Buttermaker L. Haselrud, and the record bears testimony to their competency and business judgment.

Annual Meeting Monday.

The association will hold its annual meeting next Monday afternoon in this city. The usual lunch will be served to the patrons and invited friends at the Presbyterian church at 12 o'clock. The election of officers will take place at the meeting and it is desired that all stockholders be present.

Card of Thanks.

I wish through the columns of the Times to extend my thanks to the members of the Thief River Falls Fire department for the good intentions shown and the help extended during the fire that destroyed my property. Conditions were such that their labor was of but slight avail, but they showed a willingness to aid in every way possible, a fact of which I am deeply appreciative.

PARALYSIS

Paralysis is usually considered as pertaining to the hands and feet, the arms, legs, etc., in other words, the voluntary muscles. Did you ever stop to think that a tissue-cell can be paralyzed? That the glands, the tissue-cells of the stomach, kidneys, etc., can become paralyzed? You have known it all the time only you never thought of it. This is the starting point of disease in the organ; lack of power is the cause. When you have the full amount of nerve-force in the tissue that is generated in the brain, when there is none shut off, no impingement at any point between brain and tissue-cell—then you will have 100 per cent of vitality—health!

Anything less than this means disease. We look for the impingement on the nerves at their exit from the spine. Spinal adjustment takes off this pressure.

Take spinal adjustments and get well.

Investigation Costs Nothing.

HALVORSON BUYS GOODRIDGE PAPER

SCHOOL SUPT. SUCCEEDS H. W. SMITH AS PUBLISHER OF ELEVEN TOWNS.

O. A. Halvorson, superintendent of the consolidated school at Goodridge, this week purchased the Eleven Towns, published during the past three years by H. W. Smith, and will take immediate possession. The former publisher has enlisted in the medical corps of the army and will leave this evening to enter the service.

The newspaper has been owned by a company of Thief River Falls, Goodridge and Mavie business men, who leased the property to Mr. Smith.

The new publisher, it is understood has purchased the paper outright and will place a manager in charge, retaining his position as superintendent of schools for the present at least. He will at once make certain necessary improvements in the plant and general make-up of the publication and will take complete editorial charge.

Mr. Halvorson is new to the newspaper business in this section but as he is a man of ability and good judgment he should give the people of Eastern Pennington county a paper that will merit their continued support.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF WOMAN'S CLUB

MEETING WILL BE HELD AT LIBRARY NEXT MONDAY AFTERNOON.

At the next regular meeting of the Woman's club to be held at the public library next Monday afternoon, the election of officers will take place. There will also be the usual program, this being in charge of Mrs. O. F. Mellby and Mrs. Harry Prichard. This will also be the time at which those members who have neglected to pay their dues will be permitted to do so.

English Lace Exhibited.

The club has just received a shipment of hand made bobbin lace direct from England. This lace was made by an association or guild of old ladies in that country and is being sent to different places in the United States for disposal. The proceeds from the sale of the articles will go toward the war fund for English soldiers. For anyone interested in articles of this kind this presents an unusual opportunity.

ORGANIZATION OF "SAMMY BACKERS"

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WILL AID IN KEEPING OUR FIGHTING MEN POSTED.

During the recess period on Wednesday afternoon the high school pupils were organized into an association of "Sammy Backers." As is the case with practically everything organized these days, the new association has some war aid measure as its object. These young men and women have pledged themselves, so far as lies within their power, to keep the soldiers from this county, and particularly those who were former students at the high school, posted on the doings in the home town. It is realized that letters telling of what is going on among the people they have left behind are the most welcome things that can be received by a man far from home and kindred. The particular object of the Boosters will be to act as a means of communication between the boys in the army and navy and the rest of the world. The undertaking is most worthy and should be encouraged.

Red Cross at Rosewood.

The people of Rosewood have taken a decided interest in Red Cross work and have contributed liberally toward the support of the movement. To help out the funds of the society there will be a basket social given at Rosewood hall on Saturday evening, Feb. 2, to which a general invitation has been extended. The ladies are requested to bring baskets so arranged as to provide a lunch for two. The rest will be taken care of.

Notice to the Public.

Our Greenhouses being destroyed by fire last week, and until we can rebuild we have made other arrangements and are doing business as ever. See our display windows at Cronstrom's grocery for Potted Plants, Cut Flowers and Funeral designs. Phone 3311, full supply of Cut Flowers at all times.

J-31 Thief River Falls Greenhouses.

Attention Masons.

Work in the First Degree will be exemplified at a special conclave to be held on Monday evening, Feb. 3. Your presence is requested.

83 STARS IN HIGH SCHOOL WAR FLAG

SERVICE BANNER IN THEIR HONOR DEDICATED WITH APPROPRIATE EXERCISES

The largest service flag thus far unfurled by a northwestern Minnesota high school was dedicated on Friday with appropriate exercises at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Supt. J. H. Hay paid an eloquent tribute to the boys who have left their homes to go forth and battle in behalf of humanity and said that the people of the city should be proud of the showing made. Practically every one of these boys received some part of their education under Mr. Hay's direction and he referred to them with deep feeling in pointing out to his hearers the sacrifices they were making by entering the fighting ranks at this time.

Patriotic songs formed a part of the exercises, which were attended by the parents of many of the boys. At the close of the exercises the flag was unfurled. It contains 83 stars and represents the following former students:

Appointed Receiver.

Ole C. Morbin, formerly superintendent for the Thief River Falls Manufacturing company, was on Friday appointed receiver for that concern by Judge Andrew Grindeland, and will at once begin winding up its affairs. The machinery and equipment of the plant is still in the building and some disposition will have to be made of it. It is understood that there are no outside creditors and that the receiver is simply appointed for the purpose of taking charge of the property and closing up the corporation's affairs.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank all who so kindly helped us and honored our son and brother, Henry L. Anderson, at his funeral, with the many beautiful floral offerings and sympathy and cheer sent us by his many friends in Thief River Falls.

MORE HOOVERIZING MADE NECESSARY

WHEATLESS AND MEATLESS DAYS FURTHER INCREASED IN NUMBER.

Thief River Falls bakers, restaurants, hotels and housewives began on Monday the observance of the proclamation issued Saturday by President Wilson and the food administration.

Hereafter two wheatless days per week, Mondays and Wednesdays will be observed; one meatless day, on Tuesdays, and two porkless days Tuesdays and Saturdays, will also be observed. One wheatless and one meatless meal each day are included in the proclamation.

Cake and pastry makers in this city will only be allowed to use 70 per cent of the materials used last year, and all will be asked to use substitute flour. No more patent or special flour may be made hereafter but whole wheat flour may still be manufactured.

Must Use Substitute.

Bakers now must make their bread of mixed flours, using a 5 per cent substitute, and continuing until Feb. 24, when a 20 per cent substitute must be used.

It is expected that every eating house, restaurant and housewife in the city will co-operate with the food administration in carrying out the latest orders to the greatest extent.

Mrs. Holt of Battle Lake was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Evenson Saturday and Sunday. She left Monday morning for Grygla where she will visit her sister.

FIND LIVE SNAKE IN BANANA BUNCH

WILLIAM WARNER NARROWLY ESCAPES POSSIBLE DEATH FROM REPTILE'S FANGS.

A diamond adder direct from the tropics, crossing the seas as a stowaway, came near dealing death to William Warner of the Thief River Grocery company, last Saturday noon.

On Friday a shipment of green bananas had been received by the company and placed in their recently remodeled banana rooms for ripening. The heater was turned on and by Saturday noon the bananas had begun to turn sufficiently so that sales were possible.

George Christo called at the office to inspect the fruit and make selection of a bunch and went into the rooms with Mr. Warner. As the latter was turning the bunch around and asking if it was not what was wanted, he raised his hand above his head toward the top of the bunch. He was startled to see coiled around the same a snake. His hand was within a few inches of the poisonous reptile which was ready to strike him the next instant.

Evidently the snake had secreted himself in the bunch when it was still on a tree in South America, and had gone to sleep there, remaining in that condition after striking the cold of the northern countries. On being placed in the warming room the reptile had become sufficiently warm to awaken.

Propellers Run Tandem.

Experiments made in boat propulsion with one propeller, one behind the other, show that but little increased speed is obtained by the arrangement; and rotating the two screws in opposite directions, either at the same or different speeds, has little effect on the results. It is, however, claimed that the double screw gives better control of the vessel.

Farm Club Meeting.

The New Solum Farmers' club held its regular meeting in the Edgewood school-house last Friday evening.

The club decided to send delegates to the Farm Crops show to be held at Crookston Feb. 18, and appointed Martin Nelson and Albert Halverson. The following program was rendered:

America—Audience.
"Highway Cows," recitation by Mr. Bassett.
Song—"Smile Whenever You Can."
Dialogue—"The Narrow Escape."
Song—"Keep the Home Fires Burning," by Roscoe Batten.
Reading—Mr. Silverness.
Song—"The Old Familiar Place."

The next meeting will be held Friday evening, Feb. 8, in Dist. No. 30.

PLAN GRAND CORN SHOW NEXT FALL

BANKERS' ASSOCIATION WILL SPONSOR MOVEMENT FOR UNUSUAL DISPLAY

At the quarterly meeting of the Pennington County Bankers' association held last week at the Hotel Brumund in this city, one of the principal topics of discussion was the manner of handling the next Liberty Loan campaign in the county. It is expected that another call for funds will be made by the government about March 1, and the bankers wish to have plans laid for carrying out their part of the program. George J. Johnson, vice president of the First and Peoples' bank in this city, was selected as the chairman to have charge of this campaign. He has not yet received any notice as to the date for beginning nor the plan to be followed, but stands ready to give the matter his earnest attention when the proper time comes.

Another thing decided upon at the meeting was the giving of prizes to boost agricultural development in the county. The bankers have decided to eliminate the expense of providing large and expensive calendars for the year 1919 and will devote the $1,000 these would cost toward securing prizes to encourage our farmers.

An entirely new proposition was sprung when one of the bankers present proposed that a corn show be held in this city sometime in October, or whenever the crop is in the best condition for a display of this kind. Tentative plans were discussed, but nothing definite decided upon. Potatoes and alfalfa will also probably be included in the display. The details of the project were left to a committee composed of Olaf Ramstad, H. S. Dahlin, C. L. Hansen, Nick Bundhund and B. E. Burkee.

Trees Only Need Proper Care.

We hear much these days of tree surgery, but a late bulletin of the Missouri Botanical Gardens calls attention to the fact that if trees are properly planted, and cared for, there would never be need of tree surgery for disease, etc., but only for the necessary pruning to be done each year.

THE ANNUAL CREAMERY MEETING

Every farmer who is interested in dairying should endeavor to be present at the Annual Stockholders meeting February 4th.

In these times of rapid changes there are many important things to discuss and decide.

In a co-operative enterprise the stockholders are also responsible—each one of them—for the success of the association.

If you have any suggestions to make for improving the business and making it more useful to the farmers; take it up at the annual meeting.

If you have any complaints to make about the way the business is conducted and operated; the annual meeting is the time to bring it up.

Honest, constructive criticism is always invited but the best time to decide matters of this kind is at the stockholders meeting.

Pick your men for officers and directors carefully, they have important duties to perform.

SECRET OF FRENCH CULTURE

Vibrating Balance Between Head and Heart at Top Speed, Is Deduction of Magazine Writer.

Intensely alive, is the chief impression one has of the French, writes John Galsworthy in the Atlantic. They balance between head and heart at top speed in a sort of electric and eternal see-saw. It is this perpetual, quick change which gives them, it seems to me, their special grip on actuality; they never fly into the cloud regions of theories and dreams; their heads have not time before their hearts have intervened, their hearts not time before their heads cry, "Hold!" They apprehend both worlds, but with such rapid alternation that they surrender to neither.

The secret of French culture lies in this vibrating balance; from quick marriage of mind, and heart, reason and sense, in the French nature, all the clear created forms of French life arise, forms recognized as forms with definite utility attached. Controlled expression is the result of action and rejection. Controlled expression is the essence of culture, because it alone makes a sufficiently clear appeal in a world which is itself the result of the incalculable interplay of complementary or dual laws and forces.

French culture is near to the real heart of things, because it has a sort of quick sanity that never loses its way; or, when it does, very rapidly recovers the middle of the road.

PRINCESS IS CZAR'S MANAGER

Eudoxia, Eldest Daughter of Ruler of Bulgaria, Said to Be Cleverest of Family.

Princess Eudoxia, the eldest daughter of the czar of Bulgaria, is said to be the cleverest member of Ferdinand's family. She manages the Sofia palace, receives ministers and envoys and apologizes to them for Ferdinand's mysterious absences; runs Ferdinand's farm at Vitosch when Ferdinand is not hiding there; directs his business speculations and his enormous private wealth, and, in particular, runs his big land-development scheme around Chaskovo, near the Turkish frontier.

Eudoxia is black-eyed, lively and pretty, with an ambition, Sofia declares, to be married quickly, and cynics add that Ferdinand chose the German side instead of the allies' because Germany has vast supplies of bridegrooms of royal, princely and ducal blood. In Sofia, Eudoxia is known as "Balkanska Dieva"—the Maid of the Balkans. In summer she makes solitary tours in the hills, puts up in shepherds' huts, and shocks Ferdinand, who is a timid man with a sharp distrust of his subjects, and a faith, inherited from a thousand years of Bourbon ancestors, that women, like men, of royal blood are three times sacred.

Trying to Do Their Bit.

While nearly every woman is trying to do her bit in some way, there are at least a hundred thousand other fair ones who believe they can serve their country by breaking into the movies, notes a New York critic. That is why every motion-picture office is crowded with applicants and why motion-picture managers are busy men these days of frantic filmdom. It requires much patience, nerve and sometimes a set of burglar's tools to enable a would-be actress to reach a manager, however, but an overdressed woman of rather ripe years gushed her way past the array of office boys and clerks into the sanctum of the man who hires and fires. "I wish to become a movie actress," she announced. "I feel that I have within me the makings of a great impersonator of the silent drama." "Have you ever had any experience, madam?" asked the manager. "Miss, if you please," simpered the applicant. "No, I haven't any experience. My face is my fortune." "Well, you need not worry about the income tax, if that's the case," grunted the manager. "Don't slam the door."

Fearless Japanese Official.

Of all the eccentric characters in Japan, one of the most famous and distinguished is probably Viscount Dr. Inajiro Tajiri, president of the imperial board of audit. He flatters nobody, not excepting himself, says a correspondent, and is feared by all who are not sincere. The late Prince Katsura was once scolded by him, and not long ago Baron Shibusawa waxed hot in anger at a public meeting as he rose to refute the charges of commercial corruption which Viscount Tajiri had made against Japan's business world at large. He is outspoken when he thinks the occasion demands outspokenness. Fearlessness of public opinion or ridicule is dramatically exemplified in the very simple and unpretentious life that he is leading. His food is of the simplest variety. He daily carries to the office a bento box filled with rice and some pickled plums, and during the past 40 years he has ever stuck to his Spartan lunch.

Fish at Reasonable Price.

The Canadian government's venture to supply the public with fish at a reasonable price has proved a success. A refrigerator service from Nova Scotia to Ontario was provided, and the government's scheme was advertised. In one week there were three cars carrying approximately 60,000 pounds of fish, as against normal shipments of 5,000 pounds. The varieties sold under the government's plan, which provides that the buyer shall take the whole fish, are haddock and market cod. These were the only ones available in quantities to justify the experiment. Haddock is well known; market cod is [illegible]

The year of 1917 was the best year in the history of the creamery association. The business was $35,000 more than last year in spite of the unfavorable season, with a prolonged drought and poor pastures and an early frost partially destroying the corn crop.

This good result has been obtained by persistent and systematic pushing of the business and close economy and efficient operation of the factory.

In order to offset the decrease in supply of cream at home it was necessary to draw from a larger outside territory than was ever done before so as to get the business large enough to insure a good price for butterfat.

The price received for butter this year has been uniformly good. About three-fourths of the total make of butter last year was sold to Armour & Co., who this year paid three-quarters of a cent higher premium than previous years. This increased premium amounts to about $2,000 for the year, or enough money to pay a large part of the operating expenses.

The over-run is the difference between the butterfat bought and the butter made—the excess of butter over butterfat. The over-run for last year was 65,742 pounds of butter. The per cent of over-run was 23.6.

The collections for last year were very satisfactory and practically no money was lost in bad accounts. This was due in a measure to a different and better system for handling the accounts.

The profit on the shipped-in cream amounted to $3,000. This has been an important item in paying a good price to the home patrons.

The financial condition of the creamery association is very good. There is a surplus of $4,400 in cash and $2,000 in supplies, making a total surplus of $6,400 for the year.

The measure of the success of a private business is the profit paid on investments of stocks. The measure of the success of a co-operative creamery is the price paid for butterfat, and the surplus accumulated. A profit of 10 to 20 per cent is considered a good investment in private business. If the profit in the creamery is compared in this way there is for last year a dividend of over 100 per cent on the investment in the factory. This dividend is paid in the form of a higher price for butterfat and 10 per cent on the stock.

The stock of the company is still selling for $25.00 a share. The actual value back of each share is over $100. The selling price of the stock should preferably be increased to correspond somewhat more to the actual value or not less than $50.00 a share.

Owing to the scarcity of cream last year the centralizers were more active than usual. Underhand business methods and unfair competition are common practice in order to get the farmer's business. A good many farmers' creameries have had to close their doors on that account and will remain closed indefinitely or rented to private parties. The Thief River Falls co-operative creamery has enjoyed a splendid co-operation of all the farmers in the community and with the continuance of this spirit the future growth and progress of the association is assured.

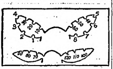
PUREBREDS MUST BE MARKED

Breeder Must Be Absolutely Certain of Pedigrees, as Uncertainty Makes Them Worthless.

The purebred breeder's newcomers must be marked in some way, as any uncertainty will make their pedigrees worthless as purebreds. The breeder must be absolutely certain in the pedigrees he writes. Many of the systems for marking seem complicated and hard to remember. I have been using a system that has proven very satisfactory to me, writes C. A. Steele of Clarke county, Ohio, in Ohio Farmer.

I stand behind the animal and make four notches on the outside of each ear. The count is made from the base of the left ear—at the base 1, the next 2, near the point 3, point 4; then over to the point of the right ear, 5, then 6-7-8. A notch in each ear is 9. A notch at the base inside the left ear is 10, the next 20 and 30. Inside near the point of the right ear is 40, then 50 and 60; in this way you number up to 60. I label these notches with a label punch.



Marking System.

Then you can cut V-shaped notches with a knife. I commence at 70 and go on up to 120 (see illustration), which would be high enough for most herds or flocks. If any one should want to go higher it would be an easy matter to make a different kind of notch to do this.

At breeding time I mark my breeding ewes on the back with a figure to show which ram they are bred to. Then when they lamb I have all that is required to write out a pedigree. This I put in a small note book that I carry with me or leave in the barn. Also if a lamb should become separated from its mother I can easily find her. I transfer these notes to another book from time to time so in case either should be lost I would still have a record. My note book gives the following information: Date of birth, number of ewe, sire, ram or ewe lamb, ear mark, remarks.

TREATMENT FOR AILING PIGS

Breaking Out of Body Caused by Narrow Ration High in Protein Can Be Remedied.

When pigs are fed on a very narrow ration with a high content of protein and a limited amount of energy and fat-forming material, they are subject to a breaking out of the body which causes considerable irritation. This has been noticed when pigs are turned on a pasture very rich in protein, especially when the pigs had previously been on a feed that was lacking in this content. These pigs will unquestionably improve if you will feed a mixture of 12 parts of cornmeal, two parts of shorts and one part of oil meal along with the separated milk. Spray these pigs again with light crude oil and apply over the worst spots of the body a mixture of three parts of unsalted lard and one part of flowers of sulphur.

FEEDING ROUGHAGE TO EWES

Animals Consume Large Quantities of Bulky Feed and Need Comparatively Little Grain.

Breeding ewes consume comparatively large quantities of roughage and need but little grain. Of this roughage corn stover and oat straw may well form an important and economical part, but they should be supplemented by other feeds containing more protein. Sheep will eat about 25 to 35 per cent of the total weight of the stover, leaving the stalks. Wheat straw is not so valuable for sheep feeding as oat straw, while rye straw has practically no value in sheep rations.

AFTER A CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

Make Liberal Application of Whitewash and Disinfectants About Hog House and Yards.

Whitewash and disinfectants must be used freely about the hog house and yards after an outbreak of cholera. If the cleaning and disinfecting is carefully done we may be able to stock up again within a few weeks after the hogs have stopped dying and suffer no further loss but it is usually best to wait two or three months before we do this, or depend on the hogs that have survived for a fresh start.

SOME SILO SAYINGS.

"Save the grain" is the motto now,
Using silage to feed the cow.

Stave off the high costs of dairy feeds with a stave silo.

Don't be satisfied with the abstract idea of having a silo; make it concrete. It can't rot out, blow down or burn up.

You like canned fruits and vegetables during the winter. Silage, says the United States department of agriculture, is the dairy cow's canned stuff.

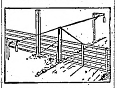
If you feed only the ears you lose nearly half the food value in the corn crop. Turn the leaves and stalks into silage and save that 40 per cent.

After all is said, the fact remains that the two necessary war foods are bread and milk. For winter milk production nothing equals the silo.

TILTING GATE QUITE SIMPLE

Inexpensive Arrangement Operated by Weights—Eliminates Shocks and Wear on Mechanism.

The Scientific American, in illustrating and describing a gate, invented by J. W. Loveland of Lincoln, Ill., says: An object of the invention is to provide a simple and inexpensive tilting gate, so as to eliminate shocks and wear upon the various parts of the gate mechanism.



Perspective View of Gate.

BAD TIME FOR HOG CHOLERA

Nation Cannot Afford Loss Involved in Burning $16 Hogs That Have Died of Cholera.

Burning $16-hogs that have died of cholera is no pleasant duty. The nation, moreover, cannot afford the food losses in this country of more than $32,000,000.

Every hog raiser can aid in preventing so great a loss from cholera recurring this year. Keep the hogs healthy. Clean pens, clean water and right feeding increase the hog's resistance to disease.

Effective control of hog cholera requires more than individual effort. It requires neighborhood co-operation. When cholera appears in a vicinity all hogs on neighboring farms should be promptly treated with serum or serum and virus.

Quarantine of the premises where there is cholera or where herds have been double-treated should be enforced for a reasonable time. Hogs dying from cholera should also be quickly burned or buried, and a thorough disinfection made of the yards and pens before the quarantine is removed.

KEEP FOOD HOPPERS CLOSED

Enormous Amount of Grain Consumed by Rats and Mice Can Be Partially Avoided at Night.

The amount of grain consumed by rats and mice is enormous. This can not be avoided entirely, but there is no reason why rats and mice should have access to the food hoppers at night, and fill themselves up on mash. When the chickens have gone to roost, close the hoppers. If there is a leak, stop it.

Keep deep litter on the floor, and toss it up each night, so that the hens will have no difficulty in scratching in it. This kind of exercise in the morning will be good for them.

PROPER SEEDBED FOR GRAIN

Soil Should Be Mellow and Well Pulverized About as Deep as the Seed Is Planted.

The ideal seedbed for sowing small grain should be mellow, but well pulverized about as deep as the seed is planted. Below the depth at which the seed is planted, the soil should be firm and well settled, making a good connection with the subsoil, so the water stored in the deeper soil may be drawn up by capillarity into the surface soil. The firm soil below the sprouting seed supplies the necessary moisture while the mellow soil above favors the upward growth of the young shoots in the air and sunshine.

GOOD COMBINATION ON FARM

Grasses and Live Stock Go Hand in Hand—Proper System of Rotation Is Favored.

Grass and livestock should go hand in hand. There is no farm which, if properly managed and kept at least one-half of the time in grasses and clovers, and gradually brought under a proper system of rotation, would not produce more, in fact double the crops which it now does, and yet constantly be growing better and better.

COWS NEED SOME MINERALS

Animals Unable to Utilize Sufficient Amount From Ordinary Ration to Support Body.

It has been definitely proved that cows which produce a heavy flow of milk are not able to utilize sufficient mineral matter from the ordinary ration to maintain the proper quantity of minerals in the body; in other words, more of these mineral elements are given off than the cow can obtain from the ration, and the body of the cow is robbed of mineral elements to supply the deficiency.

In addition to an ordinary ration, one ounce of common salt per cow daily is sufficient to maintain the proper quantity of sodium and chlorine in a cow producing 45 pounds of milk daily. An ordinary mixed ration supplies sufficient potassium for every need of a high-producing cow. The element calcium or lime appears to be deficient in all cows except those with a very low milk production.

The deficiency of minerals in the ration had no apparent effect on the amount or composition of the milk. This fact proves that the deficiency is overcome, as far as possible, by mineral elements taken from the body of the cow. While the nitrogen compounds from alfalfa hay were slightly more digestible than those from clover hay, the nitrogen from clover was equally as valuable, because it was more completely utilized than the alfalfa nitrogen. The quantities of nitrogen utilized from clover and alfalfa were therefore practically the same.

LARGEST RECORD FOR MILK

Cow High in Flesh at Calving Time Gives Much Richer Milk for Long Period Than When Thin.

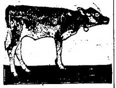
Missouri investigators have shown that a cow high in flesh at calving time gives very much richer milk for some time than would be the case were she thin. This knowledge is now made use of by every breeder of dairy cattle who desires to make the largest possible record for milk and butter fat production.

Another interesting discovery is that when a cow is underfed that temporarily she gives richer milk rather than thinner as might be expected. This is of great importance in connection with making tests of cows and a failure to understand this effect has resulted in wrong conclusions from many experiments conducted with cows in the past.

FIRM FOUNDATION FOR DAIRY

No Amount of Feed Will Make Profitable Cow Out of One That Does Not Have Milk Tendency.

Build your dairy breed on a firm foundation. No amount of feed will make a profitable cow out of one that does not inherit a strong tendency to give milk. One must, therefore, use care in selecting the foundation stock for the herd. The bull should be purebred with a line of ancestors which show production. Because one animal is purebred is not a guarantee that he will be a good animal, his pedigree should be investigated. Many small dairymen buy aged bulls so they can judge the production of his offspring. If good purebred cows cannot be had, use the best grade cows obtainable. It may be said that for production purposes, if good purebred bulls are used on good cows, the fourth generation will be equal to purebreds as far as production is concerned.



Fine Type of Purebred.

CLEAN COW STABLES NEEDED

Good Milk, Free From Offensive Odors, Cannot Be Secured Under Unsanitary Conditions.

The dairyman cannot get good milk, free from odors and fit to sell on the city market, when his stables are kept in an unsanitary condition. When the manure is left to pack under the cows' feet, mold and rot, the odor is so strong that it will contaminate the milk even while it is being drawn from the cow.

COOK FEEDS FOR DAIRY COWS

No Advantage in Practice, Except That Some Unpalatable Food May Be Consumed.

There is no advantage in cooking or steaming feeds for dairy cows. Some unpalatable feeds may be consumed in larger quantities if cooked, but cooking does not ordinarily add much to the palatability of grains and may even decrease their digestibility

POTATOES FOR SWINE

Culls and Unmarketable Tubers Can Be Fed to Advantage.

Waste Is Utilized and Valuable Food Is Saved—Being Poor in Protein and Rich in Carbohydrates They Make Fat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Although the feeding of marketable potatoes to hogs is unprofitable unless corn is worth four and one-half times as much as the potatoes, the culls and other unmarketable potatoes usually can be fed advantageously, no matter what the comparative price of corn. At such times as the present when corn is high and potatoes plentiful, the feeding of culls to hogs is especially desirable. A waste is utilized and more valuable feed is saved; transportation charges on a poor product are saved; and the potatoes marketed bring a higher price than they would if the small ones were included.

Potatoes resemble corn in composition, and this is especially true of sweet potatoes. Both corn and potatoes are poor in protein and rich in carbohydrates, thus they make fat rather than bone and muscle. The potatoes should be boiled or steamed until they form a mealy mash, which should be mixed with some other feed such as corn meal, shorts or bran. Only enough water should be added in the cooking to prevent burning and to make a thick mash. While some potatoes may be fed raw to add succulence to the ration, they should be given only at intervals and in small quantities. Too many are likely to cause scours.

A potato ration should be supplemented with feeds rich in nitrogen, such as old-process linseed-oil meal or fresh meal. Where sweet potatoes are plentiful and cheap a combination with gluten meal and skim milk makes a good ration.

In one case of experimental feeding shoats made one pound of gain for each 3.13 pounds of grain when they were allowed to do their own harvesting of raw sweet potatoes. Sweet potatoes are said to be the best root crop for pigs for fall and winter grazing in the cut-over pine lands of the South.

The meat of potato-fed hogs is equal in quality to pork from a grain ration, but the latter is likely to carry a greater finish. After cooling there is no appreciable difference in firmness of the carcass between a potato-fed and grain-fed animal.

ELECTRIC PROD FOR ANIMALS

Handle Holds Dry Batteries, Coil, Wire and Button—Shock Is Said to Be Effective.

Dry batteries make the use of electricity possible in many novel appliances, writes C. J. Lynde in Farmers' Mail and Breeze. The following cut shows an animal prod which it is said will not injure the flesh or hide. The first cut shows the prod as it looks when completed. The larger end is the handle which contains the batteries, coil, wires and button, as shown in the second cut. The small end has two metal terminals a short distance apart. In use, the terminals are placed against the horse and the button is pressed. The horse then receives an electric shock which is much more effective than an ordinary prod.

Electric Animal Prod.

YOUNG COLT NEEDS SHELTER

At Night Animal Needs Protection From Cold and Storms—Allow Liberty Next Morning.

When the nights become cold and frosty the young colt should be sheltered each night, but allow it its liberty again the following morning. It never pays to confine a colt unnecessarily, as it needs lots of exercise, fresh air and plenty of good feed in order to develop bone and muscle and to grow into a large shapely animal. Half of a horse's growth is made during the first twelve or fifteen months of its life, hence during this period the aim should be to secure a uniform and proper development of all the parts of the young animal. Keep the colt in a thrifty, growing condition every day during its first winter. Feed liberally; it is costly economy to stunt the colt by stingy feeding. The growing colt should never be in high flesh, however, but just in good growing condition.

SOME KNOWLEDGE IS NEEDED

Foolish to Think That Anyone Can Successfully Manage Farm Right From Start.

While it is well to encourage the "Back-to-the-soil" movement, especially among young people, it is foolish to think that anyone can manage a farm successfully from the first. It requires careful study and patience, year in and year out, but the person who has industry and common sense will succeed in the end.

NORWAY WILL GET SUPPLIES FROM U.S.

EMBARGO TO BE LIFTED IF CERTAIN ASSURANCES ARE FORTHCOMING.

Letters received for some time past from Norway by Pennington county people who have relatives in that country all call attention to the fact that the decision of our government to place an embargo on all food-stuffs has worked a decided hardship on the people there. The situation will now be remedied, providing the allies are given first consideration in Norway's exports. The report of the agreement is as follows:

"Norway's bread-basket, long depleted, will be filled by the United States in the future. In return Norway has guaranteed that no food-stuffs or war munitions material will be exported into Germany except with the express approval of the entente powers and America, the war trade board announced tonight.

"According to the agreement between the board and Dr. Fridjof Nansen, Norwegian commissioner, the United States will lift the embargo on 300,000 metric tons of bread, grains and rice, 50,000 tons of sugar, 10,000 tons of pork and beef, 14,500 tons of coffee and numerous other commodities in smaller quantities.

"But Norway is not to receive these commodities without concessions on her part. The agreement specifies that the Allies are to be given first consideration in that country's exports. All Germany is to be allowed to import is 4,000 tons of fish per month, and no edible fish oils.

"The agreement is to be operative for the rest of the war, subject to termination by either party at the expiration of one year and upon three months notice.

TALES OF THE FAR NORTH

Being an Account of My Experiences During the Three Years I Was Employed by the Government in Alaska.

By Dr. F. H. Gambell, Thief River Falls.

The Trip to Siberia.

The persistent blowing of the fog horn of the steamer awakened the passengers early on that August morning, as we were nearing the Siberian shore. As we came out upon the deck the fog was so heavy that we could but dimly outline Indian Bay, into which we had steamed. The anchor was cast and it was not long we had to wait until we saw coming towards us four or five large skin boats—omeaks—each containing from twenty to thirty natives. They differed from the natives on the Alaskan shore in their dress and general appearance. While their features showed the same general characteristics, they were filthy and repulsive, but possibly a sturdier race. The women and men both wore a reindeer-skin blouse, their only covering for the upper part of their bodies, with an opening in front and a belt drawn tight around the lower part and with a perceptible fullness above the belt. This blouse was not only used as a covering for their bodies, but it was used as a receptacle for all manner of things. I have seen them drop in ropes, ship's bread, cans, pieces of wood, or anything that struck their fancy and that they could get their fingers on. For the rest of their body the women wore a covering decidedly of the bloomer type, with boots coming up to the knees. The legs of the boots were used as pockets for their valuables. The men wore close-fitting pants and boots similar to those of the women. All their clothing was deer skin except their boots, which were sometimes made of seal skin with walrus soles.

As the boats came nearer I noticed one who seemed to be a leader, for he sat in the stern of the boat and guided it while the others used the oars.

A Progressive Savage.

He was undoubtedly much more progressive than the others as he had discarded the native dress and was attired in the white man's clothing. Where he ever got it was a mystery to me. He also had on a pair of striped pants, very flashy, and a black, long-tailed Prince Albert coat, while on his head was a close-fitting, green-visored bicycle cap. That was all, and none of them were a very good fit except the cap.

Were Sharp Traders.

Clambering up over the railing and on to the deck, they reported that the two government men who had been left there for the purpose of trading with them for deer had used all their barter goods in buying the head of a whale from the natives and then when the first whaler came along had sold the bone to them for some two or three thousand dollars, and had sailed away. This was a great disappointment to Sheldon Jackson, who had left them in charge.

Money Had No Value.

We could not buy deer with money for they know nothing of the value of it. We had to exchange rifles, cartridges, brass kettles, tobacco, knives, tea kettles, axes, etc., for the deer. Fortunately we had barter goods along and they promised to let us have some deer. We began feeding them to get them in a good humor, and asked them where the deer were. They said they were back several days' travel from the shore. This they said in order that they might have a chance to live on the boat as long as they could and steal what they could get their hands on.

First Sight of Deer.

Sheldon Jackson insisted on two of the natives being supplied with provisions and going on shore and hastening to the herds with a request to bring the deer to the shore at once. I was given permission on my own request to accompany them. We had not traveled many miles when we came to the top of some hills where we saw at the foot a herd of some two thousand deer. It was a beautiful sight to see them with their antlered heads and sleek bodies all gathered in one large herd. Some were pure white, some white and brown, and many of them much the color of our own deer. The spotted ones were the most valuable as their skins were used for fancy parkies or fur coats. We could go among them but could not get close enough to touch any of them. While they were domesticated they were still wild with the deer-like nature showing decidedly. We soon persuaded the herders to drive them to the coast, which we reached that same evening.

The next morning the deer that we could buy were lassoed and thrown, after which all four feet were tied together and they were placed upon a big scow or flat-boat and taken to the ship. They were hauled up by a derrick and set free in enclosures on the deck.

It was a big job to trade with the individual owners. When they got all they wanted in barter goods they would not let any more of their deer go.

The Quest Extended.

By night we had all we could get from this herd and still not a boat load. Hearing that there was a herd to the south, and as the ocean was getting rough, we decided to sail around the projection to the south of us and seek a harbor away from the wind out where the water was quiet.

Before the boat left for the more secluded harbor I was instructed to go on shore and, with a Siberian guide, a Laplander and Mr. Doty, the latter a government teacher who was with us, go inland and find this other herd of deer and request the owners to drive them to the harbor where the boat was to put in.

An Arduous Trip.

This was fun for me. The Lap carried our food and we had nothing to do but follow the guide over that desolate rocky country, devoid of all trees and with only a straggly brush here and there. Great boulders filled the ravines and at times made our traveling very difficult. On the tundra, or plains, was a soft, sponge moss which was hard to walk upon. Climbing up and down the hills made our journey all the harder. Nevertheless it was interesting, for everything was new to us. Almost twenty years have gone by since then and I can remember the important part of the journey as though it had happened but yesterday.

Ice on Summer Lake.

I remember so well how balmy and warm that summer day was and when we came to the top of one of the hills and looked down in the valley we saw a lake shaded from the sun's rays by the surrounding hills, covered all over with ice. Looking closer we could see dark spots dotted all over it. They seemed to be moving animals. Gazing more intently we could see that it was a herd of reindeer which had gone out on the ice to get cool, and to find a frosty bite to nibble at.

We walked down the hill, on over the tundra, until we came to the edge of the lake. As we stepped out upon it we saw the pretty wild arctic flowers hanging their fragrant blossoms down until they almost kissed the ice underneath them. But that was not all, for even here, again, I encountered the queerest, oddest-looking bumble bee, clothed with a suit of long yellow hair and just as busy as he could be, gathering the sweet nectar from those beautiful flowers. I am sure that I never would have remembered this little incident had I not been on such intimate terms with some of his kin when I was a barefoot boy back in the great clover fields of Iowa.

So we passed on, starting the deer from their cool beds as we came near them, until we came to the opposite side. Then we looked up to a little shelf on the hillside and saw an odd tent, as it were, made of deer skins. Our guide told us that is where the deer men lived.

Mr. Doty was very much concerned that we proceed in a politic way, for he was very anxious that we should be successful in having the herd driven to the sea.

An Arctic Habitation.

When he reached the tent he could not knock as I believe he intended to do, as there was nothing but a dirty loose flap of tanned deer skin to knock upon, so we pushed that aside and went in. Over an oil stove on the opposite side of the tent from which we entered stooped an old hag making tea. To our right was the polog or sleeping apartment, a closed room with reindeer sleeping skins scattered freely on the floor and reindeer skins tanned so soft and draped down to make the enclosure. On strings stretched from side to side of the tent was jerked deer meat hung to dry. In front of the polog was a trough with seal oil and dried deer meat in it. Out from under the curtain of the polog appeared the heads and bare shoulders of three Siberian men. They rested upon their left arm while they used the right to convey the deer meat and seal oil to their mouths. They had no trouble eating the meat for their fingers made good forks, but it was a poor spoon that they could make of their bent forefinger to carry the oil to their mouth, which was evidenced by the noise that was made during the process.

Primitive Dish Washing.

While we were sitting there resting and taking in the sights we noticed that our hostess was busily engaged over three ship mugs—all that she had. I leaned over and said to Mr. Doty: "She is preparing those mugs for our use. Look at her." First she gathered them together and put them in a row. Then from the dirt floor she picked a bath towel that once had been white. Not having any water handy, she first rid herself of her cud of tobacco and proceeded to moisten the inside of the cups with the fluid secreted by the salivary glands, and then used the bath towel to rub them vigorously. Not being able to get the cups the necessary shade desired she moistened her thumb and finger with the aforesaid fluid and laboriously worked over them until they took on a very mottled appearance. This seemed to satisfy her for she proceeded to fill all three with the tea that had been boiling since we first arrived, after which she picked up one and carried it to Mr. Doty. Mr. Doty said to me: "I do not believe I can drink this." I said, "Yes, you have to, or it might offend them." The next cup went to the Laplander, and as I came next she proceeded straight for me with the third and last cup. I passed it on to the native guide and made her feel that I had done so at a great sacrifice. All the tea was drunk.

No Seal Oil, Thanks.

As she stooped over to pick up the trough which had a little of the seal oil in the bottom, I said to Mr. Doty: "She is bringing us the dish of seal oil." This was too much for him and he broke out with: "No, no, madam, no, no. We have our lunch in our pack." Mr. Doty was sick on the following day, but he felt that it was for a good cause as they brought the deer down to the ship.

We secured what females we could of these and still were short of a boat load. A little incident happened while Mr. Krog, an old man of our party, was working hard with the deer and I was doing nothing, which showed the respect they have for the aged. One of the native young men came up to me and in pigeon English said: "Why you no work? Him (pointing to Mr. Krog) work plenty. You no work little bit. You young man, him old man."

Back to Unalakleet.

We sailed in the evening, reached Port Clarence on the Alaskan shore on the following morning and landed one hundred and sixty-one deer, an integral part of the one thousand two hundred and eighty that have been imported and are responsible for the one hundred thousand that are feeding now on the moss-covered hills of Alaska.

At Port Clarence we became the guests of the captain of the revenue cutter "Bear," who took us to St. Lawrence Island, where we landed Mr. Doty and then proceeded to St. Michael and on to Unalakleet. Here we were once more put ashore and were to remain until the next summer came again.

Readers of The Times are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas on topics of general interest, but discussion of sectarian religious differences as well as personalities are barred. All communications must be signed, not necessarily for publication, but in order to show the good faith of the writer. In thus throwing open its columns to the public, The Times assumes no responsibility for the opinions expressed, nor is it to be assumed that their tenor necessarily corresponds with the policy of the paper.

Prints All the News.

Dennison, Minn., Jan. 28, 1918. Editor Times: Permit me to congratulate you upon publishing a newspaper that gives to the public a clean and wholesome report of all news items. Above all, we appreciate the publicity that is given to all public gatherings—whether political or otherwise. Few papers within the state take pride in showing their fairness to their readers by keeping them posted on matters of interest to all.

The average reader now-days likes to read diversified news, and the cleaner you dish it up to us the better we like it. Your report of the Non-Partisan league meeting held in your city recently was highly appreciated. Pennington county is not, however, the only county where the farmers have become Non-Partisanized. We have other counties as well in this part of the state where the farmers are marching to the front under the Non-Partisan banner. But I am sorry to say we have no way to let the rest of the world know anything about it just now because over ninety per cent of our newspapers down this way dare not publish the facts concerning the league, as they have been lined up under the subsidized plan of our great Twin City dailies (the big ones we mean) to fight the league and the farmers to a finish.

"That's why we feel like taking our hat off to Thief River Falls. May the good work of The Times go on.

Yours very truly,
W. A. SWANSON.

EFFECTS OF NOTED BATTLES

Probable Results if Outcome Had Been Different, Explained in Book by English Writer Years Ago.

About 60 years ago an English writer, Sir Edward Creasy, published a book which he called "The Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World." His purpose was to describe those great military events which have had the greatest influence upon human history.

Each battle described, had it resulted differently, would have completely changed the course of civilization, says the World's Work. Had Charles Martel not have won the battle of Tours, for example, the whole of Europe, and that means also North and South America, would very likely have become Mohammedan in religion. "Perhaps the interpretation of the Koran," says Gibbon, describing the consequences of this battle, "would now be taught in the schools of Oxford and her pupils might demonstrate to the English people the truth of the revelation of Mohamet."

Ten of Creasy's epochal battles have been fought since the beginning of the Christian era. Four of them represent victories which were won on French soil—the battle of Chalons, A. D. 451; the battle of Tours, 732; Joan of Arc's victory at Orleans, 1429, and the battle of Valmy, in 1792. Another was a great French victory won on English soil—the battle of Hastings in 1066. Two others—the battle of Blenheim, in 1704, and the battle of Waterloo in 1815—were great French defeats. It appears, therefore, that of the ten most decisive battles fought in the Christian era five were great French victories and two were French defeats. No other nation has any such military history as this. This mere record indicates the part which France has played in advancing civilization. So far as Europe is concerned the greatest events in modern history have taken place on French soil. At this time, when the democratic nations have joined hands to deliver France from the cowardly attack which Germany has made upon her, it is well to keep this fact in mind.

American Wisdom.

Never give advice to a woman who is setting forth on a matrimonial voyage. . . . A woman very rarely asks an opinion or requires advice on such an occasion until her resolution is formed. The plain English of the application may be summed up in these words: "I wish you to think as I do; but if unhappily you differ from me in opinion, my heart, I must confess, is fixed."—George Washington.

DE LAVAL

Service Day at Our Store

For the benefit of all users of De Laval Cream Separators we have established a DE LAVAL SERVICE DAY to be held annually.

On these dates we shall be glad to have any De Laval user bring his separator to our store for a complete and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made Free of Charge. Should any parts, due to usual wear, or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used.

The De Laval Service man will be with us to have charge of this work. Bring in your separator and receive the benefit of his advice on the care and operation of your machine, as well as the Free Service. It is our wish, and that of the DeLaval Company, that every user of a De Laval Separator get the maximum of efficiency at the minimum of cost.

No expert is required to keep a De Laval in repair. A little care with the use of De Laval Separator Oil will keep it running satisfactorily for years if adjustments are made when needed.

True Smoke is a "Buy" word

Those who try it, like it; recommend it. That's the secret of True Smoke's popularity. That's how the "Brotherhood of True-Smokers" started 40 years ago. That's why the sales in Minnesota alone were over $100,000 last year. Quality counts, always.

True Smoke is the choicest tobacco from five of America's finest tobacco-growing states. It's all tobacco; pure tobacco; expertly blended tobacco, with bite and parch removed.

Next time you buy try True Smoke—for chewing or smoking. It's the most satisfying combination you can get.

True Smoke is sold in 10c flat or round bags and in 50c fiber containers. If you can't get it from your dealer, send us his name and address with 10c and we will see that you are supplied—at once.

CONSERVE FOOD TO THE WIN WAR

JUDGE T. F. WILSON OF STILLWATER POINTS OUT DUTY OF ALL

RETAIL DEALER MUST AID

HIS PART CONSISTS OF HELPING HIS CUSTOMERS TO UNDERSTAND SITUATION

Judge T. W. Wilson of Stillwater, who is making a series of addresses throughout the state in the interest of food conservation, spoke to a large audience at the Auditorium on Thursday afternoon. The judge is one of the men sent out by the Federal government in an attempt to awaken the people to the necessity for saving certain kinds of food for the use of our soldiers and the allies, and is making a deep impression on his audiences wherever he appears.

Judge Wilson also spoke to a packed house made up of men and women at the Commercial club rooms in the evening, his remarks being listened to with much attention. He said in part:

"Experience is a great teacher. For 2000 years the Germans have learned by experience that war pays. Situated in the heart of Europe, surrounded by enemies, they had to fight for existence. 500 years ago the little province ruled by the house of Hohenzollern found that war was an effective means to gain power. During all this time the same family has ruled Prussia and by war has gradually extended its power by annexations and federation until in 1871 it dominated the great German Empire and took from France two of its fairest provinces and a billion dollars. Is it any wonder that Germans are war mad and believe that a mailed fist and a shining sword is the means of getting on in the world.

Would Be World Power.

"For forty years Germany has been getting ready for a bigger Germany, a Germany that will extend from the Baltic sea to the Persian gulf, a Germany that will rival the Roman Empire as a world power. The Prussian ideal of government is blood and iron and that might makes right. The state is everything; the individual nothing. The kaiser is the state. He receives his right to rule from God and is responsible to Him alone.

"While the German ideal of life and government has grown in Europe an entirely opposite ideal of life and government has been developed by another branch of the German family, who immigrated to England. Under this ideal the people rule. Government exists for the people and not the people for the government. The ruler is but the servant of the people and responsible to them. This ideal has reached its greatest development in America, but for England, France and many other nations of the world the great American Republic is the highest exemplification of the ideal of self-rule, while the German Empire is the highest exemplification of rule by divine right.

Two Ideals Clash.

"During the last century the invention of steam and electricity has made an entirely different world. It has become small. It is closely united in all its interests. It has become too small for the German ideal and the American ideal to exist together upon the earth. One must give way to the other. As Lincoln said: "A house divided against itself cannot stand," so the world today cannot exist half under the Prussian ideal and half under the American ideal. The war is to determine which ideal shall prevail.

Efficiency a Mania.

"The marvelous organization and efficiency of the German people is the wonder of the world. But when efficiency merely becomes the means for waging so hideous and frightful a war as that with which the world is now afflicted, the time has come to put an end to the madness of a few who believe in the divine right of kings and that human beings are on earth simply to advance their welfare.

Make the World Free.

"It is useless to question why we are in the war. The only question is, Which ideal of government do you stand for, German or American? For which side are you working? He that is not for America is against her. Your actions speak for you. The greatest calamity that can befall Germany is to win the war and the enmity of freedom-loving people everywhere. Crush the war lords, free Germany from their rule, and thus make a world safe for Democracy. It is no longer doing your bit, but your best.

The Great Factor in War.

"War is no longer a fight between armies, but between peoples. The people with the greatest resources of money, machines, brains, men and food win the war, provided they use resources efficiently.

"The great concern of all leaders in the war is the food supply. Armies will not fight if hungry. When women and children are starving at home, fighting brothers, husbands, fathers lose their courage in the trenches. Therefore the enemies of Germany are doing everything in their power to cut off the food supply from the German people, while she in turn is doing everything in her power by the aid of submarines to keep food from Britain, France and Italy. These nations cannot produce enough food to feed themselves. America has food in abundance. But ships are few, their uses many. The problem is to send the most food in the least space. This means shipping only wheat, meat, sugar and fats. A surplus means that the Americans must change their habits of eating and eat more rye, barley, corn, rice and potatoes in the place of wheat; more beans, milk, cheese, fish, eggs, and poultry in the place of meat; and more molasses, syrup and honey in the place of sugar; while the vegetable oils and lard substitutes must take the place of butter and lard. In short, the greatest contribution America can make to the winning of the war is raising more food and wasting less.

Retail Dealer a Teacher.

"Democracy does not get action by command. It is done by suggestion—when the people know the need of doing and what should be done. The glory of America is that all are willing to do their best. The great task before us is to let the people know what is needed to be done. Ignorance is the stumbling block. The greatest service to be done at home is for the man or woman who knows to inform the man or woman who does not know. The one person more than any other who can bring to the housewife knowledge of the need of saving food and the ways and means by which it can be done is the food dealer. His service is to post food placards in his place of business, enclose directions for substitutes in packages, and above all else, talk food conservation, food substitution. Organize food dealers' clubs. See that every dealer is in this club or know why not, and by co-operation get behind the administration.

Reform Merchandising Methods.

"Not only must America conserve food but it must conserve men. The great call for men to fight, to raise more food, to build ships, aeroplanes, guns and munitions of war, makes it imperative that the merchant shall require as few persons as possible in the conduct of his business. This means the customer must do more, the dealer less. Sell goods on the cash and carry plan. Make one price for that kind of a customer and another price for the customer who buys on the charge and delivery plan. Eliminate every possible delivery. Make an extra charge for delivery. Have but one a day, and, better still, a single co-operative delivery system for all food dealers. Insist customers must not hoard food, especially flour, sugar, meat and fats. Forego package food. Sell in bulk, preferably in ten pound lots. Food in package form and especially in tin containers, is needed for shipment abroad. Don't be a slacker. Don't let your customers be slackers. Remember while you are hesitating somebody's boy is dying in France because American food dealers and food users failed to back to the limit the food administration.

Fair Dealing.

"Discontent means weakness. The greatest source of discontent is the belief that the farmer and the working man is not getting a fair deal from the middle man. It is up to the dealers both great and small to so conduct business that every one gets a fair deal.

"The food administrator is urging the establishment in every community of a fair price committee composed of representative food dealers, housewives, workmen and farmers. The members of this committee should be people of well known reputation for fairness and good sense. This committee is to establish for the information of the community fair prices for the necessities of life."

Mr. Business Man

WHY not make your appeal for patronage through the columns of this newspaper? With every issue it carries its message into the homes of all the best people of this community. Don't blame the people for flocking to the store of your competitor. Tell them what you have to sell and if your prices are right you can get the business.

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number Three

How War Methods Have Changed Everybody Must Help.

"Hello, Uncle Dan, Jimmie and I have been waiting for you."

"Sorry if I have kept you long," said Uncle Dan. "Your mother has been telling me how bashful I used to be. She said if a girl spoke to me I would blush to my hair roots. Well, I reminded her of the time your father first came to see her and the joke we played on them, so I guess that will hold her for a while."

Continuing, Uncle Dan said: "You want to talk more about the war, do you? Well, war methods have undergone many changes and they are still changing. No two wars are fought alike. In early times, the weapons were stones, clubs, spears, bows and arrows, swords, etc. In this kind of warfare, victory was with the strong right arm. Men of enormous size and strength were the great warriors. The invention of gunpowder, however, has changed all this. It has enabled men to kill one another at a considerable distance, and do it wholesale. The war, as we know it now, is a combination of chemicals, machinery, mathematical calculations and highly trained men. Just think of it! Airplanes, submarines, armored tanks, or caterpillars, poison gases, and curtains of fire are all used for the first time in this war; and they are destructive beyond anything heretofore known.

"The methods followed by the kaiser and his allies are simply devilish. He must answer in history to the killing of thousands of innocent women and children. He has broken every international law and every rule of warfare; he has bombarded hospitals and undefended cities, sunk Red Cross ships on errands of mercy; he has destroyed cathedrals and priceless treasures of art that can never be replaced; he has made slaves of his prisoners; he has tried to get us into war with Japan; his emissaries have blown up our ships, burned our factories and fired our forests. He knows no mercy or honor. The most charitable view to take of this blood-thirsty tyrant is that he is crazy.

"One thing is certain," continued Uncle Dan, with great emphasis, "Our liberty, the safety of our homes and our country, and the security of the world demand the speedy and absolute overthrow of the kaiser and crushing out once and forever the reign of Prussian brutality."

"How about the German people," said Billie.

Uncle Dan replied: "The splendid German people were happy, thrifty, prosperous and contented. They have been tricked into war and made to suffer the tortures of the damned; they have been cruelly and systematically deceived. God grant that the real facts may get to them, and if they do, Lord help the kaiser!"

"Of course the allies will win," said Mrs. Graham.

"Probably so," said Uncle Dan. "But if we are to win, we must go the limit. We must check the awful destruction to shipping by the German submarines, or we may not be able to get food and supplies to our own men and to our allies; we must also put hundreds of thousands, and perhaps millions, of first-class soldiers in the battle line.

"Food is the first consideration," Uncle Dan continued. "No army can hold out against hunger. It has been said that food will win the war, and this is largely true. Hence the importance of the farm in the war plans of our country."

Mrs. Graham interrupted by saying: "In view of the importance of farming, don't you think, Daniel, that the farmers ought to be exempted from war service?"

"No, a thousand times no," said Uncle Dan, striking the table so hard to emphasize his protest that he tipped over a vase of flowers. "We must have no class legislation. The duty to serve is the common duty of all, and no class must be relieved of this obligation. The question of exemption must be a personal one and decided by the facts surrounding each case. In no other way can we have a square deal, and to insure this, it is the duty of congress to pass immediately the Chamberlain bill, or some such measure, which is fair to all classes. It would settle all these questions and do it fairly. Safety now and safety hereafter demands such legislation, and let me suggest that you and your friends get busy with your congressman and senators and urge them to prompt action.

"It is time for us to realize that we are not living in a fools' paradise; that this great country of ours cost oceans of blood and treasure and it is only due to the loyalty, sacrifice and service of our forefathers that we have a country, and it is our highest duty to preserve it unimpaired and pass it on to posterity, no matter what the cost may be. Our citizenship and their ancestors came from all parts of the world to make this country a home and enjoy its blessings and opportunities; hence, in the crisis before us, it is the duty of everyone to stand squarely back of our country and be prepared to defend the flag. Everyone in this crisis is either pro-American or pro-German. Great as the country is, there is not room enough for two flags."

THE BEST TEST.

Is the Test of Time.

Years ago Chas. J. Krause, chief engineer of City Electric Power Co., of 707 Arnold Ave. N., Thief River Falls, told of good results from using Doan's Kidney Pills. Now Mr. Krause confirms the former statement—says there has been no return of the trouble. Can Thief River Falls people ask for more convincing testimony?

Mr. J. Krause gave the following statement January 16, 1914: "Pains in my back bothered me for a long time. When I lifted anything, a sharp stab of pain was sure to catch me in my back and make it hard for me to straighten up. Mornings my back was very painful and other symptoms showed my kidneys were weak. It might have been a strain that affected my kidneys in the first place. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them and all the trouble left me."

LEAGUE REFUSES TO HELP TEDDY

TOWNLEY ASSERTS ROOSEVELT PLAYS INTO HANDS OF PROFITEERS.

CANNOT USE THE FARMER

N-P HEAD DECLARES LATTER WILL REMAIN LOYALLY SUPPORTING ADMINISTRATION.

Although Theodore Roosevelt recently announced that he intended to call upon Congressman J. M. Baer, apparently in the hope that he could make overtures which would line up the National Non-partisan league behind T. R.'s atttack on the war program of the administration, President A. C. Townley has come out with a hot interview which shows that the farmers' organization does not propose to allow itself to be used in pulling political chestnuts out of the fire at this time.

"I just have been informed," President A. C. Townley of the National Non-partisan league said today, "that Theodore Roosevelt has signified his intention of calling upon Congressman John M. Baer and I have been asked whether this means that the Non-partisan league and Congressman Baer are going to line up behind Roosevelt in his attack upon the administration."

"I have no authority to speak for Congressman Baer. He is quite capable of speaking for himself, but when he does speak I feel sure that he will refuse to lend himself to a political intrigue. Congressman Baer has loyally supported the nation war program ever since he went to Washington and I know of no reason why he should change front at this time. Speaking for myself, however, and I also feel confident that I am speaking for an overwhelming majority of the members of the National Non-partisan league, I wish to state most emphatically that I have absolutely no sympathy for the vicious and unwarranted attacks which Mr. Roosevelt is making upon the national administration.

Has Right To Criticize.

"I do not question his complete right to criticize President Wilson or to expose short-comings in our conduct of the war. Mr. Roosevelt has that right. So has every other citizen who is moved by patriotic motives. Otherwise our boasted freedom of speech would be a farce. But I do question Mr. Roosevelt's motives. I think his motives are political, not patriotic, and I think it utterly despicable that Theodore Roosevelt or any other man should assail the government at this time merely for the sake of partisan or personal advantage.

"You ask me why I question Mr. Roosevelt's good faith?" President Townley continued. "I will tell you. I question his good faith because never once has he sought to remove the root of what is fundamentally responsible for the delays in our war program. I refer to the profiteers. Analyze the situation and you will find that a desire for extortionate profits and not departmental 'red tape' is the real reason why uniforms were not supplied and why we have a shortage in rifles and shells. You also will find that 'unrestrained selfishness,' as President Wilson called it, is largely to blame for the coal shortage and the breakdown of the railroads. It also caused the curtailment in steel and copper production. Much of the 'red tape' of which Mr. Roosevelt complains was simply a necessary attempt on the part of honest government officials to check and limit the extortionate prices fixed in contracts which were let by certain members of the Council of National Defense to corporations with which they had close connections. But Mr. Roosevelt does not complain about this piratical profiteering; his chief objection seems to be that it was stopped by 'red tape.' To this extent he is dealing only with effects and not trying to remedy the underlying causes. If he wants to do the country a real service he might exhort some of his big business friends to surrender their profits with the same degree of ready sacrifice that the poor have given of their earnings to carry on the war. I think this would do more to expedite the war than Mr. Roosevelt's obvious efforts to become secretary of war or the first third term president.

Foes of Profiteers Attacked.

"Incidently, it is only fair to mention that Mr. Roosevelt's attacks have been directed solely against the President and two members of the cabinet who have stood most firmly against profiteering. Mr. Roosevelt has voiced no criticism against Secretary Burleson, although he has abused the great power of his office in an autocratic manner; but Roosevelt and his battery of newspapers direct their barrage of gas-shells solely at the head of Daniels and Baker, the men who have stood out against our munition makers and war contractors and insisted upon honest prices.

"Of course I expect a fresh volley of abuse directed at my own head because I am not afraid to criticize Mr. Roosevelt," President Townley continued. "In some circles it is considered high treason to attack the profiteers or to disagree with the Colonel. These same persons and newspapers, however, seem to think it all right to bitterly attack the government.

"Anticipating this abuse, I merely wish to point out that the Non-partisan league has been squarely behind the government ever since the war began. I refer you to the resolutions passed by the Non-partisan league conference at St. Paul on Sept. 20. These give a truer insight into the real attitude of the league than false interpretations placed upon these resolutions by a hostile press or of words which have been put in my mouth by lying newspapers.

Recalls T. R.'s Previous Words.

"Let me conclude by stating that in my judgment Mr. Roosevelt not only is choosing a very inopportune time to launch his presidential campaign at home, but his violent and uncalled for attack also will have a very harmful effect abroad. I do not see how it can help hardening the resistance of the German people and thus prolonging the war. Mr. Roosevelt has been very vituperative in denouncing the "Huns within our gates." I think he might do well to carefully review his own actions in view of his previous statements. So far as I know he has no special license as a public disturber and there is no reason why rules which apply to others should not apply to him."

Animals Refuse to Eat.

In the Edinburgh zoo there is a crocodile which is content with a rat or a piece of horseflesh every fortnight. There is an anaconda which arrived recently and has since steadily refused to take food of any kind, an example of abstention surpassed, however, by an Indian python, which during its thirteen months' stay has not voluntarily taken food.

Nickel's Worth of Sleep.

Little Thelma waked up from her afternoon nap before she had slept enough and was cross and crying, so aunty asked her if she would sleep some more if she gave her a nickel. Thelma soon stopped crying and said: "I don't know, aunty, but I'll try and sleep a nickel's worth."

TRACTOR OWNERS HAVE OPPORTUNITY

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY WILL HOLD TRACTOR SCHOOLS.

Of all the machines a farmer owns none is more important than his tractor. Especially is this true this year. Tractors must be in condition to work day and night if necessary to make possible the increased production of food we need. There must be no delays due to unsatisfactory operation, no loss from misunderstanding.

To this end the International Harvester Company of America proposes to hold tractor schools in various parts of the country in order that their users may get the best possible service out of their tractors.

One of these will be held in Warren, February 5th and 6th at the Lundgren Wittensten Co. building. This school will be absolutely free to all who care to attend, whether they are tractor owners or not. Nothing will be offered for sale at these schools and there will be no selling talks. A course of instruction in how a tractor works and how to keep it working will be strictly adhered to.

The instructors are practical tractor and engine men and the course is laid out on large charts illustrated with clear diagrams and described in simple terms.

Those who attend the school will be encouraged to ask questions on any subject in connection with tractors and engines. These questions will be answered at the end of each school session. There will be demonstrations with engines and tractors themselves.

Every farmer who owns a tractor or engine should attend this school, but, more important still, he should bring with him the man who operates his tractor. Plan now to be present at every session of the school, for the men who do this will get the greatest benefit out of it.

Don't forget the date, and be sure to be there.—Adv.

Rev. Father Noesen of the Catholic church has the right idea. A series of meetings or entertainments were advertised for the basement of his church, these functions to extend through the late winter months, but they have been postponed until the weather is warmer, [illegible] holding of these meetings during the week would mean that quite a lot of coal would have to be used, in order to furnish the necessary heat, and Father Noesen rightly figued that this would be setting a poor example to his parishioners. In order to comply with the spirit as well as the letter of the law he has therefore decided to postpone the meetings to another date, this affecting the card party to have been given in the church basement this evening by the ladies of the parish.

John Halvorson of McVille, N. D., a prominent contractor of his section of the state, is in the city this week. He came over for the purpose of helping Dr. A. J. Paulson get settled in his new offices, having superintended the packing of the doctor's effects at McVille and being for this reason the best authority on how it should be unpacked.

SOCIETY

Eastern Star Meeting—

The regular meeting of the Eastern Star lodge was held Wednesday evening of last week. The lodge unfurled their service flag at this meeting which contains four stars for the following boys who have left to join the colors: Messrs. Walter Smith, James Prichard, Edward Brevig and Dr. J. E. Douglass. Rev. G. O. Parish pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church gave a few words of prayer and Mrs. Andrew Bottleson, Worthy Matron of the lodge, gave an appropriate talk as the flag was unfurled and F. A. Gobler responded. A quartette consisting of Misses Iono Thorson, Una Nelson, Edna Larson and Mrs. C. A. Nason, gave several numbers. The rest of the evening was socially spent at cards and dancing.

Brothen-Ortloff—

Miss Emma Brothen and Henry M. Ortloff of St. Hilaire were united in marriage by Judge N. W. Tarrant at the Municipal court rooms in this city Tuesday afternoon. The ceremony was witnessed by Mrs. Albert Seaverson and Joseph Seaverson. Mr. Ortloff is a member of the National army stationed at Camp Pike, being home on a furlough at the present time.

Olson-Hanson—

Last Thursday afternoon at the Municipal court rooms, Judge N. W. Tarrant officiating, Miss Minnie Olson and Elmer Martin Hanson were united in marriage. They were attended by Miss Delia Hanson and Walter Olson. Both parties are residents of this county and they will make their home here.

For Mrs. George—

Mrs. Henry Holt entertained at her home, 615 Horace avenue north, Monday evening in honor of Mrs. L. B. George who celebrated her birthday anniversary. Cards were played at six tables. Several musical numbers were given during the evening and refreshments were served by the hostess.

W. C. T. U.—

The W. C. T. U. will be entertained next Tuesday, Feb. 5th by Mrs. H. Mathew, 715 Horace Ave. N. All members are requested to bring dues and new members invited to come and join.

U. C. T. Social Evening—

The Union Commercial Travelers held their regular business meeting last Saturday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. Dancing and cards were the special features of the evening. Refreshments were served later.

Olson-Homstad—

Miss Ida Josephine Olson and Nels Homstad, of Kittson county, were married in this city Monday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Judge N. W. Tarrant.

SILVER CUP GOES TO MISS ST. AUBIN

DECLARED WINNER AT ORATORY CONTEST HERE LAST FRIDAY NIGHT.

Miss Pearl St. Aubin of Red Lake Falls was declared the winner in the inter-scholastic declamatory contest held at the high school in this city last Friday night. The judges were E. M. Stanton of Thief River Falls; George W. Christie of Red Lake Falls and Dr. Cephas Swanson of St. Hilaire. The vote stood two to one in favor of the representative of the Red Lake Falls school and she will uphold the honor of the district at the contest to be held during the farm crop show at Crookston next week. The subject of her declamation was, "The Fiddle Told," and she presented it in a highly creditable manner. Miss Elizabeth Johnson of St. Hilaire, was accorded honorable mention for her rendition of "From a Foreign Country." The other contestants, together with the subjects of their declamations, were as follows: Lillie Wahlberg, Warroad, "The Boy Orator of Zapatta City;" Miss Violet Loftstrom, Strandquist, "An Easter with Parepa;" Miss Anna C. Hart, Oklee, "A Plea For Cuba;" Martin Finseth, Roseau, "Liberty or Death;" Marshall Race, Goodridge, "The Defence of Lucknow;" Grace Loken, Thief River Falls, "The Going of the White Swan."

PARTNERSHIP IS FORMED BY MEDICS

DR. O. F. MELLBY AND DR. A. J. PAULSON JOIN THEIR FORCES

Dr. A. J. Paulson, formerly a practitioner in this city but who about a year ago left to take charge of the hospital at McVille, N. D., returned last week and will open offices here as a partner of Dr. O. F. Mellby. Dr. Paulson has also purchased the hospital stock and general practice of Dr. J. E. Douglass, now a physician in the army.

The new firm will engage in general practice and hospital work. Diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat will receive the particular attention of Dr. Paulson, who has specialized along these lines for a number of years. He has also had a great deal of experience as a surgeon and has taken post graduate courses at New York and Chicago.

Drs. Mellby & Paulson will install the latest equipment in their offices. This will include a modern X-ray machine to take the place of the coil machine heretofore used by Dr. Mellby. The offices will be enlarged by the taking over of the quarters formerly occupied by Dr. Douglass, and the entire suite will be refitted with the latest in furniture.

RED CROSS WANTS LEATHER GLOVES

The men and women of the city are requested to save all their old, worn out leather gloves for the Red Cross. The material is wanted for the manufacture of jackets for our aviators and the matter is important. Leave the gloves at Stebbins drug store and they will be picked up by an agent of the society.

Urgent Need of Compresses.

Mrs. H. H. Spink, who is in charge of the surgical dressing work of the local chapter of the Red Cross, this week received notice from the state headquarters at Minneapolis that the demand for 8x4 compresses is very urgent and that the local chapter is earnestly requested to send eight hundred or more at the earliest possible date. In order to accomplish this is will be necessary fo rall the women who possibly can to attend the classes in surgical dressings and assist in making the compresses as rapidly as possible.

One thousand of the 8x4 compresses have already been made here and sent to headquarters and if all will turn out and help this number can be increased greatly and the chapter will rank well up with the other workers of the state.

RURAL SCHOOL NOTES

"Rural School Notes" has not appeared for some time. The rural schools, however, have done good work during the first part of the school year. Some of the schools are enjoying a vacation during the four or six weeks following the holidays.

Teachers will please take notice that the H. S. Board examinations will be held on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 21 and 22. The first day spelling, 8th grade composition and grammar (these subjects will be covered by one examination), American history; Friday, Feb. 22, arithmetic, geography. Next examination will begin May 24.

Teachers will report to this office the names, age, district and address of the eighth grade pupils of their respective schools who desire to take the exams. The pupils should not be encouraged to take this examination except the subjects be fairly well covered by the year's work and the teacher has confidence in the ability of the pupils to pass the examinations. The May examination should be the one at which the main effort should be made to pass.

The places of examinations will be announced later. Teachers should make application for examination for their schools at an early date, not later than Feb. 10. Examinations will be grouped throughout the county. The teacher who secures the examination for her school will have the examination in charge. She will sign the voucher certificate to the county superintendent and mark the papers. Teachers who send their pupils to such school grouped for examination will assist by their presence in making out the class lists and ruling the papers.

On next Saturday, Feb. 2, a conference of all teachers of the county will be held for the purpose of planning a campaign in the schools for selling government thrift stamps. This conference is called by the government officials who have the work in charge and every teacher is expected to be present.

According to the plan the pupils can purchase stamps at 25 cents each at the local postoffice. When a pupil has purchased sixteen of these together with a few cents more as indicated by the card for the month in which the stamps were bought, he or she can exchange it for a five dollar certificate. This certificate can be cashed on due notice at any presidential postoffice in the county.

This is an ingenious method of helping the children to save and be thrifty in their work, and it is expected that the plan will be carried out in all the schools under the guidance of the teacher. A plan will also be formulated by which the work will be carried out in the school district during the year. Of this the school clerks will be advised in due course of time.

The meeting of the school teachers will take place for those in the eastern part of the county at 1:30 o'clock p. m. at Goodridge and for the western part of the county at Lincoln high school building at Thief River Falls. Representatives of the government will be present at these meetings.

Respectfully submitted,
E. A. MOSTUE

PRICHARD SELLS BUSINESS HERE

YARDS AND LUMBER STOCK BECOMES PROPERTY OF THE NORTZ COMPANY

RETAIN HOME AND FARMS

FAMILY STILL HEAVILY INTERESTED IN CITY AND NEARBY SECTION

A deal which has been in contemplation for some time was closed this week when the Nortz Lumber company, with headquarters at Breckenridge and branch yards in twelve other cities of Minnesota and North Dakota, purchased outright the lumber stock, yards and sheds of The Prichard company. The work of taking inventory of the stock on hand will be begun next week and it is expected that the new owners will take actual charge about the 15th of the month.

Includes Real Estate.

The Prichard company disposes of all the real estate holdings in any way connected with the actual conduct of the business, this including the land upon which the machine sheds are located. It is understood that the new concern contemplates using these also for lumber storage, thus increasing its yard capacity so as to make it one of the largest of their line.

The Nortz Brothers company is one of the oldest and best known in this section of the state. The brothers have been very successful and are regarded as among the strong, substantial business men of the cities in which they now live. A manager for the yards has not yet been named.

Prichards Will Remain.

In speaking of the transfer, W. W. Prichard, Sr., head of the old concern, said that the move was made in order to permit the firm members to engage more fully in other pursuits. The company has been composed practically of members of the family and they have acquired varied interests that will hereafter require their undivided attention. Among these are articularly to be mentioned banking and farming. Besides interests in local financial institutions, the senior Mr. Prichard was recently elected president of the Cass County State bank of Cass Lake. It is the intention to follow banking to an even greater degree in the future. For the present at least the home of the family will remain in this city, they retaining the fine residence property on Horace avenue.

Has Been Progressive Concern.

The retirement of the Prichards removes one of the oldest and most highly regarded concerns in northwestern Minnesota from among the active list. During the six years they have been engaged in the lumber and implement business here they have been very untiring in aiding the upbuilding of the city and community generally, Mr. Prichard himself having been one of the foremost to volunteer his services and substance for any worthy purpose under contemplation. He has held numerous offices of trust and has under all circumstances given the business in hand his closest and most conscientious attention. It will be with genuine regret that many learn of his retirement from business in this city.

Will Farm For Awhile.

J. S. Prichard, who was associated with the old company as secretary, is now in France with the United States army. Harry S. Prichard, formerly manager of the implement department, will go onto one of the farms belonging to the concern near this city, being accompanied by C. R. Halgrim, a son-in-law of the elder Mr. Prichard, who has also been associated with the business.

Joins British Army.

J. C. Bird, for nine years a resident of this city, has been notified that he has been accepted for the British army with a sergeant's appointment. Mr. Bird was private in the ranks during the Boer war and saw a great deal of service. When enlistments of British subjects residing in the United States became possible he again volunteered to strike a blow for his old flag. He already has four brothers in the army.

LADIES, ATTENTION.

The committee on hospital supplies requests that everyone having Woman's Club or Naval Unit pajamas will please turn them in at the Red Cross rooms not later than Friday of next week. Whether or not the articles are finished, they must be presented at this time in order that they may be checked up.

HOME GUARD DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

Company C will give a dancing party at the Auditorium on Friday evening. This will be the last dance to be given in this city before the Lenten season and the prospects are that a large crowd will be present. The guards will all wear their uniforms, an exceptionally fine supper is to be served and a general good time is promised.

IS BURIED WITH MILITARY HONOR

C. H. HERMANSON, FIRST SOLDIER FROM CITY TO DIE, IS LAID TO REST.

CROWD VIEWS REMAINS

CHURCH PACKED TO HEAR IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERMON DELIVERED.

The funeral of C. Henry Hermanson, the first soldier from Pennington county to die in the service, was held on Monday afternoon from the Norwegian Lutheran church. The remains were accorded full military honors, officers and members of Company C, Eleventh Battalion, Minnesota Home Guard, having charge of the arrangements. A guard of honor in charge of First Sergeant H. W. Protzeller was in attendance at the residence and afterwards while the body was lying in state at the church. This guard was made up as follows: Corp. G. A. Penney, Privates Bernhard Knutson, O. W. Westin, Joseph Pirdsock, C. B. Bradley, W. H. Wickel, Knut Swanson and John Wingler. The pall bearers were also chosen from among the members of the military organization, being Lieutenants Oscar Sponheim and W. W. Prichard, Jr., Corporal H. S. Prichard and Privates W. H. Akre, Fred Haug and E. C. Karwand.

Large Crowd Present.

The services at the church were set for two o'clock, but long before that hour the place was packed to the doors, the crowd filling the aisles and extending far out into the street. It was undoubtedly the largest gathering of people ever seen in the city upon an occasion of this kind.

An Impressive Sermon.

The funeral sermon preached by Rev. I. T. Aastad, pastor of the church, was delivered in the English language and was most impressive. He referred in terms of the highest praise to the men who, like the deceased, have gone forth to battle in the cause of humanity and warned his hearers that it was only to be expected that scenes such as those being enacted in Thief River Falls at that time would be repeated in many places throughout the United States before the world was finally made safe from the dangers threatening it by ambitious and ruthless monarchs who would tyranize over the peoples of smaller nations. He spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing relatives, bidding them find comfort in the fact that their kinsman had been taken from them while engaged upon the noblest enterprise for which men have ever gone to war.

The sermon was a powerful patriotic appeal for those who are not asked to risk their lives in battle to do their share at home, the opportunities for making the lot of the soldier less full of risk being numerous and the work as necessary almost as that of actual fighting.

Rev. Aastad closed his sermon with a few words in the Norwegian language, these being in effect a translation of what he had previously said.

Marched To Cemetery.

After the church service Capt. W. B. Fuller formed his company immediately behind the auto containing the relatives and the entire command followed the remains to the cemetery. Here the guards were lined up while the last words were spoken by the pastor, a squad fired a salute over the grave, Bugler P. G. Peterson sounded the taps and the body of Pennington county's first soldier to make the great sacrifice was confined to its last resting place.

Delegates Are Chosen.

At a meeting of the directors of the Pennington County Farm Bureau association yesterday it was decided to send Hans Anton as a delegate to the meeting of association representatives to be held at the university of Minnesota next week. This meeting will be for the purpose of instructing those present in the work to be done during the coming spring and also to give other pointers for the benefit of the associations. Ross P. White, county agent, will also attend.

LAST OF QUOTA SOON TO LEAVE

MEN WILL BEGIN MOVING TOWARD CAMPS ON FEBRUARY 23.

SEVENTY-THREE WILL GO

ALL TO BE TAKEN FROM THE CLASS ONE MEN NOW AVAILABLE.

The men of the first national army quota still remaining uncalled in Pennington county will in all likelihood be ordered to entrain as soon after Feb. 23 as transportation arrangements can be made. The notification to this effect was issued this week and is as follows:

"Provost Marshal General Crowder has announced that the movement of the last increments of the men selected in the first draft will begin on February 23 and continue for a period of five days.

"This will complete the operation of the first draft, as all states will have furnished their full quotas."

Will Take Five Days.

There are approximately 8,600 men still to be called from Minnesota, of which Pennington county's uncompleted quota is 73. Sixteen men have been accepted and are in the service, this making the 89 selected under the first draft. It is expected that it will take five days to mobilize the state's contingent and preparations are under way to speed up the work as soon as it is started.

Plenty in Class One.

County Auditor T. P. Anderson of the local registration board, says that Class 1 men will be called first and that there are a sufficient number of these to more than meet the requirements at this time. Notices will be sent out at once and it is expected that the response will be immediate as the men are nearly all where they can be reached handily because of the fact that they have been made acquainted with their class standing and have not had time to stray far.

SIX MORE LEAVE TO JOIN COLORS

THREE ARE HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES OF THE CLASS OF '15.

Pennington county this week contributed six more young men to the fighting forces of Uncle Sam, four from Thief River and two from Goodridge. These are Benjamin E. Bothun, Oscar Paulson, Francis Burns, Arthur Granum, Chester Tvedt and H. Wesley Smith, the last named two being from the smaller town. The first-named three expect to go direct to Washington where they will join the Twentieth engineers; Granum goes to Camp Dodge to become a member of the regimental band, and Smith and Tvedt are bound for Fort Riley as members of the medical corps.

Bothun, Burns and Paulson are of the 1915 class at the Thief River Falls high school, which class is now represented in some branch of the service by nine members. This will mean that the total number of stars in the school service flag will be raised to 75.

Returns From the South.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McDaniel returned the first of the week from Hot Springs, Ark., to which place they went last fall with the intention of spending the winter. They made the down trip by auto and had a most delightful journey. The weather in the sunny southland this winter, however, has been such as to discourage travelers from the north. It has on occasions been 10 below zero, and that is decidedly cold weather in Arkansas. Mr. McDaniel says he was never so cold in his life, and the dampness in the atmosphere made it almost impossible to get heat enough to form any sort of protection.

Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel and son went to housekeeping again right here in Thief River Falls and Mr. McDaniel will at once take up the real estate business, in which he was engaged before leaving. They are residing at 316 Atlantic avenue N.

Patriotic School Program.

The Little Citizen's club of Clover Leaf school, district No. 85, will give a patriotic entertainment on Monday evening, Feb. 11, to which all are invited. The teacher, Miss Bartlett, has arranged an excellent program and it is expected that quite a number of people from the city will be present.

Making Good in Athletics.

That Thief River Falls boys will give good accounts of themselves on the firing line is an admitted fact. That they will show up equally as well along other lines of military endeavor, especially in an athletic way, might furnish grounds for conjecture, but in at least one instance, all doubt has been removed. Recent letters to his parents here from Bernhard Burgraff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burgraff, 412 Davis avenue, indicate that this young man is making a name for himself along physical lines as well as being a close student of military tactics. He has been chosen as one of the first string men on the Great Lakes training station hockey team, and will participate in many of the big games that have been arranged. Bernhard has also developed into a promising prize ring specialist, and has been in a number of matches. In a recent match, after having floored his opponent several times, he was handed the "sleep producer" and took the count. His numerous friends here, who remember his athletic prowess, will await further news of his career with increased interest.

BEMIDJI GUARDSMEN READY FOR ACTION

BUSINESS MEN ARE SLEEPING IN ARMORY—EXPECTING I. W. W. TROUBLE.

Lieut. W. W. Prichard, Jr., is in receipt of a letter from H. Z. Mitchell, formerly commander of the local home guard company, who is now located at Bemidji, stating that the military unit in that city is having a taste of real war conditions. The I. W. W. have again assumed a threatening attitude at the mills and in the lumber camps of the district and trouble is feared. The guardsmen have been living at the armory since last Saturday night, sleeping and eating there, in order to be ready in case any serious disturbance is threatened.

In case conditions become serious in that section of the state it is almost certain that the Thief River Falls company would be the first called to assist in quelling any disturbance. The situation is fully as bad as on the iron ranges and the companies located there cannot be spared. Crookston and Thief River Falls are next in line and it would not be surprising if they were called out.

RED LAKE BANKERS FORM ASSOCIATION

MEET IN THIS CITY AND OUTLINE PROGRAM TO AID DEVELOPMENT.

The bankers of Red Lake county met yesterday in the director's room of the First National bank in this city and formed an association having as its purpose the aiding of general development in their county. Thief River Falls was chosen as the place for the meeting, being most easily reached from all points in the neighboring county.

The particular object of the association will be to aid in every way possible in farm development and the first matter to receive attention will be a potato contest. Cups and prizes will be offered to growers of the best specimens of the following varieties: Early Ohio, Russet and Burbanks. The working out of the general plan for this contest will be left to a committee composed of Geo. W. Henning, F. J. Demonez, W. B. Torgerson and H. J. Enderlee, representing different sections of the county. It is probable that a potato show will be held in the fall.

As officers of the new association were elected the following: President, J. A. Duffy, Red Lake Falls; vice-president, A. P. Toupin, Oklee; secretary, W. B. Torgerson, Oklee; treasurer, H. J. Enderlee, Plummer.

Hospital Notes.

Miss Ellen Ekklund was operated on for appendicitis Tuesday morning and is recovering nicely.

Mr. Ness of Gully underwent an operation Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Perrault of Argyle, Minn., was operated on for removal of a tumor from her shoulder Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Hattie Field of Waubun left the hospital today for her home having recovered from an operation performed three weeks ago.

Miss Kuehne of Red Lake Falls will leave the hospital tomorrow after a three weeks confinement recovering from an operation.

Miss Gena Nelson of Strandquist left yesterday morning for her home after having successfully recovered from an operation performed ten days ago.

DISTRICT COURT NOW IN SESSION

SHORT CIVIL CALENDAR AND BUT FEW CRIMINAL CASES SCHEDULED.

GRAND JURY DISCHARGED

SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE FOR INDICTMENTS LACKING IN ALL CASES PRESENTED.

Judge Andrew Grindeland convened the district court for the regular February term on Tuesday morning. The calendar shows a total of 34 civil and four criminal cases, being one of the shortest in the history of the county. As none of the trials are expected to take a great deal of time it is thought that ten days at the outside will clear up all business.

Grand Jury Called.

A grand jury had been subpoenaed but adjourned on Wednesday afternoon after making an inspection of the county property and finding everything to their liking. A number of complaints were brought before the body but none contained evidence of sufficient importance to warrant the returning of an indictment. Math. Barzen of Thief River Falls, was made foreman of the jury.

The Criminal Cases.

Those against whom the state will proceed at this time are as follows. Earl Long, accused of grand larceny in the second degree; Talack Froisness, bastardy; Bertil Backe, unlawfully selling liquor; Nels Swanson, cruelty to animals.

Civil Cases Begun.

A motion for continuance was entered in cases No. 1 and 2 on the calendar, these being D. E. LaBelle vs. E. O. Mogenson and E. O. Mogenson vs. Thomas L. Reedy. The motions will be argued this morning.

The action brought by Osmund Bjorgulfson and Anna Bjorgulfson against H. T. Gilbertson and others, was dismissed.

A number of cases brought by the Maple Lake State bank and the Farmers State bank of Welsh against sundry parties was continued by consent until next term when they will be heard by a jury. These actions were transferred by stipulation from the district court of Marshall county.

The case of Edward Singer against W. G. Hunt was dismissed by the court.

An action brought by The Watson company against Martin Wold was decided in favor of the plaintiff by a jury.

John P. Galbreith as receiver for the Thief River Co-operative store company vs. C. L. Hansen, was stricken from the calendar.

NO COAL USED FOR SCHOOL ATHLETICS

RULING STRICTLY COMPLIED WITH HERE IN THIS REGARD.

The impression seems to somehow have gotten abroad that the gymnasium at the Lincoln high school has been heated during the recent basket ball contests there, and several people have asked why the orders were not being complied with. Replying to this Supt. J. H. Hay wishes to announce that not a shovelful of coal nor a single stick of wood has been burned to keep the building warm for this purpose. In the first place the order is being strictly enforced as a matter of duty and in the next place no heat is wanted for an athletic contest at any time.

"In fact," says Supt. Hay, "the schools are observing the requirements even more strictly than the letter of the ruling requires. Every person connected in any way with the schools realizes that a disregard of the instructions would be setting the very worst kind of an example before the people generally and the pupils particularly. There is absolutely no just ground for complaint against the schools on this score."

The Boys Lose a Game.

The high school basket ball quintet met with defeat at the hands of the Detroit bunch last Friday night. The game developed into rather a rough and tumble affair before the close, this being the first instance of this kind with which the boys from this city have come in contact this season. The Detroit team outweighed the locals, being made up of six-footers who were simply able to hold the opposition pinned down. It is the intention to play two games each week from now on. The next tussle will be with Warren at that town tomorrow night.

STORES TO REMAIN CLOSED

In spite of the fact that the Monday closing order has been in effect for three weeks, there are still those who come to the city expecting to be able to do their trading on that day. This is impossible while the order is in effect and a great deal of disappointment has resulted. Farmers particularly should remember that no goods may be purchased on that day and lay in their supplies at some other time.

SAME OFFICERS HEAD CREAMERY

EXCELLENT BUSINESS REPORTED IN SPITE OF BACKWARD SEASON.

DONATION TO RED CROSS

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS GIVEN SOCIETY TO HELP ALONG IN WAR WORK.

The annual meeting of the Thief River Co-operative creamery association was held last Monday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms in this city. The regular dinner that has become a feature of the yearly gathering was served at 12 o'clock at the Presbyterian church and was attended by about 250 patrons of the creamery and invited guests. The meal was of the usual high order and most thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

Officers Re-elected.

That the stockholders of the association are well pleased with the way affairs have been conducted is evidenced by the fact that all the officers were re-elected for another term. They are C. Christianson, president; Hans Anton, vice-president; Henry Hanson, secretary and Halvor Fodstad, treasurer. Henry Pope was chosen as a member of the board of directors.

Has Good Year.

The report of Secretary Hanson showed that the total business of the creamery for the year was $159,000, this being an increase over the previous 12 months of practically $25,000. This means that the farmers of the neighborhood were paid $500 per week more for the output of their herds than a year ago, which is considered an excellent showing when the rather unfavorable season is taken into consideration.

All those present were enthusiastic over the outlook for the future and predict great things for their creamery.

Donated to War Auxiliaries.

The sum of $100 was donated to the Red Cross and a smaller sum to the Y. M. C. A. to help in the war work of these organizations.

BUT THREE ENEMY ALIENS REGISTER

ONE EACH DAY IS AVERAGE AT POSTOFFICE THUS FAR.

Subjects of the German kaiser must be few and far between in Pennington county, to judge by the number coming forward to register under the ruling of the government requiring a census of all non-naturalized Germans in the country. Postmaster John Morgan, who is in charge of the registrations for the county, states but three have thus far made their appearance. The registrations began on Monday morning and will continue until Saturday night.

The order of the United States does not include German women, nor boys under the age of 14. But all men above that age who live here and are still subjects of his imperial majesty, the emperor of Germany, must appear before the chief registrar and fill out an affidavit in triplicate, setting forth various facts relating to their life. Their finger print is required, and unmounted photographs of themselves must also be filed with the affidavits.

Grocery Changes Hands.

The grocery store heretofore conducted by W. W. Watson has been sold to O. D. Ostby, who will take active charge of the business for the present at least. Mr. Watson has not yet decided upon his future course and will take time to look around before again engaging in business.

O. Landro of Grygla attended to business in this city last Friday.

CHANCE TO HEAR TOWNLEY SPEAK

NON-PARTY HEAD AT AUDITORIUM NEXT TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

NO OBJECTION IS VOICED

WILL BE ACCORDED SAME RIGTS AS ANY OTHER AMERICAN CITIZEN.

A. C. Townley, president of the National Non-Partisan league, will deliver an address to the people of northwestern Minnesota at the Auditorium in Thief River Falls on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 12, at one o'clock. H. L. Munger of Fergus Falls, was in the city the first of the week and made arrangements for renting the hall. The council committee having the Auditorium in charge very properly decided that it was no part of their duty to place any obstacles in the way of the gathering by refusing to rent the building for the purpose, taking for their cue the action under similar circumstances of the Crookston authorities rather than that of certain communities in the southern part of the state where meetings of the league have been forbidden.

Should Be No Objection.

Because of the wide notoriety given every instance where these meetings have been objected to many people have received the impression that the organization is pretty well outlawed throughout the state, when nothing is farther from the facts. Meetings are being held every day, but these are never mentioned in the telegraphic reports.

Being desirous of finding out by just what process of law these gatherings could be stopped, The Times asked one of the foremost attorneys in the city for his opinion. He said that there is absolutely no way in which peaceful gatherings can be prevented. "The people are guaranteed the right of peaceful assemblage under the Constitution," he said, "and any person who attempts to prevent their exercise of this privilege is arrogating to himself a power that it was never the intention he should have. If anything of an unpatriotic or seditious nature is uttered at the meeting there are [illegible] and means provided for the punishment of the speaker." He [illegible] strongly of the opinion that any attempt to prevent Mr. Townley from delivering his address would be a grave mistake.

Farmers Would Take a Hand.

The matter was quite freely discussed at the creamery lunch on Monday. Not all those present were members of the league, but they all were anxious to hear what the head of the organization had to offer. The possibility of the meeting being prevented was brought up and on every hand was heard the expression that such action would be a serious error. One man who has two sons in the government service at this time and has been a booster for Liberty Bond issues and all the war auxiliaries, said that the farmers themselves would be the first to resent and put a stop to anything bordering on sedition, whether uttered by Mr. Townley or any other person, no matter who he might be or what he represented.

Will Draw Big Crowd.

Mr. Townley is prehaps the best advertised man in the West at the present time and it is certain that he will be greeted by one of the largest crowds ever seen in this section.

Soldiers Are Gentlemen.

One Pennington county boy, at least, has found that soldiers are not the roughnecks some people would have one believe. He is H. O. Hanson, son of Lars Hanson, residing a short distance northeast of the city. He writes: "They say that the soldiers are a rough set of fellows, but I must say that I have never struck a nicer bunch of fellows that I have right here. They are clean in all ways. I haven't seen a disorderly soldier since I came. Every one has to take two baths a week and wash up before every meal. I have to shave every two days and really that is the worst job I have."

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR TOWNLEY MEETING

In order that the people from the eastern part of the county who wish to attend the Townley meeting on Tuesday evening may get back that same night, a special train will be run over the Minnesota Northwestern, leaving Thief River Falls at six o'clock and stopping at all stations along the line.

Official Paper of Pennington County, City of Thief River Falls, and Independent School District No. 18.

We shall fight for the things we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations, and make the world itself at last free. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and the peace which she has treasured. GOD HELPING HER, SHE CAN DO NO OTHER.—President Wilson.

A NECESSARY ADVANCE

No class of business men have been hit harder by the constantly increasing cost of the things going into their product than the newspaper fraternity, and none have been slower in passing the increase on to their patrons. In many instances Minnesota newspapers have continued to operate under the schedule of prices existing before the war, hoping something would take place that would make it unnecessary for them to increase the cost of subscriptions and advertising. This battling against conditions they could in no manner control has brought a large number close up against bankruptcy while others have gone out of existence entirely.

It seems to be a harder matter to change the price of a newspaper than almost any other item entering into the daily requirements of the people. This is because subscriptions are paid in advance as a rule, and a large number will overlap the date for which any raise can be announced. Thus one man will be paying the former price for a considerable time after his neighbor has been forced to meet the new schedule and it is sometimes hard to convince him that this is not unfair. If all subscriptions expired at the same time the change would present no more difficulties than are encountered when an advance is made in the price of any other commodity or service. For this reason and in order that all may have fair notice of the change the date for its taking effect is generally set for some time in the future.

The publishers of The Times now find themselves compelled to raise the subscription price of the paper to $2.00 per year, and have set April 1, 1918, as the date when the new schedule will go into effect. This will give new subscribers and those renewing just two months in which to get in under the old $1.50 price. A large number of subscriptions expire just within this time limit, and those renewing promptly will receive the paper for another twelve months at the old price. After March 1, the paper will cost everybody fifty cents per year more.

During the past month about twenty Minnesota weeklies have raised their subscription price and a number of the dailies which have heretofore cost one cent have advanced to two cents. All held out as long as possible at the old price but were forced to make the advance. Others must follow suit or publish at a loss—there is no alternative.

The Times is now perhaps the largest weekly in the state still operating under the former price of $1.50. Many smaller papers have been compelled to abandon the time-honored figure and have gone to $2.00. In practically every instance the subscribers have looked upon this move in a sensible light, realizing that present conditions made it necessary. We feel that Times subscribers will be of this class.

A GERMAN INDICTMENT

It is inconceivable that the kaiser can long continue to hold the German people in ignorance of the true motives underlying this war. That the conflict was begun simply and solely for his own aggrandizement and that of his family is now realized by thinking Germans in every quarter of the globe, except possibly in Germany itself, and it can not be long before the truth will have penetrated to the innermost districts of even that land. When this has been accomplished, Wilhelm and the Hohenzollern dynasty are through. As an example of what Germans who dare express their opinions are saying, the following, written by Seigfried Balder and circulated through the efforts of the German republicans in Switzerland, is illuminating:

"The German emperor declared war on Russia and France without justification. No one wished to attack us, and no one had trespassed upon our rights. No interest of the German nation required war with any of our neighbors.

"The emperor committed a wrong that cannot be extenuated when he broke a treaty in order to invade Belgium.

"He committed the greatest possible wrong in repaying the trust of the German nation by deceit, infidelity and betrayal.

"He has closed every avenue to the truth; he has concealed the real causes and aims of the war under a mantle of the grossest falsehood; he has sacrificed millions of Germans and billions of their hard-earned wealth to the selfish ends of his immediate circle by an abuse of the high powers conferred upon him; he has disgraced Germany's national honor, and has criminally set the existence and sovereignty of our fatherland upon the cast of a die."

PRESENTS AN OPPORTUNITY

A number of the railroads centering in the Twin Cities are to make a special effort to induce farmers living in the Eastern and Central states to come to this section and begin the cultivation of the fertile land of northern Minnesota, much of which is now entirely non-productive. Federal officials have endorsed the move and assured the railways of co-operation in the effort to increase the crop acreage.

Here is presented an opportunity for Pennington and surrounding counties. Should the movement assume the importance which now seems likely, it will mean that hundreds of men with actual farming experience will seek new homes in the territory mentioned, and it follows as a matter of course that the communities most energetic in setting forth their advantages will be the ones to reap the benefits.

The railroads will no doubt gladly co-operate with any commercial club or other civic organization wishing to take an active interest in the matter. The advantages possessed by the different sections for any particular kind of farming should be set forth in the most convincing manner, and in this work the roads should be aided by the local boards in charge of the publicity work of the community.

Merchants and business men generally can do much toward calling the attention of outsiders to the opportunities offered. For instance, here in Thief River Falls they can send out the most convincing kind of advertising matter by inclosing in their correspondence to prospective settlers such interesting literature as the annual report of the creamery associations, the latest statement of the banks, a report on the amount of hay it has been possible to ship from the county in a season of general shortage everywhere else, a short review of the growth of the dairy industry in the section, and many other matters that would prove of the highest interest to men looking for locations. The present demand for farm products of all kinds has created an opportunity such as may not be presented here again for many years.

The fact that the government, the state and the railroads will get behind this movement is a guarantee of its success. These new farmers are going to settle somewhere in the Northwest and it will be largely our own fault if we do not secure our share of benefit from the new movement.

FACING THE FACTS

The sermon delivered by Rev. I. T. Austad at the funeral of the first Pennington county man to die as a direct result of this war will have a far-reaching effect, particularly among people of the nationality to which both the soldier and the minister belong. No attempt was made to paint the circumstances otherwise than exactly as they are. The German kaiser was not referred to as a well-meaning man who has temporarily gone wrong and who might be expected to again follow in the paths of honesty and righteousness if given another chance. No glossing over of crimes was attempted.

The speaker found it impossible to refer in words of charity and toleration to those who are responsible for the suffering and sorrow now enveloping the world. As a minister of the Gospel of Christ he abhorred war and all the evils which accompany and follow such a condition, but he firmly believed that the boys who have gone forth to fight in order that all the peoples of the earth may henceforth be permitted to live their lives in peace and to work out their destiny in accordance with the Divine plan were engaged upon the most noble and unselfish enterprise to which men have ever lent their efforts.

The sermon was delivered in English from the pulpit of Rev. Austad's own church and the audience was largely composed of people speaking the Norwegian language. Not once, however, did the pastor refer to "our adopted country." It was always "our country." He seemed to take it for granted that everyone present would regard the United States as the land to which he first and foremost owes allegiance and deemed it of no consequence that he might have been born under another flag.

This strong, patriotic sermon but adds another to the many that have been delivered in the different churches of the city since this war started. The men of the cloth are doing their full share in keeping before the people the righteousness of the cause for which we are fighting.

SHOULD SHIP THEIR WHEAT

The farmer who persists in holding his wheat at this time in spite of everything that is being said and done to get him to let go of it not only lacks considerable of being a patriot but is a mighty poor business man as well. The price for last year's crop has been fixed and will not be increased. The wheat is needed more now than ever before in the history of the country and it is to be hoped that it will never be so badly needed again. Under these circumstances the farmer who fails to ship in his supply is sadly lacking in his sense of obligation to the government. He is in fact giving every aid of which he is capable to the enemies of his own country.

Food Commissioner Hoover has called the attention of Prof. Wilson, in charge of the food distribution in this state, to the conditions and requests him to do everything in his power to speed up wheat shipments. Prof. Wilson has, in turn, passed the request on to elevator men, who are urging the farmers by every means at their command to heed the demand. These letters were this week received by the elevator men at Thief River Falls and read in part as follows:

"In order that a steady supply of wheat may be available for shipment abroad to meet the needs of army and that of our allies, as shipping tonnage increases, it is highly desirable that special efforts be made to urge the farmers in your state who have considerable quantities of wheat still in their hands to market the same without undue delay. The basal price of $2.20 Chicago market will of course be maintained for the 1917 crop. It therefore follows that no particular advantage can accrue by holding wheat in reserve in excess of seeding needs. The car shortage situation is now gradually improving and consequently freer movement to the seaboard obtains."

MAXIMUM FAIR FOOD PRICES

Prepared under the direction of a committee composed of merchants and consumers in the city of Thief River Falls in accordance with the orders of the United States Food Administration. The overhead expense is not included in the wholesale cost price quoted.

Prices for the week beginning Feb. 5:

LUTHERANS WILL RAISE BIG FUND

WILL TRY FOR $750,000 DURING WEEK OF FEBRUARY 18-25.

FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

BROTHERHOOD BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED AND MAINTAINED AT CAMPS.

Rev. I. T. Austad of the Norwegian Lutheran church, left Tuesday evening for Minneapolis where he will receive the details of a plan for the raising of $750,000 for war work by the church during the current year. The National Lutheran Commission for Soldiers' and Sailors' Welfare estimates that the cost of the work for three years will total $2,500,000.

Will Be Nation Wide.

"There is hardly a doubt but that the people of the Lutheran denomination in the United States and Canada will subscribe the needed amount and much more," said Rev. Aastad before leaving. "Our people have displayed their willingness to foot the bills for this war on every occasion where a question of funds has arisen, and they will continue to do so. The $35,000,000 wanted for Y. M. C. A. work was oversubscribed, the sum received being nearer $50,000,000," he continued. "The Red Cross work is being amply cared for, and the Knights of Columbus have a fund of over $3,000,000. This indicates that the people realize the importance of the tasks these associations have set for themselves.

For Brotherhood Buildings.

"The Lutheran Commission is erecting Brotherhood buildings in the soldiers' camps and cantonments. These brotherhood buildings are to be just what their name signifies. They will be open to all. The work carried on by the Lutherans will not be for the men of that denomination alone. Neither language nor nationality will be taken into consideration there. The Lutheran church goes in as a unit for the benefit of all men with the colors.

Camps Are Clean.

"The work is needed. More and more of our boys are called out, and in spite of the wonderful organization of the Y. M. C. A., it is difficult to reach all. In no war in the history of the world has such pains been taken to keep pure the camps of our soldiers and sailors. Vice is kept at a distance in most places and it warms the heart of every true Christian to read Gen. Pershing's message to the American mothers and fathers: 'If I win no other victory, I hope to win for my men a moral victory.' It is also significant that criminals having received suspended sentences, even though they may be willing to enlist, are refused the privilege. They are not wanted in our soldier's cantonments nor at the front.

"The Lutheran church has now over 165,000 soldiers in the army and is not going to forget her boys but will follow them with the word of God and the Sacrements."

H. S. Holstad of Minneapolis will direct a campaign in Minnesota for the purpose of raising $100,000 toward the work. That he will succeed is certain.

McCULLY IS MADE MESS SERGEANT

ACCORDING TO C. GJELHAUG, WHO IS AGAIN IN ACTIVE SERVICE.

One of the boys enlisting from Thief River Falls has had rather a hard time getting started right, but is probably ere this on his way to France to take up his work with the quartermaster's corps. He is Carl Gjelhaug, and a letter from him to The Times, dated at Washington, states that he was discharged from the hospital on Nov. 28. Carl got the worst of it in an argument with an automobile in Washington while a member of one of the engineer regiments, receiving injuries which laid him up for quite a spell. He states he is all right now, however, but that he has been transferred to another department of the army.

Mr. Gjelhaug says that he managed to locate Walter Smith and Clarence McCully of this city, and had quite a visit with them at the American University camp. McCully, who started out to become an aviator, has been made mess sergeant in an infantry regiment instead, and feels pretty good over his early promotion, according to Carl. The particular unit to which he was attached had received orders to have everything in readiness for embarking at once and the Thief River Falls man is probably in France by this time.

All the local boys of whom the writer has been able to get word are doing well and seem to thrive in the army.

Cutter in Army.

According to information gleaned from the war department bulletins of recent dates, Ned B. Cutter, a former local newspaper man, now a first lieutenant in the 125th Field Artillery located at Camp Cody, N. M., has been transferred to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, for instruction in aeronautics. He joined the military department shortly after his removal from this city, and for a number of years has been identified prominently with the Third Minnesota regiment, National Guard, now transformed into a field artillery unit.

Miss Mabel Pon Tone, who teaches voice and piano in Oslo, Minn., visited with friends in this city last Friday evening on her way to St. Paul for a brief visit at her home before leaving for Chicago, from which place she will travel on a Lyceum circuit.

Use Less Sugar!

We have been advised that we will only receive two-thirds as much sugar as our ordinary requirements. This applies to all jobbers, and therefore means that the consumer MUST use LESS sugar or there will be days and weeks when he will have to do without any. Unless the consumer voluntarily uses less sugar it is quite likely that all will be put on a card system. This will not be necessary if everyone will help by doing only his duty. Don't be a slacker.

MAZOLA
A Pure Oil from

MAZOLA

The Food Administration does not ask you to stop frying foods—only to use vegetable oils in the place of butter, lard and suet.

IF the housewife had been asked to reduce the use of these products a few years ago we would have been forced to give up many of the delicious sautéd and fried dishes for which America is famous.

Today high prices of animal fats and the necessity for conservation do not worry the housewife—because she knows that she has Mazola, the pure oil from American corn, to depend on—in deep frying, sautéing and shortening.

In Mazola she has found the ideal cooking medium—it reaches cooking heat long before it smokes.

Mazola can be used over and over again as it does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another, even in the case of fish or onions—a great force for economy.

Also it makes exceptionally delicious salad dressings—there is no need to fear the rising prices or uncertain supply of olive oils.

Mazola is sold in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins (the large sizes are most economical). Get a can from your grocer and ask him for a copy of the free Mazola Book of Recipes—or write us direct.

Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

Raymond Robinson of Oslo, Minn., arrived here last Friday evening, and was a guest of his sister, Mrs. L. G. Larson and friends. He returned to his home Monday morning.

DRYS ORGANIZE FOR BIG FIGHT

SENATOR RICHARD JONES SAYS HARD WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO WIN

LOCAL COMMITTEE NAMED

MEETING HELD AT THE COURT HOUSE ON FRIDAY TO START COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Senator Richard Jones of Duluth, campaign manager for the Minnesota Dry Federation, was in the city last Friday for the purpose of starting a movement toward organizing the county for the fight which will be waged in favor of the bill recently passed by congress prohibiting the trafficing in or manufacture of intoxicating liquors within the United States. The measure must be ratified by three-fourths of the states within the next seven years or it will fail to become an amendment to the constitution.

Explains Work to Be Done.

A number of the most prominent of the temperance workers in the county were present at the afternoon meeting and heard Senator Jones explain purpose of his visit at this time. He said in part:

Object of Federation.

"The Minnesota Dry Federation is composed of eleven state-wide and a number of local organizations. Its only purpose is to make Minnesota dry, and when that job is completed, the Federation will, in all likelihood, go out of business.

"I believe that the people of each county should organize for the coming contest. St. Louis county, the biggest in the state, voted out the saloons last September. A committee of representative citizens conducted the campaign. We had a real federation of forces there, and through such a federation we had a lead of nearly 4,000, every town and village in the county giving the drys a majority.

"The results in St. Louis county and Duluth proved the value of federation. The Minnesota Dry Federation is organized with the view to conducting the same kind of an aggressive fight. We invite every individual and organization to line up with the Federation for the purpose of administering the final blow that will drive the liquor traffic out of the country.

No Easy Task Ahead.

"Many people appear to think that we will have an easy time of it to put the state constitutional amendment "over the top." That might be true if we had to secure only a majority of all votes cast on the amendment. But the Minnesota constitution contains a peculiar provision that will make it difficult for us to win.

"Twenty years ago the liquor interests induced the Minnesota legislature to adopt a resolution which was submitted to the people which provided that the Minnesota constitution could not be amended without a majority of all votes cast at the election. The initiative and referendum amendment was submitted in 1914, and although 168,000 votes were cast in its favor and only 41,000 against it, it failed to carry because it did not receive a majority of all votes cast at the election.

"As a consequence everybody who goes to the ballot box and votes at all, but fails to vote on the prohibition amendment next November, is counted exactly as if he had voted against the amendment.

Opposition Organized.

"It will be seen what a battle we are up against when one remembers that the people of this state have never been able to amend their constitution where there has been organized opposition. That the liquor interests were responsible for the present vicious provision of our constitution is shown by the records of the legislative session of 1897. W. W. Dunn was at that time attorney for the Hamm Brewing company of St. Paul, and also a member of the house of representatives. Mr. Dunn introduced a bill proposing to amend the Minnesota constitution requiring all those voting at the election to favor an amendment before it could become a part of the fundamental law.

"On the floor of the house a member asked Mr. Dunn if it was not true that the measure was introduced for the purpose of heading off prohibition in the state, and Mr. Dunn replied that the member had been correctly informed."

Is Energetic Worker.

Senator Jones had charge of the Duluth dry campaign and also the St. Louis county option election. He was named campaign manager for the Minnesota Dry Federation on Dec. 5, when the Federation was organized.

Former Gov. S. R. Van Sant is chairman of the Federation, and the campaign will be directed by an executive committee of about 30 members. Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren is a member of the executive committee.

County Committee Named.

At the close of Senator Jones' address a county organization was perfected, the following being elected officers: Charles Gustafson, president; Rev. George Larson, secretary. A committee of seven was also appointed to take charge of the work in the different precincts, the membership being as follows: Peter C. Wold, Rev. Geo. O. Parish, Theodore Quale, A. G. Tvedt, Olaf Larson, Dr. C. Swanson and Theo. H. Liden.

LAY LID DOWN TO FLOUR BUYERS

SIMILAR AMOUNT OF OTHER MEALS MUST ACCOMPANY ORDER.

There seems to be considerable misunderstanding as to just what the government requirements are with regard to the purchase of wheat flour and F. H. Herrick of the Thief River Grocery company asked Food Administrator A. D. Wilson to outline the plan to be followed by those wishing to purchase the article. The stipulations are very clear and there is no excuse for anyone's going wrong on them

"This is in reply to yours of the 31st. The new flour regulations require every retailer to sell with a pound of white wheat flour another pound of combination of the following substitutes: corn meal, corn starch, corn flour, hominy, corn grits, barley flour, rice, rice flour, oatmeal, rolled oats, buckwheat flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soya bean flour, feterita flours and meals. Rye is considered the same as white wheat flour, and graham and whole wheat are considered partially so. With these latter two, we must insist upon a sale of at least six tenths the amount of coarse flour.

"A miller cannot sell to a retailer or to a consumer on any other basis than a retailer can sell to a consumer. This is perfectly just, because if they did otherwise, the retailer would be tempted to sell without the substitutes. If he is compelled to buy the substitutes and to sell the substitutes, there will be very little occasion for his accumulating flour which he cannot sell.

HOUSEHOLD CARES.

Tax the Women of Thief River Falls the Same as Elsewhere.

Hard to attend to household duties with a constantly aching back.

A woman should not have a bad back.

And she seldom would if the kidneys were well.

Doan's Kidney Pills are endorsed by thousands.

Have been used in kidney trouble over 50 years.

Read what this Thief River Falls woman says:

Mrs. Joe H. Jacobs, 410 Conley Ave., says: "Two years ago I had a pretty severe attack of kidney trouble and my back ached day and night. There seemed to be no let up to the pain over my kidneys and I was compelled to let most of my housework stand. A kidney weakness bothered me. I had fainting spells and would often be dizzy. The flesh underneath my eyes was swollen. I got to reading about the wonderful cures Doan's Kidney Pills had made and I tried them. I was more than surprised at how quickly they acted and it was no time before I was sound and well."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Jacobs had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Whooping Cough

"The disease I most dread is Whooping Cough, for children are often permanently injured by the awful straining of the cough. You should never neglect it, and treatment should be started at the first symptom. You cannot mistake the symptoms: protracted coughing, worse at night; peculiar whoop; labored expectoration of mucus; apparent suffocation after coughing.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

is a positive remedy for this disease—repeat the dose frequently, for if given freely it liquifies the tough mucus, makes it easy to expectorate and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. There is no danger whatever from Whooping Cough when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given."

Yours for Health—Granny Chamberlain

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } SS.
County of Pennington. }

T. P. Anderson, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that he is the County Auditor of Pennington County, that he has examined the foregoing list and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is a true and correct list of taxes delinquent for the year 1916 upon Real Estate in said County.

T. P. ANDERSON.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 31st day of January, A. D. 1918.

ADOLF EKLUND,
(Seal) Clerk of the District Court, Pennington County, Minn.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } SS.
County of Pennington. }

I, T. P. Anderson, County Auditor in and for the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, do hereby certify that the foregoing copy of the list of Real Estate Taxes in said County remaining delinquent on the first Monday in January, 1918, was this day received from the Clerk of the District Court in and for said County and State.

Witness my hand and seal this 2nd day of February, A. D. 1918.

(Seal) T. P. ANDERSON,
County Auditor, Pennington County, Minnesota.

NOTE—Parties remitting for the above will please add 30 cents to each item to cover cost of printing and Clerk of Court's fees.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON FINAL ACCOUNT AND FOR DISTRIBUTION.

Estate of Nikoline Olen.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, in Probate Court.

In the matter of the estate of Nikoline Olen, decedent:

The State of Minnesota to Hanna Nilsdatter Olen, Else Nilsdatter Olen and all persons interested in the final account and distribution of the estate of said decedent: The representative of the above named decedent, having filed in this Court his final account of the administration of the estate of said decedent, together with his petition praying for the adjustment and allowance of said final account and for distribution of the residue of said estate to the persons thereunto entitled; Therefore you and each of you, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this Court at the Probate Court Rooms in the City of Thief River Falls, in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, on the 4th day of March, 1918, at 10 o'clock a. m., why said petition should not be granted.

Witness, The Judge of said Court, and the Seal of said Court, this 4th day of February, 1918.

WILHELM MICHELET,
Probate Judge.
(Court Seal) F-7-14-21.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION TO CONVEY LANDS ON CONTRACT.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, ss.

In Probate Court. Special term, Feb. 6th, 1918.

In the matter of the estate of Inger Marie Ammundson, Deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of A. H. Fasel claiming to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the Administrator of said estate, setting forth that Inger Marie Ammundson, deceased, was bound by a contract in writing to convey said real estate to the said A. H. Fasel upon the terms and conditions therein stated, with a description of the land to be conveyed, and the facts upon which such claim to conveyance is predicated and praying that the Probate Court make a decree authorizing and directing the said Administrator to convey such real estate to said petitioner as the person entitled thereto.

It is therefore ordered, that all persons interested in said estate may appear before this court, at a special term thereof to be held on Tuesday the 5th day of March A. D. 1918, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate office in Thief River Falls in said county, and oppose said petition.

And it is further ordered, that this order shall be published once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Thief River Falls Times, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Thief River Falls in said county.

Dated at Thief River Falls the 6th day of February A. D. 1918.

By the Court,
WILHELM MICHELET,
Judge of Probate.
(Court Seal) F-7-14-21.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

TALES OF THE FAR NORTH

Being an Account of My Experiences During the Three Years I Was Employed by the Government in Alaska.

By Dr. F. H. Gambell, Thief River Falls.

Was Never Lonesome.

Novel experiences, observations which interested me from an educational point of view—the happenings from day to day of the unexpected—had so filled my life that I had had no time to be lonesome. When the ship sailed away and I realized that I was cut off from the outside world; when I realized that probably there would be not only days and weeks but months pass before I could receive outside news; when the limitations of my world for the winter were forced upon me, it was only the novelty of my personal work and the love I had for new experiences that kept me from breaking down.

Chapters From Diary.

May I take you into my confidence and open to you the personal diary which I kept for the first year? Trusting that you will be charitable while reading this as it was not written for publication, I will take the liberty of selecting parts from it for this article.

"Sept. 16—Left the station this morning for a walk to the top of the mountains south of us. After going four miles I found the camp of the Laplanders nestled on South river among the alder bushes. They gave me some coffee with deer milk in it. It tasted fine. They live in tents and will live in them all winter long to be near the deer. On my way up the mountain I came across the deer eating the white moss that grows in such profusion here. This is their food in the fall and winter. No difference how deep the snow is they will paw themselves down to it. In summer they eat green vegetation.

Reindeer Were Beautiful.

"Five or Six Hundred of them, so fat and sleek, each bearing so gracefully his or her beautiful set of antlers! No one could see them without a feeling of admiration. After a long, hard climb I reached the moutain top, and what a wonderful view of the valley! The blue sea, and the snow capped mountains! It was a great big world left to me after all.

"I found great quantities of blue berries in the foot hills. Down by the river bank were red currants still clinging to the bushes. Such large ones, too. High bush cranberries hung red from their parent stems. The salmon berries were yellow as gold among the moss, and the little red cranberries were crushed under my feet.

"I did not reach home till 6:30 p. m., and I was so tired walking over the soft tundra that I could barely stand."

Long Trip For Letter.

"Oct. 28—The river is frozen over. Contrary to expectations, I had the opportunity of starting a letter overland two thousand miles on a dog sled! I am afraid it will be a long time before it ever gets to the states.

"It was fine to see the two Eskimos with their team of seven dogs hitched to one sled go running up the river with their precious load of letters. The jingle of the bells and the pat, pat of the moccasined feet upon the clear ice of the river almost made me want to go along, but the cold wind as it fluttered the ends of the runners' brightly colored scarfs never once discouraged me but whispered of cold winter days and colder nights. So I waved the boys a last farewell and sought my own, warm fireside. What a long ways to send a letter! Over the divide to the Yukon. Then up that river as it makes a trail running into the Arctic, then down past Skagway out on the ocean to Seattle and home."

Long Dog Train.

"Dec. 10—Cold and cloudy; wind blowing strong from the north. The monthly mail passed through at 10:30 a. m. They picked up our mail and went on. Fifty-five dogs were in this train, the largest number of dogs that has passed the station at any one time this winter. Each dog is worth fifty dollars. That makes over two thousand four hundred dollars' worth of dogs.

There are four things an Eskimo dog delights to do: pull, eat, howl and fight—especially the last. I saw two of the teams of ten dogs each come too close together, for they entered into the greatest fight imaginable. Nothing could be seen but white fangs, bushy tails and furry bodies, all rolling and wallowing in the snow together. What a noise they made! All the other dogs in the accompanying teams were straining and pulling and howling to get an opportunity to join in the grand melee. When they were finally parted they started on the trail as though nothing had happened and for a wonder there did not appear to be a scratch or a bite on one of them."

Breaking the Reindeer."

"Dec. 13—Temperature 22 degrees above zero. Late in the day sixteen male deer were brought in and lassoed and then fastened with long ropes to moss hummocks. This is done preparatory to breaking them to harness. The poor things will run with all their might, thinking they are free, until they come to the end of the rope, when they are thrown heels over head. This is done time and again until they are somewhat subdued.

"It is interesting to watch the Laplanders harness the new deer. Often the deer will rise upon his hind legs and make for the approaching Lap, using his front feet to strike as though he were a man. The Lap rushes, grasps the deer around the neck and attemps to throw him. If the deer gets all four feet upon the ground the Lap grasps him by the antlers, places one foot upon one, then taking hold of the other, twists his neck until he falls over on his side, in which position the harness is applied. The harness has one single tug running between the hind legs of the animal and is then fastened to a boat-like sled called a pulka. As soon as the deer is free, up he jumps and away they go at a great speed—through brush, over rocks, down river banks—anywhere and everywhere, till the deer is winded, when he will turn and face his tormenter. If he becomes angry at being urged to go by the jerking on the single line he may make for the driver in a most vicious manner. The driver rolls off beside the pulka and the deer pins him down with one antler on either side. After a while the deer gets tired and turns and runs again, but the driver has rolled into his sled again and is holding on to keep from being thrown out in this wild ride. This is kept up until at last the deer is declared broken."

Two Hours of Sunshine.

"Dec. 21—Temperature 35 degrees below zero. I saw the sun for the first time this morning, shortly before eleven, when it went rolling along, just missing the mountain tops. It apparently grew provoked at trying to rise and went to bed again a little after one. But, oh, the Arctic twilight lasting till four! How beautifully tinted was the sky! No one could ever paint such rich colors.

"The moon rises in the north and sets near where it rose, keeping out of sight only a short time. It is so bright that it will hardly let the sun shine. In the dark of the moon the stars are so bright that I have looked for a shadow from them. Were there only one shining at a time I am sure one of the brightest ones would cast a shadow as does the moon. The north star is almost overhead."

"Jan. 16—This has been a day when I have felt the need of a companionable person. I dislike to prepare my meals because of the solitude which reigns while eating them. I wish that the mail would come from the states, for it is long over due. We expected one in by Christmas and none has come in though several have gone out. I hate the auspense.

Wild Life in Plenty.

"In the afternoon I took a walk up the river. The hammering of a woodpecker, the twittering of the snow birds, and the tracks in the snow of the Arctic rabbit, fox and ermine were the only signs of life I noticed. I practiced shooting with my revolver some and was surprised at being able to hit what I did. I amused myself by finding a long stretch of ice and shooting at some object placed upon it and afterward following up the track of the bullet until I found the leaden thing. I must have been out for an hour and a half and found the wind a little cold on my face as the mercury stood at 17 degrees below zero when I came home. My tooth is aching again tonight."

Facing a 30-Below Wind.

"Jan. 23—By seven o'clock I was up at the mission. I went into the kitchen and had Nellie give me some pilot bread. She said, 'You go home?' I answered, 'Yes.' She then said, 'Too cold?' 'Oh, no,' I said, 'I will put my fur parkie on.' I had to go home as Mr. Hendricks and his sister and two children would be at the station for dinner and I knew that I would have to cook it for them so I wanted to have a little time to prepare.

"Nellie was almost right when she said 'too cold,' for I had a wind to face and the mercury was 30 degrees below zero. I broke one of the straps to my muck-lucks while putting it on in the dark and as a consequence froze one of my toes.

"The people came and I soon had dinner ready for them. They seemed to know that I had the failing of all young cooks—liked to have my dishes praised. It seems funny for me to be cooking for company.

"They did not stay long, but hurried on that they might reach the Eskimo village up the river before night. It's a long trip to take in the winter time with children eight and ten years old. They will sleep out in the snow tomorrow night and the next night. The wind is so strong and so cold."

Was Good Baker.

"Feb. 4—I was up bright and early this morning and had my washing, scrubbing and baking all done before dinner. I am proud of my bread. I could not ask for better. I think that I have my mother to thank for my cooking proclivities as she is the best cook in the world and her mother before her was like her."

"Feb. 7—I have been reading a number of old letters today. I ransacked my trunk for all that I could find but could not find as many as I wanted. Will there never be any outside mail reach us?"

Some Trying Days.

"Feb. 17—This morning it was 40 degrees below zero and the moisture in the air was as a frozen mist."

"March 4—Of all trying days this has been the worst. Upon getting up in the morning I found that it had been so cold that my sponge had not risen, so I mixed baking powder in it and made baking powder bread. The water and flour were so cold that I almost froze my fingers in mixing it. I got it made into loaves and baked the first two and left the other two to be baked after these had been taken out of the oven. I now went about preparing my breakfast, but had only started when a patient called me. I had just gotten back and had to go down into the drug room and dress a poisoned hand. Then it was come back, wash my hands, fix the fire, look at my bread, and again start my breakfast.

A Rushing Business.

"No more had I done this than a woman came in and wanted me to pull a tooth. I had to go get the forceps and find a woman to be in the room with her as she thought she would faint. Just as she was opening her mouth there came a rap on the door and an Eskimo entered and handed me a note, stating that I was needed at Unalakleet at once. I forgot to state that I had started my washing, also, at the same time I put my bread in the oven and had two handkerchiefs washed between times. I pulled the tooth, waited for the bleeding to stop, and then got ready to leave for Unalakleet, leaving dirty bread bucket, dishes on the table, dirty clothes in the kettle and a dirty room in general—all to be frozen up solid on my return. I had a pleasant ride on the river and upon reaching Unalakleet found a very sick Eskimo woman to attend."

Re-read Old Letters.

"March 9—Have spent a good part of my leisure time in reading my old letters. I find them very interesting regardless of the fact that I have read them so many times that I almost know them by heart. I will rejoice when I can get some new ones from my home people. The mail left for the outside again today and we will look for it back in a couple of weeks. If it does not bring mail from the state we will almost have to give up expecting it by the overland route."

First Proof Mosquitos.

"April 7—Went out hunting this afternoon and shot two ptarmigan. Saw several mosquitos flying over a field of snow knee deep. Was amused while watching the deer as their horns are just beginning to grow. They have oil sacks at the root of the hind hoof with which they oil the growing horns. After oiling them they strike them gently against the hind leg near the flank. They are animals of fashion and their horns are their pride as they shape them in this way, while they are pliable and can be shaped."

Arrival of Spring.

"May 20—The ice has at last given way and is crowding and jamming as it runs down the river. Saw many robins today. Have given up all hopes of mail till it comes up in July by way of the ocean steamers. How much may have happened since I last heard from home!"

Constipation, if Neglected, Causes Serious Illness

Constipation, if neglected, leads to almost innumerable complications affecting the general health. Many cases of typhoid fever, appendicitis and other severe diseases are traceable to prolonged clogging of the bowels. Regard the effects of constipation, C. E. Ayers, 6 Sabin St., Montpelier, Vt., says:

"I was afflicted with constipation and billiousness for years, and at times became so bad I would become unconscious. I have been found in that condition many times. Physicians did not seem to be able to do me any good. I would become weak and for days at a time could do no work. Not long ago I got a box of Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, and after using them found I had never tried anything that acted in such a mild and effective manner. I believe I have at last found the remedy that suits my case."

Thousands of people are sufferers from habitual constipation and while possibly realizing something of the danger of this condition, yet neglect too long to employ proper curative measures until serious illness often results. The advice of all physicians is, "keep your bowels clean," and it's good advice.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 25 cents a box containing 25 doses. If not found satisfactory, your money is returned.

Items of Interest Regarding Activities on the Soo Line and the Great Northern

Transfers Last Week—J. A. B. Shaffer, agent at Fillmore, N. D., was transferred to the same position at Ottertail, relieving F. L. Allison, who in turn relieved L. T. Machart. The latter was transferred to Ekman, N. D., to take the place of F. L. Pettit, who is on a 60-day leave of absence. E. L. Emory is filling the position made vacant by Mr. Shaffer at Fillmore.

Back on Old Division—Conductor Loren C. Dillon, who for some time has been running on the Duluth-Superior division, although his home has remained in this city, has again been returned to the Winnipeg division.

Shipping Much Ice—A total of 85 carloads of ice has been shipped out of here over the Soo thus far this winter. Of this amount 65 cars were for the company ice houses at Portal, Mahnomen, Kenmare, Adams, Fordville and other places, while 20 cars were commercial ice.

Trouble in the West—This section of the country is fortunate this year. There has been very little trouble from snow compared with that encountered farther west. This week word was received at the station here to sell no more tickets over the Flaxton-Whitetail line as the road is snowed in and traffic is at a standstill.

Rotary Still Idle—No call has yet come for the big rotary snow plow, kept in readiness in the yards here. This is rather unusual and the officials are knocking on wood every time they mention the fact. Last year the plow went out on its first snow-bucking expedition on Christmas day and was kept pretty busy thereafter for three months.

Returned From Visit—Arthur Berg, car inspector, has returned from a short visit to Minneapolis.

Visited Mother Here—Robert Looker, car foreman at Fordville, returned to his post after having visited here with his mother, who recently underwent a serious operation at the Physicians' hospital in this city. She is very much improved and Mr. Looker felt safe in again leaving her and taking up his work. Roy Ellefson of this city, who was car foreman at Fordville during the absence of the regular boss, has returned.

Temporarily Laid Up—John Berg of the roundhouse crew, has been laid up for a week or such matter with a decidedly sore mid-section. He was throwing all the weight, determination and muscle at his command onto the end of a big wrench when the implement slipped and he brought the handle with considerable force against the pit of his stomach. He was not dangerously hurt and is getting along all right.

Booren Has Pneumonia—William Booren, the well-known Soo engineer is at a hospital in Minneapolis laid up with pneumonia. He was taken sick while at the latter city and it was thought best to have him remain right there until the danger was over instead of attempting to move him home. Last reports are to the effect that he is getting along very satisfactorily.

Called to Iowa—Ole C. Hanson, Soo freight engineer, was called to Iowa this week by the announcement that a relative was dangerously ill.

STAR

John Homme was in Goodridge last Thursday.

Selma, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knut Sundahl suffered a most painful accident one evening last week as a result of placing a celluloid comb too close to the flame of the lamp. The comb instantly threw the fire all around the little girl, but fortunately Mrs. Sundahl succeeded in quenching the fire and removing her charred garments in time for immediate and effective treatment. By the kind and prompt response of nearby neighbors, Mrs. Sundahl was aided in alleviating the pain as much as possible and the unlucky, yet lucky little lassie, is now well on the way to recovery.

Gilbert Hanson and Ed. Dempsey were Goodridge and Thief River Falls business visitors Thursday.

Nichol Urdahl of Goodridge township was a pleasant caller in S. E. Star Friday.

Miss Diana Wold, teacher in District No. 1 visited with her home folks near Kratka and friends in the Goodridge vicinity over Saturday of last week.

Among those from the East Erie tracts answering the draft call of physical examination at the county seat the latter part of the week were: Henry Bye, Martin Larson, Henry Svarre and Joe Stengel.

Ice Harvest

One of the important factors in food conservation is prevention of spoilage. The producer of milk and cream, in order to keep these products from spoiling, must keep them cold. He does this quite easily during the winter season and can with but a small expenditure of time and money, do it during the summer if he preserves some of the winter cold for summer use. The way to store cold is to

LOCAL and PERSONAL NEWS

Mrs. O. C. Hanson of this city returned last evening from Waukon, Ia., where she was called last week to attend the funeral of her mother.

Word has been received here from Martin Langseth who is in service in France to the effect that the boys from here who are in the 151st Field Artillery have received promotions. Martin Langseth and Fred Scanlan are now in the Ordnance Department of the Field Artillery and Hardy Bothun is now in the Telephone Department of the Artillery. Martin had received no word from Harold Provencher for some time so could not give any information as to his welfare.

Olaf Neset of this city returned Tuesday evening from Bemidji where he spent the day visiting a sick uncle.

Mrs. Anna C. Watson of this city will leave this afternoon for Minot, N. D., where she will be a guest at the home of her son, Amos Watson, for two weeks or a month.

Mrs. H. O. Loken and baby returned this morning from Minneapolis where they visited at the home of Mrs. Loken's sister for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ramstad who reside in Poplar, Mont., are parents of a son, born the latter part of last week. Mr. Ramstad spent some time in this city two years ago at the home of his brother, Olaf Ramstad.

F. C. Niclai, the "LaLunda" man, last week moved his cigar factory from South LaBree avenue to the Smith building, formerly occupied by The Times at the corner of Main avenue and First street. The arrangement of this structure is admirably suited to a business of this kind and Mr. Niclai now has one of the best cigar factories to be found in this section.

Edwin Stanton, at present night clerk at the Hotel Evelyn, has been notified that he has been accepted as a limited and special cook in the army and that he may expect a call to enter the service at any time. This classification means that he may be assigned to duty in any department of the army, but is barred from service overseas through failure to meet the physical requirements. His name appears near the top of the available list.

MEN ALL CHOSEN TO FILL QUOTA

SELECTION OF SEVENTY-ONE ELIGIBLES IS COMPLETED BY THE BOARD

HAVE ALL BEEN NOTIFIED

WILL PROBABLY LEAVE SOME TIME BETWEEN FEBRUARY 21 AND 28

The selection of the 71 men necessary to fill Pennington county's quota under the first selective army draft has been completed and those chosen notified to hold themselves in readiness to entrain at any time between Feb. 21 and 28. This is in compliance with the orders issued by the adjutant general and applies to all states that have not yet sent their full quotas to the training camps.

Small Part of List Needed.

These 71 men were selected from the first 380 appearing on the list of 889 total registrants, about 240 or 25 per cent of whom were designated as class 1 men. Care was taken to select those who were unlikely to present valid claims for exemption and it is thought that very few, if any, of those chosen will appeal from the decision of the board. So certain are the board members of this that they have provided for but five substitutes to take the place of any who may fail to appear.

The Selected List.

The Times has interviewed a number of those on the list and finds that without exception they are willing and anxious to go. They realize that the board made the selections after giving the claims of each one for exemption or postponement the most careful consideration and have nothing but praise for the manner in which they were permitted to present any objections they might have. Very few had anything of the kind to submit and all seem satisfied with the outcome.

WILL WRITE NOTES TO THE SOLDIERS

INTENTION IS TO SEE THAT EVERY SAMMY GETS A LETTER

Another appeal is made at this time for the names of all of the men and boys of Pennington county who have enlisted or who may have been drafted into the service of the Allies.

The cause is an especially good one for the Red Cross has decided to see that no soldier or sailor shall be without a letter from home, even though they have no relatives or close friends.

To properly carry on this work the local chapter of the Red Cross was asked to name a committee on military relief, but it might be more properly styled a "Love Letters Committee." For it may be that some of the girls will write real, true love letters. It would not be the first time that such a thing happened.

Gen. Pershing tells us that the hardest thing he has to contend with is homesickness among his men. An English general has remarked that their soldiers fight with their hearts and their feet.

Before leaving for Crookston to attend the Red Cross meeting held on Tuesday afternoon and evening, Chairman Thos. A. Way named on this committee Mrs. Jacob Richter, Mrs. Emil Zeh and Mrs. A. Bottelson. Others from the branch chapters will be named in a few days so that active work along these lines can be properly carried on. Anyone who knows of a young man or boy from Pennington county who is at the front should let a committee member know his name, or phone Mr. Way, Secretary Scott Laird, or the secretaries of the various branches in the county.

ISSUES OF "TIMES" WANTED

Anyone having copies of The Times of the dates of Jan. 3, 17 or 24 will be conferring a favor if they will hand them in to this office. The demand for these particular issues was very great and in supplying the demand we neglected to retain enough for our own use.

Mail Messenger Examination.

A civil service examination of candidates for the post of mail messenger in this city will be held at the postoffice on Thursday next. The position carries with it the contract of conveying the mails from the depot of the Soo and the Minnesota Northwestern railways and requires the meeting of the trains from Minneapolis, Duluth, the Wheatline and the Electric line. Applicants can receive full information by applying to T. S. Brokke, secretary of the civil service commission, at the postoffice.

FARM BUREAU IS PLANNING AHEAD

COUNTY-WIDE CAMPAIGN FOR GREATER POTATO ACREAGE IS LAUNCHED

TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

EDUCATIONAL WORK ALONG THIS LINE TO BE TAKEN UP AT ONCE

The Pennington County Farm Bureau association has already begun work, with Ross P. White as its head and with well-equipped offices in the Auditorium. At a meeting of the directors held on Wednesday afternoon it was decided to launch a "better potato" campaign at once for the purpose of stimulating interest in this branch of farming in the county. It is the purpose of the association to conduct 50 demonstrations during the coming summer to prove the value of seed selection and importance of treating against preventable diseases. As a wind-up to this campaign it is probable that a potato show will be held in the fall, when certain plans now under consideration by the Pennington County Bankers association providing for the offering of prizes for the best specimens will also be put into execution.

To Fight Tuberculosis.

To demonstrate more fully the scope of the work undertaken by farm bureau associations, it was decided that one of the first activities in which the new organization would become interested is the stamping out of tuberculosis in the county. This will be done through education in hygiene and correct living as well as instructions in the best methods of combating the disease in cases where it has gained a foothold. This is a great work and the directors are asking the aid of everyone in making it a success.

Will Try For Meeting.

The question of securing the summer session of the Red River Valley Development association for Thief River Falls was discussed and steps were taken to co-operate with the Commercial club in securing this splendid meeting.

An outline of a county program was drafted and will be ready for publication in the near future. It will be made to conform to the national, state and Red River Valley programs and will be a working unit of these.

BEER SALES MAY CONTINUE A WHILE

SAFETY COMMISSION MODIFIES ITS RECENT ORDER FORBIDDING SHIPMENTS

The fifty-eight counties of Minnesota placed in the arid zone by the action of the public safety commission last week through the order forbidding the shipment of liquors to people residing within their limits, will be given a little longer time before being placed entirely on the prohibited list. Every county in northwestern Minnesota, with the exception of Red Lake, was affected by the order.

The amendment was passed last Tuesday by the commission following complaint from brewers that stock on hand could not be disposed of if the bone dry provisions applied at once to 58 counties. The modification provides that beer brewed prior to the date of the order, up to $5,000, may be sold on the same provision that prevailed heretofore until April 1st.

Wins in Contest.

Miss Esther Hoppe of St. Hilaire carried off the high honors for Pennington county in the Farm Crops show essay contest which was given at Crookston on Monday. Miss Evelyn Johnson of Lake Park, Minn., was awarded the grand prize, which is a six months' scholarship at the Crookston college.

ALL SAVED WHEN TUSCANIA SANK

THE THREE PENNINGTON COUNTY BOYS ABOARD ARE ACCOUNTED FOR

20TH ENGINEER REGIMENT

POINT AT WHICH LANDING WAS MADE IS STILL UNKNOWN HERE

George E. Bordon, Henry G. Rogers and Omer P. Anderson, the three Thief River Falls men on board the torpedoed Tuscania, are all accounted for, having been safely landed at Londonderry, Ireland. The only men from the immediate neighborhood not accounted for are Rudolph and Nels Anderson of Gully.

The news of the torpedoing of the transport early Friday morning caused a great deal of excitement in this city when it became known that a large number of the men of the 20th engineer regiment were on board. Beside those above mentioned there are perhaps twenty men from Pennington county with this particular unit and there was no way of knowing how many of them had embarked on the ill-fated ship.

News Came Slowly.

Relatives of the three men known positively to have shipped on the Tuscania attempted by every means possible to secure some definite news, but although their queries were replied to by the Washington authorities nothing certain was known until Saturday evening when telegrams announced their safe arrival at the Irish port. Since that time no word of any kind has been received.

Father and Son Missing.

It was at first reported that Rudolph Anderson of Gully was also among those landed at Londonderry, but the list of survivors fail to contain his name and it is feared that he, together with his father, Nels Anderson, were lost. The latter was far past draft age, but as he had been a lumber camp cook for many years he was taken on in that capacity for the engineers. Father and son enlisted together and it now appears likely that they met their death before being able to do anything toward accomplishing the mission on which they were bent.

Well-Known Young Men.

Omer Anderson was for some time a clerk in the Phillips-Laing hardware store in this city, and is a nephew of County Auditor T. P. Anderson, a member of the Pennington county exemption board. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Anderson, who live a short distance north of this city, and is 24 years old.

Henry Rogers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Rogers, living near Steiner and about ten miles from here. There is one older and three younger brothers and two sisters. Of the brothers, Henry and Emmons are of military age and enlisted before being called, joining the Sixth battalion. A younger brother, Emmons, age 18, joined the cavalry and is now stationed at Ft. Hancock, Tex.

George E. Borden, the third of the boys from this city on the ill-fated ship, was about a year older than the other two. He is one of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Borden, who live just north of town. By enlisting without waiting to see whether he would be exempted he left his father alone with only one young brother to run the six hundred-acre farm, thus causing much concern to the family, as the oldest son, who has been living in Montana, is also subject to draft and does not know how long he can assist his father.

Miss Knutson of McVille, N. D., arrived here yesterday morning and has accepted a position in the offices of Drs. Mellby, Booren and Paulson. Miss Adele Gulden who has been office girl there for the past two years has resigned her position and leaves Saturday for Minneapolis to take a business course at the Minnesota college.

GARFIELD REVOKES HEATLESS ORDER

Fuel Administrator Garfield yesterday suspended the Monday closing order but left the way open to put it into operation again if it appears necessary.

State fuel administrators were given permission to keep the order in force in their states if it appears that it should be done to relieve fuel shortages and also were authorized to put into force any other restrictions that special circumstances make necessary.

COSTS $400,000 TO RUN COUNTY

FINANCIAL STATEMENT SHOWS THAT THIS IS THE TOTAL FOR YEAR 1917

BALANCE OVER $50,000

MAINTENANCE OF SCHOOLS COSTS BETTER THAN $100,000 AND DITCHES $50,000

According to the annual statement, prepared by County Auditor T. P. Anderson and soon to be published in The Times, the county of Pennington is in pretty good shape financially.

At the beginning of the year there was a balance in the treasury of $51,729.99, which was increased to $53,208.11 by the 31st of December. The current tax collections amounted to $255,725.99, the largest item of receipts outside of this being the delinquent tax collections, which footed up $18,909.61. The state aid for state and county roads and the state school apportionments were practically equal, the school receiving $17,896.10 while the roads came in for $17,601.58.

Schools Come High.

In the column of expenditures the schools easily hold the lead, the total cost of their maintenance being $106,043.71. The township and village upkeep comes next, the warrants drawn on this fund totaling $78,497.10. The ditches come third in the item of expense with a total of $57,654.64.

The county paid out $12,958.06 for salaries to county officials and employes during the year, or practically $1,000 per month.

The statement has been very carefully compiled and is presented in such manner that every taxpayer can see just exactly how the money he has paid toward the maintenance of his county has been spent. There is a record of every voucher, together with the purpose for which it was issued, making a complete record of the year's business. The statement will appear in The Times in an early issue and will be worth retaining for future reference. It is certain that the closer a taxpayer studies the figures the better satisfied he will be that his affairs are being efficiently and economically administered.

Mrs. J. W. Hough returned to her home at Cass Lake yesterday after a several days' visit in this city at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. O. Parish.

PACK HOUSE TO HEAR TOWNLEY

ONE OF LARGEST AUDIENCES IN CITY'S HISTORY GREETS NON-PARTY HEAD.

LAMBASTS THE PROFITEERS

SUPPORTS WAR PROGRAM AND URGES FARMERS TO DO LIKEWISE.

President A. C. Townley of the National Non-Partisan League, addressed one of the largest audiences ever seen in Thief River Falls at the Auditorium on Tuesday afternoon. Farmers came from all sections of northwestern Minnesota for the purpose of hearing the head of the new party explain the reasons for its existence.

No Opposition Voiced.

While there was considerable speculation as to whether or not there would be an attempt made to prevent Mr. Townley's delivering his address, no hindrance was placed in the way of holding the meeting when the time arrived. Because of the impression fostered by certain newspapers it was deemed advisable to have officers of the law at the meeting in order that it might be stopped in case anything of a seditious nature was said or suggested, but the address was entirely free from anything objectionable. In fact, the speaker urged his hearers to uphold the government in this war to the full extent of their ability, but demanded that the possessors of great wealth be forced to carry the big end of the burden.

Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. Helped.

T. H. Bjerke of the town of North, was chairman of the meeting and announced that a collection would be taken up for the benefit of the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. The total gathered was $183 which was divided between the two organizations equally.

After the meeting Mr Townley was the guest of honor at a luncheon served at the Thief River Cafe at which about 150 persons, townspeople and farmers, were present. After supper these adjourned to the Commercial club rooms where a number of short speeches were made and a social session enjoyed.

During his stay in the city Mr. Townley referred repeatedly to the excellent feeling evidently prevailing between the farmers and the merchants, a condition testified to by the fact that the club rooms had been offered as a place for holding the evening meeting.

Aviator On Visit Here.

James Curran, who has just completed his course of training as an aviator at San Antonio, Tex., is here this week on a visit to his brother, George Curran. This young man is now ranked as a second lieutenant with the prospects of a first lieutenancy as soon as he begins actual work. He has made numerous test flights on the aviation grounds and has proven himself fully competent for the strenuous work confronting him should he be sent to France. His only fear now is that he may be assigned to duty as an instructor in this country and this would not suit him in the least. Now that he is equipped he wants to get "over there" as soon as possible and do his share right on the fighting line.

Lieut. Curran says that there is no denying that the training course for flyers is pretty stiff, but that they are being turned out at a very satisfactory rate. His highest flight thus far has been 7,500 feet and he has made a number of distance flights.

Mrs. Mat Ahlberg arrived Tuesday evening from Henning and is a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Q. Cronkhite. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ahlberg of Lincoln, Neb., are also guests at the Cronkhite home.

Burggraf is Hockey Star.

In the Chicago Examiner for Sunday last appears a large picture of the Great Lakes hockey team, which has been gaining much honor in and around Chicago for the manner in which it has been playing the game. In the picture appears Bernard Burggraf of Thief River Falls, who is right wing on the team. Young Burggraf has been distinguishing himself in athletics at the training station, hockey being but one of the activities in which he has proven himself an adept.

CLUB TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

USUAL BANQUET TO PRECEDE GENERAL SESSION NEXT THURSDAY EVENING

GENERAL PUBLIC INVITED

WILL TAKE STEPS TO SECURE SUMMER MEETING OF R. R. V. D. ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Thief River Falls Commercial club will be held next Thursday afternoon. The regular date for this event falls on the 14th, but for the reason that a number of local business and professional men are attending the Northwest Farm Crops show at Crookston and cannot be present this evening it has been postponed.

The Usual Lunch.

Another of those famous get-together lunches will be served at 6:30 o'clock. All arrangements for this have not yet been completed, but something out of the ordinary is promised. In order that this meeting may be made truly representative it has been decided that not only club members be asked to take part, but that all our citizens be extended a most cordial invitation. It will be the aim to thus impress upon the people generally that the Commercial club is not an organization maintained solely for the benefit of those who may hold memberships, but that its mission is to aid everyone alike by acting as a sort of clearing house for the opinions of all.

Want Summer Meeting

During the discussion to follow the reading of the reports of the officers, the matter of securing the summer meeting of the Red River Valley Development association for this city next year will come up and a committee will doubtless be appointed to look after the details. This meeting is held in June and is always attended by delegates from every section of the valley.

Will Outline Work.

A general program of the work to be undertaken during the coming season will also be discussed. Because of the war much of the work done by the club during the past two years has been of a somewhat different order from that usually attempted, and it is certain that no let-up in this will be suggested. There will, however, be a large number of matters of a different nature coming up for consideration and settlement and provision will have to be made for according these also the proper attention.

Everyone will be interested in the doings at this meeting and it is the duty of all good citizens to attend.

MECHANICS MUTUAL ELECT OFFICERS

REPORTS SHOW ASSOCIATION HAS ENJOYED STEADY GROWTH

The Mechanics Mutual Benefit association, an organization including in its membership a large number of the blacksmiths and mechanics of kindred occupations and representing the ten northwestern counties of Minnesota, held their fifth annual convention at the Commercial club rooms in this city last Friday.

The reports of the officers showed that the organization is steadily gaining in importance and that the membership has been considerably increased during the past year. A constitution and by-laws was formally adopted and the following officers elected:

President, Isadore Fortier, Oklee; vice president, O. M. Johnson, Kennedy; secretary, Angus Stenslund, Leonard; treasurer, C. C. Gulrud, Thief River Falls.

Rev. Albin Larson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church of this city leaves tomorrow morning for Alvarado to conduct the services at the funeral of a young man who died at the Great Lakes Training Station.

WAR VISITORS TO POINT OUT DUTY

DR. JULIUS LINCOLN TO SPEAK IN THIS CITY ON FOOD SUPPLY.

IS A EUROPEAN TRAVELER

HAS BEEN IN WAR RAVAGED COUNTRIES AND KNOWS SITUATION THERE.

Charles A. Pitkin, Pennington county chairman of the State Safety Commission, announces that Dr. Julius Lincoln and Dr. Thomas B. Greene, composing team "B" of the United States Food Administration lecture tours, will speak in Thief River Falls on Wednesday, Feb. 27, on "Food Saving." The lectures will be illustrated with motion pictures and stereoptican views taken during the commission's recent visit to Europe.

Dr. Lincoln is pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church of Jamestown, N. Y., and a member of the U. S. Food Administration's commission to France, is an able speaker well equipped by first-hand knowledge to present a vivid and accurate description of the situation in war torn Europe.

First Hand Evidence.

As a member of the commission Dr. Lincoln was able to observe food conditions in England and France, acting as an individual investigator, and assisted by governmental officials in both nations.

His speech consists of a report on what he saw in Europe. He has had ample opportunity to inspect the farming regions of France and England, the conditions in London and Paris, and later, accompanied the commission on a tour of the battle front in France.

In America Dr. Lincoln was deeply interested in this nation's task of saving food for the allied nations. In Europe he was able to ascertain how American food is used, why it is needed, and what will happen if our food shipments stop.

Knows Food Situation.

Not only does he know the food situation among civilians of virtually all classes, but he has found out how the great armies in France are supplied and fed, having visited all fronts and the encampments of American troops where he met and conferred with soldiers and staff officers.

Dr. Lincoln is a man of broad interests. His viewpoint on the economic and military situation abroad will be one of the first of its kind presented to an American audience.

Will Point Out Duty.

Dr. Thomas B. Greene, who accompanies Dr. Lincoln, is one of the best known food experts in this country and will particularly point out the manner in which the people can help win the war through complying with the government's requirements as to what they shall eat and what they shall save.

FATHER DINGMAN AIDS RED CROSS

FORMER THIEF RIVER PRIEST STARTS WOOD DAY AT PARK RAPIDS.

Father Adolph Dingman, for 12 years priest in charge of the Catholic parish in this city, has been receiving considerable praise from the papers of late because of a plan inaugurated by him for aiding the Red Cross. He asked the people residing in the neighborhood of Park Rapids to help the cause along by bringing wood to the city and offering it to the society. The fuel came in poles and four-foot lengths, and from every part of the county. The Duluth Herald, in calling attention to the success of the enterprise, prints a picture of Father Adolph, together with the following writeup:

"Park Rapids Red Cross wood day last Tuesday was a great success, many cords of wood being hauled in by farmers and donated to the good cause. Prizes were given many bringing in the wood.

"Rev. Father Adolph Dingman, who originated the Red Cross wood day here, was born in Stearns county, Minn., of German parents, who emigrated to this country in 1848 with Carl Schurz and other refugees after the collapse of the German revolution. Father Adolph is a forceful speaker and is continually speaking throughout Hubbard county at every opportunity in the interest of the United States, giving time and money as well as his great influence for the cause of America in this war.

> We shall fight for the things we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations, and make the world itself at last free. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and the peace which she has treasured. GOD HELPING HER, SHE CAN DO NO OTHER.—President Wilson.

FOUR BIRDS OF A FEATHER

At last has come the opportunity for every man, woman and child to do something to materially help their country to win this war.

This opportunity is offered in the sale of War Saving Stamps. Who is there, old or young, who cannot afford to put away at least 25 cents with systematic regularity? If you cannot do it every day, do it every other day, or even every week.

It is the duty of the head of every family to see that each member of the family and each employe of the household starts an account with Uncle Sam. There is no better investment for the money and no easier way to acquire the habit of thrift.

To show something of the good that can be accomplished by purchasing these stamps, the following is quoted from an address given by Elihu Root at a War Savings Rally in New York last week. Mr. Root said in part:

"You can begin saving by the dollar, or you can begin saving by the quarter. You can see how this works. You kill four birds with one stone, which is an example of marksmanship that I would like to see applied all along the German trenches. The first and perhaps the most important is this, that you save by not using, and what you don't use is left for the Government to use for our men. Every yard of cloth less that you use in your apparel is a yard of cloth more to put into uniforms and blankets. Every pair of shoes less that you wear, is a pair of shoes for one of our men to stand in the trench with. And it is most amazing the way in which a vast number of small contributors mount up.

"The second bird is that you turn your 25 cents, your $4.12, over to the Government, and the Government has the money to use in winning the war, has it until after the war is all over. It has the money to buy steel, to make powder, to make rifles, to make shoes, to make steamships, to do all the vast multitude of things necessary to be done to win this war.

"The third bird is that when the war is over, peace has come again, the production of wealth has recommenced, we are all prosperous again, victorious and prosperous America, sailing the sea with our commerce unhindered by arrogant attempts at superiority to prevail, then the Government will pay to you the money that you would have thrown away in the meantime, and you will have it.

"The fourth bird is that you will be better people. You have laid the foundation for the restoration of a virtue that should obtain in all democracies, in all republics. You will have wiped off from the great surface of our National Record the reproach of being a wasteful, extravagant, money-loving, luxury-loving people and you will make yourselves, by that exercise of the virtue of thrift, and you will make your children more like those great and noble men who founded our republic and through their privations and sacrifices gave us the liberty and the justice that we have."

Certainly the doctrine of "Buy War Saving Stamps" could not be better set forth. Mr. Root especially sounded the keynote of the purpose of the Campaign in speaking of the fact that when the war is over the value of these stamps comes back to the buyer plus the interest accrued thereon.

It may seem selfish to speak of the permanent good which is bound to come to us at home here, for our thoughts now should all be of the boys "over there" who are fighting and dying for us, and our sacrifices here at home, whatever they be, are none too great to undergo. But it is a fact nevertheless and Mr. Root splendidly brought it out that this nation will have become thrifty and frugal, instead of pleasure-loving, and the money which we have spent to aid our fighters will come back to us, together with the habits of thrift which we will have acquired.

Therefore, let every loyal citizen of Pennington county go forth and determine to slay as many "birds" as it is possible for him to do. The more stamps you buy, the quicker comes the end.

Reports reaching this country by way of Holland are to the effect that the German newspapers are gloating over the psychological effect which they expect the sinking of the Tuscania must produce in America. Then just to show how little the German papers really understand the attitude of our people they conclude that the event must unfailingly "dampen the spirits of Americans." They had better do all their gloating now. So far from dampening the spirit of the people in this country, the happening has only made them all the more determined, a fact that Germans will discover to their very great surprise and sorrow.

STRUGGLE MUST GO ON

President Wilson's address, delivered to both houses of congress on Monday, again emphasized the fact that this war will not end until the allies have accomplished what they set out to do—made the world safe for all mankind.

In the speech of Count Von Hertling, the German chancellor, the president found no approach to the path of peace, but rather a proposal to end the war on Germany and set up a league of nations to maintain the balance of power so established. Count Czernin, the Austrian spokesman, the president said, employed a very friendly tone, seeming to see the fundamental elements of peace with clear eyes and probably would have gone much farther if it had not been for Austria's alliance and her dependence upon Germany.

As the only basis upon which a permanent peace can be established the president enumerated the following propositions:

"1—Each part of the final settlement must be based upon essential justice to bring a permanent peace.

"2—People and provinces are not to be bartered about like chattels to establish a balance of powers.

"3—Territorial settlements must be for the benefit of people concerned and not merely adjustment of rival state's claims.

"4—Well-defined national aspirations must be accorded all possible satisfaction.

"A general peace upon such foundations can be discussed," said the president. "Until such a peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on."

Austria has shown a willingness to discuss the question of peace along these lines, but Germany's attitude is still vague and unsatisfactory and comes to no conclusion. The president again asserted that the war must go on until autocracy has been taught that the world has out-grown the system of government Prussian militarism seeks to perpetuate and extend, and that nothing short of an admission of this will provide any basis for a lasting and satisfactory peace.

Again the president has most accurately expressed the sentiments of the American people.

A NOTEWORTHY INCIDENT

That this war is going to draw all classes, divisions and schisms in this country together into a closer bond of unity is certain. Differences of every kind—religious, social and private—are all to a great extent forgotten while people of all stations and all beliefs are bending their energies toward winning the war.

An occurance down at Duluth the other day is significant in proving the truth of this. W. A. McGonagle, one of the foremost citizens of the state, was speaking to the Knights of Columbus, complimenting the membership upon the splendid showing made during the campaign for war relief funds. On behalf of the Masonic fraternity in the city he extended to the Knights an invitation to use the banquet rooms of the order for any function they might wish to sponsor. This action has been widely commented on and highly approved.

The Lutheran church of America has announced that a total of $2,500,000 will be raised by the people of that denomination to aid in the work of providing for our soldiers and sailors. There is to be no discrimination as concerns the beneficiaries of this fund, everyone being treated alike, no matter to what religious denomination he may belong.

Rev. Adolph Dingman, for twelve years pastor of the Catholic church in Thief River Falls, now stationed at Park Rapids, urged the people of his section to bring in fire-wood and donate the proceeds from its sale to the Red Cross. Everybody responded, Catholic and Protestant alike, and about 1,800 cords were piled up on the spot designated for the purpose.

This singleness of purpose on the part of people who have always been more or less estranged is a direct result of the war, of course, but its effects will be felt long after the war ends. In one sense they are fighting side by side to as good a purpose as are their sons in France or on the seas, and the result will be a better understanding of one another's aims and a greater toleration for each other's opinions.

HAS THE WRONG IDEA

The Long Prairie Leader thinks that demands upon the people for financial aid for war activities at this time should be confined to what is absolutely necessary. For this reason it voices objection to the raising of funds by the sale of Smileage Books as the money thus derived is to be used to furnish amusement and recreation for the men in training.

The Leader has the wrong idea. The business upon which these men are engaged is sufficiently grim without making it more so by depriving them of any opportunities they may have for forgetting it temporarily. Training first and fighting afterwards is going to take up the greater part of the Sammy's time and if he can sandwich in an hour or two between scenes, during which he can forget the serious business in hand and find some relaxation from the tension, it will make him a better fighting man while the war lasts and a better citizen when it is over.

These Smileage Books will be bought, as a general rule, by people who can afford to devote one dollar to this purpose. The Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other auxiliaries will not feel the effects of the additional contribution by the people in the least. In fact, the Smileage idea is simply to carry on the same kind of work along little different lines. The Long Prairie paper says that the War department should interfere to stop the sale of these little books, but as this department has already given the movement its endorsement we may take it for granted that the carrying out of the idea is regarded as desirable even though it is not absolutely necessary.

The Sunday papers contain quite a write-up of an Iowa family, six members of which are in the army. That is rather an unusual record, but when the difference in population is taken into consideration, Pennington county shows up almost as well. There are seven enlisted men representing two families in the Thief River Falls district, this being one of the best showings made by any city in the state.

CONSTRUCTIVE FARM PROGRAM

(St. Paul Dispatch.)

There is a patriotic ring in the constructive campaign of the Illinois farmers that will readily commend itself to the agriculturalists of Minnesota and other Northwestern states. One pararaph contains the message—to "do the thing on your farm that will enable you to render the greatest service to your country, remembering that you can make no sacrifice equal to that of the boys who have gone to the front to fight."

The constructive features of the program will carry an appeal to farmers everywhere. The suggestion to grow more wheat and less oats and corn is practical in this section, where the finest wheat in the world is harvested. To produce more beef and pork is essential if the United States is to supply the Allies with much needed food products. The suggestion to raise more sheep has a double appeal, as the mutton is needed both at home and for the Allies, and the wool is an imperative necessity if the soldier boys are to be warmly clad.

The advice to plant only such crops as are certain to succeed in various localities is merely common sense in these times when the maximum of production is so highly desirable. To build more silos is in harmony with the national program to develop the dairying interests. The plan to repair old farm machinery carries an economic suggestion that should require no special urging. It will not only save the farmers money but will permit the government to use larger quantities of raw materials for other purposes.

The final advice to pay more attention to soil fertility, to consult with the county agents and to follow their advice will influence the modern farmer to adopt the latest scientific ideas and advice from every authentic source.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING

The annual meeting of the Commercial club will be held next Thursday evening and it is to be hoped that no citizen who has the future welfare and continued progress of his city at heart will fail to be present. The report of the work of the past year will hold many things of interest for those who are inclined to the belief that the club has not been as aggressive in some directions as it should have been. It is safe to say that when the achievements of the year are viewed as a whole it will be found that the club has been particularly active along the very lines in which activity was most needed.

But it does not so much matter whether you believe the club has been conducted exactly in the manner you approve or not. Unless you show up at the meetings no one will know of the many excellent suggestions that are struggling for expression within you. It is altogether likely that your criticism may prove more valuable than would your unqualified approval, but no one is going to discover the fact if you keep your opinions to yourself.

Go to this meeting anyway. You will come away feeling better.

DOES NOTHING TO HELP WIN THE WAR

IN SPITE OF HAVING ACQUIRED A COMPETENCY IN THIS COUNTRY.

A foreign born citizen of the United States—one who has evidently not yet awakened to the fact that there are some things he might do for the country that has given him an opportunity to acquire a competence—was turned down rather hard in Judge Andrew Grindeland's court at Warren the other day. The judge was considering applications for citizenship, an agent of the government being also present for the purpose of questioning the candidates. One of the applicants brought in as a witness a man who has been living in the county for many years and who is known to be in fairly good circumstances. Wishing to establish the status of this witness the government examiner asked him about his property holdings and such other matters as seemed to him pertinent. Whereupon the following facts were brought to light: The man had homesteaded 160 acres of land in the county, had sold 120 acres of this at $22 per acre and was living on the remaining forty. He was asked if he had purchased a Liberty Bond. No, he had not. Had he contributed anything to the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. or other war activities? No, not a cent. Did he not think that a man who had started in with absolutely nothing and been practically presented with a cash bonus of $2,640, besides given a farm on which to live, owed anything to the government that had made these things possible? Well, he had not given the matter much thought.

The examiner turnd to the court and asked that the man be disqualified as a witness as he had no very clear conception of American citizenship, and further that the applicant find some person more in accord with the spirit of America to vouch for him.

Judge Grindeland granted the request without a moment's hesitation and the applicant was told that no citizenship papers could be granted on the strength of such testimony.

YOUNG MAN WILL MANAGE BUSINESS

ORIN OSTBY TAKES CHARGE OF FORMER WATSON GROCERY STORE.

O. D. Ostby of this city last week purchased the interest of W. W. Watson, with whom he was associated in the grocery business at 207 Third St. east. Mr. Ostby has for years been connected with the Thief River Grocery company as traveling salesman and will continue in this capacity, leaving the management of the store to his son, Orin Ostby, who has taken full charge. This young man has been with Mr. Watson as clerk for some time and is thoroughly acquainted with the stock on hand as well as the demands of the trade of the neighborhood.

It will be the new proprietor's aim to pay particular attention to the fancy line of groceries, carrying at the same time a full stock of the staples.

The junior Mr. Ostby is another of our high school boys who have branched out as trades-men in their home town. He enjoys a large acquaintance and has shown a decided aptitude for the business in which he should be successful from the outset.

John Brumund departed Sunday night for Minneapolis where he entered the Dunwoody Military School to take a mechanical course in aviation.

WOULD RAISE AGE LIMIT TO 45 YEARS

PLAN RATHER TO RAISE MAXIMUM THAN LOWER THE MINIMUM.

Discussing enlargement of the age limit for selective military service, Provost Marshal General Crozier said:

"A pronounced majority of the boards favor some enlargement, but there is great diversity of opinion as to the proper age limit. Nineteen and 35 are perhaps the limits most frequently suggested; but some recommend 40 or 45 years as the upper limit. There is a distinctly stronger demand for raising the maximum age than for lowering the minimum."

Gen. Crozier estimates that 1,389,388 acceptable single men would be made available by an increase in the age limit to include men up to 45 years. The estimate places the number of acceptable single men between 18 and 21 years at 1,546,283. The number of probably acceptable single men already registered but not called is 1,321,845. According to these figures, should the age limit be enlarged to include men of from 18 years to 45 years, inclusive, 4,257,516 physically and otherwise qualified unmarried men would be open for call to service.

Announcement.

Having returned from the South, I am again ready to sell land and city property and will ask anyone having a farm or house to sell to call and list same with me. No sale, no charge. I also write fire insurance. Office for the present with the Fred D. Haug Auto Co., 101-103 Main avenue south; phone 371. Residence, 419 Atlantic avenue north, phone 1653.

THE MEANING OF LENT

By REV. F. J. SELTZ

Pastor German Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls

The Lenten season is again with us. The purpose of this custom of the church, originating in the second century, is to meditate during these 40 days the unfathomable love of God the Father, in giving his only Son for the redemption of the world—to contemplate the great passion of Jesus Christ, who laid down his life to atone for the sins of mankind. Lent preaches to man, as no other season of the year, the hideousness and immensity of our sins, which compelled the Father to punish our Vicor and substitute in order to appease his wrath against our sins.

While the true observance of Lent then does not consist in externals, yet the very nature of this season suggested to the early Christian church the propriety of observing it also outwardly. Lent should be made a time of special penitence. The terrible times in which we are living—times in which the chastising hand of God is heavy upon the entire world—should move all serious minded citizens to examine their own lives and humble themselves before God, who is visiting them with a just punishment.

Lent is also a time calling upon us to make sacrifices and practice self-denial. While our brave boys at the front and in the training camps are bringing such heroic sacrifices we at home should consider it not only a duty, but a privilege to deny ourselves wherewith they might be served; to bring sacrifices of time and money, of comfort and conveniences, in order to lighten the burdens of those who are fighting our battles, and not for forty days only but for the entire duration of this conflict.

Lent finally reminds us to forego our accustomed pleasures and enjoyments. We are at war. War not only has its horrors but also its sorrows. Every day brings a casualty list. Although we may not mourn the death of a relative or dear friend, yet the mere fact that they are "our" soldiers ought to remind us that these are times of general sorrow. It would be uncharitable that while some of our citizens are carrying their loved ones to the grave, who gave their life and their all for our country and our freedom, who have been spared these sorrows follow up our usual enjoyments. It betrays selfishness that while a part of our nation is clothed in sack-cloth and in the mourner's gown the other part should be feasting after the manner of the rich man.

It is well, therefore, that we, while standing on the threshold of the Lenten season, be reminded of the customs which early Christians observed with reference to externals in order to apply their minds and souls all the more seriously to the consideration of the one great topic of all Lenten devotion, namely the Passion of Christ. Their example deserves imitation.

Finds Cure for Epilepsy After Years of Suffering

"My daughter was afflicted with epileptic fits for three years, the attacks coming every few weeks. We employed several doctors but they did her no good. About a year ago we heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it certainly has proven a blessing to our little girl. She is now apparently cured and is enjoying the best of health. It is over a year since she has had a fit. We cannot speak too highly of Dr. Miles' Nervine."

Thousands of children in the United States who are suffering from attacks of epilepsy are a burden and sorrow to their parents, who would give anything to restore health to the sufferers.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

is one of the best remedies known for this affliction. It has proven beneficial in thousands of cases and those who have used it have the greatest faith in it. It is not a "cure-all," but a reliable remedy for nervous diseases. You need not hesitate to give it a trial.

NEWS from the RAILROADS

Items of Interest Regarding Activities on the Soo Line and the Great Northern

RAN FIRST TRAIN INTO THIEF RIVER

Engineer to Whom This Honor Is Due Is Back at the Old Job After A Long Absence

Matt B. Milligan is again back on the job pulling the Great Northern passenger into this city. To a large majority of the present-day citizens this does not signify anything in particular, but to the old-timer, the sight of "Matt" again at the throttle is reminiscent of the by-gone days.

It was on the 6th day of October in 1892, that the first Great Northern train was pulled into the little village of Thief River Falls. Of this train M. B. Milligan was the engineer and "Hank" T. Murray the conductor. The former continued on the run for years, this town being then the northern terminus of the road. He has been working on other divisions since that time and has finally gotten around to the old run again. That the advent of this first train was the great event in the village's history is evidenced by the write-up given it in the Press, which was the name of the struggling weekly publication aiming to keep the outside world apprised of what was going on here at the time. Following is a part of the article:

"A long to be remembered event was the reception tendered two of the popular Great Northern railway boys last evening at the Great Northern hall. The early settlers of this city have waited long and patiently for the period to arrive when the iron horse should puff its way hither and give to them privileges to assist in developing the other resources of the city and surrounding country. That time has now arrived and the first train of cars was brought to this place a few days ago, engineered by Mr. M. B. Milligan, and conducted by Mr. H. T. Murray.

"The enthusiasm and gratitude of the citizens boiled over, and to fittingly express their appreciation they tendered a reception last evening in which a large number of them participated, and through the foresight of our live Frank Kratka, a handsome locomotive clock and a conductor's lantern, both being of the very best, were purchased and in a happy train of thought were presented by Attorney Richardson to the conductor who, laboring under mingled gratitude and embarassment, thanked the citizens by short speeches."

Is Expecting Call—G. H. Husby, clerk in the office of car foreman S. J. Conklin, expects to leave soon for one of the training camps, being in the Class A-1 list of the selective army bunch. Entrainment will begin on Feb. 23 and he does not know how soon thereafter he may be called.

Are Still at Nagasaki—The boys at the Soo depot have heard from the bunch who left here so gaily last fall to join the American railway mission to Russia. They are still at Nagasaki in Japan, and say they expect to stay there until some time in April. The Japanese government has extended to them the courtesies of the national railways and they have been visiting all the interesting points in the vicinity of the city. To judge from their letters they are not suffering for anything in particular.

Sick at the Barracks—Phil Brayant, formerly in the despatcher's office of the Soo railroad here, is reported as being sick of scarlet fever at Jefferson Barracks. Word received by his father, D. K. Bryant, 302 Conley avenue south, is to the effect that the malady is of a light form and that he is on the road to rapid recovery.

Temporary Warehouseman—L. H. Cordes, brakeman, has been appointed temporary warehouseman at Alexandria, relieving H. A. Seabury, who has accepted a position as pump repair man with the bridge and building department on the Wheaton line.

The Week's Changes—K. O. Johnson has relieved W. E. Nash as third trick operator at Plummer, the latter going to Fellmore as regular agent. D. E. Emory, whom Nash relieves, goes to Alexandria as night operator, vice M. H. Maroney, who will soon leave to join the army.

Visited in Minneapolis—Miss Ella Northrup, a member of the office force of Supt. W. A. Barnard, was a Minneapolis visitor over Sunday.

As Extra Clerks—Miss Edith Law and Allan Longmuir have been put on as extra clerks at Noyes. The additional help was made necessary by the large amount of detoured business now being handled.

May Get Assigned Runs—It has been persistently rumored during the past week that all trainmen are again to be put back on regular schedules after having been working under the "first in, first out" plan for about a month. This will mean that quite a number of the boys will be returned to this city, the new system having had the effect of scattering them pretty well all over the system. This plan is much more satisfactory to the men and the result would indicate that the company is also convinced that the older method was the best.

Halma Agent Here—R. F. Dye, agent of the Soo at Halma, was a visitor in the city over Sunday.

On Business at Minneapolis—Supt. W. A. Barnard went to Minneapolis on business Friday night, returning on the local Tuesday evening.

New Yard Clerk—Carl Rassmusen of this city has been made yard clerk, taking the place of Bert Ostvolden, who resigned and will go with the next shipment of soldiers to one of the camps.

Visited Alexandria—Harry Dybvik, assistant cashier at the Soo freight office, spent Sunday visiting relatives and friends at Alexandria.

Back on the Job—Berger Wold, who has been laid up for about a month as a result of having been struck by a car jack, is back at his job as car repairer.

Visited Auto Show—A. Williamson, assistant car foreman, and Oscar Eggsrud, car repairer, returned Saturday evening from Minneapolis, where they had been for the purpose of taking in the auto show.

Mother is Improving—Alfred Anderson, who has been off his job as car inspector for some time on account of the serious illness of his mother, has returned to work. Mrs. Anderson is greatly improved and does not longer require such close attention.

Hilson Again at Work—Ed. Hilson, car repairer, who has been taking a lay-off for a few days because he was unable to do anything else, has resumed his place in the line. He feels much better and says that a man should not be housed up in weather like the present anyway.

Transferred to Overly—John Hofek and Everett Jacoby, engine dispatchers, have been transferred from the roundhouse here to Overly. J. C. Bird, pipefitter, who has been at the same town on a short visit, has returned.

New Man on the Job—Ole H. Olson has been added to the roundhouse crew here as a machinist's helper.

Boreen Back Home—Engineer W. A. Boreen, who was stricken with pneumonia while at Minneapolis about two weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to make his removal to his home in this city possible. He is getting along very well and will undoubtedly be back on his perch in a short time.

Miss Adelheit Kuehn returned to her home at Red Lake Falls last Friday after having recovered from an operation which she underwent at the local hospital. She was accompanied home by her father.

CHECKING UP THE RESULTS OF DRIVE

NATION AND STATE FOUND TO HAVE OVERSUBSCRIBED Y. M. C. A. QUOTA.

R. C. Coffin of Minneapolis, assistant secretary of the state Y. M. C. A. was in the city the first of the week for the purpose of checking up the collections made during the drive for funds with which to carry on the association's work with the army. He found that there was pledged the sum of $95 which has not yet been turned in and requested that the subscribers send the money to C. D. Gustafson, county manager, at once, in order that the matter may be straightened up.

Mr. Coffin said that the total quota for the state had been oversubscribed, the sum assigned being $750,000 while the amount received was in the neighborhood of $1,350,000, while the total for the country was $50,000,000 instead of the $35,000,000 asked. The total for the Crookston district, of which Thief River Falls is a part, was $30,000, which is considered very good.

Mr. Gustafson reports that he is in receipt of a check for $25 donated by the Thief River Creamery association for Y. M. C. A. work since the close of the campaign.

Factory is Moved.

In order to accomodate its steadily growing business the Econ-O-Kleen Fuel company has found it necessary to move to larger quarters and has secured a portion of the Thief River Iron Company's plant for the purpose. The demand for this product is phenominal and it will only be a short time until a more elaborate manufacturing equipment will be necessary. Orders are coming in from every section of the country and the testimonials arriving by every mail indicate that the product is filling a long-felt want. An advertising campaign of national scope has been started, the ads appearing in all the principal automobile journals of the country, and the indications are that the business will develop to great proportions.

Corporate Name Changed.

The Thief River Produce company this week received permission to alter the name of the concern to the Peterson-Biddick company so as to make it conform to the designations used by the rest of the plants operated by this concern. This move was deemed advisable because of the orders of the United States Food administration which now require a number of reports of stocks on hand, etc., and it will prevent confusion if all establishments under one management are designated alike. The company has houses at Wadena, Crookston, Deer Creek and Jamestown, besides the one here, and these will all hereafter be known as Peterson-Biddick company enterprises.

ADVANCE IN MEATS IS NOT JUSTIFIED

DEALERS VIOLATING PLEDGE WILL BE REFUSED FURTHER SUPPLIES.

The people of the country are early to be given a demonstration of the efficacy of the price-fixing campaign inaugurated by the food administration. A. D. Wilson, administrator for Minnesota, has sent out a warning to meat dealers in the state informing them that any attempt to boost their prices will result in their supplies being cut off by the packing houses. Every butcher in Thief River Falls has voluntarily and without hesitation signed the fair pledge suggested, and not a single complaint of unreasonable charges has thus far been reported. The new order reads:

"There is likely to be in the next few days and perhaps for some time thereafter a temporary scarcity of fresh meat especially in the East. This is due not to lack of supplies of livestock but to difficulty in transporting the meat. The normal tendency of such a scarcity would be to advance the prices to retailers and consumers out of line with cost production. This must not happen. The food administration has instructed meat packers not to sell at prices representing more than a normal average margin above cost and to distribute such meat as is available fairly among their patrons.

"The Food Administration will on notice from you direct packers and wholesalers not to sell to any retailer who is proved to have violated this instruction. Unless the conditions in your state are peculiar so that the statement would not be justified you should inform the public that there will be little if any increase in the prices of livestock or the cost of production of meats during the near future and that any material advance in the price of meat is unreasonable.

Is Now Sole Owner.

Maurice Giller this week purchased all the interests heretofore held by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Giller, in the estate of the late Jacob Giller and thereby becomes the owner of considerable city property as well as the clothing business which has heretofore been conducted by them jointly. Mrs. Giller has been a resident of Minneapolis for some time past and as she does not again intend making this city her home she found it expedient to dispose of her interests here.

The changes at the Giller store have now been completed as far as it is the intention to go until warmer weather sets in. The new front is in and is one of the neatest and most attractive on LaBree avenue. It is Mr. Giller's intention later on to add about 25 feet to the length of the building which will give him one of the largest stores devoted exclusively to clothing in the city.

Miss Josephine Philipson, nurse, of this city, returned Sunday from Grygla where she has been on a case for the past four weeks.

RED CROSS WORK NEVER SLACKENS

CHAPTER REPORTS ANOTHER MONTH OF GREAT ACTIVITY AND PROGRESS.

CASH BALANCE INCREASED

ABOUT $500 MORE THAN MONTH AGO IS NOW AVAILABLE.

Red Cross Work.

Interminable folds of gauze
For those whom we shall never see;
Remember when your fingers pause,
That every drop of blood to stain
This whiteness falls for you and me:
Part of the price that keeps us free
To serve our own, that keeps unclean
From shame that other women know.
O, saviors we have never seen,
Forgive us that we are so slow.
God—if that blood should cry in vain
And we have let our moment go.
—Amelia Josephine Burr.

The regular monthly meeting of the local Chapter of the Red Cross was held in the Commercial club rooms Tuesday evening Feb. 5th and was well attended. One thing more noticeable than at any previous meeting was the number of women who were knitting.

Rev. Oliver, who has been in the city on numerous occasions, gave those present a short talk on Red Cross activities and was listened to attentively. He stated in no uncertain words that the women are out-witting, out-working and out-thinking the men at this time, and said he hoped that the latter would soon realize that they have a vital part to play in Red Cross work.

Continuing Mr. Oliver said that the men are not half living up to the obligations as compared with the women. All should stand shoulder to shoulder and make still greater sacrifices. Right now we are only playing at work, but when the war is over we will find that there will be plenty of real, constructive work.

Some Excellent Reports.

Various reports of officers and committees were received and again made it quite apparent that much is being done in Pennington county at this time along Red Cross lines.

Mrs. T. L. Melgaard reported for the committee on hospital supplies that Mrs. Spink's division had been furnished 932 yards of gauze, worth $52.98, and Mrs. Shaw's division 236 yards of muslin, valued at $38.10. Both sets of women are actively at work on bandages, etc., and a good report of their accomplishments will soon be forthcoming. So far 360 bandages had been shipped and 200 more are ready.

Fifty-five yards of muslin had been furnished to the Salvation Army division and they have turned in three hospital shirts with more nearly completed. The naval auxiliary, which had been given 45 yards of muslin, so far had not turned in any completed articles, although hard at work. The Woman's club had been given 401 yards of outing flannel, etc., and up to the time of the meeting had completed 20 pajamas which had been turned in, while more were under way.

Shipments For Month.

The month of January showed that there had been shipped by the committee on hospital supplies the following: Five hospital shirts from St. Hilaire; five pairs of pajamas from the Woman's club; five pairs of pajamas from the naval auxiliary; 59 napkins from the young girls' auxiliary; 10 wash cloths from St. Hilaire; and 161 muslin bandages from Mrs. Shaw's division.

Mrs. Shaw in making her report again brought to light that there is much activity in the bandage department, her report being as follows: From the Normal unit, 70 four-tail bandages; from the naval auxiliary, 25 bandages, 15 four-tail bandages, 10 triangular bandages, five abdominal bandages. From the Friday unit, 25 T bandages and 10 four-tail bandages. Mrs. Shaw also stated that there are now three sewing machines and one motor in the Red Cross work rooms at the Auditorium and that as fast as possible more equipment will be provided if needed.

Knitting Needles Busy.

Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Sr., for the knitting committee, reported for the month of January 100 pairs of socks, 54 sweaters, 40 wristlets and 7 helmets. The report for the knitting committee since the inception of the Red Cross work in this city was also one of much interest, it showing that much knitting had been done in the past six months. The report follows: 296 pairs of socks; 120 sweaters; 50 mufflers; 104 pairs of wristlets and 9 helmets.

Juniors are Hustlers.

Supt. J. H. Hay of the Junior Red Cross told of the interest being displayed by the teachers and scholars throughout the city in the work and said that so far the scholars had cleared nearly $350 and expected to add another $150, thus providing a membership for every scholar in the city schools. And, he said, this would be done within the next ten days.

With the bandage work now in charge of Mrs. Spink, it was necessary to appoint another chairman in her place on the inspection committee. Accordingly the chairman, Thos. A. Way, announced that Mrs. G. L. Stearns would hereafter be in charge, the other members being Mrs. Daniel Shaw, Mrs. J. B. Olson, Mrs. C. A. Nason and Miss Lucille Burns.

Pieces Shipped, 448.

Mrs. Stearns in her report of inspection told of the following goods having been inspected and shipped in January: Fifty T. bandages, 95 four-tail bandages, 10 triangular bandages, five abdominal bandages, three hospital shirts, 59 napkins, seven mufflers, 54 sweaters, 97 pair of socks, seven helmets, 40 pair wristlets, 10 pair pajamas, 10 wash cloths.

Reports from the branches showed that the work was being carried on in these organizations, that now members were continually being added and that more work was being turned out.

Donates City Lot.

The gift of a lot 50x140 feet at the corner of Main Ave., and Ninth St., north, by Dr. F. H. Gambell was very welcome news when announced by Chairman Way, and brought forth applause. The lot will be disposed of as soon as possible and at as large a sum as can be secured and the proceeds thus derived will be used for the work of the Red Cross chapter in this city.

The sum of $200 was appropriated to the hospital supplies committee to enable them to carry on the good work already undertaken.

Financial Condition Good.

The report of Treasurer T. L. Melgaard for the month of January as presented to the chapter was very gratifying and is as follows:

Receipts.
Cash on hand Jan. 5		$199.86
Received from dues		51.00
Received from classes		1.50
Received from donations		446.31
Received from supplies		35.30
Total		$733.97
Disbursements.
Supplies	$17.39
Miscellaneous	3.50	$ 20.89
Balance on hand Feb. 5		$713.08

Three Hundred New Members.

The report of the membership committee on the recent Christmas drive showed that eight more members were added in the city than in the remainder of the county. The report follows:

City	158
St. Hilaire	64
Goodridge	40
Hazel	46
Total gain	308

The naval auxiliary, through Mrs. McKinney, reported 13 suits of pajamas having been cut out with five of them turned in; while three sweaters, 10 pairs of socks and eight pairs of wristlets had been turned in.

Working Every Day.

The report of Mrs. Spink showed that the work rooms are now open in the auditorium on Monday, Tuesday and Friday afternoons, and on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. During the month of January 1,300 compresses had been made. But even with this amount of work accomplished there is more to be done each month and an urgent call is sent forth for more women to come to the rooms and assist in the Red Cross work.

Local Notes.

Gradually Red Cross branches are being formed in the various townships of Pennington county and it is the hope and aim of the directors that every township will have its own branch by June 1—one year after the formation of the first Red Cross Chapter here, the Pennington County chapter of which that branch are all members. The last township to organize is that of Sanders and reports from that section of the county are to the effect that the people there are becoming much interested in the work of the Red Cross. As elsewhere the men are just as active as are the women. The petition of the temporary organization in Sanders township for the authorization to form a permanent branch was acted upon favorably at a meeting of the directors of the local chapter last Thursday afternoon. At that time a request was also read by Secretary Laird from people in Highlanding township that the organization committee from here go out to assist them. The townships which are now organized and have their own branches are River Falls, (St. Hilaire and Hazel branches,) Rocksbury, Goodridge and Sanders, while the City of Thief River Falls has the parent organization.

A donation of $15 to the Red Cross has been made by the North Star School district No. 25, located some six miles northwest of this city. The school is situated on what is known as the first ridge west of the city and is recognized as one of the best in the county.

The teachers in the country schools are becoming quite interested in Red Cross work and are continually spreading the gospel, as it were, and from now on it is believed that they will be able to accomplish much good in this direction. On receipt of the money Chairman Thos. A. Way wrote the teacher, Miss Ella Engen, as follows: "We have your letter enclosing $15 donated to the Red Cross by North Star school No. 25. For this donation we desire, therefore, to convey the thanks of this Chapter and of the Red Cross society to each and every one that contributed to the fund. I am sure that the teacher had much to do with bringing about this contribution. Therefore, we extend most earnest thanks and appreciation to you."

Quite a spirited race is on between two local women who are knitting for the Red Cross and as a result Sammies at the front will receive socks at a still faster pace than heretofore. In the past three weeks Mrs. James E. Farr has completed 26 pairs and Mrs. Mike Smith a like number. However, Mrs. Farr stole a march on her sister knitter Saturday and Monday and completed two more pair, placing her a trifle in the lead.

Eight helmets in eight days is the knitting record of Miss Lena Langseth of the Rocksbury branch of the Pennington County Red Cross. The women of this branch have been the most active so far in the county and they do not intend that others shall wrest the honors from them. Altogether the knitting committees under the guidance of Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Sr., have completed and sent in to Northern Division headquarters the following in six months: 336 pairs of socks, 162 sweaters, 63 mufflers, 154 pairs of wristlets, and 160 helmets.

Northwest Notes.

Infantile paralysis has crippled the legs of Roger Soderberg, 15 years old, St. Paul, Minn., but it has put no crimp in his scholastic powers nor in his enthusiasm to serve in the great national need. The lad is valedictorian of his class in school. Unable to walk without crutches, he has become a knitting enthusiast and since the Red Cross unit opened at his school three weeks ago he has scarcely relinquished his needles to eat or sleep.

Wright county, Minnesota, went over the top in the Christmas membership drive to the tune of 7,646 new Red Cross members, or 28 per cent of the population.

Six little girls, all under 12 years old, have formed a Red Cross knitting club at Fargo, N. D., and have planned meetings every week for instruction in knitting and garment making.

Complete figures on the Christmas membership drive announced from the Northern Division headquarters this morning show that the division exceeded its quota by more than 200,000 members.

State by state the results of the drive show that Minnesota enlisted 314,651 new members as against a quota of 236,000 fixed by Washington. Old members in Minnesota numbered 115,000. During the drive the state, outside the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, mustered 167,772 new members. The three cities enrolled 146,879, Minneapolis raising 71,879; St. Paul 45,000 and Duluth 30,000. In the percentage of new members obtained as compared with the total population Olmsted county led all other counties in the state with 7,200 new members, or 32 and 7-8 per cent of the county population. Murray county was second in the percentage list with a flat 32 per cent of the population in the new membership list. Mower, Wright and Washington counties also won honors.

In Montana 70,000 new members were obtained during the drive. The quota for the state was fixed at 40,000 members and there were 20,000 members in the state when the drive began. No reports have yet been received from Montana as to which county led the procession in that state.

North Dakota with a quota of 62,000 members raised 83,049 new members and had 34,000 old members. Golden Valley county, in the western part of the state, achieved the highest percentage of new members of any county in the state, its final figures showing that 35 per cent of the county's population had enrolled with the Red Cross during the Christmas drive.

South Dakota just doubled its quota of 50,000 members. In addition the state had 43,000 old members. In Todd county the most remarkable record of any county in the division was achieved during the drive. With a population of 2,403 persons the county enrolled a Christmas membership of 2,132. Another circumstance that makes the Todd county record even more remarkable is the fact that more than 50 per cent of the persons in the county are full blood Sioux Indians.

At Park Rapids, Minn., farmers are planning a "Red Cross Wood Day." Nearly 200 farmers living in the vicinity have agreed to bring in loads of wood on a certain day to be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross. Prizes have been offered for the largest load of wood and the farmer who hauls it the greatest distance.

On the first day that a class in surgical dressings for men was conducted by the Lake City, Minn., Red Cross, 26 men appeared as students. They came in one by one, each apparently surprised to see the number of other men present. All went to work with a will, agreeing as they left later in the evening, to bring other men to the next meeting.

More than 200 couples were present at a Red Cross benefit dance given by telephone girls at Virginia, Minn., After all expenses of the evening were paid $160 was turned over to the local Red Cross organization.

Five dray loads of Red Cross supplies were shipped from Bismarck, N. D., last week.

Just two weeks after the contest was announced, Mrs. James Beechy claimed the prize for first completing 200 hours of Red Cross work, offered by the Aberdeen, S. D., chapter. The contest opened on Jan. 2. On Jan. 16 Mrs. Beechy presented eight completed sweaters and claimed the prize. Under the rules of the contest each sweater credits the worker with 25 hours work. The first prize was a linen handkerchief from Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, accompanied by a card upon which Mrs. Wilson had autographed her name, "Edith Wilson," and beneath was the added message typewritten, "Sends best wishes to the recipient who has helped to win the war as a member of the 200 Hour club of Aberdeen, S. D.

Bay Lake township in Crow Wing county, Minnesota, holds the record for the state in the Christmas membership drive. Indeed there is not another township in the United States which has a better record for Bay Lake achieved 100 per cent membership, every person in the district, over 14 years old, having joined the Red Cross. At a dinner and mass meeting celebrating the conclusion of the drive only war conservation dishes were served. Every farmer present agreed to raise 10 bushels of potatoes next year for the Red Cross and members of the Bay Lake auxiliary pledged themselves to knit a sweater for every man enlisted in the army from the township, in addition to doing their regular work.

Fred Henzel, a farmer living near LeSeuer Center, Minn., is recovering from a thrashing administered by R. Pomeje, a garage keeper at LeSeuer Center, after Henzel had made a statement, it is related, that Red Cross sweaters are being sold to the soldiers in France. Henzel, it is declared, alleged that he had positive evidence that the sweaters are being sold. Pomeje denied the statement and was soon using physical force to back up his denial. A government agent who witnessed the encounter said he had never seen a better lesson in patriotism. Henzel was arrested and released on bonds.

Members of the Fargo, N. D. Council, U. C. T., have called a meeting to organize a Red Cross auxiliary. They plan to work in co-operation with the local chapter and to take instruction from the chapter members in surgical dressings and knitting work.

A manufacturing concern at Great Falls, Mont. recently presented members of the Red Cross chapter there with 500 aluminum thimbles for use at the chapter work rooms.

At Barnesville, Minn., a Red Cross auction netted more than $2,500. All stores and business places were closed for the day by the mayor's order and the Red Cross auction was the only activity of the day. Produce and merchandise of every kind was auctioned.

There must be no let up in knitting on the part of workers in the Northern Division on the account of the coming spring, according to Mrs. F. L. Fridley, director of the Women's Bureau. "It is the desire of the Women's Bureau," she declares, "that knitting shall be continued until we send out instructions to the contrary. We received a telegram from Washington a few days ago stating that there is still a great demand for knitted articles by the soldiers. Sweaters will be used by the men until late in the spring and to some extent all summer. It will undoubtedly be necessary for us to continue knitting socks all the year round."

Enlistments of 30,000 more women in the military nursing service will be required if prospective needs of the government are to be met, the American Red Cross announced in an appeal for volunteers. In order to meet the increasing demands of the army and navy corps, the Red Cross has modified somewhat its former requirement for enrollment. The age limit has been lowered to 21 years and in special cases, nurses over 40 years old may be accepted.

School children at Sioux Falls, S. D., have begun a campaign to help the Red Cross and win Shetland ponies for themselves. A short time ago a business man of that city offered 14 Shetland ponies to the Red Cross for use in any way local chapter officials saw fit. The ponies were offered as prizes for children who in three weeks would sell the most 10c tickets, proceeds to go to the local chapter. The child selling the most tickets will get first choice of the ponies, the one selling the next highest number, second choice and so on.

Attorneys in Sheridan county, Montana, made no charge for helping drafted men fill out their questionnaires, but announced to all such clients that they might give whatever they deemed the service worth to the Red Cross. No fixed rate was established but each man was asked to join the Red Cross. If he was already a member he might donate any sum he desired.

At a recent Red Cross auction, held in Carbon county, Montana, one of the county officials was present. He was asked to offer some article for sale. After searching his pockets vainly he finally offered his hat which was sold and re-sold and finally "knocked down" to its original owner after earning $32 for the Red Cross.

Officials of the Canby, Minn., Red Cross chapter received a check this week for $428.45, proceeds from a benefit dance held by the firemen of that city. In addition to selling numbers for the dance a charge was made for dinner to all who attended.

TALES OF THE FAR NORTH

Being an Account of My Experiences During the Three Years I Was Employed by the Government in Alaska.

By Dr. F. H. Gambell, Thief River Falls.

Made Friends With Laps.

While my first winter in the North was long, and while at times I was lonesome, still I learned to accommodate myself to my surroundings. I did not need to associate with the Laps all the time although I was supposed to be where they could call me in case of sickness. I learned to know the natives and found many of them interesting and agreeable. They appreciated so much what I did for them and were very solicitous as to my welfare.

Had Many Visitors.

I had a good many prospector friends in the neighborhood. They would come and stay with me for days and were always welcome visitors.

At times I would have the officers from the fort at St. Michael and, after the traveling became good, prospectors and miners were moving from the Yukon to the Cape Nome district, going by and stopping at the government station.

As busy as I was I could not be lonesome for a long period. I was always looking forward to the time when letters would come from the "outside," as we termed the states. I wrote long letters every month and sent them out as opportunities presented themselves.

The weather on the coast was not much colder than that we experience in Northern Minnesota. Still, when the thermometer showed a temperature of twenty and thirty degrees below zero we would have at times a wind blowing with terrific force. We mostly dressed in furs and, for that reason, could endure a greater degree of cold.

Traveling grew to be a pleasure. When the roads were good I thought nothing of running from the station to the village on the sea coast and back again before dinner—a distance of sixteen miles. The air was so full of ozone that it was no effort to run for miles at a time without a stop. There was a certain exhileration about it similar to that experienced by one after drinking a light alcoholic. The old world was a good place in which to live. Everyone was your friend and the future looked bright and rosy. One just could not keep from feeling fine.

Journey Toward Yukon.

I had grown so accustomed to traveling between Eaton and Unalakleet that I hailed with delight an expedition which had been planned by the superintendent to send me into the interior toward the Yukon, beyond that point I had looked at so often where the valley of the river narrowing finally ceased, merging into the foot hills of the great snow capped mountains. Travelers had reported that an old man had died in his hut, alone, on the trail some forty or fifty miles from the station. It was thought best to bring his body to the government station and bury it. A Lap with his sled and driving deer and two deer trailing, one drawing an empty sled, was to accompany me, and I was to have my own deer to drive, hitched to a light sled.

It was the first week in May and the snow had been going fast, leaving many bare spots over the tundra.

Traveled at Night.

It was too warm for the deer to travel in the day time and then, also, the trail was too soft to travel upon. During the night it would become colder and freeze, making it much more convenient to get over. Then it was not dark any more. At midnight it was a beautiful twilight.

At sundown we started. The Lap was ahead and I was to follow along behind. I was not looking for military honors as this was my first long drive alone with the deer and I realized that to follow along behind was fraught with less danger and much less annoyance. The deer at best are not ideal animals to drive.

A Job of Harnessing

The Lap had started ahead of me and when I was most ready nothing could be seen of his train except the white stubbby tail of the trailing deer as it wound in and out on the trail cut through the thick timber. My deer was very impatient at being left behind. I had a long driving line attached to a halter and he kept pulling and jerking at this as I endeavored to harness him. The harness was attached to the sled by a single tug which ran between the hind legs of the deer. I drew the sled up to the animal, picked up the harness, fastened the hames around his neck, reached under and caught the "belly tree" and fastened it just behind the side. That harnessed as well as hitch-front legs to the short tug which ran from the hame on the corresponding side. That harnesed as well as hitched him. No sooner was this done than away he started in the path of his mates. I threw myself on the sled as it was flying past and in the wild run did the best I could to keep from striking stumps, and in addition succeeded in assuming a more dignified position than the one I was first compelled to take.

The Call of the Ptarmigan.

We soon caught up with the other deer—and what a fine ride we had. It was the mating season of the ptarmigan and it was only a little while around midnight that we did not hear them from all quarters calling out to their mates so persistently, "Come here, come here, come here." And as I rode along I wondered how the poor little fluttering timid female could keep from giving heed to a call so full of promise, so reassuring, so clear, so distinct, so commanding, and so in accord with a desire bursting her own little breast. 'Twas the call of the male to his mate and it just, somehow, made me lonesome.

The sun came up so early and started in to make one of those delightfully warm days which stirs Nature and causes her to rustle in her anticipated awakening from her long winter nap.

We stopped at five in the morning and built a fire and made some coffee after we had tied the two deer out to moss pasture. We were camped at the foot of The Old Woman's Mountain, a distinguishing land mark on the trail. Soon we were off again, travelling till eight when we came to the place as we supposed, where the old man had died. It looked as if someone had come from the other end of the trail and had hauled him in the opposite direction. To make sure, we traveled till ten o'clock when we decided to return home. Later we found that we had not gone far enough.

Rather Good Travelers

Turning our deer and heading them toward home seemed to put new life into them. They had travelled continuously for fifteen hours, with the exception of a short stop at Old Woman's Mountain where they were staked out to eat moss while we prepared and ate a light breakfast.

This white Arctic moss, of reindeer moss, is very abundant in many parts of Alaska and is the sole food of the reindeer in the fall and winter. It grows up some six or eight inches high and is coral like in appearance as to its main stem and subdivisions. When we realize that the deer can travel for days, going hundreds of miles with no grain, nothing but moss to eat, we begin to realize what must be the food value in this vegetation for animals that can assimilate it.

It was apparent that our deer were not exhausted as they took the backward trail. I had no trouble in getting my deer to keep up with the Lap in front of me. I did have trouble in keeping him from going around the curves at too great a speed as he endeavored to keep the deer in front in sight.

A Wild Ride.

The climax was reached, tho, when the leading deer, having gained perceptibly on mine on a straight trail, disappeared suddenly down a steep embankment at the foot of which was the river, partly frozen over. The fear of being left alone is born in every deer. It is that which keeps them in herds and makes it possible to domesticate them. This inborn fear surely took possession of my deer for he began to increase his speed immediately. Running with his mouth wide open, and throwing the soft snow into my face from off his hoofs, he made for the same embankment over which he had seen his mate disappear. I held on to the sled for dear life, knowing that the worst was to come in the descent I was anticipating.

An Interesting Moment

Reaching the top of the bank and not seeing the other deer, he rushed on and was almost out of sight as my sled balanced itself for an instant and then shot down following in his wake with me tightly holding on and wishing, wishing for almost anything in the line of travel but reindeer episodes. I could see the black water in the river some fifty feet below me. The trail went slanting down the bank, then struck the narrow ledge of ice, just missing the water in the center of the river and on down the river along the steep bank. I calculated that when I reached the bottom of the bank I would be going at such a speed that when the deer turned I would shoot ahead and go sliding into the cold water.

How I wished for brakes of some kind on my sled, or that I might have had a tongue or fills with proper holdbacks on my harness—oh, anything—just to control this breakneck speed. What could I do with a flying deer, a single tug, and to it fastened a rolling, rocking sled. There was but one line with which to drive and that was on the river side. The faster I went the faster the deer went. Not only was he now obsessed with a desire to reach the other deer, but he was bending all his energies toward keeping this flying thing from incessantly striking his heels.

A Cheerless Prospect

Again I caught sight of the dark water in the river and I began to wonder just how deep it really was. I was thinking even faster than the deer was running. I could not bring myself to the point where I thought that I would really relish such a plunge into the cold water, warm as the day seemed to be. I had reached the place where I calculated that I was about half way down the bank when I came to the conclusion that the best thing to do was to pull on the line with all my might, turn the deer off the path, allow the sled to go past and then depend upon the deer to break the speed of the sled and change it from its course. This I did and I pulled hard. It proved to be a good move. There was a grand swing, a separation of the body into the parts which composed it, and the atom—me—flew off on a tangent, held only by the law of gravitation and the driving line from flying off into space and, better still, into the cold black water of the river. I gathered my things together again and we proceeded on our way, but a little less cautiously than our former gait had been.

Crossing Swollen Creeks

According to my diary, I read: "We reached our camping place a little after noon, ate our dinners, rolled up in our blankets and prepared to sleep until sundown. Five o'clock found me awake and I looked out from my blankets, again covered up and tried to make myself think that I was sleeping for two more hours. Then we ate supper and at 8:30 p. m. we started for home with but little snow on the trail and with the bridgeless creeks overflowing their banks. Coming to one of these we rushed our deer across while we stood up on the highest part of the sled, in an endeavor to keep ourselves dry."

We reached home at 3:30 a. m., went to bed and slept all day, or till about five o'clock, when I woke up, got supper, went to bed again at nine, got up at three, and went hunting.

Oh, the joy of a real wide awake, life-thrilling experience as it is viewed from the vantage point of safety, years after it has transpired!

The firemen have given the use of their room in the Auditorium for the making of surgical dressings and the workers appreciate their generosity.

There are now two rooms in use on the top floor of the Auditorium—one for surgical dressings and the other for sewing and making bandages. They are open every afternoon and evening during the week with supervisors in charge.

Bandages are made Monday and Tuesday evenings and Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

On Saturday the record was broken in the surgical dressing room by four workers folding 87 8x4 compresses in 2 hours.

Any large clean apron may be worn there by having sleeves to cover the lower part of the arm and a cloth for the head.

Only one man has been brave enough to come up there among the women and put on a cap and apron.

A call for trench caps was responded to with a will. After two week's work and with a scarcity of yarn we sent away 155 caps. We have plenty of yarn for sweaters now.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the last meeting of the Red Cross, suitable resolutions were presented and adopted in behalf of the two young men of this city who were so suddenly stricken while in camps in Iowa and South Carolina. Copies of the following resolutions have been ordered spread upon the records of the Red Cross and also sent to the bereaved parents of Henry L. Anderson and C. Henry Hermanson. The resolutions were drawn at the request of the directors, who named Daniel Shaw, Mrs. T. L. Melgaard and Dr. O. F. Mellby as a committee for this purpose.

"Whereas, it has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from our midst our fellow-townsmen, C. Henry Hermanson and Henry L. Anderson, and

Whereas, said C. Henry Hermanson and Henry L. Anderson were at the time of their death taking the steps necessary before going to the defense of their country in the war that is now raging, and for this reason are entitled to all the honors due soldiers who have fallen on the battlefield; and

Whereas the people of our country and city should see in the life and death of these young men a high devotion to duty that shines forth as an example to them in this, the country's hour of trial, and call to their attention the fact that sacrifices must be made by our people if we are to be victorious in the great task we have set ourselves;

Therefore, be it resolved, by Pennington County Chapter of the Red Cross society, that we express our high appreciation of the devotion to duty which caused the deceased to go forth and brave all the dangers of warfare in order that the honor of the nation and the safety of our homes might not be violated by the most ruthless enemy of free governments the world has ever seen, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Chapter; and

Resolved further, that a copy be also sent to the bereaved relatives of the deceased and to the newspaper of the city for publication.

Sam Langdorf, Dillion, Mont., 14 years old, has knitted the first sweater contained in a shipment from that city, according to chapter inspectors. Knitting is a regular part of the work in the Dillion school and the boys are as proficient in the art as the girls. Indeed Sam's sweater received a higher grade than two knitted by his sisters.

Henry Bast, Elm Creek, Minn., who declared to a crowd at Triumph that the Red Cross was a graft from start to finish and that army camps were not fit for dogs to live in, pleaded guilty at Fairmont, Minn., and was fined $200. County Attorney Allen urged a straight jail sentence for Bast. "Today in Poland, Belgium and parts of France," he said, "nearly all of the children under 4 years old are either dead or dying from starvation. The Kaiser and his war lords are to blame. The only hope of relief from such suffering is the United States and its best relief agency, the Red Cross. This man has denounced the Red Cross as a fraud and clearly approves of what the Kaiser has done and has attempted to paralyze the hand of America by maligning her training camps and poisoning the minds of her young men."

A Red Cross auction marked the close of the Christmas membership campaign at Kenyon, Minn., and netted the local organization $1,030. Six eggs were sold for $6.00. In the drive itself, Kenyon, with a population of less than 1,500 persons, obtained more than 1,000 new members.

Six farmers in Stutsman county, North Dakota, have formed a Red Cross club, membership being granted on the donation of $50 to the Red Cross.

LUTHERANS BEGIN DRIVE ON MONDAY

PASTORS OF ALL CONGREGATIONS IN COUNTY ARE IN CHARGE OF WORK

The Lutherans of the United States will on Monday start a drive having for its purpose the raising of $750,000 for army work. Of this sum approximately $150,000 represents Minnesota's allotment The movement has the enthusiastic endorsement of President Wilson, Secretaries Daniels and Baker and many other prominent men. The purpose is to erect community houses where these are not already established and to provide pastors of the Lutheran faith for the boys of that denomination. While the enterprise is exactly in line with the work of the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C. and other organizations, it aims to particularly minister to the spiritual welfare of the soldiers, of whatsoever denomination they may be.

Rev. I. T. Aastad has been appointed chairman of the Pennington county division by State Chairman S. H. Halted. In opening the meeting at the Commercial club on Wednesday, at which were present the pastors of nearly every Lutheran church in the county, Rev. Aastad said that while many of the boys might not be the most dependable church attendants while at home, he had been assured by those whose opportunities for observation have been of the best that they almost invariably took a keen interest in religious matters at the camps.

As to the special work which will devolve upon the Lutherans, the speaker said that the government had asked particularly that this be devoted as largely as possible to persons interned in concentration camps during the war and that the reason for this is obvious. These men, although enemies of our country, have in large numbers been brought up in the Lutheran faith and it speaks well for the government's consideration of them that they are thus provided for. Rev. Aastad said that while the assignment might not appear as desirable as some others, yet it should be regarded as a high honor to be thus selected.

The plan is to canvass every Lutheran in the county for a subscription to this fund. Each pastor has been placed in charge of the work for his own congregation and will also select his own canvassers. Reports will be made each evening, so far as this is possible, to the county chairman, who in turn will forward the results to state headquarters.

The following are the pastors thus placed in charge of this work: Norwegian Lutheran church—Rev. A. N. Skogerboe, Thief River Falls; Rev. A. E. Tungseth, Goodridge; Rev. A. H. Bergford, St. Hilaire; Rev. H. Bjornson, Kratka German Lutheran church—Rev. F. J. Seltz, Thief River Falls; Rev. O. C. Schultz, Goodridge. Swedish Augustana Synod—Rev. Albin A. Larson, Thief River Falls; Rev. A. F. Nelson, St. Hilaire. Lutheran Free church—Rev. George Larson, Thief River Falls.

As Rev. Aastad is chairman of the county committee, he has appointed Andrew Burringrud as head of the work for his church.

O. A. Naplin acted as secretary of the meeting.

ARMY NOW OFFERS MANY ADVANTAGES

NO CORPORATION ON EARTH TAKES SUCH GOOD CARE OF EMPLOYES.

The United States government has more to offer men today in the way of wages, opportunities and protection, for himself and family, in the army, than any corporation in the world can offer, regardless of how paternal its attitude to its employees is. No employer in the world, looks after the dependents of its workers as Uncle Sam looks after those dependent on the labor of his soldiers for support.

Government Willing to Pay.

In a concise way Major John D. Yost, recruiting officer of the Minnesota district, sums up what the government does for the enlisted men. As a straight salary proposition, the enlisted men can earn from $30 to $130 per month, with an increase of 20 per cent for overseas service. "The idea," he states, "that the higher salaries are unattainable for the average man is preposterous, as the government has the money and is more than ready to pay the man who can hit the ball."

For the married man with a family the greatest consideration is shown. He is compelled to allot one half his pay, or not less than $15 to his wife. In addition to that the government allows her an additional $15 for herself, $25 if there is one child in the family, $32.50 if there are two children, and five dollars for each additional child until the maximum allowance of $50 is reached. Further allowances will be made in the case of other dependent relatives.

Family is Protected.

Free medical attention, warm clothes and the best of food are provided at all times. Government compensation in the event of death or disability is more than liberal, ranging from $10 for a minor child to $100 per month for total disabilty. Government War Risk Insurance is procurable in addition, and is sold at an extremely low rate. The maximum amount of insurance for any one man is $10,000 and while it is not compulsory that soldiers take out insurance the government advises all men to do so. Premium rates on insurance range from fifty-three cents a thousand, at the age of 15 years to $3.35 per thousand at the age of 65 years, payable monthly. A beneficiary receives $57.50 a month from a $10,000 policy. Disability allowances are also made.

Wm. H. Halbert left the first of last week for his home at Pittsburgh, Pa., for a brief visit before answering the call to service on the 23rd of this month. He will return to this city some time next week.

SHORT SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT

BUT SIX DAYS REQUIRED IN ORDER TO CLEAN UP FEBRUARY CALENDAR.

The February term of the district court came to a close on Monday evening after a session of just six days, being one of the shortest on record.

The divorce case of Elizabeth Manthey against Rudolph O. Manthey, continued from last term, was heard on Friday and Judge Grindeland will render a decision later.

In the matter of the petition of the Minnesota Northwestern railway, requesting the right to condemn certain property in the city of Thief River Falls, the objectors to the granting of the petition were granted damages in the sum of $1.00 each.

In the case of the First National bank of Ada vs. Albert Schultz, a postponement of the trial was entered by common consent.

The action brought by the Holt State bank against Emil J. and Emelia Olson was tried on Monday. Plaintiff claimed that certain lands and buildings purchased from defendants were misrepresented in that it was claimed the buildings on the place were a part of the property convened, whereas it was afterwards found that these improvements were located on ground that had previously been donated to other parties for church purposes.

The mechanics lien case brought by Ed. S. Christie and William Furstnau against the Thief River Falls Manufacturing company and others, will come up for trial sometime after May first.

It was announced that a settlement was pending in the action brought by Frank Finley against Milo G. Drake and Elsie F. Drake and the hearing was postponed pending the outcome.

The action brought by W. H. Frederick and George G. Johnson against Beno, Hugo and Herbert Menzel, claiming non-fulfillment of contract, was decided in favor of the defendants by a jury.

But three cases came up on the criminal calendar. In the bastardy case brought against Tallak Froisness, the defendant was ordered to provide for the support of the child.

Bertil Backe, accused of illegally selling liquor, paid his fine and the case was dismissed.

Nels Samuelson was found guilty of cruelty to animals by a jury on Saturday. This case was appealed from the municipal court in this city. The fine of $75 imposed by the lower court was affirmed, which, together with the costs brought the total up to $103.

SCHOOLS OBSERVE LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES IN ALL BUILDINGS IN HONOR OF GREAT EMANCIPATOR.

Tuesday, Feb. 12, was the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln and a 30 minute period was devoted to exercises in honor of his memory in all the schools of the city. At the Lincoln high school a program had been arranged and for the first time this season not an absentee was reported, every student being present. Supt. J. H. Hay delivered a short addres on the life of Lincoln in his usual impressive manner and Rev. I. T. Aastad made a patriotic talk to the pupils that was one of the best heard here for a long time. Following is the program:

Salute to the Flag—School.
Song, "America"—School.
Address—Supt. Hay.
Quotations from Lincoln—Students
Lincoln's Autobiography — Sverre Steen.
Reading—Grace Loken.
Song, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"—School.
Address—Rev. Aastad.
Reading—Dorothy Miller.
Music, "Star Spangled Banner"—H. S. Band.

Rural School Notes

War Red Cross Work.

To the Teachers of Pennington county:

Dear Co-workers in the cause of Education—The headquarters for the Red Cross work for the Northwestern Division of which Frank T. Heffelfinger, Minneapolis, is chairman, has sent out an earnest appeal to the schools to enroll in the Junior Auxiliary Red Cross work.

The Red Cross organization consists of a Chapter in each county and the Chapter directs the organization of a Junior Auxiliary in each school. The Junior school committee for this county is composed of the following persons, all teachers in the county:

Supt. J. H. Hay, chairman, Thief River Falls.

Prof. W. R. Wicks, St. Hilaire.

Prof. A O. Halvorson, Goodridge.

Miss Lilly Boehn, Hazel and the undersigned.

Under the slogan "Every School a Red Cross Auxiliary and a Center for National Service," the National office at Washington, of the Council of the Red Cross, has approved an urging of an intensive effort to enroll every public, private and parochial school in America as a Junior Red Cross Auxiliary during the period from Feb. 12 to February 22nd.

The time has come when the schools must help to shoulder the responsibility of the war by organizing the boy's and girl's power as effectively as are now the boys in the trenches.

You, teachers of Pennington county, are therefore directed to organize your respective schools into a Junior Auxiliary under the auspices of the school committee of the Red Cross Chapter. The plan would be to organize by taking the enrollment of the school as the enrollment of the Auxiliary. The teacher assumes charge of work as the chairman. She directs the work. A secretary and a treasurer are appointed. All the money collected from the Auxiliary, which must be a sum equal to 25c for each pupil enrolled, must be sent to the treasurer of the County Chapter, T. L. Melgaard, Thief River Falls. The money thus collected is to be used for the Auxiliary in the Red Cross work in the school on collecting the same. Materials are to be bought such as can be used by the pupils to make articles for the Red Cross. The finished articles are then sent thru the County Chapter to the Division headquarters.

Now, dear teachers, take hold of this work at once. The Government commands and we must obey. Plan some way of raising your quota for the county and help take Pennington county "Over the Top" on Feb. 22. An entertainment planned for Feb. 22, basket sociable for instance might help and it would give the community a desirable chance to participate.

Any amount of money raised above the quota for the school, 25c for each pupil, can be retained in the Auxiliary and be used only for Red Cross war work. Then make a full statement to the Chapter Treasurer, Mr. Melgaard and also a report to this office as to the success of your work.

To the children of Pennington county Rural Schools:

Dear children—As you know this nation is now at war and our Uncle Sam is in sore distress, for he carries heavy burdens for you and me and for all men and women in the whole land. Our Uncle is surely a very dear old chap in thus looking after our well-being and if he does double up his fist, it is because some nation or countries are trying to steal a move on us to do us harm, but the watchful eye of our Uncle Sam is upon them and we trust that our lives and your right as little citizens of this country shall not be taken away from us. But because our enemies are thus threatening us, therefore the dear old Uncle is in sore trouble and as we are the loyal children we are troubled to, and we must assist our Uncle in withstanding the attack upon our rights as citizens of this great country and as children of Uncle Sam. The venerable uncle is full of vigor and fighting force. But strong as he may be, he is but one whereas of us school children, there are twenty-two million scattered all over this magnificent land given Uncle Sam and his children to protect. What can we not do for Uncle even as pupils in our common schools when we are united in purpose and action in the defense of our rights.

Now let me tell you dear children, that our Uncle Sam, that is, our country which we are proud to name the United States, of America, of whom President Wilson is at this moment the great leader, is asking us to do a great deal to win this war, this fight for our rights and liberties.

Some one, probably a brother of yours, has been asked to do much and has now left your companionship and home, left father and mother to go to the front and is now doing a valiant fight and suffering much hardship in order that we at home now and those millions of school children of the future in our country shall enjoy the sweet blessings of a free country. At sometime too, some of the sisters in the neighborhood will find it their duty to go to the assistance of Uncle Sam in caring for the wounded and bleeding in the battle field. Now, then, the question is what can we do, what can you do, pupils of Pennington county? This is what you can do, and which must be done in every school district in Pennington county before Feb. 22 inclusive:

1. To organize a Junior Red Cross Auxiliary.
2. To enroll therein every member of the school.
3. To pledge the support of each member of the school to do some Red Cross work for the help of the soldiers in the field.
4. To pay a fee, a sum of money, by the school to the Red Cross Fund equal to 25 cents for each enrolled member or pupil in the school. The money thus raised will go to buy material for the Junior Red Cross Auxiliary. None of this money goes to defray the expenses of the Fraternal organization or the County Chapter organization of the Red Cross.

The thing to do then, is first to organize at the very earliest moment. The teacher will be chairman of the Junior Auxiliary of the school and direct all activities. Committees may be appointed to assist in the work.

Now, dear children, Columbia is crying and in sorrow, our hearts feel sad for what has happened. Let us then be up and doing with a heart for any fate in this national crisis and let us show by the hearty support of this Red Cross movement that we are loyal subjects of Uncle Sam; that we feel for the men on the battle front by doing "our bit" to help them in this hour of need. Let us, as Lincoln said in the Gettysburg speech "Rather be dedicated" to the fullest degree in the noble activities essential to win in this dreaded conflict the fight for a free government. I trust, in fact I know you will do your part.

Respectfully submitted,
E. A. MOSTUE.
Co. Supt. of Schools Thief River Falls

PROCLAMATION AND ORDER NO. 25

The Minnesota Commission of Public Safety, hereby proclaims and designates February 25th, 26th and 27th, 1918, as Alien Registration Days.

Through the entire State of Minnesota and orders as follows:

1st. That every Alien shall register on one of the above dates at places to be designated by the Board of County Commissioners of county, or Village Recorder, City, or Town Clerk, of the municipality of which said alien is a resident, and make certain sworn declaration as to real estate and personal property holdings as prescribed by the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety.

2nd. Each Board of County Commissioners or Village Recorder, City or Town Clerk shall provide necessary and suitable places for registration of aliens, said registrations to be conducted as far as practical after the manner of a general election.

3rd. Each Village Recorder, City or Town Clerk shall provide necessary registration clerks to conduct the said registration.

4th. Each Board of County Commissioners shall cause to be distributed to each Village Recorder, City or Town Clerk, the necessary supply of forms for said registration, who in turn shall distribute the same to the registration clerks; said blank forms to be furnished by the State Auditor, and be distributed by him to the several County Boards.

5th. Each Board of County Commissioners and each Village Recorder, City or Town Clerk shall cause general and wide-spread publicity of the dates and purposes of the said registration day.

6th. Each Clerk or Registration Official, who may be selected by the Village Recorder, City or Town Clerk, is hereby deputized as its agent by the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety to administer the Oath appearing on the registration blanks attached hereto.

7th. Immediately following the last day of registration each Village Recorder, City or Town Clerk, shall cause all registration blanks to be collected and forwarded to the County Board who shall at once forward same to State Auditor, J. A. O. Preus, St. Paul.

8th. Any alien resident of the State of Minnesota who fails to register and sign prescribed declaration on one of the above designated registration days will be interned or subjected to other action, which the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety will prescribe.

9th. Provided, however that no alien registered under direction of the Department of Justice, and who owes allegiance to the German Imperial Government need register.

The Minnesota Commission of Public Saftey requests that election judges and clerks serving at the last general election, members of Home Guard organizations, and other patriotic citizens, will volunteer their services to the Nation and State and co-operate with the County Boards and Village Recorders, City or Town Clerks in the administration of this order, to the end that the work may be accomplished with the least possible expense; and also solicit the hearty and liberal co-operation of the patriotic press of the State in acquainting the public at large with the text of this proclamation and order.

At a special session of the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County, Minnesota, held in the office of the County Auditor in the City of Thief River Falls, Minn., on the 13th day of February, 1918, the following resolution was offered by Commissioner Wold who moved its adoption, duly seconded by Commissioner Roy:

Be it resolved, that the Town Clerk's office in each township in Pennington county, also in the Recorder's office in each village and in the City Clerk's office in the City of Thief River Falls, be and the same hereby are designated as the places for registration of aliens which shall be held in accordance with the order No. 25 of the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety.

Dated at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, this 13th day of February, 1918.

Board of County Commissioners,
Pennington county, Minn.
By OSCAR J. PETERSON,
Its Chairman.

Buick

The Famous Buick Valve-in-Head Motor Wins Popularity at the Twin City Auto Show

Never before has this famous car been so popular with men, women and children. Factory output has been increased tremendously but it is laps and laps behind the insistent demand.

For years and years Buick has led the procession because of the wonderful service it has given Buick owners. Buick is built to last—and it does last. You never find "second-hand" Buicks around because this wonderful car "stands up" for a generation.

I was not able to get half as many cars as I could have sold in this county last year, so be sure to place your order early for your new Buick.

I also have these second-hand cars:

1 5 Passenger Saxon Six as good as new, $600.
1 5 Pass. 1916 Maxwell, first class shape, $400.
1 2 Passenger Chevrolet Roadster, $250.

Buick Valve-in-Head-Motor gives more power than any other type of automobile of equal size. It saves on gasoline bills because it gives more mileage. It is the marvel of automobile engines.

TO REGISTER ALL ALIENS IN STATE

FAILURE IN COMPLYING MAY MEAN INTERNMENT DURING PERIOD OF WAR

The board of county commissioners met on Monday for the purpose of arranging the details for the registration of all aliens within the county during the three days designated for this purpose by the State Commission of Public Safety, these being Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 25, 26 and 27.

The city, village and township clerks were named as registration officials and the usual polling places of each subdivision as the place where the registration shall be conducted.

The order of the commission makes no distinction in nationalities. It makes no difference from what country a man hails, if he is not a citizen of the United States he must register under pain of being interned for the period of the war, in case the safety commission so prescribes. This also means that all those who have taken out their first papers will have to register, as will any who were formerly citizens but who renounced their allegiance for the purpose of acquiring a homestead in Canada or for any other reason assumed obligations as a citizen of some other country.

The punishment for non-compliance with this order is very severe and anyone coming under its provisions will do well to see to it that his name and address appears upon the books of the registration officials.

F. Beasley of Fairdale arrived in this city Saturday for a brief visit.

Machinery Sale

Machinery sales make our daily work, and to earn our daily bread, we must make many of them. We would like to list our bargains here, but our stock is too large and this space is too small, so the best of our bargains can only be known by calling at our office. And it's a dead sure cinch we are able and willing to give you bargains now. Some of this below may interest you, or your neighbor:

1 second hand Rumely Oil-Pull Tractor, 15x30, in good shape, worth new $3,000.00, and our price on this will be a bargain.
1 10x20 Big Bull Tractor, used just a little, will sell at $490.00

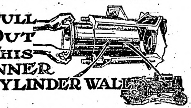
1 New Automobile Trailer, worth $75.00, will sell at $48.00
Over a carload of different size Wagons, from $5.00 to $25.00. Below present wholesale prices.



PULL OUT THIS INNER CYLINDER WALL

The following is friend to friend GOOD ADVICE: Two things don't forget: First, that your time for buying a GOOD small Tractor for spring delivery is soon past. Second, please do your very best at ordering the repairs for your old machinery as early as possible. Repairs for old machinery will this year be our greatest trouble. Not only because we will be short just what you need, but the manufacturers will be short, and shipments slow. Please co-operate with us on this and we will overcome much trouble and delay.

BAKER'S SECRETS WANTED BY BOARD

ASKS THAT THEY GIVE COUNTRY BENEFIT OF THEIR SPECIAL KNOWLEDGE.

Fred Roth of this city, chairman of the Ninth District War Emergency Council of the Baking Industry, has received further instructions from Chicago relative to requirements now in force for making bread, etc., and has taken the matter up with those under his jurisdiction.

In this connection the government is making an appeal to the bakers of the United States to come to the assistance of the country as a whole and to give of their knowledge the same as did those who could assist in the making of the best motor the world ever produced—the Liberty. The appeal reads:

"If you have any formula or any method, or trick, or knack, for the successful use of cereals other than wheat in bread, you are asked to send it to the secretary of the Master Bakers' association, Chicago. It will be viewed by a techinal service committee of which Mr. Stude has asked me to serve as chairman, and issued for the use and benefit of the industry."

NEW CREAMERY HAS A SUCCESSFUL RUN

PLANT AT HAZEL GIVES EVERY INDICATION OF BEING GREAT SUCCESS.

The first annual meeting of the Hazel Co-operative Creamery association was held last week and officers for the ensuing year chosen. These are: Anton Peterson, president; I. A. Rolstad, vice-president; Oscar J. Peterson, secretary; Carl Benson, treasurer; C. F. Carlson, trustee.

The report of the secretary showed that a very satisfactory amount of business had been done during the past year and the patrons expressed themselves as well pleased with the outlook. The Hazel creamery is the newest in the county, having been built last summer, but already its effect is noted in the improved stock of the immediate section. The product is of high quality, scoring well up toward the top at the recent buttermen's convention in this city and there is an active demand for all the creamery can turn out.

THIS ARMY CANNOT DO IT'S SHARE IN THE FIELD!!

CARTOON FURNISHED THIS NEWSPAPER BY MINNESOTA COMMISSION OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

THE WEEK'S FOOD FACT

The food saving problem in mainly a woman's job. Ninety percent of the food purchased in this country is purchased by the women. This means that the women of this nation must shoulder ninety per cent of the responsibility of saving food. All the starving nations must look to us for help because America is the largest food growing country in the world. This year especially, the American farmer is being urged by patriotic motives to produce food stuffs to the limit of his capacity, and the American housewife will have plenty for herself and plenty to share with her European sisters if she uses economy, buys wisely and avoids waste.

A new ruling of the Hotel Division of the Food Administration which went into effect last Tuesday requires that all hotels, restaurants and bakeries using more than three barrels of flour per month must be licensed under the Food Administration. This ruling effects practically every bakery and eating house, and licenses should be secured at once unless the proprietor wishes to be found in violation of the Administration's ruling. Licenses may be secured through the license division of the United States Food Administration, Washington, D. C.

Bakeries and hotels are permitted by the Food Administration to apply the name "Victory" to all bread baked by them which contains twenty per cent or more wheat flour substitute. This "Victory" bread will become universal and the standard bread of the country and every baker should make it his patriotic duty to exert his skill to the utmost in producing this bread, and he will find ready response to his efforts on the part of the consumers.

State Food Administrator A. D. Wilson says that much assistance will be given to the work of food conservation if food dealers will cease advertising pork, sugar, wheat flour and animal fats both by newspapers and window cards. "We appreciate the value of advertising," says Mr. Wilson, "and know that the food dealer who continues to advertise these products will secure increased sale of them. We are not asking and do not advise the food dealer to decrease his use of advertising in any respect, but simply ask that he transfer his activities from wheat, meats, sugar and fats to their conservation substitutes and thereby increase the sale and consumption of these articles. The use of advertising along these lines will be of greater assistance to the Food Administration and the more advertising is used the greater will be that assistance."

Is Red Cross Booster.

Oscar J. Linde, one of the Pennington county boys now in the service, has written to his aunt, Mrs. O. A. Fosse, 928 Horace avenue, praising the Red Cross for the work being done for the boys' comfort. Mr. Linde is a member of the signal corps. He says that the society has furnished a lot of knitted goods such as helmets, sweaters, wristlets, woolen stockings and bed-slippers, and it looks as if as much stuff has been received from this source as from the government itself.

The writer likes the climate down there pretty well, although they have had some snow storms that tied things up. Long hikes are part of the almost daily routine, anywhere from 12 to 23 miles being covered on each expedition. The health of the camp is very good and all the boys are in fine condition.

Miss Ella Kelley, who is teaching in the public schools at Plummer, [illegible] in the city Monday evening.

To Sew Every Day.

Beginning last Monday the Red Cross sewing rooms in the Auditorium will be open for work every afternoon and evening, except Saturday. Work on hospital shirts and pajamas may be taken home if it is so desired. Muslin bandage work on Wednesday and Friday afternoons and on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Heavy Stock Shipper.

Northwest Monthly: Superintendent J. H. Hay of Thief River Falls writes an interesting account of a visit he made to the home of John E. Peirson who lives one mile east of Gonvick. Mr. Peirson is the manager of the Gonvick Live Stock Shippers' association. He is feeding forty-six two-year-old steers which he picked up during the seasons of 1916 and 1917 in his own neighborhood. He buys the corn by the carload lot, and is feeding the stock according to up-to-date methods. Some forty hogs follow the cattle. These are on full feed as Mr. Peirson proposes shipping early in March. This is a live stock project on a large scale. It is not only interesting, but it is prophetic in that it points to what will happen to a greater and greater extent as years go by.

TO EDWARD LARSON:

Take Notice, That you are in default, under and according to the terms, conditions and provisions of that certain Contract for Deed dated the 29th day of October, 1915, whereby the Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, a corporation, agreed to convey to you, upon full and timely performance by you of your part of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, reference to which Contract for Deed for more particularity is hereby made, of the following described real estate situate and being in Pennington County and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼-NE¼) of Section Fourteen (14), the South Half of the Southeast Quarter (S½SE¼) and the Northwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter (NW¼SE¼) of Section Eleven (11) all in Township One Hundred Fifty-four (154) North, of Range Thirty-nine (39) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, containing 160 acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof.

That said default consists in this that you have failed to pay the sum of Two hundred and no-100 Dollars which became due and payable on the 15th day of January, 1917, the further sum of Two hundred and no-100 Dollars which became due and payable on the 15th day of January, 1918, and interest on the sum of Eleven hundred and no-100 Dollars at the rate of Ten (10) per cent per annum from the 29th day of October, 1915, as provided in and by said Contract for Deed.

And Whereas, said Contract for Deed contained a provision that upon such default the vendor should have the right to terminate the same by giving to you Thirty (30) days notice in writing of the intention of said vendor to cancel and determine said contract for deed.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That said Contract for Deed is cancelled and terminated and that such cancellation and termination shall take effect thirty (30) days after the service of this notice upon you unless prior thereto you shall comply with said conditions and pay the costs of service of this notice upon you and that the amount of money due and owing on said Contract for Deed, as hereinbefore stated, can be paid to Wilhelm Michelet at his office in the Citizens State Bank Building in the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

Dated February 6, 1918.

CITIZENS STATE BANK OF THIEF RIVER FALLS, a corporation, Vendor.

Wilhelm Michelet,
Attorney for Vendor,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, ss.

I hereby certify and return that the above and within notice of cancellation was handed to me for service on the 6th day of February, 1918, that after diligent search I am unable to find the said Edward Larson, to whom said notice is addressed, in my said County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, and that he cannot be found therein.

Given under my hand this 7th day of February, 1918.

W. J. LaBREE,
Sheriff of Pennington County, Minn.
(Feb. 14-21-28)

Home From Camp Dodge.

Palmer Brooten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Brooten of Norden township, returned to Camp Dodge on Saturday night after spending a furlough of ten days with his parents. Young Brooten was one of the first five per cent to be called from Pennington county for the National army and has put in quite a spell at training. He says that the general health of the camp is good, although at one time quite a number of the men were sick. He often runs across Joe Carney, formerly of the maintenance department of the Soo railroad, who has been promoted to first sergeant of his company. The boys like the work of training immensely and seem rather sorry for those who are not permitted or do not want to join them.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION TO CONVEY LANDS ON CONTRACT.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, ss.

In Probate Court. Special term, Feb. 6th, 1918.

In the matter of the estate of Inger Maria Ammundson, Deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of A. H. Fasel claiming to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the Administrator of said estate, setting forth that Inger Maria Ammundson, deceased, was bound by a contract in writing to convey said real estate to the said A. H. Fasel upon the terms and conditions therein stated, with a description of the land to be conveyed, and the facts upon which such claim to conveyance is predicated and praying that the Probate Court make a decree authorizing and directing the said Administrator to convey such real estate to said petitioner as the person entitled thereto.

It is therefore ordered, that all persons interested in said estate may appear before this court, at a special term thereof to be held on Tuesday the 5th day of March A. D. 1918, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate office in Thief River Falls in said county, and oppose said petition.

And it is further ordered, that this order shall be published once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Thief River Falls Times, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Thief River Falls in said county.

Dated at Thief River Falls the 6th day of February A. D. 1918.

By the Court,
WILHELM MICHELET,
Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Eight and 45-100 Dollars ($8.45), which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Emil J. Olsen and Emilia Olsen, his wife, Mortgagors, to the Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, (a corporation under the laws of the State of Minnesota), Mortgagee, bearing date the 11th day of November, 1916, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, on the 13th day of November, 1916, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 54 of Mortgages, on page 225, and also duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Marshall and State of Minnesota, on the 16th day of November, 1916, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., in Book 84 of Mortgages, on page 83.

And Whereas, The said Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, the Mortgagee and Holder of said Mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said Mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said Mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of Eight and 45-100 Dollars ($8.45), with interest thereon at the rate of Ten (10) per cent per annum from the 1st day of Dec., 1917, the further sum of Thirty-two and no-100 Dollars ($32.00) and the further sum of Fifty and 67-100 Dollars ($50.67) with interest thereon from December 1st, 1917, at the rate of Six (6) per cent per annum, for interest paid on prior Mortgage by this Mortgagee, making the total sum of Ninety-one and 59-00 Dollars ($91.59) claimed to be due, this date by virtue of said Mortgage indebtedness, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been, instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz: The West Half of the Northeast Quarter (W½NE¼) of Section Seven (7) in Township One Hundred Fifty-four (154) North, of Range Thirty-nine (39) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, lying and being in Marshall County and State of Minnesota, and also that tract of land lying and being in the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, described as follows: The West Half of the Southeast Quarter (W½SE¼) of Section Seven (7) in Township One Hundred Fifty-four (154) North, of Range Thirty-nine (39), West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, containing 160 acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof, with the hereditaments and appurtenances: which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Thief River Falls in said Pennington County and State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, 1918, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Ninety-one and 59-100 Dollars ($91.59) and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five and no-100 Dollars ($25.00), Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

COWS INCREASE IN STATE DURING 1917

POOR HAY CROP AND HIGH BEEF PRICES DO NOT THIN OUT HERDS.

Paul H. Kirk, Minnesota field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, has submitted a report showing the numbers and prices of the different classes of live stock in the state during the past five years. The report shows that in spite of the demand for beef and the high prices offered as a consequence, the number of milch cows increased by 26,000 head during the year, while the price advanced from an average of $58 to $70. The figures also show that cows increased in number from 1,163,000 to 1,328,000. Other cattle show a greater increase in numbers, being 1,173,000 in 1913, compared to 1,540,000 on the first of the present year. The price in this division has increased from $24 to $31 per head in the same space of time.

Horses have increased in number but have gone down in price, being quoted at $105 at this time as compared with $125 five years ago.

There are fewer sheep in the state than formerly, but the price has gone up in a greater degree than is the case with almost any other class of live stock. In 1914 the report showed 570,000 head valued at $4.40 each, while now the number is 541,000 and the value $11.80 per head.

Swine have increased by about 75,000 head, there being now in the state about 2,241,000 of the porkers valued at $23 each. Five years ago the value was $14.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

Ice Harvest

One of the important factors in food conservation is prevention of spoilage. The producer of milk and cream, in order to keep these products from spoiling, must keep them cold. He does this quite easily during the winter season and can with but a small expenditure of time and money, do it during the summer if he preserves some of the winter cold for summer use. The way to store cold is to

MAZOLA

A wholesome and delicious oil, from Corn, for general cooking and salad dressings

THIS pure oil from America's greatest cereal—Indian Corn—is the ideal medium for frying, sauteing, shortening and salad dressings.

Foods fried in Mazola are not only much more easily digested—they are more palatable—free from greasiness or sogginess—because Mazola browns food quickly.

And with the nation-wide movement headed by Mr. Hoover to save butter, lard, suet, the housewife is particularly glad that she has a cooking medium which is so delicious—she can help conserve the country's resources, cut the cost of her cooking, give her family food of the highest quality—all with Mazola.

Mazola makes especially fine salad dressings, too.

Sold by your grocer in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins; for greatest economy buy the large sizes.

Ask for a copy of the free Mazola Book of Recipes, or write us direct.

Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

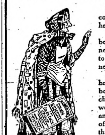
I Am "Granny" Chamberlain



"Granny" Chamberlain

Everybody's friend when they have coughs and colds and their children have croup and whooping cough.

Most everyone knows me. I have been going from home to home for nearly fifty years—always welcome, too, for I never fail in their hour of need.

I have helped young mothers whose babies were choking with croup, and been the comfort of parents whose children tramp to school through the wet winter weather. Many a cold and attack of bronchitis I have warded off, and thousands I have helped through the anxious moments of whooping cough. I have come to the aid of mothers and fathers when they had colds and influenza, and have been a relief to old folks suffering from bronchitis and asthma.

I have had a most varied experience; I go everywhere—among the rich and the poor, in cities and the country.

Now don't forget "Granny" Chamberlain! You will see me often now, for I am going to tell you of my experience and what can be done in your home with

THE TIMES COMPANY

QUALITY PRINT SHOP

To the Merchants of Thief River Falls and Vicinity:

IT HAS BEEN THE CUSTOM each year during the month of January for salesmen of various out-of-town calender manufacturers to canvass the city taking orders for calenders for the next year. This money can just as well be kept here and incidentally some money can be saved for the merchants who go in for this class of advertising. ¶We have received and now have on display, one of the most beautiful lines of calenders, fans, wall-pockets and novelties that it is possible to secure and in a much larger variety than it would be possible for a traveling salesman to carry with him. They include everything from the small ordinary prints to the most expensive of lithographic and hand-colored work —and at prices that are a little lower than you ever paid for this kind of goods before. ¶Drop into our office at any time and let us show you this really wonderful line and remember that it is the patronizing of home industry that keeps the city alive

Home Guard Dance—

Last Friday evening the second Home Guard dance given by Company "C" of Thief River Falls was held in the Auditorium and was attended by about 250 people. The most interesting features of the evening were the Home Guard drills and maneuvers given by the company. There is a marked improvement in the work of the company and it has been announced by Captain Fuller that other drills will be given for the benefit of the public in the near future. Several vocal selections were given by Chas. Van of Minneapolis during the evening. Music was furnished by the new orchestra recently organized under the direction of Frank G. Rives and was especially good. Lunch was served in the basement of the Auditorium at midnight by the wives of the members of the Home Guard.

Knox School Entertainment—

Next Saturday evening at the high school assembly hall the Knox school will give its Red Cross benefit program. The play "Hiawatha" will be given, and there will also be folk games, songs and drills. This is the last of the school programs to be given for Red Cross benefit and the teachers and pupils who assisted in these programs are to be complimented on the splendid manner in which this work has been handled. A considerable sum has been turned over to the Red Cross as a result of their efforts.

Surprised on Saturday—

Mrs. Frank Olson was surprised by a number of her lady friends at her home, 424 Red Lake Blvd., Saturday afternoon. Needle work was the chief feature of the afternoon and a dainty lunch was served. Following is the list of guests: Mesdames B. Kruse, C. Thune, P. Ahlby, A. Aland, H. Prugh, John Swedin, L. J. Clauson, Elsie Davidson, A. C. Rasmussen, L. B. George, John Oftedahl, C. Sanderson, H. Halland and Miss Hilma Dahlman of Lancaster, Minn., and Mrs. Tharaldson.

Making Service Flag—

The Ladies' Aid of the German Lutheran church is sewing a "service flag" which will be placed in the vestibule of the church to honor the young men who have entered the service of the country either by enlistment or under the draft.

Red Cross and Soldiers' Mission—

The Ladies' Aid of the United Lutheran church will serve lunch, cafeteria style, on Friday, Feb. 22, in the church basement. The proceeds will go to the Red Cross and Soldiers' Mission.

Woman's Club to Meet—

The Woman's club will hold their regular meeting next Monday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms and a very interesting program has been arranged. Mrs. F. H. Gambell has charge of the program and will read a paper on the Russian Revolution. Special music has been arranged and Miss Ethyline Gaylord will play a piano solo, "C Minor Prelude," Rachimaninoff.

To Give Patriotic Program—

The pupils of the County Line school, five miles northwest of this city near the Fred Copp farm, will give a patriotic program on Friday evening, Feb. 22. Lunch will be served and a social time has also been planned after the program. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the Red Cross. An admission of 25 cents will be charged.

Entertained at Cards—

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Alexander entertained at cards at their home, 216 Conley Ave. S., Tuesday evening. During the course of the evening dainty refreshments were served. The guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames V. Yager, N. Majeres, J. J. Carney, F. A. Protz, Andrew Bottelson, F. A. Blake, E. M. Jaranson and Misses Louise Majeres and Kroll.

Entertained Monday—

Mrs. T. Brokke informally entertained at her home, 116 Conley Ave. S., last Monday afternoon. Needlework formed the afternoon's entertainment and refreshments were served. The following were the guests: Mesdames C. A. Nelson, F. L. Dalquist, F. A. Blake, E. M. Jaranson, Chas. Alexander and Urdahl.

Gave Dance Last Night—

Greenfield's orchestra gave a dance last night in the Masonic hall. Lunch was served at midnight. The attendance was good and included over fifty from Warren who were here to attend the basket ball game.

Informally Entertained—

Mrs. Olaf Ramstad informally entertained at a six o'clock dinner at her home 606 LaBree avenue north, last Saturday. Covers were laid for twelve guests.

Ladies' Aid Meeting—

Mrs. Hans Anton will entertain the Ladies' Aid of the German Lutheran congregation next Tuesday, Feb. 19.

A. T. Listug, formerly with the First State bank in this city and later connected with the Hoag Security company of Minneapolis, is gaining distinction in banking circles in Montana, in which state he has been actively engaged for the Hoag people. An article in the Fairview, Mont., Times makes the following note of his connection with the Bank of Fairview:

"Mr. A. T. Listug of the Hoag Security company, formerly of Warren, Minn., and for the past eighteen months their Richland county representative with headquarters at Sidney, will become identified with the active management of the bank's farm loan department. He is a practical banker, having for several years been connected with the State Bank of Warren, and First State Bank of Thief River Falls, Minn."

Jos. Vorlicky and Martin Johnson went to Warren Wednesday morning on a business mission.

The Afternoon Address.

The address of Mr. Townley at the Auditorium in the afternoon was in part as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: I am tremendously impressed with the size of this gathering. I hesitate to undertake this afternoon to address you because it appears to me that I may not be able to measure up to the expectations of this audience. I did not expect here 1,500 to 2,000 citizens to honor me with their presence. I am going to interpret your presence, not as any personal compliment, but as evidence of a deep-rooted desire on your part to do whatever you can to bring about better conditions for the people of the State of Minnesota. I do not believe I have earned the right to address this magnificent audience and I almost wish that some of the gentlemen in the State of Minnesota who like to talk very much more than I do, but cannot get anyone to talk to, were here this afternoon so that I could turn the meeting over to them.

Those of us who have given some time to the study of the history of other nations have discovered a certain necessity of all nations. During their development they approach a time when a re-adjustment of the internal industrial affairs becomes necessary. Study the history of any nation in the world, at any time in the world's history, and you will discover that all nations have at some time or other in their development approached a period when there had to be an industrial internal re-adjustment of the affairs, and any nation failing to make a re-adjustment when the time demanded went down to defeat and was lost. This nation of ours is no exception. We have been developing for many scores of years. We have seized upon all the natural resources, appropriated all the fertile land, until the industrial development of this nation is surpassed by that of no nation in the world. But we have arrived now at the point where it is time to look to our house and see that the house is in order.

I say to you that unless the citizens of this country give careful attention to the public questions they cannot maintain liberty and democracy. Your first duty as American citizens is your duty to your country—your duty to apply intelligence to the public questions which your country must decide. In order for the people of this nation to decide public questions they must have the right of free assemblage and free speech. They must not only have the right but they must exercise it; the right to get together as you are together this afternoon. To assemble freely and speak freely is the very foundation of liberty and democracy. Without that right there can be no liberty and democracy.

We have here in the United States a political democracy. We elect the men and make the laws but I have not discovered the day when we have anything to say about the head of the Standard Oil Co. We have political democracy but we have not industrial democracy. That is what we must have. We are going to use—not the bullet—we are going to use our constitutional right of free speech and ballot to establish in the United States industrial democracy.

I want to tell you now about the Non-Partisan League in North Dakota. North Dakota is a state where we raise a good deal of wheat—about one hundred million bushels, sometimes one hundred fifty million. We raise more wheat in North Dakota than any other state in the United States. We have a tremendously fertile soil for the raising of wheat. We raise wheat. That is all we have to do there. After raising it we turn it over to the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce to handle for us. There is a good deal of difference in raising wheat and handling wheat. After raising wheat in North Dakota, the farmers are 300 million dollars in debt. We are a progressive people. We don't believe in doing things as the Indians did. We have others handle the stuff we raise for us. Did you ever hear of a farmer handling anything? When a farmer raises potatoes all he does is prepare the soil, plow the row, plant the potato in the row, cover it up, drag the ground, plow them, pick and kick and poison the potato bug. If he has good luck in the fall he picks them, carries them in a basket to a wagon, hauls them home, shovels them out of the wagon, then later shovels them into the wagon, hauls them to town, loads them in a box car and then some one else will handle the potatoes. All he has been doing is raising them.

When you stick a calf's head down in the milk pail, remember you are not handling him, you are just raising him. Then after he becomes a steer—after you have kicked him around for three years with two kinds of pitch forks—some one will handle him for you. Lynn J. Frazier, the farmer we elected Governor of North Dakota last election loaded his potatoes with his own hands. He could not get any I. W. W.'s to help him. After he was elected he went to New York to talk with people about the high cost of living. There he found potatoes were $5.00 per bushel. He came back and advised us to handle our potatoes and let some one else raise them.

We are not voting the Republican or Democratic ticket there any more. We are not going to vote it any more. We elected John Baer to Congress. He was a Democrat. The next time we will elect him on the Republican ticket just to show them we are Non-Partisan. We will give them both a fair deal.

New Rockford is a little city in the center of North Dakota. We advertised a meeting and invited a man by the name of Laughlin to talk to them. When the farmers arrived in town we found that these ivory headed business men who were too well fed to think or too much under the influence of the politicians, had rented every hall in town, locked the doors and so far as the farmers could find out had thrown the keys in the well. They said, "You cannot listen to this man Laughlin." The farmers held the meeting in a garage. Laughlin explained how to keep the money at home, and incidentally talked about the treatment at the hands of the politicians. The farmers went home to attend to their own business. They suspended subscription to the local paper, took their money out of the banks and at the end of about six weeks these ivory headed merchants began to think. They were losing money. They looked for the money on telephone poles, in the lamp posts. They called a meeting of the merchants of the town. (I want to say right here that New Rockford is an exception in North Dakota and I want to congratulate you farmers and merchants that this city is not like the city of New Rockford.) Here you have a progressive group of citizens who understand that if they put more money in your pocket it puts more money in theirs. The prosperity of the citizens of these towns does not depend on how much the speculator in the wheat market makes. It depends upon how much the farmer makes in raising wheat.

Was a Different Nels.

In publishing a report of the proceedings of the district court last week The Times stated that Nels Swanson had been placed on trial charged with cruelty to animals. Mr. Swanson called this week to inform the editor that the report was wrong and that a party by the name of Nels Samuelson was intended. We cheerfully make the correction and admit that we should have known better.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS

The local Red Cross committee on civilian relief will be glad to instruct any recruits or selected men on the provisions of the government insurance. This is a matter of great importance to the man who is joining the fighting forces and something he should not neglect.

By the Committee,
Daniel Shaw, Chairman,
Dr. G. W. Booren,
Mr. Julien Provencher,
Mrs. G. Halvorson,
Mrs. Thos. A. Way.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Princess.

In "Betty Takes a Hand," which is the offering at the Princess tonight Olive Thomas plays a really charming role. She becomes an amateur detective and helps her father regain his stolen fortune and incidently wins the man of her choice.

Elsie Fergusson, the great emotional star, will be seen on Tuesday evening in "Rose of the World." This is a role similar to those in which Miss Fergusson has won her triumphs on the legitimate stage.

On Saturday evening Viola Dana will be seen in a dual role in "The Girl Without a Soul." This play is said to be sufficiently full of thrills to border on the melodramatic.

Another of those great plays taken from the novels of Sir Gilbert Parker appears on Sunday night. It is "The Judgment House" and the scenes are laid in South Africa during the Boer war. The picture is one of the season's most famous releases and has been highly commended everywhere. Because of the extra cost of this picture Manager Lawrence has found it necessary to raise the admission price, on Sunday night to 20 cents, which includes the war tax. Children will be admitted for 10 cents plus a one cent war tax.

The feature for Monday night cannot at this time be definitely announced but it will be something in keeping with the excellent program of the rest of the week. The theatre will remain closed Tuesday.

Vivian Martin in "Molly Entangled," comes on Wednesday evening. "Molly" is said to be the most delightful of all Miss Martin's characterizations, which is saying a whole lot. Molly was offered quite a lot of money to make her change her mind, but she stuck to Barney. It is a good picture.

Mrs. Lawrence O'Neill arrived here yesterday morning from Crookston and was a guest at the home of Mrs. Mike Connelly. She returned to her home in Oklee last evening.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

WILL AID SALE OF BABY BONDS

COUNTY TO BE SCOURED FOR PURCHASERS OF WAR SAVING CERTIFICATES.

URGE EVERYONE TO HELP

MATTER IS ONE OF THE GREATEST IMPORTANCE TO THE COUNTRY AT THIS TIME.

Every person in Pennington county is shortly going to be approached with the proposition that they buy war saving stamps and certificates and any reason given for a refusal will be investigated. The government needs this money badly to meet expenses until such time as the floating of another Liberty Loan is deemed advisable, and men, women and children are asked to do their utmost to meet the requirements.

All Must Work.

George G. Johnson, vice-president of the First and Peoples' State bank, has been appointed county chairman for this campaign as well as for the next Liberty Loan drive. Tuesday evening he assembled the heads of the different civic organizations of the city for the purpose of talking over the situation. Because of the small denominations in which these stamps and certificates are offered it was figured that quite a large sum could be realized from their sale if only the people are given the proper opportunity to subscribe and the matter is put before them in the right light. The sums required from each person being so small, it has been somewhat difficult to make the people realize that the sale of these securities is of as great importance relatively as the floating of the larger bond issues. When the situation is properly explained there is not the slightest doubt but that the response will be both general and liberal.

The Committees.

It was decided to make a systematic canvass for purchasers and to this end chairmen were appointed for each of the townships of the county, whose duty it will be to appoint as many aids and boosters as they deem necessary. Public officials and private individuals have been drafted into service and all are expected to serve continually through the year 1918.

The executive committee is made up as follows: George G. Johnson, general chairman; J. H. Hay, speakers' bureau; E. A. Mostue, thrift clubs; John Morgan, postoffice employes; G. A. Penney, general city; C. R. Crandall, Commercial club; F. F. Haynes, school board; Mrs. H. A. Pratt, woman's general committee; Mrs. G. W. Nicholson, Woman's club; T. J. Austad, publicity.

The Township Chairmen.

The township chairmen will be expected to take over the work in their own particular section. It has been suggested that they aid the school teachers as far as possible and appoint such other helpers as they may deem necessary. The appointments follow: Bray, Emil Larson; Black River, Chas. W. Johnson; Cloverleaf, C. W. Nelson; Deer Park, Osmund Mandt; Goodridge, A. O. Halvorson; Highlanding, Karl Korstad; Hickory, H. T. Hanson; Kratka, Rev. Bjornson; Mayfield, T. O. Landje; Numedal, Elias Joringdal; Norden, G. J. Nordhagen; North, Waldie Christianson; Polk Center, Charles Lindquist; Rocksbury, Paul Englestad; River Falls, A. D. Brink; Reiner, C. O. Wallin; Smiley, Fred Beerbower; Sanders, O. L. Larson; Silverton, Halvor Fodstad; Star, Joseph Johnson; Wyandotte, Isaac Wilson; Village of St. Hilaire, W. R. Weeks; city of Thief River Falls, postoffice, banks, hotels, newspaper office and citizens generally.

Good Work of Schools.

County Superintendent Mostue and City Superintendent Hay stated that the teachers in their charge have been advised to urge the purchase of saving stamps to their pupils at least once each week during the year. The teachers will also be expected to help the work along in any other manner possible, the necessity for such action on their part having been very strongly presented. Mr. Hay stated that on behalf of the commercial students at the high school he would promise the general committee would be relieved of any clerical work with which these students might be entrusted. The schools have enthusiastically taken hold of anything that has been suggested whereby they might help along the war activities and teachers and scholars alike are entitled to much credit for the good work already accomplished.

HO, A CHALLENGE!

Attention, members of the Eastern Star lodge residing on the West Side: You are hereby challenged to [illegible] in the making of [illegible] the East Side ladies of the order. The contest will take place in the work rooms of the Red Cross society on Monday afternoon, Feb. 25, and will be conducted under such rules as may at the time be mutually agreed upon. Accept this challenge or forever hereafter hold your peace.

COMMITTEE.

NEW OWNERS TAKE CHARGE NEXT WEEK

INVENTORY OF PRICHARD LUMBER COMPANY STOCK IS ALMOST COMPLETED.

The Nortz Lumber company, purchasers of the stock and business of the Prichard Lumber company, will assume charge of the yards in this city next week. W. N. Nortz, a member of the firm and manager of its Devils Lake business, has been in the city during the week and is getting acquainted with the conditions. The taking of inventory has been progressing for some days and will be completed by Saturday night.

The local branch of the new concern will be in charge of E. E. Liebenstein, formerly of Sisseton, S. D., who is expected to arrive the latter part of the week. Mr. Liebenstein is a lumberman of long experience and comes highly recommended both as a citizen and business man.

The Nortz company is one of the largest concerns in the business in this section of the country, owning 13 yards besides the one now acquired from the Prichard interests. These are located at the following points: Breckenridge, Barnesville, Campbell, Doran and Kent, Minn., and Abercrombie, Galshutte, Walcott, Annette, Tolna, Lakota, Devils Lake and Bismarck, N. D. The concern has been very successful and enjoys the very highest standing in business circles everywhere.

VALLEY TEACHERS HOLD CONFERENCE

PROBLEM OF TEACHERS' SALARIES PRINCIPAL BUSINESS UP FOR DISCUSSION

Representatives from one-half dozen of the leading schools of the Red River valley held a conference at the Crookston high school on Thursday morning for the purpose of discussing the question of teachers' salaries and other school problems. This meeting was initiated by the board of education of Thief River Falls and proved to be a very interesting and profitable gathering. The feeling of those present indicated that teachers are poorly paid, especially when vocations are taken into consideration, and the rise in the cost of living and the abnormal conditions created by the war have accentuated the problem. The consensus of opinion, however, favored leaving salary schedules pretty much as they are at present, but that a bonus be granted at the end of the school year to all teachers who remain through the term. It was thought that about ten per cent of the salary should be about the sum the districts would be able to pay. Some board members reported that departments requiring men in many cases would be compelled to be closed because of the inability to secure competent male instructors.

The general opinion was that pupils should not be excused for enlisting, with the expectation that a diploma or final grades would be granted, in view of the fact that the government needs older men and that boys would be serving their country better by remaining in school and completing their school tasks.

The problem of fuel for the present and next year also received considerable attention. The State Aid question also was discussed at considerable length and the recent decision of the supreme court thereon. It was the prevailing opinion that a certain tax rate should be fixed for state aid to make it more permanent and dependable, so that the amount schools would receive would not be dependent upon the caprices of the legislature.

H. S. Dahlen of Thief River Falls was elected president of the conference, and Jas. M. Hinson of the Crookston board of education was made secretary. F. F. Haynes of this city also was present at the meeting.

FAREWELL PARTY IN BOYS' HONOR

[illegible]RTING SOLDIERS TO BE GIVEN ROUSING SEND-OFF FRIDAY NIGHT.

EASTERN STARS HOSTESSES

PROCEEDS WILL GO TOWARD PROVIDING SMILAGE BOOKS FOR EVERY MAN.

The citizens of Thief River Falls, under the leadership of the members of Winslow lodge, Order of the Eastern Star, will give the 73 men who leave for Camp Dodge on Saturday a fitting send-off. The affair will take the form of a dance and will be given at the Auditorium on Friday night. All the men of the national army who are in the departing quota from this county have been especially invited as guests of honor, the party being for their benefit from beginning to end.

Will Purchase Smilage Books.

For the citizen who is not among those going into training for the purpose of becoming a soldier of Uncle Sam, the attendance at this party will mean the outlay of one dollar, with 25 cents extra per plate for supper. This latter will be served in the lodge rooms of the Eastern Stars. It has also been decided to charge ten cents for admission to the balcony, except in the case of relatives of the departing soldiers, who will be admitted free of charge. This is a good plan as it will give those who for any reason do not care to dance an opportunity to contribute something toward the good cause.

Home Guards Will Drill.

Capt. W. B. Fuller of Company C has announced that there will be a short exhibition drill by a portion of the company during the evening. Having had actual service experience himself as a soldier in the Philippines, Capt. Fuller will also make a short address to the boys, giving them such advice as may be of value to them when they reach camp. Mayor G. A. Penney will express the appreciation of the people of the city to the boys for the work that they are about to do.

The Commercial club has procurred a fine football and this will be given as one of the momentos to be carried off. The Red Cross ladies have completed comfort kits for every man on the list and these will be presented, together with the smilage books. It will, in fact, be one great evening, and those who do not attend will not only be missing an opportunity to display their regard for the soldiers, but will also miss hearing and seeing a number of things that it will do them good to witness.

Let's Take the Lead.

Other cities in the neighborhood are going to do the best they can toward giving their boys a good send-off. Let us make this event in Thief River Falls the outstanding feature of the entire war up to date. A long time is liable to elapse before we see these men again and many things may happen to them. Some we may never see. Let us therefore make this, the last evening that they will spend with us, one they will remember with pleasure wherever they may be called.

Dr. Hieber to Return.

Friends in the city have received a letter from Dr. H. G. Hieber, who has been spending the winter in the South, informing them that he expects to return to Thief River Falls and again take up his practice about the first of May. Dr. Hieber went to California early last fall, later going to one of the southern states where he has been connected with one of the large hospitals. At the time of leaving he was in rather poor health, but his letters state that he has now fully recovered and is feeling as well as ever.

DR. JULIUS LINCOLN TO LECTURE AT AUDITORIUM NEXT WEDNESDAY

Dr. Julius Lincoln, one of the foremost authorities on the food situation as this affects the United States and its allies, will speak at the Auditorium in this city next Wednesday evening, Feb. 27, at eight o'clock. Dr. Lincoln was a member of the commission sent to Europe by this government to study food conditions and visited England, France and other countries in his quest for information. He interviewed the food administrators of the allied nations and brings their messages to the American peole. Admission to this lecture is free.

Julius Lincoln.

Visited London and Paris.

His speech consists of a report on what he saw in Europe. He had ample opportunity to inspect the farming regions of France and England; the conditions in London and Paris, and, later, accompanied the commission on a tour of the battle front in France.

Knows All the Needs.

In America Dr. Lincoln was deeply interested in this nation's task of saving food for the allied nations. In Europe he was able to ascertain how American food is used, why it is needed and what will happen if our shipments stop.

Not only does he know the food situation among civilians of virtually all classes but he has found out how the great armies in France are supplied and fed, having visited all fronts and the encampments of American troops, where he met and conferred with soldiers and staff officers.

Dr. Lincoln is a man of broad interests. His viewpoint on the economic and military situation abroad will be one of the first of its kind presented to an American audience.

Two More to Camp Dodge.

Preceding their comrades by just a week, William H. Peterson and Clarence Aga left Saturday afternoon for Camp Dodge for the purpose of entering the service. These young men are among the best known in the city, both being prominent in business affairs. Mr. Peterson is a member of the McFarland Auto company, while Mr. Aga has been associated with his father and brothers in conducting the Aga Boiler works.

ATTENTION, HOME GUARD

It is suggested that members of Company C who can arrange to do so should appear at the Commercial club supper this evening in uniform in order that the regular drill may be taken up with as little delay as possible.

NON-PARTISANS TO HOLD CAUCUS

WILL MEET FRIDAY AND SELECT DELEGATES TO LEGISLATIVE CONVENTION

ONLY MEMBERS MAY VOTE

NO REPRESENTATIVES FROM CITIES OR VILLAGES WILL BE RECOGNIZED

The first caucus of the 1918 political season will be held tomorrow (Friday) when the National Non-Partisan League members will select delegates to represent the different counties in a convention to be held a few days later for the purpose of nominating legislative candidates.

For League Members Only.

No one who is not a member of the league will be permitted to have a hand in the proceedings. The caucus will be safeguarded from outside interference by the officers in charge, who will read aloud the names of the men entitled to vote. Each member will come to the meeting prepared to present his membership card and no one who is not able to produce such credentials need be recognized.

Not only must all those voting at the caucus be league members but they must also be farmers. For this reason there will be no caucuses held in the cities or villages of the state. Retired farmers who have moved into cities may vote at the nearest country precinct meeting. Other rules governing the caucus are:

Elect a chairman and secretary of the meeting. Both must be league members and farmers.

Elect three league members as a credentials committee.

The credentials committee will examine the credentials of those present and report to the chairman.

The chairman will read aloud the name of members entitled to take part in the meeting. Meeting is authorized by a vote of the members present to receive memberships of farmers present who want to join the league and take part in the election of a delegate.

New members to be admitted must pay the $16 membership fee in cash or check to the secretary, who will report.

Nominate by ballot candidates for precinct delegate. Precinct delegate must be a league member and a bona fide farmer. Only one delegate shall be elected from your precinct. Vote upon the three highest until someone has a majority. The chairman-secretary will report at once to the National Non-Partisan League of Minnesota, Box 655, as follows:

Number of legislative district.

Number or name of precinct from which delegate is chosen.

Name and address, including township and range, of precinct delegate chosen.

Names of all members present.

Names of new members admitted.

Report by registered letter. (As soon as this report is received, precinct delegates will get notice of time and place of legislative convention.)

Appointed Educational Director.

Morlan Bishop of this city, who a short time ago went to Camp Dodge with the intention of taking up Y. M. C. A. work in the barracks, has been appointed educational director of division No. 95. This is a decided recognition of ability and places Mr. Bishop near the top of the ladder as far as work in the army Y. M. C. A. goes. He is particularly well equipped to hold down a position of this kind, being a graduate of the university of Minnesota and having since leaving that institution been an instructor in the high school here. His success was to be expected and is very gratifying to the many friends in his home town.

A Wise Move.

Warren Sheaf: The Thief River Falls Times announces in last week's issue that owing to increased cost of printing and paper it is compelled to raise the subscription price from $1.50 to $2.00 per year, the new rate to begin April 1. It is a wise move and one that many other weekly papers will have to take soon or go under.

"THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY."

The Times this week begins the publication of the remarkable story by Edward Everett Hale, "A Man Without a Country." The tale having a particular bearing upon events similar to those we are at present experiencing in this country, it will have an added interest. The story has long been regarded as one of the classics of American literature and is well worth the reading. The concluding chapters will be run next week.

THIRD LOAN ASKS DEFINITE AMOUNT

NEW PLAN TO BE FOLLOWED WHEREBY ALL WILL PARTICIPATE

Elaborate business system will be used in floating the third Liberty Loan according to Arthur Rogers, in charge of the entire Ninth Federal Reserve district.

Each owner of real and personal property in the ninth district, he said, will be apportioned a definite amount of the loan for which he will be expected to suberibe. This amount will be ascertained by the valuation committee of real estate men and financiers in the district working through county, township and city sub-committees. In making these assessments, credit will be given the prospective subscriber for subscriptions to the 1st and 2nd Liberty Loans, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and Knights of Columbus funds. Mortgages upon the property will be taken into consideration in deciding the amount of bonds to be apportioned to each property owner.

The chairman in charge of the next Liberty Loan campaign for Pennington county is George G. Johnson, vice president of the First and Peoples State bank. He has as yet received no notice of the plan to be followed or the amount to be raised. The general impression is that the drive will not be ordered until about the first of May.

URGE SOLDIERS TO PROTECT FAMILIES

OPPORTUNITY FOR PROVIDING INSURANCE TO BE FULLY EXPLAINED

No stone is to be left unturned between now and April 12 to have every soldier and sailor in service insured under the provisions of the act of Congress passed last fall, and but recently extended to the above date so that those who have not so far availed themselves thereof may have the opportunity.

This work is going to be looked after to a great extent everywhere by the Red Cross, and for this purpose a meeting of the local members of the Civilian Relief committee of the Pennington county chapter was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms.

It was decided that the members of the committee as far as possible meet with the drafted men on Friday afternoon of this week at the time they are to confer with the county auditor at the court house. The men will then have explained to them the provisions of the insurance bill and be given an opportunity to take out insurance.

Following the departure of the drafted men there will be another meeting of the general committee of the county and efforts will be made to have those who have already enlisted and gone to the front also take out insurance.

The terms are so liberal that no one of the boys can afford to pass up this insurance. Protection will be thus offered the families of the soldiers and should be taken out by every man enlisted in the service.

Miss Gladys Fellman left yesterday for a brief visit with friends at Crookston.

COMMITTEE ON MILITARY RELIEF.

WILL SEND MEN NEXT SATURDAY

REMAINDER OF FIRST DRAFT QOTA TO ENTRAIN AT THAT TIME

PENNINGTON'S SHARE IS 71

FAILURE TO REPORT WHEN NOTIFIED CONSTITUTES MOST SERIOUS OFFENSE

The local registration board has notified the men who have been selected as making up the first increment of Pennington county troops under the order calling them into service to hold themselves ready to entrain on the regular Great Northern passenger at 3:25 o'clock next Saturday afternoon.

Notices have been sent out to the men selected and assurances have been received from practically all that they will be on hand when wanted.

Failure is Serious Matter.

The notices sent to each of the men from the office of County Auditor T. P. Anderson under orders from the adjutant general read as follows: "The day and hour specified on the classification list of this local board, and on the order and notice of induction into military service which accompanies this notice for you to report to this local board for military duty is the time that marks your actual obligation as a soldier of the United States.

"Failure to report promptly at the hour and on the day named is a grave military offense for which you may be court-martialed. Willful failure to report with an intent to evade military service constitutes desertion from the Army of the United States, which, in time of war, is a capital offense."

No Frills Wanted.

No surplus baggage will be permitted. The government has specifically laid down just what a soldier is to take along and nothing else goes. The paragraph dealing with this feature reads as follows:

"Upon reporting to your local board you will not need and you should not bring with you anything except hand baggage. You will not be permitted to take trunks or boxes with you on the train. You should take only the following articles: A pair of strong, comfortable shoes to relieve your feet from your new regulation marching shoes; not to exceed four extra suits of underclothing; not to exceed six extra pairs of socks; four face and two bath towels; a comb, a brush, a toothbrush, soap, tooth powder, razor, and shaving soap. It will add to your comfort to bring one woolen blanket, preferably of dark or neutral color. This blanket should be tightly rolled, the ends of the roll should be securely bound together and the loop of the blanket thus formed slung from your left shoulder to your right hip.

"You should wear rough strong clothing and a flannel shirt, preferably an olive-drab shirt of the kind issued to soldiers."

Called in Rotation.

No partiality will be shown in the matter and the men will be called as they appear in the list printed in The Times last week. In case this rotation cannot be followed out because of the failure of any to show up on the day specified, the one next in order will be sent and the tardy party forwarded as soon as possible. In two or three cases the men will be unable to appear in their exact turn as they are living at a distance and will not be able to get here in time. In such event the local board members are empowered to use their own judgment as to the length of time to be allowed. No man coming under this order can be exempted, however, and so far as Pennington county is concerned, none are asking exemption.

The men from all the northwestern counties of the state will meet at Crookston in time to leave on a special train from that city on Sunday evening. Following is the quota of each primary assembling point: Thief River Falls, 71; Hallock, 65; Warren, 81; Roseau, 10; Red Lake Falls, 66; Bagley, 57.

Local Men Honored.

At the winter meeting of the Red River Valley Stockbreeders association, held in connection with the farm crops show at Crookston last week, Pennington county men were recognized by being selected for important positions. Fred Beerbower was placed on the committee having in charge the affairs of the Holstein breeders' division, and F. B. Conklin was accorded the same honor with regard to the Guernsey breeders. Frank Jeffers of Red Lake Falls, was elected president of the association.

WILL AID SALE OF BABY BONDS

COUNTY TO BE SCOURED FOR PURCHASERS OF WAR SAVING CERTIFICATES.

URGE EVERYONE TO HELP

Every person in Pennington county is shortly going to be approached with the proposition that they buy war saving stamps and certificates and any reason given for a refusal will be investigated. The government needs this money badly to meet expenses until such time as the floating of another Liberty Loan is deemed advisable, and men, women and children are asked to do their utmost to meet the requirements.

All Must Work.

George G. Johnson, vice-president of the First and Peoples' State bank, has been appointed county chairman for this campaign as well as for the next Liberty Loan drive. Tuesday evening he assembled the heads of the different civic organizations of the city for the purpose of talking over the situation. Because of the small denominations in which these stamps and certificates are offered it was figured that quite a large sum could be realized from their sale if only the people are given the proper opportunity to subscribbe and the matter is put before them in the right light. The sums required from each person being so small, it has been somewhat difficult to make the people realize that the sale of these securities is of as great importance relatively as the floating of the larger bond issues. When the situation is properly explained there is not the slightest doubt but that the response will be both general and liberal.

The Committees.

It was decided to make a systematic canvass for purchasers and to this end chairmen were appointed for each of the townships of the county, whose duty it will be to appoint as many aids and boosters as they deem necessary. Public officials and private individuals have been drafted into service and all are expected to serve continually through the year 1918.

The executive committee is made up as follows: George G. Johnson, general chairman; J. H. Hay, speakers' bureau; E. A. Mostue, thrift clubs; John Morgan, postoffice employes; G. A. Penney, general city; C. R. Crandall, Commercial club; F. F. Haynes, school board; Mrs. H. A. Pratt, woman's general committee; Mrs. G. W. Nicholson, Woman's club; T. J. Austad, publicity.

The Township Chairmen.
